

The One Touch of Nature

By the Rev. Thomas B. Gregory
Copyright, 1919, by The Press Publishing Co. (The New York Evening World).

THE late Queen Victoria was noted for doing the right thing and saying the right thing at the right moment. When Mrs. Keeley, the actress, was received by Her Majesty she begged to excuse herself for not making the low bow, saying, "Your Majesty, I have a bad case of rheumatism in my knees, and I cannot courtesy."

What consummate grace that was in the Queen and the President, what "sweetness and light," and, withal, what high and serene wisdom, the wisdom that enabled them to stand on a level with those who were officially below them, where both parties could find a common humanity and feel solidly at home.

It was the "one touch of nature that makes the whole world kin." To feel that "touch" and to be governed by it is always and everywhere the "one thing needful."

In Bayard Taylor's "Song of the Camp" are the immortal lines: "They sang of love, and not of fame; Forgot was Briton's glory; Each heart recalled a different name, But all sang 'Annie Laurie.'"

It was the mystic rally of thousands of hearts around the common centre where throbbed the master passion of love, a passion that is the same divine thing upon the ice-covered steppes of Russia and under the palms of the sunny South.

The oneness of humanity down underneath all the superficial distinctions that separate us—THAT is the great fact. The great Queen and the poor actress both knew what rheumatism is. The uneducated countryman and the great President both knew the embarrassment of being tongue-tied when you would speak fluently and well.

Leave It to Lou

THE FIVE MILLION

BY GUY BOLTON AND FRANK MANDEL

A Soldier Hero Is Reported Dead; a Hated Rival Steals His Fiancee; His Own Brother Steals Some Bonds and Shifts the Blame to the Hero. Yet, He Overcame These Obstacles and More, and Marries—Another Girl

(Novelization by William A. Page of the play now being presented at the Lyric Theatre.)

CHAPTER XXIV. RHY MACDONALD, calling upon Midge, was very much surprised to find her husband visiting at the Monahan's boarding house. "Have you got your marketing done, Mack?" she inquired very sharply, as her husband grinned a welcome.

"I TOLD YOU ALL THE TIME THAT HE LOVED YOU," DECLARED UNCLE DAN. "BUT YOU WOULDN'T BELIEVE IT."

But he said sternly: "I wonder you've got the face to let a man make a remark like that and not hit him." Mack smiled, a cordial smile and said softly: "You'd wonder still more at the face he would have if he did hit me. Goodby, sweetheart—on your way; on your way."

CHAPTER XXV. RHY MACDONALD, calling upon Midge, was very much surprised to find her husband visiting at the Monahan's boarding house. "Have you got your marketing done, Mack?" she inquired very sharply, as her husband grinned a welcome.

CHAPTER XXVI. RHY MACDONALD, calling upon Midge, was very much surprised to find her husband visiting at the Monahan's boarding house. "Have you got your marketing done, Mack?" she inquired very sharply, as her husband grinned a welcome.

Lil' Bushy-Tail Has Struck Ivory

Housewife's Scrapbook

SOME of those who have returned from overseas cannot relish our peas, since eating those prepared by French cooks. If our housekeepers will just add to the peas a few (say three or four) lettuce leaves, torn into shreds, and the heart of an onion, besides the teaspoonful of sugar they would usually allow to a quart of shelled peas, they will be serving peas as they are cooked in France. But they must be cooked a certain way. Put the above ingredients into the saucepan and cover it. Shake it over the flame until the juices run from the lettuce, then cover with boiling water and cook until done and your returned hero will tell you, "That's the stuff."

Baked beans can be eaten without any resultant discomfort if a pinch of soda is added to the water in which they are parboiled. The boiling makes them more digestible, but if you do not boil them, add soda to the molasses when putting them in the pan to bake. Also add a little dry mustard.

You need not line the baking pans with greased paper to prevent cake from sticking. Simply grease the pans, then dust them over with flour. The excess flour can be lightly shaken out by turning the pan upside down.

Do not throw away the liquid after boiling rice or tapioca. Add it to the soup for nutriment and flavor. When putting ketchup or chile sauce into bottles let it come to within about an inch from the top. Fill the remaining space with vinegar and no mould will form on top.

One housekeeper who had the habit of neatly tying all accumulated twine and rolling it into a ball used it to knit a mat for her dish drainer, which prevents the nicking of the dishes. She did it at odd moments while being detached in the kitchen on account of the cooking.

Have you ever tried a clothespin to remove the cores of apples? It will do this quite as effectively as a regular corer.

If the alarm clock cannot be made to go take out the works and boil them in a strong soapy water to which add two teaspoonfuls of kerosene. Dry thoroughly, then oil with the kerosene, and when put together the clock will probably run well. Sometimes soaking the works in kerosene oil for twenty-four hours will accomplish the same result.

If the men's clothes must be cleaned at home make a good lather with yellow soap. Use a brush and thor-

KWIZ
UNDER this heading The Evening World conducts a short daily educational feature. Here are the answers to the questions printed in this column yesterday:
ANSWERS TO YESTERDAY'S KWIZ.
1. Julia Marlowe and E. H. Sothern, famous American dramatic artists, now retired from the stage. They are married to each other.
2. A celebrated mountain peak in Colorado.
3. A bird of prey of the hawk variety.
4. A celebrated lake, the centre of a beautiful prospect, in Ireland.
5. The forcible detention of a political or military offender or alien.
6. The burial of a corpse.
7. A sudden storm at sea of short duration but intense severity.
8. Peacock.
9. Henrik Ibsen, the Norwegian dramatist, now deceased.
10. President of the Confederate States of America.
NEW QUESTIONS.
1. Who wrote the celebrated poem "Evangeline"?
2. Who is James J. Corbett?
3. What is sorghum?
4. What is jiu jitsu?
5. What is the Goodyear welt?
6. What color results from a mixture of red and yellow?
7. What and where is the Arlington Cemetery?
8. What group of laboring men are called "sand hogs"?
9. Who wrote "The Vicar of Wakefield"?
10. What is mercury?

The Yukon Trail

A Tale of the North
By William MacLeod Raine
A Tale Full of Red-Blooded Action That Keeps One Guessing What the End Will Be Begins On This Page Next Monday

The Evening World's Kiddie Klub Korner

Conducted by Eleanor Schorer

Copyright, 1919, by The Press Publishing Co. (The New York Evening World).

POOR DOGGIE.....Drawn by J. Soffin

Cousin Eleanor's Klub Kolumn

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS.
Q. If I write a composition on the "World War," will you publish it in the Kiddie Klub Korner?
A. If you think your composition will interest your Klub Cousins, send it to me and if it is good it will be published.
Q. How may I obtain Coupon No. 487?
A. Coupon No. 487, appeared on July 5. Write to N. Y. Evening World, 22 Park Row (Circulation Dept.), New York City.
Request that an Evening World of that date be sent you. Inclose four cents in stamps for postage.

THE AMERICAN FLAG.
The flag that floats above us, With its colors so bright and true, Red is for the men who fought in this war, Who shed blood for me and for you.

TO YE DREAMERS!
You, who dream of silks and satins, You, who long for wealth and power, Marked now! to words of wisdom! Thus, the present, is your hour.

HOW TO JOIN THE KLUB AND OBTAIN YOUR PIN.
Beginning with next issue, our list of members will be published. Send your name, address, and a photograph to:
Cousin Eleanor, 22 Park Row, New York City.
We will send you a Klub Pin, which you must wear at all times.

COUPON NO. 504
(The End)