What Kind " Housewife Are You?

ARE YOU A "PUTTERER"?

First of a Series of Articles Describing Five Different Types of Housewives

their work?

fatigue.

2-The 'NIBBLER'

3-The 'FRETTER'

4 The 'SLACKER'

5-The 'SCOURER'

Housekeeping, like any other human activity, requires sincere trained thinking and an efficient attitude of mind to make it a suo-cess. It is mind as well as muscle that wins in cooking and cleaning as much as, let us say, in playing a good set of tennis or in making a fine piece of furniture.

at a specified hour.
The "putterer" dreams and dawdles and elaborates unnecessary details because her mind is not co-ordinating with her mus-cles. If she only had a plan, an object, a purpose, she could get the same task done in far less time and with a great deal less

The 100 per cent. efficient house-

The housewife must come to con-

By Mrs. Christine Frederick, Household Efficiency Expert: Author "Household Engineering." Copyright, 1922 (New York Evening World) by Press Publishing Co. "Lo, the poor putterer, Whose unscheduled mind Makes her work endless

And no rest can find." LTHOUGH popular opinion Wednesday. She takes each day as would have it that all house- it comes without any plan or purpose, wives present identical char- and then is surprised that "she never acteristics, yet to the mind of the housekeeping for being so never-endanalyst they, like ancient Gaul, are ing and laborious.

divided into several parts or distinct types. There he not frequently come home only to are five main find her exhausted and all too tired to species of house- have dressed up or to accompany him wife, with habits to some place of amusement? Because and traits so fixed and peculiar to molehills she depletes her vitality and each that it is as has nothing left to give to her children easy to distin- or her husband. guish one from the other as it cause of the housekeeper's being a is to tell a daisy putterer? Is it not to be found in the from a dandelion, fact that women let their work mas-Some women are "born" housewives (a very small minority indeed); others acquire housekeeping; but by far the great majority have housekeeping thrust upon them! And It is just because it is so often an "acquired characteristic" not transferable from mother to daughter in each generation that we find women fall into these special divisions. Probably on even as simple a problem as preof all types the "putterer" housewife paring a dinner, otherwise the various is the most common and garden dishes will not be simultaneously variety. What is a "putterer?" It is the woman who prolongs, elaborates and repeats her household tasks: who finds andless details to occu-By her days who works without plan or schedule and who magnifies petty duties to the exclusion of every other interest.

The "putterer" constantly com- wife is one who makes her mind plains: "I never get through with my direct her work, who makes definite work," or "I never have any time for plans for each day and task and who She regards housework as as any business man does his office a kind of ogre from which she can- One of the first great steps toward not escape; as a perpetual escalator good management of the home is to of fate on which she is forced to keep moving without making any conmoving without making any condawdling, aimless regard in which clous headway. the "putterer" holds it. She should To the "putterer" every day is an apply her best intelligence and culaimless, timeless, planiess day. She ture to her problems and be con-timeless, timeless, planiess day. She ture to her problems and be con-timeless, timeless, planiess day. She ture to her problems and be con-timeless, timeless, planiess day. She ture to her problems and be con-timeless, timeless, planiess day. She ture to her problems and be con-timeless, timeless, planiess day. She ture to her problems and be con-timeless, timeless, planiess day. She ture to her problems and be con-timeless, timeless, planiess day. She ture to her problems and be con-timeless, timeless, planiess day. She ture to her problems and be con-timeless, timeless, planiess day. She ture to her problems and be con-timeless, timeless, planiess day. She ture to her problems and be con-timeless, timeless, planiess day. She ture to her problems and be con-timeless, timeless, planiess day. She ture to her problems and be con-timeless, planiess day. She ture to her problems and be con-timeless, planiess day. She ture to her problems and be con-timeless, planiess day. The planies day is the planies of the problems and be con-timeless, planies and planies day. The problems are the planies of the planies compass and chart on the rough housekeeping seas. Whither is she bound? The "putterer" does not Why try to reach a definite port or housekeeping objective when it is so much easier to drift, to idle, to work haphazard as the spirit first one! How she does permit her for him a large bunch of vari-colored which the bride had been a member, she might be in the midst of giving the rooms a much-needed cleaning money for so many other things." Yet when suddenly she is seized with an she was quite pleased and gave him a very boll thing for her to do. at the slightest interrupting obstacle! she drops broom and duster and "They didn't cost very much," said was an impostor. The idea of going Mr. Jarr, "and besides I am only around among business men and talk-rushes into a hectic upheaval of too forgetful about such things. A ing condeacendingly about charitable from the effects of this culinary to say it," replied Mrs. Jarr, busied proceeds from selling the flowers apree, she is faced not only with the with putting the flowers in a fat or- went to charity, and I thought you stantial for the evening dinner and them for the Sick Babies Fund or "Hut! They always go in pairs that she has no time to make herself some other charity of that kind. She that sort of people, and put on those presentable before the return of her was a peach, too."

