

JOHN D., 83, WEARS WINTER GARB TO PREVENT DREADED CHILL

John D. Rockefeller, going to church in mid-July to receive the congratulations of his friends on having attained his eighty-third birthday, was dressed as if for winter weather—excepting only his Panama hat.

He wore an overcoat, a heavy muffler, a leather vest buttoned closely almost to his neck, and heavy shoes with thick soles. To protect his eyes from the sunshine he wore goggles so dark they looked black.

A chill, it is said, is the one danger that Mr. Rockefeller must at all costs avoid.

At the New Community Church at Tarrytown yesterday he was met by a group of newspaper photographers and he surprised them by consenting to pose—after church. First they all had to go in and listen to the sermon.

FREE STATERS FAIL TO FIND DE VALERA AT FUNERAL OF AID

Great Throng Mourns Burgess, but Fugitive Does Not Appear as Expected.

DUBLIN, July 10 (Associated Press).—A great crowd witnessed the funeral to-day of Cathal Brugha (Charles Burgess), former Irish Minister of Defense and leading lieutenant of Eamon De Valera in his campaign against the Anglo-Irish treaty. Brugha was mortally wounded as he was making a brave attempt to escape under fire after refusing to surrender when the Republicans were on the point of capturing the Sackville Street area last week, and died Friday from his injuries.

No untoward incident occurred in connection with the funeral ceremony.

Thousands lined the streets and joined in the funeral procession, which required three hours to pass from the church to the cemetery. The cortege passed along Sackville Street, the scene of the insurgent leaders' last stand against the Free State forces.

The Republican members of the Dail Eoghan and representatives of all the Republican organizations were present. Republican troops fired a salute over his grave.

The former President was expected to participate in ceremonies honoring Brugha, one of his right hand men in the "Republic," and troops had orders to arrest De Valera on sight.

Despite countless conflicting reports as to his whereabouts, De Valera was believed to be hiding in Dublin, awaiting opportunity for a dramatic move during the funeral.

CORK, July 10 (Associated Press).—The Republican army headquarters apparently transferred its headquarters from Malloy to Limerick, as Sunday night's official statement was issued from the latter place.

The statement says the whole of the South, West and Midlands stands firm for the republic, although it admits Kilkenny City, Thurles, Maryborough, Kesh and Shanonbridge are held by the Free Staters. It also concedes that the Republicans have evacuated Sligo, which the National forces now occupy, and says fighting is in progress in the surrounding area.

GASOLINE INQUIRY BEGINS IN FEW DAYS

Senate Committee to Call Producers to Testify on Soaring Prices.

WASHINGTON, July 10.—Hearings before the Senate Manufacturers Committee, investigating soaring gasoline prices, will start within a few days, Senator La Follette of Wisconsin, Chairman, indicated to-day.

As soon as the committee has checked information being received from producers and distributors, requested in a questionnaire, first witnesses will be summoned, La Follette said.

Representatives of gasoline companies will be the first called, after which officials of automobile companies and automobile clubs will be heard.

It is found prices have been increased without justification a conference may be called at which an attempt will be made to fix maximum prices.

MORSE TO BE TRIED IN WASHINGTON

Court of Appeals So Decides in Case Against Him and Eleven Others.

WASHINGTON, July 10.—Charles W. Morse, his three sons and eight others must stand trial here on indictments charging them with conspiracy to defraud the United States Government through wartime ship contracts with the Emergency Fleet Corporation of the Shipping Board, the District of Columbia Court of Appeals held to-day.

Capital Debs Too Frivolous, Powder Every 10 Minutes, Say British Embassy Bachelors

"Oh, Is That So?" Replies One of Them, Who Points to Chorus Girl Parties.

WASHINGTON, July 10 (Copyright).—Why are there so many confirmed and invincible bachelors on the British Embassy Staff in Washington? There is some good reason why this doughty group of nine young diplomats has been able so long to withstand the attacks of the shock troops of Washington debutantes, advancing in waves each successive social season, urged on by campaigning mothers.

One of the bachelors explained to-day. Washington girls use too much paint and powder. They never let ten minutes go by without dabbing their faces with one or the other. Washington girls do not play games—there are fewer women golfers and tennis players in the capital than in any city its size in the entire Western world. Last, but not least, the Washington girls do not play the piano or let a fellow sit around and sing sentimental songs of an evening.

