SAYS THOUSANDS DIED IN ASSASSINATIONS BY FAULTY PLANS.

Gen. Summerall Blames French High Command for Needless Slaughter.

Addressing members of the Field Artillery Reserve at a banquet given in the Hotel Astor last night.

Major Gen. Charles Summerall, former commanding officer of the 1st Division of the A. E. F. in France, declared that while the battle of Soissons proved to be the real turning point in the war, it was the poorest planned in the entire Allied offensive of 1918, and that faulty co-ordination of efforts resulted in the needless sacrifice of thousands of lives.

"The battle of Soissons," said Gen. Summerall, "caused a world convulsion and out of this convulsion the 1st Division was born. On July 18 to July 25 the face of the whole world was changed for Germany. Soissons has been termed a French victory although French, British and our troops participated in the engagement and co-ordination of effort was conspicuous by its absence. A state of chaos reigned in making preparations for the attack and it continued almost up until the first battery was fired."

PROSECUTION SHOWS ITS HAND IN SOCIALIST ASSEMBLYMEN CASES.

Assembly records show that Assemblyman Chas. E. Hughes has, on several occasions, introduced bills calling for the abolition of the State militia and which would prevent the organization of a State military establishment of any character.

Chas. E. Hughes, Waldman and Solomon are Assemblymen who have voted for the appropriation money for the maintenance of the militia. The "little red book" was re-introduced by Mr. Stanchfield, who said that in compliance with the promise of the prosecution made on Thursday he desired to place in evidence the translation of the entire book.

The text as read appeared to establish the contention of the prosecution that the author of the "little red book" had really put out an argument in favor of dictatorship of the proletariat although he put it in the form of a review of both sides of the question.

The "little red book" proved to be a line of argument such as may be found in radical literature of all grades. Judge Sutherland in reading it exhibited that he disagrees most decidedly with his colleagues over the pronunciation of the word "Bourgeoisie." He calls it "Bourgeois."

STEINBERG AGAIN TAKES UP CUDGELS.

Immediately following the statement of Assemblyman McCue on that occasion, Assemblyman Steinberg of New York, who represents the district in which Mr. Hughes resides, arose to reply, but was run over by the Speaker's steam roller.

Mr. Steinberg, who is a member of the Socialist Party, said that he did not believe that the Socialist Party was a party of the future, but that it was a party of the present. He said that the Socialist Party was a party of the present, and that it was a party of the future.

AUDIENCE BORED BY ARGUMENTS, WALK OUT.

Although Judge Sutherland is a good declaimer and skilled in bringing out the high lights of his subject, his audience began to walk out on him after he had been reading half an hour. Outside of the Socialists in the Assembly Chamber few showed the slightest interest in the arguments for proletarian rule.

In one corner of the Assembly Chamber the wives of some of the Socialists interested in the outcome of the trial and several women Socialist witnesses have sat on benches since the beginning of the investigation. It was noted today that these women had blossomed out in new gowns and hats.

However much a male Socialist may, in his attire suggest that the cost of living is away beyond his reach, the female of the cult, as she is on exhibition in Albany, certainly is at peace, if not on terms of intimacy, with frocks and frills and precious stones.

Julius Gerber, Secretary of the Socialist Party of New York, was called to the stand at the conclusion of the reading of the translation of the "little red book." Mr. Stanchfield asked him if he had a record of the dis-paying members of the Socialist Party of New York City. Gerber replied that the membership records of New York County were kept according to the card index system at the cards in his office at No. 7 East 15th Street, New York, weighed a couple of tons.

"Don't you keep a membership record in a book," asked Mr. Stanchfield. "No," was the reply. "Just cards. For instance, if I want to find out how Mr. Stanchfield stands I simply go to the 'S' section of the field and look up his card."

Secretary Gerber identified as genuine a copy of the national constitution of the Socialist Party and he testified that provision No. 6 of the constitution is still in force. The State constitution of the Socialist Party and the by-laws of the locals in the city of New York were also identified by the witness.

Mr. Stanchfield by this means linked up the by-laws of the locals with the national constitution of the Socialist Party. With this out of the way, Mr. Stanchfield led up by the reading of an advertisement in the New York Call of Nov. 6, 1919, of meetings in the Bronx and Manhattan to celebrate the second anniversary of the Russian revolution and to the reading of a speech delivered on the night of Nov. 7 at Park View Palace, 110th Street and Fifth Avenue, by Alexander Frochtengberg, Chairman Frochtengberg's speech, lauding the Soviet Government of Russia, was read by Mr. Stanchfield.

ASSEMBLY ARGUES OVER 'AMERICANISM' OF CHAS. E. HUGHES.

Vote of Vindication Denied After Question Is Raised as Result of Defense of Socialists. (Special From a Staff Correspondent of the Evening World.)

ALBANY, Jan. 27.—When the loyalty to his country of Charles Evans Hughes becomes a subject of debate on the floor of the Assembly of the State of New York the eventual effects of the summary suspension of the five Socialist Assemblymen by decree of Speaker Sweet on Jan. 7 becomes apparent to the leaders of the Republican Party.

The Americanism of the former Justice of the Supreme Court of the United States and former Governor of New York was, to an extent perhaps not realized by those who took part in it, the subject of the most interesting debate on the floor of the Assembly during the session last night.

It will be recalled that Judge Hughes, Judge Morran J. O'Brien, Charles Prokauer, ex-Senator Ogden Mills and Louis Marshall were appointed a committee by the New York Bar Association to appear before the Assembly Committee on Judiciary and act in an advisory capacity during the investigation, or trial, as to the rights of the five suspended Socialist Assemblymen, not to act as counsel to the Socialists nor their party.

UPROAR AT SCHOOL WHEN BOY TURNS IN FALSE FIRE ALARM.

Firemen, Police Reserves and Excited Mothers in Brooklyn Drama With Anti-Climax.

MIS MAUGRETTA SHAW, principal of Public School No. 156 at South Fourth and Havemeyer Streets, Brooklyn, tried out the fire alarm in her office a few days ago to see if it was all right. It was all right, but she didn't know how to get the key out. She didn't know that the key was so formed that it required a friction to release it.

At 9:15 o'clock this morning some one went into her office—no doubt an incoherent small boy—opened the door of the box and pulled the hook. Then, in a few minutes sirens were shrieking, horns were honking and bells clanging in the street and the fire apparatus stopped in front of the school.

Police reserves came on the run and mothers and sisters and aunts of the 400 boys and girls in the school rushed from all directions. The 400 children were marched out of the building, but returned. Battalion Chief Gustava explained to Mrs. Shaw the workings of the fire-key and the apparatus withdrew.
