

at war, not through any fault of Democrats, but of the men in Congress who have refused to endorse the League of Nations and the treaty of peace.

"The civilized world is working under the treaty of peace—America alone has failed to take her part in the affairs of the world. The fourteen points, laid down by the President, were acclaimed by Democrat and Republican alike, but the Republican Senate holds up the treaty for the purpose of affecting the coming Presidential campaign.

"The Tammany organization is inclined to go fifty-fifty with the women, even in the selection of alternates. The male members of the quartet of alternates decided upon are Edward Heitzmann, Borough President of Brooklyn, and Maurice Connolly, Borough President of Queens. Unless the women can agree upon their two delegates, it is the intention to relegate Mr. Connolly to an honorable mention position, and give the real honor to Mrs. Connolly.

Mrs. John Sherwin Crosby, who was third in vote of the women for delegate at large, announced her retirement from the fight this morning. MRS. COLBERT MAY WITHDRAW HER NAME.

She will go as a district delegate. This cleared the way for Miss Harriet May Mills of Syracuse, who ran fourth at the women's meeting. There is speculation as to whether Mrs. Elizabeth V. Colbert of Albany, who got top honors in the women's convention, will also withdraw. In any event, both men and women leaders predict that Miss Elizabeth Marbury, Tammany's selection, and Miss Mills are to be the women delegates at large.

A eleventh hour change in the composition of the big four slate itself was made with the substitution of Louis E. Desbocker of Buffalo for Oliver Cabana of that city. Mr. Desbocker was formerly Corporation Counsel of Buffalo and is now a member of the Board of Education there. Gov. Smith, of course, is sure of leading the big four.

WILL FIGHT REPEAL OF DRY LAWS ON FLOOR.

Mrs. Crosby is opposed to the adoption of a wet platform. Mayor George R. Luna of Schenectady, when he heard that the platform committee would recommend the repeal of the Prohibition amendment, announced "I will fight it on the floor of the convention. It is suicidal for the party to take such a stand. In 1918 the party went on record in this State favoring a referendum of the liquor question. The party elected the Governor and Lieutenant Governor. Had the people wanted the liquor question submitted to a vote of the people they would have elected a Democratic Legislature. Instead they elected one Assemblyman from up-State. That shows how much the people of this State want a Prohibition referendum."

A bit of shrewd political camouflage staged for yesterday went wrong, and the plans of the party bosses were nearly upset. Tammany wanted Miss Marbury on the "Big Four," but there was opposition up-State. Miss Mills was urged for the place. Murphy decided to name both if need be, and when the Democratic women gathered here yesterday, at the call of Mrs. John Sherwin Crosby, they were told that three names should be selected for submission to the convention to-day and two would be named.

Of course, Miss Marbury and Miss Mills were to be on the list. The women members of Tammany were to look out for that. MACHINE GOT OUT OF CONTROL AND BING!

But, oh, how inexperienced were they in handling the steam roller. Mrs. John Crosby, who had her hand on the lever, and her foot on the accelerator at all times, let go just for an instant. Then the fun began.

When it was over it was discovered that the Tammany selections were second and fourth in the list, and although it was suggested that they tear up the ballots this wasn't done. So Mr. Murphy will have to use his own steam roller to-day and put Miss Marbury and Miss Mills on the "Big Four" without being able to say it is the demand of the women voters. Mrs. Elizabeth Colbert of this city will not be mentioned, though she led all the rest in the women's convention vote.

Tammany is wondering and debating just how far it can go in making its endorsement of the Wilson Administration perfunctory, but the platform is to be strong in endorsing Gov. Smith's Administration.

There is going to be a strong wet plank, too. It is going to stand by the Governor's message calling for a referendum in this State, and it will also go into the national side of it. While certain up-State leaders are showing a decided coolness towards Mr. Murphy, they are doing his bidding. The favorite room in the Ten Eyck Hotel is No. 208. There the Tammany Chieftain is holding forth. There will be found Phil Donahue, Treasurer of Tammany Hall; Tom P. Smith, Secretary of the "Warrent; Honorable James A. Foley, John McSperry of Brooklyn, who is now in good standing, having been spanked properly for getting outside the reservation two years ago and trying to get over the gubernatorial aspirations of William Randolph Hearst. Mr. Murphy points to "Packy" McCabe of Albany, who is on the outside and hasn't even a look-in because he was with McCones in that fight two years ago.

