

ALLEGED BOOTLEG TAXED $1,653,797 ON RUM PROFITS

First Claim of Sort Made Against E. J. Donegan,
Former Contractor.

Edward J. Donegan, of No. 5321 11th Avenue, Brooklyn, who before prohibition was a small contractor on the Brooklyn waterfront, will pay $1,653,797.25 in income taxes and penalties for 1920 if the Government succeeds in steps begun yesterday to collect it. Assistant United States Attorney Kopff declared that Donegan's income for 1920 was largely the profits from alleged bootlegging operations. The claim against him is the first of many to be made by the Government in an effort to collect taxes on bootlegging operations.

Donegan was arrested in the Hotel McAlpin on Dec. 30, 1920, with another man and two women on a charge of conspiracy and attempted bribery of Federal prohibition agents. He is also under indictment for alleged illegal transportation of liquor. Mr. Kopff said he was informed by income tax officials that this case is the first in which the Government has investigated the income of any alleged bootlegger.

It was found he had filed no income tax.

LOCKWOOD INQUIRY NEXT WEDNESDAY

Untermeyer Forces Question Witnesses Preparatory to Resuming Hearings.

Manuel Untermeyer, counsel for the Lockwood committee, put a force of clerks and lawyers to work this morning in the Criminal Courts Building, examining witnesses and papers. They are under the direction of Lawrence Duer, Deputy Attorney General. The witnesses, it is understood, are to be called before the committee, which is expected to resume its hearings on Wednesday next in the City Hall. The hearings, which are expected to continue at least three weeks, will be directed at insurance companies, the building trades combine and probably certain labor leaders.

At the same time United States District Attorney Hayward is preparing to press his attack upon the nation-wide monopoly exposed by Mr. Untermeyer previous to the committee's adjournment for the summer. Col. Hayward will be ready Monday morning to proceed with the trial of the "Tie Trust," the members of which were indicted two months ago. Later he will proceed against the cement and terra cotta combines.

BURIED MAN'S BODY FOUND 31 FEET DOWN

William Graham Was Submerged in Sand at Wanaque, N. J.
The body of William Graham of Buffalo, who was buried in a sand slide at Wanaque, N. J., last week, was recovered this morning. He was working on an excavation fifty-five feet deep, for the foundation of a water supply dam, when the slide occurred and he was submerged in the sand. Strong efforts were made by Graham's companions to get him out alive, but the danger of the loss of other men in the undertaking retarded progress and finally hope had to be given up.
Death had resulted quickly from suffocation, as there were no timbers or other materials nearby to prevent the sand from closing in. The body was recovered at a depth of 11 feet. It stood in water to the waist and was dry from that point up.

APPEALS TO CLEMENCEAU.

Socialist Organ Reminds Tiger of His Past, in Behalf of Cottin.

PARIS, Nov. 11.—A plea for the release of Emile Cottin, the youth who tried to assassinate Clemenceau on Feb. 19, 1919, is made by the Communist organ Humanite. Cottin shot Clemenceau as he was driving from his home in an automobile. A court martial condemned Cottin to death. The sentence was mitigated to ten years' solitary confinement.

Humanite says Cottin is dying of consumption and cannot possibly survive his term of imprisonment. Humanite suggests that Clemenceau intervene to save Cottin from an early grave.

RED CROSS OPENS $500,000 DRIVE IN CITY HALL PARK

Big Crowd Attends Exercises and Hears Tributes to Work of the Order.

The Red Cross drive for $500,000 was begun in City Hall Park today. The exercises on the City Hall steps were impressive and well attended. Mayor Hylan was represented by Francis P. Bent, Director of the Board of Estimate. Among those present during the speaking were Mrs. Joachim Bincon, president of the Mexican Red Cross; Mrs. William K. Draper, Mrs. Mortimer L. Siffert and H. J. Rogers.

Among the speakers were Director Bent, Morris Aron of the Committee of 100 and speaking for Col. Whittlesey, Chairman of the roll call, who is in Washington; the Rev. J. J. Halligan, Chaplain of the 7th Division, and Major George A. Daly, Brigade Adjutant of the 57th Infantry Brigade, National Guard, who had charge of the ceremonies as Adjutant of Gen. Dyer.

Father Halligan, who is one of the best known war chaplains in this section of the country, praised the Red Cross. He explained that no matter how good a government's intentions might be it cannot expect to have the heart and soul of an organization composed of the class of workers who comprise the Red Cross.

"It is well to know that the soldier who was gassed or wounded will be taken care of in good time and that he will be accorded complete justice," said the priest. "While he is waiting for this justice what is there to prevent him from starving to death if a human hand is not reached forth in the meantime? Two-thirds of the Red Cross's work has been devoted to human emergency aid, two-thirds of its time and expense have been directed toward the relieving of distress not only among soldiers and ex-soldiers but among their relatives.