at once clean all the closets in the go and minister to the poor?" house. The fact that she has left feebly. "The girl said they were of a cried the exasperated Mr. Jarr. the breakfast dishes unwashed or the large lot of flowers that had been sent beds unmade escapes her mind, and nothing short of an earthquake will deter her from this untimely purpose. And again she finds, late in the after noon, that she has neglected all the ential house duties for the sake of a special task full of details, which should only have been attempted with

She neglects to prepare the laundry ndle for the driver who invariably calls Monday morning, and must stop in the midst of other work to collect and make the list. She fails to make note of the fact that sugar or butter getting low, and so at lunch is ed with an unexpected deficit in the family larder and must either run out herself for this trivial supply or else claim little Willie's noon hour to terer" refuses to do the same task at the same time on any two days. If makes beds directly after breakfast on Tuesday she is almost sure to leave shem undone till noontime on

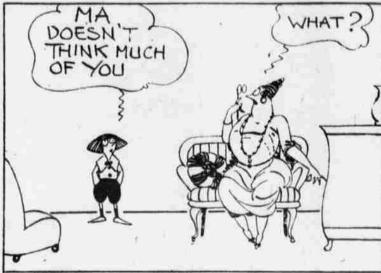

Can You Beat It!

By Maurice Ketten

MAXIMS W Of a Modern Maid

By Marguerite Mooers Marshall .-

Copyright, 1993 (New York Evening World) by Press Publishing Co. girl who wants to impress a man tries to prove what a brilliant and beautiful being she is. A woman is wiser-she implies that most of the brilliancy and beauty is on the other side.

WHEN a man comes home and finds his wife grieving stiently, that is the time for exceptionally judicious silence on his part. Because how does he know whether what she has heard about is the little same-or the little girl?

Marriage is a craft which often weathers the storms of life only to founder and stak on the reefs underlying the dead sea of monotony.

Nobody has ever catalogued among labor saving inventions a pair of large, brown, sympathetic eyes. Xet. if you can turn them on a man's tale of woe you needn't grieve for him, you needn't listen to him, you needn't even THINK about him until the pause comes and you murmur, "I'm 80 sorry!"

If any young woman who has read modern novels, attended modern plays, seen modern movies, succeeds in prevailing on her flance to tell her 'the story of his past" she is in for a period of acute boredom.

One advantage of being transparent is that-while you can't tell a lie and get away with it-when you tell the incredible truth neither your boss nor your wife suspects you of lying.

Children are the consolation prizes of matrimony; they are most appreciated by the man and the woman who realize they have drawn no first

A woman frequently has been known to forstve a man for breaking her heart, but never for crushing her vanity.

When faith is lost, when honor dies'-the MARRIAGE is dead.

"MARGIE"

By Caroline Crawford

Copyright, 1822 (New York Evening World), by Press Publishing Co. Margery Mindon, nincteen, belpe to support her widowed mother by working at the gentlemen's glove counter in a large New York department store. Her most latimate "chum" is Maisie Lee, a fellow salesgiri. Maisie's "steady" is Clarence Wimple, a floorwalker. Margie feels her real "Trince Charming" will come along and live up to her ideals. Begin this aftery te-day and see how Margie's dreams work out.

BACK TO THE GLOVE COUNTER. cows and the chickens, that's all." COR two whole weeks Margie "Oh, it isn't so bad," declared Marworked on the farm and enjoyed gie as she hoed up a long angle worm kitchen and taught it, you know." her how to make "Maybe you'll meet some nice fel nuts.

glove counter day after day, Margie? away with great interest. I can imagine it might be very inter-life. Milly proved an admirable and tosed it to a chicken. "There's a companion in the fields and taught girl named Maisie Lee who is at the her how to hoe and plant and farm same counter with me and during dull generally. She learned how to milk moments we talk and have a good deal cows and make butter, and Milly's of fun. I like it out here but I must mother took her confess I'm getting sort of lonesome into the big, roomy for the roar of the city. I'm used to > ples and dough- low and then you won't have to work any more," suggested Milly who had "I wish you been hinting about Willis Channing never had to go ever since he hunted Margie out and back to the city," called one evening as the two girls said Milly one day. were sitting out on the veranda.

'Don't you hate to stand behind a "Maybe," said Margie, working

"Is that handsome young chap who esting for a few days, but when it came out to see you one evening secomes to week after week and maybe riously inclined?" finally asked Milly year after year-oh, dear, I love the "Not now."

"You don't mean you turned him down!" exclaimed the farmer's daughter.

