

CITY OPPOSES NEW DOUBLE FARE PLAN

Brooklyn City R. R. Would Charge Another Nickel on Graham Ave. Line Beyond Broadway.

Herbert S. Worthing, Assistant Corporation Counsel, and Frederick Pierce, Assistant Engineer of the Board of Estimate, opposed before Deputy Public Service Commissioner Donnelly to-day the application of the Brooklyn City Railroad to charge an extra five-cent fare on the Graham Avenue surface line, with Broadway as the dividing line. The old City of Williamsburg, which merged with Brooklyn in 1898, granted a charter on July 24, 1854, for a railroad on Graham Avenue, but no road had been built within the five-year legal limit, it was said. The annual building was done, Mr. Pierce added, under authority of a resolution of the Common Council of Brooklyn dated July 19, 1860, which fixed the fare at 5 cents within the City of Brooklyn.

MAYOR SEEKS CASH TO RUN 5,000 BUSES

Commissioner Donnelly reserved his decision, which will determine whether the original charter was forfeited. Designates Estimate Board to Seek Governor's Aid for Measure to Give Him Power.

Mayor Hylan announced to-day that he has designated the Board of Estimate as a committee to appear before

Gov. Miller and petition him to use his influence in favor of legislation permitting the City of New York to purchase and operate buses. A bill giving the city this power was defeated at the last session. The Mayor says he "notes with satisfaction" the attitude of the members of the Legislature from the Borough of Brooklyn, irrespective of party, in opposing an increase of fare on the Brooklyn line.
