EDWINA WINNER OF GOWANUS SELLING STAKES BY A NOSE

EDWINA DEFEATS RALGO BY A NOSE IN JAMAICA STAKE

Kilmer Entry Wins Gowanus in Close Finish in Two-Horse Race.

FRANK FOGARTY WINS.
Odds-On Choice Easy Victor
in the Second—Commander
McMeekin Victorious.

By Vincent Treanor.

JAMAICA RACE TRACK, Oct. 3.—Edwina, the Kilmer entry, favorite in the betting, won the Gowanus Selling Stakes, the day's feature, by a nose from Ralco. There were but two starters.

Commander McMeekin came with a rush in the last sixteenth of the third race, and catching Reparation, the gelding played good thing went on to win easily. Reparation when caught "bunched" it and Montez also passed him to get second money. Reparation was third. Hephaestus had the early speed of the race but stopped dead.

Frank Fogarty, as an odds-on choice beat a sharp lot in the second race, rather easily. McAtoe dropped down in behind Pispaper in the run down the back stretch, but hearing the home turn he shot him to the front. The rest of the race was only a gallop. Salate came out of the bunch behind to be an easy second in front of Rockport.

Emotion, the favorite, won the first very handsily from a small field of two-year-olds. She went from Wishbone, the early pace-maker, at the head of the stretch and came on easily. Wishbone held on well enough and was second in front of Confusion. Mary Patricia, of whom much was expected, had little speed.

VENNER WHO SUES THE INTERBOROUGH IS TWO COMPANIES

De Lancey Nicoll Tells Federal Court Suits Is "a Professional Litigator."

Justice Hotchkiss to-day reserved decision on the application of Clarence H. Venner, who is suing the Interborough Rapid Transit Company for $25,000 due on three notes which matured Sept. 1. He gave both sides until next Wednesday to file briefs.

Elijah Zoline appeared for Venner. He explained that there were three suits, one by the Continental Securities Co., another by the General Investment Company and a third by Venner. Zoline said that the Interborough, through its bankers, refused to redeem the notes.

"In the first place," said De Lancey Nicoll, counsel for the Interborough, "the court must take judicial cognizance of the fact that the Continental Securities Company and the General Investment Company are merely masks for Clarence H. Venner, who has led a litigious life."

Mr. Nicoll then gave a history of the case, saying that three years ago the Interborough needed $40,000,000 to finish certain portions of the subway. It issued notes secured by the $60,000,000 of bonds of the company. The notes became due Sept. 1 last, and when the principal was not paid the American Brake Shoe Company began an action in the Federal Court to appoint a receiver.

"Mr. Venner and one of his companies joined in that suit," said Nicoll, "and hence elected to have his day in the Federal instead of the State court. One of the companies concerned in to-day's action here was not technically concerned in the case in the United States District Court, but my briefs will show that both companies are Venner and Venner is both companies. There is a singular 'oneness' about the whole transaction."

Mr. Zoline, replying, said that the

Miss Leitch, British Star, Turns

DEAL, N. J., Oct. 3.—Glenna Colett, an eighteen-year-old Providence girl, and Mrs. Latham Hall of England tied at 85 for an early lead in the qualifying round for the Women's National Golf Championship over the Hollywood links to-day. Alexa Stirling of Atlanta, defending titleholder, finished four strokes behind the two leaders.

Cecile Leitch, wonder girl of England, failed to finish the 9th hole that made her inevitable abroad and in the recent Canadian championship. She developed a tendency to land in numerous sand traps that dot the course and this weakness removed the hard-hitting English champion from the lead. After a strong finish Miss Leitch scored an 87.

There were 178 starters, a record number for an American National tournament. There were four entrants from England and two from Canada, with every section of the United States strongly represented to help repel the foreign invasion.

The way women golfers rallied here was a reminder how the country's tennis stars rallied at Forest Hills to resist the invasion of Miss Lenglen of France. The only notable absence of the home guard was Mrs. Peitner, holder of the Metropolitan trophy.

With the great field 90 per cent. finished. The leaders were: Glenna Colett, Providence, and Mrs. Latham Hall, England, 85; Elaine Rosenthal, Chicago, 88; Alexa Stirling, Atlanta, 89; Marion Hollis, New York, 85; Mrs. Melvin Jones, Chicago, 92; and Edith Leitch, England, 95.

Weather conditions were unfavorable at the beginning of the qualifying test, fogs from the nearby ocean and dark clouds threatening a rough journey for those scheduled to play late. Showers broke about midday and early in the afternoon these turned into a driving rain that made scoring more difficult.

Miss Leitch was one of the unfortunate who completed her round in the heavy rain, but her tremendous driving offset the disadvantage that fell to the lot of most of the other late arrivals. Playing from front tees proved little aid for the first twenty-five to finish over the course that Vardon and Ray, famous British professionals, on their tour last year pronounced the best links in America.

