

DRY ISSUE CAUSES DIVISION AMONG WOMEN DELEGATES

NEW YORK ADOPTS MOST PLANK AS DRAWN BY MACK

Delegation Approves Resolution to Be Presented by Gov. Smith in Committee.

MURPHY MAKES DENIAL

Calls "Foolish" the Report That He Said N. Y. Would Go to McAdoo.

SAN FRANCISCO, June 29.—Over the protests of Mayor Lunn of Connecticut and a half dozen dry delegates from above the Bronx, Tammany forced the adoption of a wet plank at last night's conference of the New York delegation. In the midst of a lively argument over the plank, the chair in which Tammany Leader Murphy was sitting collapsed. Murphy wasn't hurt.

"We heartily favor," reads the Tammany plank, "the abolition of the saloon and we are unalterably opposed to any attempt to revive it in the interest of personal liberty and of conserving the rights of the States. We favor legislation by Congress allowing the manufacture and sale, for home consumption, of light wines and beers, reserving to the various States power to fix any lower alcoholic content thereof that may be demanded by the opinion of each locality."

Norman Mack, who presented the plank, insisted that it would satisfy both Prohibitionists and wet. Mayor Lunn took issue with him, saying that the Democratic Party should accept responsibility for the Eighteenth Amendment, failing in which, its candidate for President would be beaten.

WOMAN DELEGATE MAKES ATTACK ON BRYAN.

"Of your many distinctions," broke in Thomas N. Smith, "one is that of having been the only Democratic Congressman from New York who voted submission of the Eighteenth Amendment."

Miss Elisabeth Marbury, who was selected as New York's woman member of the National Committee, denounced Prohibition, saying that "Bryan and his associates support the Volstead act, but they do not have the nerve to enforce it."

"Bryan," said Miss Marbury, "is trying to buffalo the whole country. When we delegates get away from here I'm going to the mat with Bryan on the Prohibition stuff."

The Tammany argument in behalf of the wet proposal was that, without such a declaration it would be difficult to elect a Democratic Governor this fall, and a Tammany Mayor next fall.

When former Justice Samuel Seabury attempted to join in the argument, Secretary Smith of Tammany objected. Being an alternate, Seabury was refused the right to talk. He continued, but such time was either ruled out or was howled down.

Gov. Smith's resolution, calling the convention to discuss the building of a Canadian canal through the Great Lakes which might compete with New York's barge canal. He also had the delegates declare for a Federal Compensation Act.

"Absolutely ridiculous," were the words of Murphy, denying reports that he had said that the New York delegation would be delivered to McAdoo. Concerning the further statement that he had denounced Gov. Cox of Ohio as a "pussyfoot" on the dry issue, Murphy said:

"That's all newspaper talk and absolutely foolish. Does it sound like me? New York isn't for McAdoo or any one else."

Smith "ONE AND ONLY CANDIDATE" OF TIGER.

Turning to Gov. Smith and placing his right hand on the Governor's shoulder, Murphy remarked:

"The Governor is our one and only candidate and we intend to stick to him."

Murphy and Smith were standing in the aisle near the seats of the New York delegation. Gov. Smith, who doesn't take his Presidential boom any too seriously, remarked:

SHAMROCK IV. WINS OVER RIVAL YACHT

Cup Challenger Defeats the 23-Metre by 2 Minutes and 51 Seconds Off Hook.

Shamrock IV, which will meet Resolute for the American's Cup off Sandy Hook next month, to-day defeated her rival home, the 23-metre Shamrock, by 2 minutes and 51 seconds in a 30.55 mile race.

When the Shamrock IV, challenger in the America's Cup race here next month, started off Sandy Hook to-day for the line to match her speed against that of the 23-metre Shamrock her skipper found himself favored with perfect racing conditions.

Coasting off from their moorings at 11.15, both sloops moved out from behind the shelter of the Hook, to find outside the best wind the yachts have had since Sir Thomas Lipton's giant racer began her grooming here.

On board the Victoria to-day Sir Thomas Lipton entertained some of the crew of the fireboat Cornelius W. Lawrence and members of Engine Company No. 70 of City Island, in appreciation of the valiant fight the firemen put up on the night of Feb. 24 last when the cup challenger was in danger of fire at Jacob's shipyard, City Island.

Deputy Commissioner Hannon, Deputy Chief Crowley and Secretary Keogh also were guests of the Irish baronet. The Fire Department contingent left the Battery for Sandy Hook, where they will spend the day with Sir Thomas, who has planned to give them a spin on his cup challenger.

Outside the Hook a good 16-knot wind, momentarily freshening, whipped the sea into whitecaps. Both yachts were forced to take in their club-top-sails long before they reached the starting line.