In 1919 the amount of the fund was set at $1,400,000. In 1920 it was set at $37,000. This year, though the needs are as great as ever, though the increase in the number cared for represents the difference between 3,300 and 26,000 persons, the Red Cross is asking for only $500,000. Everyone must give generously, for the money will be spent in the most worthy manner."

Director Bent said the Mayor deputed it understood that he favored liberal contributions to the Red Cross. The Mayor, Mr. Bent further said, had been appointed chairman of the Federal and municipal drives, and would do all in his power to aid the good cause. Several hundred school children, members of the Junior Red Cross, participated in the exercises. The Red Cross flag was not flown on the Liberty Pole, as had been planned, because of a rule barring all emblems except the American flag from the pole. This rule, it was explained at the City Hall, is as old as the country. The Red Cross drive will continue until Thanksgiving.

Widow's Heart and Home Robbed The Same Night

Matchmaker Arrested When Clothing Is Missed After Visit.

Mrs. Celia Balchm is a widow, 58 years old, who lives at No. 79 Knickerbocker Avenue, Brooklyn, and has several paying guests, one of whom is Anthony Kubius.

Gabriel Washelsky is twenty-eight years old and lives at No. 57 Diamond Street, Brooklyn. According to the police, he offered Mrs. Balchm his services as a matchmaker to procure her a desirable husband, and called one evening last month, bringing his step-brother, Dominick Karchinsky, along as a not-a-moment candidate.

Mrs. Balchm, according to the police, in the soul of hospitality and a good time was had by all, for several hours. However, Dominick Karchinsky refused to accept the nomination and left without pledging his name and fortune to his hostess. According to the police, Washelsky left some time later and subsequently Mrs. Balchm and Kubius, her boarder, missed three overcoats, two suits of clothes and other articles.

To-day Washelsky was held in $1,000 bail by Magistrate Short in the Bridge Plaza Court on charges of grand and petit larceny. He will be examined Monday.

What's Back of This Label?

The Rochester Art label means something. Back of it is a long record of honest manufacturing and fair pricing. Through the years that label has been a guarantee of service and satisfaction. But with to-day's abnormal conditions the retailer is asking for a cheaper grade of clothing—which we are not equipped to make—and which we are not willing to produce under the Rochester Art label.

Rochester Art Clothes are quality clothes. For example: Every yard of cloth we use is all wool—and London shrunk at a cost of 6c. per yard—not steam shrunk the ordinary way, which can be done for 3c. a yard. All our coat makers are custom coat makers—they can't be hurried. All canvas is stitched in by hand. All collars are hand telled. Buttonholes are all hand made. We press but seven coats a day—most other makers press fourteen. These facts prove conclusively what you get when you buy Rochester Art Clothes.

ROCHESTER CLOTHES

are tailored to perfection under the watchful eye of Samuel Blum himself. They are designed by Frank Laura, whose notable career includes ten years of service with Schanz and J. F. Lanigan, of Fifth Avenue. They are made from such famous foreign weaves as J. & J. Crombie, Ltd., Caledon, Carr's Meltons, and O'Brien; and from noted domestic fabrics such as Worumbo, Hockanum, Princeton, Metcalf, Dunn's, Kunhardt and Standish. Those are woollens used by the foremost makers of men's apparel. And woollens they are—simon pure.

Out of Business
We Go!

Rather than turn to the manufacture of cheaper apparel or cut down our volume of business we are retiring from the clothing industry. To protect our name we are disposing of our big million-dollar stock of Rochester Art Clothes direct to the wearer—at less than wholesale prices. The result is you get top-grade clothing for the cost of vastly inferior merchandise!

Further Drastic Reductions!

Up to the present we've been selling at less than wholesale prices. But although the response to our announcement has been tremendous, we must speed things up still more—for we want to close the doors very soon. So—FURTHER DRASTIC REDUCTIONS!

And you profit again.

Suits & Topcoats Sold at Retail for High as $50 Wholesale Prices Up to $37.50 19.50

Suits Sold at Retail for as High as $55 Wholesale Prices Up to $36.50 24.50

Sack Suits in 1, 2 and 3 button models; double breasted suits; English sport suits; suits of every description; all Fall-1921 models. Heavy overcoats in every new and popular model. Topcoats a-plenty. All sizes—stouts too. And all wonderful value.

Evening Clothes There are no restrictions to this sale—no Evening Clothes are going along with everything else. Handsome abrics; faultless tailoring. Tuxedos, $39.50 to $43.50. Full Dress Suits, $46.50.

These garments are sacrificed at prices that do not even cover the cost of making. Never before have we sold them direct to the wearer. They have never been handled by any but the better class retail shops.
