MORE N. Y. HEROES AWARDED CROSSES FOR THEIR DEEDS

WASHINGTON, March 12.—Among awards of the Distinguished Service Cross announced to-day are the following:
 Sergt. William Dausch (deceased), Company I, 107th Infantry. For extraordinary heroism in action near Ronsoy, France, Sept. 29, 1918. During operations against the Hindenburg line, Sergt. Dausch rendered valuable assistance and demonstrated rare courage in attacking and destroying two enemy machine gun nests by the accurate fire of his rifle. Even after being mortally wounded in the head, he continued in the combat until he collapsed. Next of kin, Mrs. Katherin Dausch, mother, No. 35 East 93d Street, New York.

Sergt. Philip Garey, Company I, 107th Infantry. For extraordinary heroism in action near Ronsoy, France, Sept. 29, 1918. Organizing a platoon of survivors of a battalion, Sergt. Garey led them in attack against the enemy. Under terrific shell and machine gun fire he advanced against an enemy machine gun nest, and by the effective use of hand grenades, killed or wounded the crew and destroyed the gun. Home address, Mrs. Willis L. Gary, mother, No. 154 Halson Avenue, East Orange, N. J.

Sergt. George Rowe, Company I, 107th Infantry. For extraordinary heroism in action near Ronsoy, France, Sept. 29, 1918. Although seriously wounded, Sergt. Rowe continued to lead his platoon in operations against the Hindenburg line, refusing to be evacuated, until ordered to the rear by his commanding officer. Home address, Mrs. William H. Rowe, mother, Ossining, N. Y.

Corpl. Merritt D. Cutler, Company I, 107th Infantry. For extraordinary heroism in action near Ronsoy, France, Sept. 29, 1918. Although suffering from wounds, Corpl. Cutler went forth under treacherous enemy fire and dragged two wounded comrades to safety. Later the same day he organized a stretcher party and brought in three wounded comrades under machine gun fire, which was so severe that it had stopped the advance of neighboring troops. Home address, Timothy R. Cutler, father, No. 101 Park Avenue, New York.

Mechanic Edwin W. McLaughlin, Company I, 107th Infantry. For extraordinary heroism in action near Ronsoy, France, Sept. 29, 1918. While the rest of his company was being held up by intensive machine gun fire of the enemy, Mechanic McLaughlin advanced alone and put the guns out of action. On several other occasions he volunteered and accompanied patrols in attacks against enemy nests, each time proving himself of the greatest assistance, successfully accomplishing his mission, despite great hazards. Home address, Miss Margaret McLaughlin, sister, No. 1385 Ogden Avenue, Bronx, New York.

Sergt. Frank E. Dee, Company I, 107th Infantry. For extraordinary heroism in action near Ronsoy, France, Sept. 29, 1918. When the advance of his platoon had been held up by direct machine gun fire, Sergt. Dee, severely wounded during the advance, went out in plain view of the enemy, pulled the pin of a grenade with his teeth, and, throwing the bomb with his left arm, put the gun and its crew out of action. Home address, Maurice E. Dee, father, No. 4 Pearl Lake Street, Waterbury, Conn.

Sergt. (first class) Charles L. Anderson, 506th Field Signal Battalion. For extraordinary heroism in action near Haudimont, France, Nov. 10, 1918. Sergt. Anderson worked incessantly during a very heavy enemy barrage, keeping up the lines of communication between the regiment and battalions in the field. He was often buried in debris and knocked down by shell explosions, and was both wounded and gassed, but bravely continued his work. Home address, August Anderson, father, No. 77 Elm Street, Mayville, N. Y.

Special Announcement

The Cost of Fine Shoes

is, as everyone knows, extremely high—not only the selling cost, but the cost to produce. In view of this universal condition, it is of interest to note that the prices prevailing in

are, considering qualities and the present manufacturing conditions, remarkably moderate.

This is due to the fact that contracts for the Spring assortments were entered many months ago, when prices for raw material, as well as for labor, were vastly lower than they now are.

While it is the intention of B. Altman & Co. to give their patrons the benefit of these advantages of purchase, it must be understood that it will not be possible to re-order any of the models now in stock at the original prices.

The values now obtainable are unsurpassed.