Washington social life is nothing but jazz music, automobiles and cocktails. A fellow never has a chance to make earnest love in the good old-fashioned way.

However, the bachelor band at the embassy is beginning at last to show signs of slow disintegration. For several years now they have preserved their ranks intact through countless barrages of dinner, dance and tea invitations. But one has surrendered—that gallant young sailorman, Capt. S. R. Bailey, naval attaché. His engagement to Miss Mildred Bromwell, one of the most popular of Washington's younger set, has been announced. It is rumored, too, that another Captain on the embassy staff is heavily considering desertion from the rest of the "die hard."

The faithful seven who yet never will surrender. The paint and the powder seem the bulwark of their opposition to matrimony.

"The girls here," said a bachelor spokesman to-day, "think nothing of rouging and powdering in public. Whenever I see them do it, I want to haul out a toothbrush and brush my teeth before them. It would be just as appropriate and just as permissible."

"I would not marry a girl who uses powder," declared one of the youngest of the British bachelors, "because face powder gives me hay fever. I am a confirmed bachelor, I suppose, because I am subject to hay fever."

So far, so good, but let a Washington deb give answer.

"So the British bachelors abhor paint and powder and jazz, do they," she said. "Ha, ha, that's good. We suppose that is the reason they give parties so often for the stars in the musical comedy shows that come to Washington. We suppose they get away from the bold, bad buds in order to enjoy the pale, clear, complexion of the ladies of the ensemble."

And that is why some of the Washington debbs are laughing up their gorgette sleeves.

THOSE LEFT BEHIND PAID BY MAJESTIC

Will Sail on Olympic and Get Expenses Until Then.

Fifteen of the fifty-three second cabin passengers booked to sail on the Majestic Saturday but left behind when the gangplank was lowered, called at the White Star Line offices this morning and arranged a settlement with the company.

The settlement was on the basis of having their tickets honored on the Olympic which sails for Cherbourg and Southampton next Saturday, and being last Saturday, and the payment by the company for toilet articles and necessities the passengers were deprived of because their baggage left with the Majestic.

FRANCIS DROP TO NEW LOW LEVEL FOR YEAR. PARIS, July 10 (United Press).—Francis hit a new low level for the year to-day when they dropped to 12.55 francs a dollar, 27 centimes lower than Saturday's close.

KILLS TWO MEN; SAYS THEY TRIED TO HOLD HIM UP

Pair Called Him From Home and Demanded Money, Genovis Tells Police.

Policeman John Briedenbach heard shots at midnight in First Street, between First and Second Avenues, and ran out in time to see two men fall and a third enter the hallway at No. 47 1/2 First Street. The third man, who was not trying to escape, handed over a revolver and said he was Camillo Genovis, 47 years old, a donkey engine operator. He is gray-haired and lives with his wife and three children at No. 47 1/2.

He said two strangers came to his home at 11 o'clock last night and asked him to come down to the street as they wished to talk to him. His wife and children were at a neighbor's and he refused to accompany the men, whereupon they left.

They came back in a short time and again asked him to the street, he said. He became alarmed, he said, and slipping a revolver into his pocket went with them. Outside the front door they turned and demanded money. He told them he had none, and one of the men drew a revolver and fired.

Genovis said he then fired and one man dropped near the door, shot through the heart, and the other stumbled two doors away and fell in front of Public School No. 78. The man at the door was identified as Frank Gallo, twenty-seven, No. 6 Second Avenue. Beside him was a revolver with one empty and four loaded cartridges. He is the one Genovis says shot at him.

The other man who was shot through the head and heart was identified late to-day by Paul Giannetti of No. 211 Mulberry Street as Raffaele Eulis, a tailor, of Valley Brook Avenue, Kingsland, N. J.

At the time of the shooting the street was filled with pedestrians and vehicles and the police closed the block for a time believing others might have been implicated in the double killing. Genovis did not tell why the men demanded money from him, if he knew. He is charged with murder.

Mrs. Genovis contradicted her husband when the police questioned her. She said Genovis was sitting at the window in his shirt sleeves when he jumped up and said he was going down to the street to call their six-year-old son into the house. A moment or two after he went out she heard the shooting, she said, and she knew nothing of two men coming to the door.

LEBAUDY DAUGHTER UPHELD IN HER SUIT

Application for Administrator of $10,000,000 Estate Refused.