BURGLAR IS STABBED FIGHTING STEWARD IN ARCOLA COUNTRY CLUB

Bernard Conroy, a professional golfer who lives at the Arcola Country Club near Hackensack, was returning home at 2 A. M. to-day when he saw two men loitering near the club house. Conroy ran after the men, but they got away.

Awakening James Galvin, Steward of the club, Conroy went through the building with him. In the safe they came upon a man riving the cash register. He gave battle and was stabbed several times in the arms and shoulders by Galvin, who had seized a paring knife.

Conroy and Galvin overpowered the intruder and sent him to the Hackensack Hospital, where his wounds were dressed. He said he was Paul Ulrich, twenty-seven, of No. 322 West 42d Street, Manhattan.

BETTING FAVORS YANKS TO WIN THE WORLD'S SERIES; $1,300 TO $1,000 ONE WAGER

$500 at Evens That Babe Makes Five Homers
—1 to 5 That Yanks Get Four Straight.

Although betting on the World Series has been comparatively light this year, the few wagers that have been recorded favor the Yankees to win the championship.

Several small bets were made with Jack Doyle. Over in Brooklyn, Fred Schumm recorded a bet of $1,300 against the Yankees to win the championship.

A bet of $500 even was made that Babe Ruth will make five home runs during the series, while another bet of $200 against $500 was made that Neft will win his first game.

Two hundred dollars against $1,000 was laid that the Yankees will take four straight games during the series.

COW, A LIVING DISTILLERY, STIRS TOWN BY HER SPREE

Emma Chases Horses and Breaks Up Jersey
Picnic After Eating Bushel of Potent Apples.

(Special to The Evening World.)
CALDWELL, N. J., Oct. 3.—One of Walter Haywood's cows is a living distillery. The cow's name is Emma.

Walter turned his cows into his orchard at Pine Brook, four miles west of here, yesterday morning. All the cows except Emma devoted themselves to consuming sound apples that had fallen from the trees.

Emma's attention was attracted by a pile of soft, well rotted apples. It is unusual for cows to eat rotten apples, but those apples were fermenting and for all anybody knows Emma may have had an ancestor that was a mouse.

At any rate, she smelled the seductive odor of the alcohol that nature was making in the pile of spoiled apples and she consumed the whole outfit.

In the old days when making Jersey Lightning was an honored profession in this State people used to figure on a peck of potent apples producing a quart of liquor strong enough to blow a safe. Emma surrounded fully a bushel of apples.

Presumably the bushel of apples was speedily converted to at least four quarts of hooch in Emma's warm, moist interior. And what it did to Emma—and on the Sabbath, too!

Mooding loudly and in a careless manner, Emma jumped the fence around the orchard into a field where four inoffensive horses were grazing. Emma became obsessed with the idea that the horses needed exercise and started chasing them all over the lot.

Walter Haywood saw Emma chasing the horses and hurried to the field. Emma promptly transferred her attention to him. In clearing the fence Walter executed what was probably the longest and highest jump ever made in these parts. Emma jumped several other fences.

ARMED YALE MAN TRIES TO SHOOT A POLICEMAN

Didn't Intend to Kill, Says
Steel, Who Attacked Patrolman
Near Hotel Astor.

"What in thunder was the matter with you last night?" asked Police- man Nyland of the West 47th Street Station this morning, letting Montford S. Steel, a post-graduate student at Yale, out of a cell in which he had been confined the early morning before.

"Oh, just hooch," replied Steel, cheerfully. "Was I very bad?"

"You were," said Nyland, earnestly. "It isn't your fault my wife isn't a widow with two orphans to bring up on my pension."

"Oh, no," said Steel. "I wasn't going to kill you. I only meant to shoot you in the leg or something."

"Thank you, so much," said Nyland grandly, and the two started for the West Side Court.

There Steele was arraigned under the name of Stephen Mumford, the name he had given at the police station. He was held in $2,000 bail by Magistrate Bruce Cobb on a charge of felonious assault and in $500 bail for violation of the Sullivan act. He made no statement in court.

Steel, who lives with his mother at the Hotel Seymour where he is not in New Haven, was squabbling with another man in front of the Hotel Astor at 2:30 o'clock this morning when Nyland interfered and took him by the arm and led him up the street.

Steel became very indignant when urged to go home and, according to Nyland, said: "Yes, I'll go home, and get a gun and come back and kill you." Steel called a taxicab, and with one of the girls was driven to the Hotel Seymour. Steel went inside, leaving the girl in the taxi.

When Steel came out, according to Max Edelberg, the chauffeur, he was waving a blue revolver. The chauffeur became frightened and said he would not go when ordered to drive back to where they left the policeman. He said Steel poked the revolver into his back and said there was a shot in it for him, too, if he didn't.

Lawrence, Mass., Oct. 3.—The body of Edward F. Searles, the reclusive millionaire of Methuen, was ordered exhumed for the purpose of holding an autopsy to-day. District Attorney S. Howard Donnell is making this announcement, which followed anonymous reports to him that Searles was poisoned, said he had no evidence at present to warrant a belief that death was due to poison or violence.