Although so far there has been little betting on the international yacht races, interest is beginning to manifest itself and to-day America's cup defender, Resolute, was quoted as a two-to-one favorite. One betting commission reported an offer of $1,000 to bet that the Shamrock IV would win at least one race of the series.

COURT ACCUSES JUDGE OF PERJURY

Fraud Committed to Enable Late F. W. Hunter to Evade Alimony, Decision Says.

County Judge John C. Cuipepper of Taylor County, Florida, was declared to have perjured himself for a money consideration to enable the late wealthy New York attorney, Frederick William Hunter, to escape payments of alimony to his wife, Annie Belleville Hunter, in a decision handed down to-day by Supreme Court Justice Francis B. Delahanty.

Justice Delahanty adopted the findings of Referee E. Halsey Malone, which were that Judge Cuipepper, for money duly paid, drew up a false record of marriage between Annie Belleville Hunter and John Barrett Kerfoot, and later falsely gave testimony in support of this record in Hunter's appeal to have alimony set aside. The justice finds that the defendant, Frederick William Hunter, was guilty of a fraud and an imposition on this Court.

NEGROES DANCE AROUND HUMAN BONES IN HOUSE

Participants in Seeming Religious Ritual at Mamaronck Flee Before Police Arrive.

CORONER JOHN STELLA at New Rochelle made an examination to-day of approximately 200 bones from at least one man, one woman and one child that were found last night in a house in Weaver Street, Mamaronck. The house was built ten years ago for the late Col. Edward Lyman Hill, but never was occupied.

"Two women saw a lantern waving around one of the first floor rooms and several colored men, apparently without clothing, doing a peculiar dance. They notified the police, but the negroes fled. The lighted lantern was found on a table. Under it was a memorandum book in which was what appeared to be a religious ritual, written very badly. The bones were scattered all about the room.

The bones were old and dry. Coroner Stella believes they may have been obtained from a medical school for the religious ceremony. He has discovered no reason to believe that the bones were from the bodies of murdered persons.

NAISAWALD ASKS RELIEF.

Rich Importer Wants Steppson's Queries on Estate Ended.

LOUIS C. NAISAWALD, wealthy importer, head of the Naisawald Trading Co. of No. 107 Wall Street, appealed to Surrogate Cobham to-day for relief from further interrogation by his stepson, Henry Seagraves Carrington, relative to the whereabouts of certain alleged assets of the estate of Mrs. Eda C. Naisawald, deceased wife of the petitioner and mother of Carrington.

Mrs. Naisawald, upon her death recently, left her entire estate to Carrington. Naisawald barred his apartment at No. 140 West 57th Street to the younger man, who obtained from the surrogate a mandate under which he proceeded to interrogate Naisawald and make an inventory of the estate. Surrogate Cobham reserved decision on the stepfather's petition.

PELHAM GOLF CLUB LEASED.

Members to Enjoy Full Privileges of the Course.

The Pelham Leasing Company of Pelham to-day acquired 3,294 acres of land and the buildings of the Pelham Country Club for $5 on condition that it take over a mortgage of $17,306.95 against the property. Permission for the transfer was granted by Justice Seeger.

The Country Club was organized in 1908, and, according to a statement, the members have been in financial difficulty in attempting to meet club expenses. In April there was a deficit of $1,066.15 in the club accounts. The club has 122 members. The leasing company proposes to devote the land to a golf course, and promises to permit the club members to enjoy their full privileges of the club house and of the golf course.

vote. Turner, who was selected by the Oregon State Committee to fill a vacancy caused by the death of George T. Baldwin, was forced to yield half of his vote to Schuylerman, described as a strong Administration supporter. Schuylerman claimed the seat on the ground that he was the next highest man in the primary, having been fifth in the race for the four places.

All three contests were long drawn out and were marked by acrimonious statements and bitter personal attacks. Chairman Jamieson of Iowa maintained order with difficulty. But the Administration group resigned when the voting came on each of the contests.

There was no indication from the Reed forces as to their next move. The Senator was not at the hearing. Francis W. Wilson, his counsel, said the Senator's wishes would be consulted before further action was considered. He reminded the committee the fight was being made entirely by the delegation from the Kansas City district and that the Senator "never has and does not make a demand for the seat." Senator Reed was denied a seat by a vote of 37 to 9 in the committee.

SUB-COMMITTEE DRAWING UP THE DEMOCRATIC PLATFORM.

Actual preparation of the Democratic platform, delegated last night to a sub-committee of nine under Administration leadership, waited to-day while the Platform Committee of fifty-three kept open house to hear final suggestions and arguments from many sources.

Labor, liquor and the Irish question, all subjects of disagreement among party leaders, were up for debate at the committee's public hearings. Besides, there were many speakers on issues of lesser controversy, and these seemed little prospect that the long list could be finished until late in the day.