"Yes," laughed Margie, suddenly dropping her hoe and sitting down on the ground. "Yes, I turned him down. Well, Milly, he isn't half as nice as he making these are given free where ter," stoically summed up Milly, and that last sentence warmed Margie's quill penholders. Baskets or boxes of ing. He is of a different social standfently. But. Milly, he never proposed to keep me guessing."

"What did he say?" breathless!

"He was rather cymical, thanked since," said Margie, and the tears rolled down her cheeks. She had come wanted to think things out and wait for Spafford to hunt her out, but her mother's letters contained no news of him. Her mother knew how anxious she was to hear some word, some nessage from this but evers letter contained the pafford?" "Maybe he has gon somewhere to think things out," said Milly, trying to comfort Margie. "I believe he will come back to you, Margie. You are not the type of girl men run away

"I believe he will come back too." declared Margie, smiling through he tears. "I am going back to town to morrow, back to the little old glove counter, and I believe he will seek out. I wouldn't believe anything else

To-Morrow Concerning Frank Spafford.

The Jarr Family

By Roy L. McCardell Copyright, 1922 (New York Evening World) by Press Publishing Co. How the "putterer" does love to begin a second job before finishing the first one! How she does permit her

ERE are some flowers for to decorate a house for a wedding, but you," said Mr. Jerr on his had come too late. Some of them home coming, and he had been sent to the hospitals, and it first one! How she does permit her

"Oh, how sweet they are!" cried proceeds to the charity in question.

cooking, making the flour fly, the egn fellow will buy flowers and candy for objects! Evidently I am supposed to beater whize and whirl and turning a girl he's simply friends with, but he a charitable object, then, as I get the whole kitchen upside down in her after he's married he neglects those the flowers, or at least some of ardor. Later, when quite exhausted little attentions for the wife he loves." them!"

vince the "putterer" that she should real work for the poor, why don't they look at the flowers. "I don't know," ventured Mr. Jarr to please everybody, just abuse!

GOING DOWN!

D EAR WONDERER: Have

Do you know that success is the realization of your ambition? Not all successful men are wealthy. The reason you are in a rut is because you DOUBT. That is a bad word and you should fight doubt as you would foreign invasion. Often this DOUBT comes to us as a habit of childhood and then runs into fear. Childhood will not advance without questioning, but questioning is not doubting. Doubt, hesitation and fear

MUST get out before HAPPI NESS can come in. Get the happy habit and keep Sincerely, ALFALFA SMITH.

"Why, no," Mr, Jarr replied, "the debris of this unusual housekeeping namental bowl on the plane. "Where would like to have the flowers. debauch but with the fact that she has failed to prepare something sub"A girl came into the office selling with her as a chaperon."

sanctimonious airs!" retorted Mrs. "It's a pity so many young women Jarr. "The things are faded, anyway make charity a cloak for flirtatious and I suppose you paid whatever was Or searching for a small article in visits to business places," said Mrs. asked for them," and she turned the bureau drawer will suddenly con- Jarr coldly. "If they want to do some away as though she did not care to should sell the rest and devote the

"That's what a man gets for trying "Well, I don't think it's very nice for you to boast about a bold gir coming to your office and flirting with you and getting you to pay her a ridiculous price for a bunch of wilted flowers swindling under the name of charity, I call it!" said Mrs. Jarr. "And I also don't think it is very nice of you to bring them home to your wife. I ought to throw them

"All right, throw them out!" snapped Mr. Jarr. "I don't care. I only thought you would appreciate me buying the flowers to help the sick bables and to bring the flowers home to you. Next time I won't tell you everything."

"Especialy if it is anything you should be ashamed of!" averred Mrs. Jarr. "Yet to think I didn't suspect thing when you brought me flowers.

"By gosh!" cried the exasperated Mr. Jarr. "I am the one guy in the world who can 'Say It With Flowers' and it will be considered

MEMORIAL DAY

By Sophie Irene Loeb Copyright, 1822 (New York Evening World) by Press Publishing Co. T was early morning in the City of the Dead

Three black robed figures wended their way, Then reached a mound bedecked with flowers and added more. Figures not bent, or gray, but full of youth.

> tribute On this one day of days And spread beautiful blossoms About the white stone inscribed "Mother." And one said, "Most wonderful woman." And another, "The dearest thing that ever

With saddened, bowed heads they paid their lived." And still a third kissed a flower As she laid it gently at the feet of her Who had been sorely tried but ne'er found wanting.

Did she hear them? Did she understand? Did she know their pain at parting and her loss? And out of the depth of Mother Earth a sweet voice spoke: me! dear hearts; yes, I do know.