The District Attorney said he had decided to order the autopsy after a conference with Dr. Victor A. Reed of this city, who is Associate Medical Examiner. Dr. Reed attended the aged millionaire most of the time during his last illness, but was absent on vacation for a period of ten days in the month preceding his death on Aug. 6, 1920. During this period the symptoms that led until death developed, Dr. Reed has said. These symptoms had described as similar to those which accompany arsenical poisoning, although insisting that all indications were that death was due to old age.

The autopsy, the date for which has not been set, will be conducted by Medical Examiner George W. Dow, assisted by Dr. Reed, and with Dr. George Burgess McGrath, Medical Examiner at Boston, advising.

"Evidence in my possession at present does not warrant a belief that Mr. Searles met his death through violence or poison," Mr. Donnell said, "but there can be no real objection to an autopsy that will set at rest all rumors and determine the truth or falsity of the same."

The body of Searles is interred in a tomb on his walled estate at Methuen. District Attorney Donnell said he would request permission of Methuen authorities at once for its removal. The estate is now occupied by Mrs. Mary Allen Rowland and her two sons, relatives of the reclusive, to whom he bequeathed it on condition that they change their name to Searles.

The principal beneficiary of his millions was Arthur T. Walker of New York, who assisted him in legal matters. The estate has been variously estimated to be worth from $14,000,000 to $16,000,000.

In bringing suit several months ago for a larger share of the estate, Albert Victor Searles of Boston, a nephew of the millionaire, asserted that his uncle was of unsound mind during the latter part of his life. A conspiracy to influence the provisions of the will, which was drawn two weeks before Searles died, was charged. The suit of the nephew was settled out of court with the result, it was reported, that he received several millions instead of the $250,000 provided by will.

The Searles fortune was largely that of Mark Hopkins, California railroad magnate, whose widow Searles married, as he testified in a court proceeding, "partly out of affection and partly for her

CURRAN TAKEN ILL AT HIS HEADQUARTERS

EMPIRES ANNOUNCED FOR WORLD SERIES GAMES.

Quigley and Rigler in National, Moriarty and Chill, American.

President John A. Reilly of the National League to-day announced the appointment of Ernest C. Quigley and Charles Rigler as the National League umpires for the World Series play, which begins here on Wednesday.

President Johnson of the American League has appointed George Moriarty and O. P. Chill to officiate.

Henry H. Curran, Republican-Caucus candidate for Mayor, was taken suddenly ill at his headquarters in the Murray Hill Hotel on Sunday afternoon, it was learned to-day. "Oysters" is the reason advanced by his campaign manager, John J. Lyons, for the indisposition of the Mayor.

It was reported at his home to-day, however, that he is feeling better and will probably be out by to-morrow.

Both Are Women and Prosecutor Believes One Is a Muth.

REDWOOD CITY, Cal., Oct. 3.—Important witnesses for State and defense were missing to-day just before the trial of William A. Hightower for the alleged murder of the Rev. Patrick E. Healin, Catholic priest.

The State witness was Marie Blanch, who, with the priest's housekeeper, Mari Wendel, is known to have seen the clergyman after an unidentified man, said to resemble Hightower, took him by night from the parish residence on the pretext that a dying man desired spiritual consolation.

The defense witnesses who had not been found was "Dolly Mason," from whom Hightower said he obtained the information that enabled him to find the priest's shallow grave in the sands of Salinas Beach. The District Attorney asserts "Dolly Mason" is a myth.

WOULDN'T LET COAL BE DELIVERED TO TENANT.

Court Issues Summons for Landlord Rent Hooster.

Sakias Basheer of No. 309 Hicks Street, Brooklyn, appeared before Magistrate Walsh in Adams Street Police Court, Brooklyn, to-day, and asked for a summons for his landlord, John Kelly.

Basheer alleged that a few days ago he ordered a ton of coal, but Kelly would not allow it to be delivered.

"That's strange," remarked the court. "Did your landlord object to having coal stored in your cellar before?"

"No," was the emphatic answer.

"Have you any differences with your landlord?" asked the court.

"Not any great difference," came the reply. "He raised my rent 45 per cent, and I refused to pay it, that's the only difference, your honor."

The summons was granted.

PLAUSIBLE YOUTH STEALS TUG AFTER DUPING CREW AND ELUDES ALL PURSUIT.

Progress and enterprise in thievery were registered by a company of conspirators who stole the tugboat Britannia from Pier B, Jersey City, Saturday night and successfully dodged pursuit up to a late hour this afternoon. The tug is the property of the Ambrose Lighterage and Transportation Company, No. 120 Liberty Street, of which John N. Sheary is President.

Charles Ericson, a fireman, and Frank Smith, the cook, remained on the Britannia as guards when the rest of the crew went ashore Saturday evening. At 9 o'clock Saturday night they were awakened by a young man who handed them $5, saying Mr. Shearon had ordered them to go to a hotel in Jersey City to sleep, as he had a commission for the tug and was about to put a fresh crew aboard. Ericson and Smith went to the hotel.
