

31,000,000 GALS. LIQUOR WITHDRAWN UNDER PROHIBITION

38,000,000 Left in Storage—House Committee Allows $9,250,000 for Enforcement.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 5.—A fairly comprehensive review of results of prohibition enforcement has been given by Commissioner Haynes to the House Appropriations Committee in connection with the Treasury Appropriation Bill, hearings on which became public for the first time yesterday. The committee recommended $9,250,000 for the work beginning July 1, which is $1,750,000 greater than for the current fiscal year but $170,000 less than the total requested, which was $10,000,000. Of the amount allowed, $750,000 is for enforcement of the Anti-Opium Act.

For the fiscal year ended June 30, 1921, or for the first eighteen months of the Volstead act on the statute books, there were nearly 25,000 violation cases brought and taxes and penalties collected of $53,000,000. In the bonded warehouses, according to Deputy Commissioner West, there were about 28,000,000 gallons of liquor Dec. 1. When the law went into effect in January, 1920, there were approximately 69,000,000 gallons. In other words, about 31,000,000 gallons have been withdrawn since prohibition became effective.

"On June 30, 1921," Mr. West said, "there were 39,961,000 gallons of whiskey, 895,000 gallons of rum, 885,000 gallons of gin, 2,570 gallons of high wines, 846,316 gallons of alcohol, 869,000 gallons of neutral cologne spirits, making a total of 42,500,000 gallons in the distilleries and general bond warehouses." In the fiscal year 1920, there were about 63,000,000 gallons in all.

Violations of the act were outlined by Mr. Haynes as follows for the fiscal year 1921:

There were 16,610 pleas of guilty under the National Prohibition and 2,237 under the Internal Revenue Act. There were 17,962 convictions under the Prohibition Act and 4,153 under the Revenue. There were 755 acquittals under the Prohibition and 533 under the Revenue Act.

The appraised value of property seized was $10,940,487.53.

Wholesale druggists in New York withdrew under permits in June, July and August 596,933 gallons.

"After I had been over that work and reorganized the office through my own force of general agents," Mr. Haynes said, "there was a decided decrease, and during September, October and November the withdrawal was amounted to 36,873 gallons. Under this reorganization of the New York office the volume of routine business passing through the permit section has been reduced 62.3 per cent."

Gov. Miller is delighted with the prohibition work in New York State, according to Mr. Haynes, who declared the new state of affairs is becoming more and more popular.

"We found the conditions in New York State were deplorably bad," he said. "There were constant complaints of conditions. Our largest problem is always in the metropolitan zone."

"Some three months ago, I went to New York State with seventeen agents. We took over that office from top to bottom to reorganize it, in other words, we have cleaned house in New York. Gov. Miller has indicated he thought this work done there was beyond that which could have reasonably been expected and has expressed himself perfectly delighted with the work of the man of the Republican State Committee, is on record as saying he thinks it is one of the best pieces of constructive work he knows of. Charles D. Hillis, member of the National Committee from New York State, is enthusiastic."

As to illicit distilling, he said: "Whereas it used to be confined almost entirely to the mountainous sections we now find some of it right in the big cities. But I regard that as a temporary problem and not one of our great, outstanding fundamental problems."

The Appropriations Committee turned down requests of Mr. Haynes for permission to increase the salaries of some of the force under him. Chairman Madden said it would be unwise to raise salaries. Mr. Haynes estimated $200 per field agent increase would attract a little higher grade of men. He also said he would need 750 more agents. He suggested the salaries of directors run from $3,500 to $5,000, the latter being for New York.

Chairman Madden said: "This is the only case in all the hearings we have had where we have allowed any argument of any suggestion from anybody on the other side of the table about increasing salaries."

Legislature Can't Adopt Dry Laws Automatically

BOSTON, Jan. 5.—The Supreme Court has rendered an opinion to the Legislature that a proposed statute which would enact the present provisions of the Volstead act in this State and would incorporate substantially in Massachusetts statutes any changes in the Federal measure, was unconstitutional. The Legislature, in the opinion of the court, has no right to delegate the right to legislate for the State.

The court's decision is a significant one in Massachusetts, as it would prevent the Legislature from automatically adopting Federal Prohibition laws without making any changes to suit the State's needs.

FARMING PARLEY JAN. 23. Secretary Wallace Issues Invitations for Important Gathering.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 5.—The National Agricultural Conference, suggested yesterday by President Harding to discuss relief among farmers, was called last night by Secretary Wallace to meet in Washington on Jan. 23.

The Secretary of Agriculture said it was expected that Mr. Harding would open the conference. The list of delegates, between 150 and 200, will be made as soon as acceptances are received.

There will be representatives not only of agricultural interests proper, but also of those interests intimately associated with agriculture, transportation, marketing and distributing. The public also will be represented.

The conference, in seeking to restore the buying power of the agriculturists, would make officials said, for a general revival of business.

"To draw up a policy for the Federal and State Governments and farmers themselves to build a permanent, self-sustaining agriculture is expected to be of even greater importance to the conference than to seek remedial measures for the present farm situation, although the latter will probably be given first consideration, it was said."

DIRECTORY HEADS PLEAD.

Four Charged With Swindle File "Not Guilty" Answer.

James H. John F. and Michael White, brothers, and William E. Orr, indicted Friday for grand larceny in the second degree in an alleged business directory swindle, pleaded not guilty yesterday before Judge McIntyre in General Sessions. The court allowed until Monday to change their pleas or make motions.

Although the amounts named in the indictments are small, Assistant District Attorney Simmons, who presented the testimony to the Grand Jury, said more than $1,000,000 and possibly several millions have been obtained from big business concerns.

Arthur Bowen, indicted for jewelry in the same alleged swindle, is out under $10,000 bail, the same as each of the defendants arraigned yesterday. Deacon Murphy is attorney for the White brothers.

STRIP BRINDELL FOR DRUGS.

Sing Sing's prisoners were concerned yesterday over an order couped on them to be stripped of all their clothing before and after receiving a cauter, which was applied first to Robert Brindell, former building trades union leader of Manhattan.

The new rule, designed to stop smuggling drugs, was promulgated because several inmates were caught recently trafficking in heroin.

It happened that shortly after the order went into effect the first person to apply at the office to see an inmate was a relative of Brindell. Brindell cheerfully submitted to having his clothes searched. When the interview was over he was searched again before returning to his work.

TWO COMMITTEES VOIDED. CHARGES RELIEF GOUGING.

Estimate Board to Act on Matters That Are Referred to Them.

It was announced yesterday the Board of Estimate had abolished its Committee on Finance and Budget, Franchises and Salaries, and that hereafter matters heretofore referred to them will go to the Committee of the Whole.

The action grows out of disputes last year which ended in Comptroller Craig's resignation from the Committee on Finance and Budget, of which he had been Chairman. Subsequently the Mayor presided at its meetings, as he did over those of the Franchise Committee. President Connolly of Queens was Chairman of the Committee on Salaries and Grades.

The board's committee heretofore will consist of the Committee of the Whole, the Committee on City Plan and Public Improvements and the Committee on Assessments.
