Salt Lake City No Place for Cigarette Smokers, for After June 9 One May Be Locked Up if Caught Puffing a Coffin Nail on the Streets—Bursting of the Cuban Sugar Bubble Has Brought Down Wages, but Business Situation on the Island is Getting Back to Normal.

The Mormons do not believe in liquor, tobacco, coffee or tea. And while Salt Lake City would go tremendously against such a reform, the law has been railroaded into effect. "Honestly, however," he continued, "the law is aimed at the tobacco dealers of Utah, and not against the adults. The proponents of the legislation figure that if no cigarettes are allowed in the state, no boys will be able to smoke them. To a majority of the citizens, nevertheless, it seems a rather unnecessary piece of legislation, and it would not pass a referendum."

"After the 9th of June, the New Yorker, or any other visitor in Salt Lake City, Utah, will be locked up if he smokes a cigarette on the streets," according to Dr. Ben R. Koering, a Utah mining engineer, who is at the Hotel Astor. "But do not think," he continued, "that the law is the will of the people. I smoke cigarettes myself, and do not consider myself a bad citizen on that account, yet this law went through, and if I am to uphold it, as I must, I shall have to stop smoking cigarettes." Dr. Koering declared that the law should not be regarded as a victory for the Blue Law adherents. "It is not a matter of blue-lawism," he declared, "but a religious matter."

ONE ON COX; TOLD BY HIMSELF.
"The funniest thing that I recall," declared James M. Cox, ex-Governor of Ohio, who is at the Waldorf, "is a joke on me. When I was campaigning my hardest I went to Sacramento, I spoke for the League of Nations, and as I went along I could see that I had the audience with me. I noticed that the Chairman of the meeting was getting more and more enthusiastic, and as I wound up at the climax the Chairman could hardly contain himself. When I finished he got up, threw his hat into the audience and cried: 'Come on, boys, three cheers for Harding and Coolidge.' It took us some time to reorganize the meeting."
"Main Street, in the middle Western towns, has been greatly maligned," according to Miss Anne Phillips of Chicago, who has been planning communky hospitals in that section, and is now at the Hotel Pennsylvania. "In my work," she declared, "I expect to find all the variety and interest which go with pioneer undertakings. The small towns are stimulating and lively places. They devote a lot of time to getting the best, whether it is swimming pools, schools, hospitals, good roads or parks. They are not small-minded or prudish," she concluded.

"It is interesting for me to see a city of which I have written so much," asserted Miss Olga Printzina, a Los Angeles scenario writer, who had come to New York for the first time and is staying at the Majestic.
Her own experience may hold soles for the would-be movie writer.
"I wrote eighteen scenarios and submitted them to every company in the United States before one was sold," she said. "The lucky one brought $3 nine years ago from a now famous director."

Over the last week-end the register of the Hotel Astor showed the inscription, "Ensign and Mrs. William Kennedy Boone Jr.," but no one seemed to notice it.
Now it has come out that Ensign Boone, the son of Mr. and Mrs. William Kennedy Boone of Estabrook, was secretly married to Sally Blackwell Field, daughter of the late Admiral Wells Laffin Field, in December, 1920. The Boones are descendants of the pioneer Daniel Boone, and the Field of Cyrus Field. The wedding was not announced until Ensign Boone returned from a cruise with his ship.
"Venezuela has vast resources and needs the United States," declared Dr. Estaban Oja Borges, Venezuelan Minister of Foreign Affairs, who is now at the Commodore. "Its raw products are essential to many American manufacturers. For its own development our country needs many American manufactured products, such as hardware, locomotives and agricultural implements."

"The Cuban sugar bubble has burst," F. G. Sanchez, sugar planter from Havana, who is now at the Majestic, tells us, "but we were in some measure prepared for it. Cuba has about 1,000,000 tons of sugar stored and ready for shipment to-day, and the stock is beginning to move in a satisfactory manner. After the unprecedented slump, wages on the plantations have been reduced—in the case of some cane cutters—from $10 or $15 a day to 50 cents, with plenty of men glad to work for their food and shelter."
Forty miles of lead pencils, wire clips that would stretch 500 miles, 15 barrels of ink, enough writing paper to cover 40 city blocks, 12,500,000 envelopes, blotting paper that would make a strip two feet wide and 70 miles long, and a ton and a half of rubber bands are some of the items of stationery used in five New York hotels in a twelve-month period. A few others are 12,000,000 telephone vouchers, 3,000,000 coat checks, 500,000 package receipts and 1,200,000 letter cards. The printing bill alone would support a large printing establishment.

PLEA TO PULITZER PUPILS.
Dr. Williams Tells Them Their Duty is to Improve Journalism.
Delivering the annual sermon before the students of the Pulitzer School of Journalism in St. Paul's Chapel, Columbia University, yesterday, Dr. Talbot Williams, emeritus professor of Journalism, said:
"The health of the whole community is in the care of Journalism, which knows no field where it does not enter. As the task goes on, training for journalism becomes more difficult. The problem is more than nine times as difficult today as it was nine years ago, when the former stone of our school was laid. The necessity of a wide knowledge of foreign, as well as domestic events, is more important because of the war and its political results.

"Never has publicity, as such, become of such importance as it is to-day. Every great cause uses it. The emphasis on the small pecuniary reward of journalism is decreasing. Above all, the pay is increasing for the publicist man, who is a servant of the individual rather than of the public.
"Not to this end was the school to which we belong dedicated, but to serve the people better. It is your duty steadily to work to make the journalism of America a better arbiter and watchman of humanity."
Mrs. Rankine left $14,500 to charity.
The will of Mrs. Annette K. Rankine, who disappeared April 1 and was found drowned, was filed for probate yesterday. It was executed in May, 1917. It leaves $10,000 to the Association for Improving the Conditions of the Poor, $2,000 to the Niagara Falls Memorial Hospital of Niagara Falls, N. Y., and $2,000 to the Y. M. C. A. of that city.

"I'm Called Little Buttercup"

Dear little buttercup—and it's easy enough to tell why. For I'm made of the loveliest buttercup yellow, with sweet, white ruffles on my collar, cuffs and pockets. I have bloomers too, and a little bow at my neck." So says Peggy, and Polly (the other twin) thinks perhaps she's a pink tulip, for her Peter Pan frock is pink. There's a blue one too, and all the frocks are only $5.95

Now They're Crepe De Chine at $25

These becoming sports frocks—and they're even more delightful than they are in wool jersey, especially for summer. The colors are delicious: jade, flesh, French blue, brown and navy, as well as white. They have knife pleated skirts and overblouses with pockets and white collars and cuffs. 14 and 16 years.

Dainty, Crispy, Dotted Dimity

—is certainly one of the very nicest materials for summer frocks, isn't it? Here it's made in a pretty style, trimmed with white organdie. And there's another style besides. The Irish dimity is blue or tangerine or green. 8 to 14 years . . . $9.95

DRAWING CONTEST

That Drawing Contest

—is nearly finished, and you should see the completed wiggles that have been pouring in all week! Such funny ones as some are—and some are really very clever, as you will agree when you see the winners next Friday. It's going to be hard to decide which are best, with so many good ones. But three judges will be on the job and that ought to be enough. Look for the best drawings in next week's "Jolly Times."

Sandal Time Is Here!

Isn't it fun to have this time of year come 'round again—the time when you can wear sandals. They're such easy, comfortable things. You can wiggle your feet around in them, and know that vacation is nearly here.