It had not been for the slip-up in the women's convention yesterday

RISKS LIFE SAYING MAN CAUGHT IN ELEVATOR SHAFT

Lift Repairer With Broken Arm Nearly Exhausted When Rescued by Tenant.

Joseph Mitthauer was working in the elevator shaft of the Union Building, No. 33 Union Square, this afternoon, trying to fix the counter weights. He stood on the roof of an elevator cage operated by Charles Barriacale. At the ninth floor Mitthauer stepped off the car to a cross beam near the groove in which the weights run.

"Run her down slow—I want to listen to the weights," he called to Barriacale.

As Barriacale was approaching the ground floor a file that Mitthauer had been using came through an opening in the cage roof and at the same moment Mitthauer screamed from above:

"Back! . . . For God's sake . . . My arm's caught!" Barriacale ran the car up, hearing the screams of Mitthauer constantly. At the fifth floor he heard Mitthauer call, in a fainter voice:

"I'm getting weak—I'll fall!" Barriacale left the car at the floor and ran up stairs.

Meanwhile Joseph Lipavsky, manager of the Primrose Sweater Mill, the ninth floor tenant, had opened the shaft door, run a plank across the opening to the beam, crossed it at each end to himself—for he started while the car was coming up toward him. An still greater risk he caught the injured Mitthauer, who was losing consciousness, and in some way he hardly understands how—got him over to the floor.

Mitthauer was removed to the Bellevue Hospital, where it was said his left arm may have to be amputated. He is twenty-two years old. His home is at No. 23 Knickerbocker Avenue, Brooklyn.

everything would have been smooth sailing for the men. But, as stated, despite the verdict of the women's convention, the original slate is to go through.

There was no doubt at any time that Tammany wanted Miss Marbury named. That Miss Mills, nominally her opponent, was also on the slate became apparent when Miss Marbury was placed in nomination by Miss Laura Caulte, formerly Deputy Commissioner of New York City Public Markets, and the nomination was seconded by Mrs. Julia Sanders of the Eleventh Manhattan District. Then Mrs. Sanders nominated Miss Mills, and this was seconded by Miss Ella Taylor of the Bronx.

But the generosity of the women leaders in extending the franchise to everybody in the hall was responsible for the plans being so horribly upset, that when Murphy was apprised of what had happened he threw up his hands in despair.

The convention being held in Albany, it was but natural that the Albany women should be there in large numbers. After the women were officially entitled to vote had recorded their choices, some one said:

"There are a number of ladies who have not voted."

"Why, come and vote," invited Mrs. Crosby, who was presiding. And they did. When the ballots were counted it was found that Mrs. Elizabeth Colbert of Albany had 83 votes, Miss Marbury 42, Mrs. Crosby 22, and Miss Mills 18. Then it was discovered that many women from Albany who had no credentials entitling them to a vote had voted by reason of the kind of invitation extended by Mrs. Crosby, and they had voted for Mrs. Colbert, their own County Chairman, whom no one else had even suggested for a place and who had not been nominated.

Then it was suggested that the ballots be torn up. Nothing doing! From across the hall a woman was heard, but the vote stood, and the problem was passed along to Mr. Murphy and his advisers.

Later there were reports that Mrs. Colbert had withdrawn her name. Also that the recommendation of her name would be ignored because of the irregularity. Anyway, she appears to be out of it.

But Mrs. Charles Margoles Parliot of New York City says she will make a fight on the convention floor. She has eight votes and was fifth on the women's list.

Although no Presidential boomers are on the ground and none is expected, the word having gone out that the delegates to San Francisco will go unopposed, Democrats from north counties report that in their locality William G. McAdoo is favorably considered.

There is some talk, too, of Herbert Hoover. One man, prominent in financial circles and connected with a family of financial power, says that Hoover will be the Democratic nominee, and he intimated that in the event of William G. McAdoo's third ticket, so strong are the influences behind him.