PARIS, July 10.—Legal battle for possession of $10,000,000 left his daughter, Jacqueline, by Jacques Lebaudy, late "Emperor of the Sahara," turned in favor of the eccentric millionaire's family to-day when the courts upheld Jacqueline's protest against appointment of an administrator for her estate.

The Harrises, father and son, the latter Jacqueline's husband "in name only," according to Madame Lebaudy, seek to obtain half the "Emperor's" fortune in case a divorce is secured. The widow is pleading for abatement of the marriage in order to save the $5,000,000.

DEMAND TO RETURN ALIEN PROPERTY IS SERVED ON GARVAN

Custodian Has Formal Notice Served on President of Chemical Concern.

WASHINGTON, July 10.—Formal demand was made to-day in New York on Francis P. Garvan, President of the Chemical Foundation, Inc., for the return to the alien property custodian of all patents, formerly enemy owned, sold to the Foundation while Mr. Garvan was alien property custodian.

The demand was made on Mr. Garvan personally by Fred H. Wilson, Secretary to Alien Property Custodian Thomas W. Miller, who went to New York last night for the purpose.

A duplicate copy of the demand was served on the Corporation Trust Company of America of Wilmington, Del., resident representative of the Chemical Foundation, to comply with technical requirements.

At the office of Mr. Garvan, No. 67 Wall Street, it was said he was in conference with other attorneys and would be until he left for Washington this afternoon to appear before the Grand Jury.

Garvan had been subpoenaed to produce his books to-morrow before a Federal Grand Jury in Washington. He charged the attack on himself and his organization was based on a so-called investigation by a one-time paid agent of the German secret service in the United States.

This agent, according to Garvan, is Gaston B. Means, known in the German secret service as "Z-12," who was paid $1,000 a week by Capt. Boy-Ed and $100 a day by Boy-Ed's successor. Garvan says that after an exposure by a New York newspaper of Means' record he was "apparently removed" from his position as assistant chief of the Bureau of Investigation of the Department of Justice, "but in reality was only moved over to room 506 in the Hotel Bellevue, next door to the Department of Justice, where he has continued in full control of this alleged investigation and others being conducted with a similar purpose.

Garvan demanded that the "secret" report made to President Harding be made public and charged the entire affair was part of the Government's policy "of secrecy and of representing only German interests." He declared the books of the Chemical Foundation have always been open to public inspection and that he has invited the Government again and again to examine them.

"I assume that this action is taken," he said, "either to frighten us with a threat of indictment into a betrayal of our trust or, realizing that their proposed civil litigation is baseless, they believe they can extort themselves from the position in which the discovery of the influence of the Oppenheim Commission has left them, by imposing upon the Grand Jury and inducing it to file indictments which they will never dare bring to trial.

"They will neither frighten me nor any one connected with the Chemical Foundation, and I have full trust that a grand jury of the citizens of Washington will insist that America be given a hearing before them as well as Germany."

Garvan charges further that "the people in the Attorney-General's office who dare not sign the statement" given out by the office Saturday did not dare to appear before the Shortt investigation committee in the Senate to cross-examine him. He says each paragraph of the statement is

Rip Van Winkle Post No. 00, A. of U., Ousted From Union Sq. Quarters

Cops Break Up Midday Slumbers of Unemployed so Girls Can Lunch Unannoyed.

The Rip Van Winkle Post No. 00, of the Army of the Unemployed, was ousted from its 24-hour boudoir in Union Square at noon to-day, when Acting Capt. Owen Treanor of the East 22d Street Station broke in upon its slumbers.

The reason was that girls from the neighboring flats and office buildings had complained to their bosses and their bosses had complained in turn to the police. These girls—of the sort the French call "midnettes" because they flutter forth at "midic," meaning noon—were wont to occupy the shady benches and munch their midday sandwiches there.

But since the rain stopped there has been trouble. Ragged and bewildered men, having slept all night on the benches, insisted on occupying the cool spots all day as well. The girls thought they ought to have a chance for at least one hour out of the twenty-four.

So at the approach of the cops to-day a number of the day-and-night squatters fled, but some were too lazy to make such an effort and were caught in the net.

At the station a count of the prisoners was made, and there were nineteen of them, all charged with vagrancy, and locked up for arraignment in the Night Court.

TWO LEFT BEHIND WILL SUE MAJESTIC

Ten Accept Money for Expenses Until They Sail For England.