Meantime, as observers studied the make-up of the sub-committee, it became more apparent that the real contest over the platform would come after the sub-committee report had been laid before the full committee (or review) William J. Bryan, omitted by the Administration leaders from membership on the sub-committee, said he probably would not present his planks on Prohibition, the League of Nations and other subjects for sub-committee consideration at all.

Selected by Senator Glass of Virginia after he had been unanimously chosen Chairman of the Platform Committee, the sub-committee was expected to show a majority of Administration supporters and a majority also against inclusion of any wet plank in the platform. Senator Glass, understood to be President Wilson's own choice to head the committee, made his selections after a long conference with Secretary Colby of the State Department, a member of the committee from the District of Columbia and the Administration manager on the floor of the Convention.

MODERN EDUCATION TENDENCY SCORED BY ARCHBISHOP

Denounces "Passion of Socialism" in Sermon Opening Catholic Convention.

Archbishop Patrick J. Hayes delivered a sermon denouncing modern educational tendencies this morning at St. Patrick's Cathedral at the solemn high mass which opened the seventeenth annual convention of the Catholic Educational Association of the United States.

The church, he declared, "is gravely anxious" at the present advocacy of Federal centralization and the still more dangerous tendency of socialization in education.

"Sad is the lament," he said, "at the absolute divorce of our system of public education from religion. . . . The philosophy of the worldling is to enjoy what one pleases, think as one pleases, do as one pleases. . . .

"With science giving the shrug of doubt as to the existence of God, with law courts grinding out divorces ad nauseam, with passing literature that finds it pays to portray characters reeking in moral shame, with young and old gone mad over the lurid motion film, with the drama depraved, with the daily press mirroring the crimes and sins of society, with feminine dress mocking at decency, with ever decreasing respect for authority and reverence for the flag of our country, where is the salvation of the youth of our land?"

Denouncing the proposed Federalization of education, he declared that "the passion for power blinds the advocates of such a movement to the God-given right of parents to teach their own offspring." He also denounced the "passion of socialism," as based on the idea of State possession of "everything and everybody."

Following the mass there was a general meeting held in the Cathedral School Hall. A resolution adopted: "Fledge earnest support to the Catholic people and fair minded citizens of Michigan in the defense of their rights of American citizenship."

CAVANAUGH JURY FILLED.

Jury to try Mrs. Allos Cavanaugh in the Bronx Court on a charge of grand larceny in connection with landlord-tenant cases was completed by the selection of the twelfth juror to-day. Judge Louis D. Gibbs opened the case to-day.

Mrs. Cavanaugh is indicted on three counts. According to District Attorney Martin, she will be found more than $10,000 short in her accounts or rents she collected. Mr. Martin told the court he has 225 witnesses ready to testify in the case.

JERSEY CAN'T PAY TEACHERS.

Their Retirement Fund Is $40,000 Short of Claims Due.

TRENTON, June 29.—State Treasurer Read is wrestling with an effort to make $51,000 pay $109,969 of claims against the State Teachers' Retirement Fund. The amount to be payable in the form of annuities for the quarter ending July 1.

A solution which may have to be adopted is the sale of securities bought by the fund for permanent investment purposes. To sell now would mean a loss unless they are sold at a profit. It is necessary for the Legislature to make up the shortage.

WORKMEN ORGANIZE BANK.

WASHINGTON, June 29.—A charter for the Brotherhood of Locomotive Engineers' Country National Bank, Cleveland, O., was approved to-day by the Comptroller of the Currency. The bank is capitalized at $1,000,000. Warren B. Stone, Grand Chief of the Brotherhood, made the application for the charter.

Cleaning Fluid Caught Fire. Stephen Stareman of No. 2909 Eighth Avenue, an employee of the Hotel Latham, at No. 4 East 28th Street, was seriously burned when a bottle of cleaning fluid caught fire to-day. He was removed to Bellevue Hospital and will recover.

Glass, the members of the sub-committee are Secretary of State Colby, Senator McKellar, Tennessee; Vance McCormick, Pennsylvania; M. M. Crane, Texas; Horace Hawkins, Colorado; William B. Patterson, Maine; George H. Hodges, Kansas, and Senator Walsh, Montana. Of these only Walsh can be classed as an insurgent against Wilson and Walsh's insurgency is extremely mild.

The Committee on Rules tackled again to-day the knotty question of whether a State delegation could be bound by unit rule. The New York delegation came to the convention with its ninety votes bound by such a rule passed at a State convention over the protest of several of its members, who are renewing their fight here against the rule.

Both sides of the controversy were heard and the intention is to fight the question out before presenting a report to the Convention.

New York Women Delegates Divided Over Dry Issue and Irish Question in Platform

Also They Find Politics a Hungry Game, From Breakfast Till Convention Adjourns.