Yet, harken ye to me, your mother, That you may teach your children

"That which you did not know, or knowing, paid small heed."Through the valley of the shadow of death "I went to bring you here.
"And then fearfully watched your every milestone

That it might find you in the way you should go. 'Oh, the weight of those moments when your lives hung by a thread; And I thought my heart would stop-before the tender years passed. 'Oh,' the nights of weary waiting for your homecoming. 'And then your hurried 'Good night' without a thought of my an-

But needless to go on; you know, you know. Yet, look ye, had you then come to me with but a single blossom, 'Or a word of tenderness,

At such times when I needed it most, 'Or even heard from you these loving words that now you cry out What a world of woe I would have been saved.

'And what joys would have been mine. 'Tis well that you have not forgotten 'And have come to me this Memorial Day

But better still you can remember me By telling your children to give their buds of love by word and deed Every day, rather than wait for the one day of decoration. "Too ready are we to spread flowers on graves When the self-same blossoms might have kept the spirit and soul

For the Housewife's Scrap Book

'From starvation of love-the greatest misery of mankind.

If you want to remove paint with vinegar and let them dry before out of crepe paper on the bias, and Something you've never done in sandpaper the task will be accom- using them. This will prevent a using paper covered wire for the plished more speedily if you dampen smoky lamp. it with benzine.

When you close up the house for If you are burning lamps in the waxed paper and it will be ready for feathery appearance. Birds fastened summer bungalow dip the wicks in use when you return in the fall.

Your Wedding Anniversary

Copyright, 1923 (New York Evening World) by Press Publishing Co. HE third anniversary is scheduled the feaher idea. Excellent imitations looks."

as the leather, so take your choice. Decorations for the feather wedding these supplies are sold. may be extremely artistic. Peacock The quili pens make suitable favors, heart.

advantage.

feathers into which set a bowl shaped played in the shope. receptacle to hold the peacock plumes.

sign on each panel or apply tiny peacock feathers with library paste. A three-armed candelabra would make an effective centrepiece, especially if it quill feathers. rested on a wide disc of radiating pea. Among suitable gifts for this oc- demanded Milly. centreplece.

may be advantageously used in the ostrich; a beautiful plume or one of may be advantageously used in the ostrich; a beautiful plume or one of out into the country to forget Willis decorative scheme. Among the crepe those feather hats might prove ac- Channing and Frank Spafford. She papers there is one with a large va. ceptable. riety of birds that may be cut out and nasted together with a bit of cotton between. Wire attached to the feet makes it possible to perch these birds wherever desired. Another creps paper is composed of parrots that look very real when perched on a paper covered wire boup suspended from the centre horse wall light or doorways.

Quilla for decorative purposes may be made by cutting clongated ovals

If featoons are desired the fringed the summer just wrap the silver in variety, if tightly twisted, will give a at intervals will further carry out

-The Third-The "Feather Wedding"-

as the feather wedding by one of peacock feathers may be produced "Well, you're so pretty I suppose authority, while anothed lists it with crope paper. Instructions for you have some one else you like bet-feathers lend themselves especially Select the long, bright colored ones "I do," she confessed. "I am very well to this purpose, and a collection for the ladies, and for the men there much interested in a man whom I of barnyard plumage may be used to are short practical looking turkey- have slways called my Prince Charm-For the table centreplece construct craps paper with one of the tiny birds ing from me, but I always imagined a rectangular receptacle with the hen- perched on top make good bonbon- he loved me. In fact we talked so nery quills, and fill it with peacock holders. Feather novelties are shown much about love and ideals that I feathers or make a low tripod of the among the inexpensive favors dis- know we understand each other per-

The usual head ornaments that to me." Tripods (to represent the three form a jolly part of every party. "Give him time." smiled years of happiness) may be made of should be of feathers. For the women Margie. 'I intended to let things paper-covered wire overlaid with have a band of ribbon or crope paper drift along for years if necessary, there quills to serve as candle holders for covered with tiny feathers, and at the Willis Channing come into my life and the three candles on the table or the side have two quills at an artistic I wondered if a girl could have two mantel. For the candles make trislant. For the men have strips of really admired him, but I wanted to frames of mat stock in any desired colored mat stock with upstanding see if the man I loved would make frames of mat stock in any desired quills and one of two paper clips to good. Meanwhile this chum of mine color, and either paint a feather deadjust the proper size for the Indian Maisie Lee, knew I loved the other headdress. The crepe paper in vary-ing colors will do micely for these on him and told him he had no right cock feathers arranged on the white casion are the feather fans, combs and hair ornaments of fancy feathers, Malsie, and I have never seen him Birds are suggestive of feathers and slipper ornaments and handbags of

New Inventions

PPARATUS invented by a Californian is claimed to teach a person to dance by making it impossible for him to make the wrong motions.

Of Danish invention is apparatus that bottles milk under pressure so that it keeps fresh two years or more.

An opener for condensed milk cans has been invented that also closes them by reversing its motion.