Wants Massachusetts Whiskey Appeal Argued.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 26.—The Supreme Court has been asked by the Government to hear on March 3, with the Rhode Island case, arguments on appeals instituted by George C. Dempsey from decrees in Massachusetts prohibiting enforcement of the Volstead Prohibition Enforcement Act. In bringing the suit, Dempsey alleged the act was unconstitutional.

MISS BRICE INSISTS SHE DOESN'T KNOW WHERE ARNSTEIN IS

afterward he satisfied her of his good faith.

At this point the examination veered into the financial channels for which it had been called, and Miss Brice testified she had two accounts at the United States Mortgage and Trust Company and a small one at the Pacific Bank. The latter was opened two weeks ago, with a $500 check.

The other two accounts are under the names Fannie Brice and Fannie Arnold. The former is used for her housekeeping expenses.

Mr. Myers then took up the question of two checks totalling $6,880 which had been given her by her husband, and which when she tried to cash them Feb. 16 were returned marked "Funds not available."

"When I saw that mark on them I knew that they had stopped Nick's accounts, so I tore up the checks," said the witness.

This money, it was brought out, was part of $16,000 which Miss Brice called "gambling house money" and was given to her by Arnstein.

Another deposit of $650 aroused the attention of the examiner, who asked her where it came from.

"Oh, that's my salary for the week," she explained.

The witness convulsed the hearing room when Attorney Myers asked her to produce her check books and bank books.

Turning to her counsel Miss Brice said: "Mr. Myers loves the check books. Give them to him. He wants to play with them!"

Miss Brice then looked into a glass of water in front of her and toasted Myers, explaining: "Kid, you can have anything I got!"

On many questions asked by examining counsel the witness said she could not answer because of her bad memory.

"The only things I can remember," she said, "are royalties and telephone numbers."

It was further brought out in cross-examination that Miss Brice was married to Arnstein on June 18, 1919, and that she is twenty-eight years old. She added that she never knew her husband as anything else but Jules Wallace Arnstein and as Nick Arnstein.

After she had been excused for the day Miss Brice was surrounded by reporters and she answered a running fire of questions, without, however, giving much information.

"I don't know where Nicky is. . . . He didn't even tell me he was going. . . . It is all very mysterious to me. . . . I hate to be dragged into it. . . . I am sure Nicky is honest and that he is not mixed in this affair at all. . . . This is the first time I ever sat down to face an audience standing up."

She said she had made a hard fight for her professional success and did not see why her career should be made the subject of inquiry. She wouldn't even confirm or deny the story that she used to sell newspapers at Vanderbilt Avenue and Fulton Street in Brooklyn.

Bernard J. McGinn, manager of the claim department of the American Surety Company, No. 100 Broadway, said that since the gang reported to have been headed by Arnstein fell in to the hands of the police $65,000 worth of mixed securities in one instances and $30,000 worth of United States Rubber and Great Northern preferred stock had been stolen under circumstances identical with those surrounding the thefts carried off by the Gluck brothers, who have confessed.

In the latter case the theft was committed by a boy who had been in the employ of the house which lost the securities only two hours. No trace of him has been found.

In the Wasservogel, former Assistant District Attorney, and now counsel for Edward H. Furey, also known as "Big Bill," one of the men arrested in connection with the bond theft, appeared in General Sessions Court to-day and asked Judge Rosinsky to reduce the $100,000 bail under which Furey is held, and also for permission to examine the Grand Jury minutes in the case.

The application was opposed by Assistant District Attorney John T. Doelling.

HUDSON TUBE TIED UP.

Commuters Are Forced to Use the Ferris.

Roboken and Erie commuters to lower Manhattan were forced to use the Ferris this morning as a result of a tie-up in the Hudson tube.

The tie-up followed a collision in the tube of two storage trams that were being laid up about 4.30 o'clock this morning and lasted through the rush hours. There were no passengers on the colliding trams.

Save for the eastbound tube running into the Hudson Terminal, service was not interfered with. It was said service would be resumed at noon.