By Beatrice Washburn. (Special Correspondent of The Evening World.)

SAN FRANCISCO, June 29.—"For the first time in the history of the country the women don't have to stand outside of committee rooms," remarked Mrs. George Bass, Chairman of the Women's Committee of the Democratic Convention.

"It is a great feeling, I may say that we would not be human if we did not keep the men waiting after all these years. It does not seem to have gone to their heads, though. The women at the convention are quite calm and collected. I do love sitting behind the speaker, with that amplifier staring me in the face. The acoustics of this convention are remarkable, don't you think?"

Well, as Mrs. Bass said, we opened yesterday and the only flaw in the whole scheme was that no one got anything to eat.

"A convention is the greatest little reducer I have ever known," remarked Miss Elisabeth Marbury at the meeting of the New York delegation last night. "I expect to emerge from San Francisco with the figure of a slyp. Believe me when it comes to piling down to hear Senator Owen address the ladies for breakfast at 10 I am not there at all. Were you?"

MAKES ONE DELEGATE FEEL SO IMMORAL. Senator Owen, as a matter of fact, did not turn up until 10 and by then Mrs. Caroline O'Day and Miss Gross from New York were all but fainting in their chairs.

"He does make me feel so immoral," murmured a New Jersey delegate who shall be nameless. "All this talk of social evil and so on."

The candidate for President from Oklahoma, introduced by Miss Mary Poy, delegate at large from Los Angeles, plunged into his speech before the Democratic Women's League by briskly referring to the women-made laws of New Zealand, where every woman could and can make an honest living.

"With the women in politics," he thundered, "I trust and believe that this will change in conditions so that there will be no prostitution. The working conditions for women under the Republican Administration have been scandalous."

Senator Owen won the hearts of the National League for Women Voters, too, by indorsing all their planks, particularly the ones against child labor and for child welfare.

"They are just what I would have done myself," he stated modestly; and, as Miss Harriet May Mills, delegate at large from Syracuse, remarked, "what higher tribute could he pay?"

Miss Mills, by the way, has won laurels by being nominated for two Klux. Committee, which has to do with the behavior of the convention, and it bids fair to be pretty important before we get through.

Miss Mills is very modest and rather conservative in her views. "I don't agree with Miss Marbury on the liquor question, and I don't believe that the Irish question should be brought up at all," she said. "As for candidates I am not saying anything about them at all beyond the fact that the Tammany delegates will not go for McAdoo, as stated in the morning paper."

MISS MARBURY STRONG FOR A "DAMP" PLANK.

The liquor question and the wisdom of its being inserted as a plank in the national platform have almost split the New York delegation in two. Miss Marbury is all for it because, she says perfectly truthfully, we are not enforcing Prohibition anyway, so why have it?

U. S. AGENTS ENTER ELWELL MYSTERY ON "BOOTLEG" CLUE

I think can give me the information I want, after which I will tell you all about it."

"MISS WILSON" TALKED TO ELWELL BEFORE MURDER. Mr. Swann gave another example yesterday of the cross-purposes under which his office has been working in trying to locate the person who murdered Joseph Elwell. On Saturday John T. Dooling, one of his assistants, gave out a statement to reporters that Mr. Swann had talked with Elwell at 2:30 o'clock on the morning of his murder.

When the District Attorney was asked about this mysterious person by the evening newspaper man yesterday he said that there was nothing in the story. To the morning newspaper man last night he said that Mr. Dooling had spoken the truth.

"Oh, yes," he said, "that was Miss Wilson." She spoke to Elwell over the phone at his home at 2:30 o'clock on Friday morning" (the day of the murder).

"Miss Wilson" is the fictitious name of one of Elwell's many "lively ladies who stooped to follow," as described by Mr. Swann. She is the owner of the pink kimono, boudoir cap and silk slippers which were in Elwell's home and were hidden by Mrs. Marie Larsen, his housekeeper, after the police got busy on the scene.

"She told us a week ago," Mr. Swann went on. She had concealed the fact until then, when she was being questioned the third or fourth time. "Miss Wilson" put in the telephone call herself and found Elwell at home. Mr. Swann continued:

"She said that, judging from his conversation at the time, he was apparently perfectly normal. She said he was not nervous in the least. The subject of the telephone conversation is immaterial. It did not amount to anything.

When asked if he had heard Elwell was a "bootlegger," Mr. Swann said he did not like the question, because it was forcing him to dignify a rumor he did not take much stock in.

"Is it not likely that Elwell, knowing that he would be called up by his friend, Mr. Pendleton, out at Starburst to ask his aid?" Mr. Swann was asked.

"I ever heard of that," said Mr. Swann.

"Is it worth investigating?" "What do you want me to do?" queried the District Attorney in reply, "drop all our work with other witnesses in this case and run that story down?"