A delegate of twelve of the sixty-four second cabin passengers who were left behind when the Majestic left her pier at 11 o'clock Saturday morning instead of at noon, the usual sailing time, called at the office of the White Star Line to-day and demanded funds. Ten of them accepted from $2.50 to $5 a day for maintenance in New York until they are sent to England on other ships of the line.

Two who refused to accept the maintenance money were Mrs. Charles Evans of No. 631 East 185th Street and Arthur Zeigler, a Pittsburgh lawyer. Mrs. Evans, through Frederick E. Klein, her counsel, announced that she would sue for $5,000 damages, and Zeigler, through the same lawyer, said he had been damaged to the extent of $25,000 by not leaving on the Majestic.

Officials of the line said that notification was given weeks ago that the Majestic would sail at 11 o'clock July 8.

ACCUSED FURRIER FORFIETS $1,500 BAIL

Wife of Prince Charges Him With Theft of $1,200 Clock.

Bail of $1,500 was forfeited to-day by August H. Shell, a furrier, No. 250 West 99th Street, when he failed to appear in West Side Court to answer a charge of grand larceny for the alleged theft of a seal cloak worth $1,200. Magistrate Simms issued a bench warrant for his arrest.

The complainant is Mrs. Belle Arbib, No. 740 West End Avenue, who says she is the wife of an Egyptian Prince, A. Arbib, and that she was in motion pictures under her film name, Frances De Niese.

Mrs. Arbib charges she left the store with three others at Shell's cloak to be repaired. When she called for them, she says, Shell gave her only three and said the other had been stolen.

Detective Davis went to Shell's place of business and found a cloak which it is claimed was the missing one.

$10,000,000 RAIN SAVES CROPS.

CHICAGO, July 10.—A "ten million-dollar rain" fell over sections of the grain belt to-day, relieving a drought of forty-two days and saving corn and other crops. Crop experts here said the rain came just in time, as the long drought had dried up all plants and every day of its continuance brought millions of dollars' damage.

used by the Attorney-General's office is a falsehood. "They say this sudden action was taken because of certain suits filed by the Chemical Foundation with only a week's interval for the Government to prepare," he said. "They conceal the fact that on May 23 the Government was notified."

Prices realized on Swift & Company sale of carcass beef in New York City for week ending Saturday, July 8, on shipments sold out, ranged from 11.00 cents to 12.00 cents per pound and averaged 12.50 cents per pound.—Adv.

RAILROAD AND LAND CONCESSIONS TO BE GRANTED BY SOVIET

Delegates at Hague Announce Russia Is Prepared to Make Terms.

THE HAGUE, July 10 (Associated Press).—Russia is ready to grant concessions for new railroad lines and 4,000,000 hectares of land (9,530,000 acres) for agriculture, it was announced by the Russian delegation here to-day.

FRENCH NOT READY YET TO QUIT HAGUE

Foreign Office, However, Says Experts May Withdraw at Their Discretion.

PARIS, July 10 (Associated Press).—The French experts at the Hague are at complete liberty to return to Paris at any time they are convinced they are no longer able to do useful work there, it was announced at the Foreign Office to-day, but they have not yet informed the Government that they had given up hope of co-operative work with the Russian problem.

This statement apparently was drawn out by declarations in this morning's Paris newspapers that the withdrawal of the French representatives from the Hague Conference to-day was probable.

Auto Invention Didn't Bar $25 Speeding Fine

Magistrate Tells John the Barber He Cares Nothing About It.

The law is the law, and even with an invention to stop skidding and speeding of automobiles, you can't go speeding to a Traffic Court Magistrate tell him about it. This was impressed upon John Reiser, forty-three of No. 1493 Broadway, fight manager, who is known as "John the Barber," when arraigned before Magistrate House in Traffic Court on a charge of speeding. It was alleged that on July 6 he drove his automobile in Broadway between 158th and 162d Street at an excessive rate of speed.

"I plead guilty," said Reiser, "but with an explanation."

"What is it?" asked the Magistrate. "I was on my way to see you," said Reiser, holding up a large pamphlet. "Here I have plans of an invention to prevent skidding and speeding, and I was in a hurry to get to your house to tell you about them. If you will look out of the window at my automobile, your Honor, you will see this wonderful appliance adorning my machine."

"I don't care anything about inventions," broke in the Magistrate. "The first thing for you to do is to respect the law and not go speeding yourself. You started out to see me—well you did. It will cost you $25 or ten days in jail."

"John the Barber," turned red, paid his fine and a diet.
