A Record of Events

CONNECTED WITH THE HISTORY OF THE U. STATES, WITH AN ACCOMPANYING TABLE, DESIGNED TO ELUCIDATE THEIR FINANCIAL AND GENERAL POLICY.

1492. Columbus on the 12th of October landed at San Salvador, one of the Bahama Islands. He was the first European who set foot in the New World.

1493. He discovered Saint Domingo, Jamaica, and other islands in the vicinity.

1497. North America was discovered by John Cabot and his son, who sailed from England on an exploring expedition.

1498. Columbus discovered South America.

1607. James-Town, in Virginia, was founded.

1609. New-York was discovered by Henry Hudson.

1613. The Dutch erected a Fort near Albany and established a few trading houses at New-York, then New-Amsterdam, Manhattan Island.

1620. The Mayflower arrived at Plymouth; her crew commenced the first settlement in Massachusetts.

This year the Dutch first introduced slaves into Virginia.

1634. A settlement was made in Maryland by Lord Baltimore.

1635. The first settlement was made in Connecticut.

1664. New-York, then New-Amsterdam, was surrendered by the Dutch into the hands of the English.

1680. Carolina began to be permanently settled.

1681. A settlement was made in Pennsylvania by William Penn.

1720. Difficulties arose between the Representatives of the People and the Governor of New-England.

1721. Carolina was divided into North and South Carolina.

1733. The first settlement was made in Georgia. At this period the whole coast between New-Brunswick and Florida became settled with colonies, under the government of Great Britain.

1748. Delegates from seven of the Colonies met at Albany to hold a conference with the Indians.

1755. Braddock was defeated by the Indians. George Washington was his aid and took command after Braddock and others in command were slain.

1764. The British Parliament enacted a law imposing a duty on certain articles of merchandise. The Colonies denied the right, asserting that they had domestic governments, which they alone supported.

1765. The Stamp Act was passed by Great Britain. This led to a quarrel between the Colonies and the mother country.

1767. An affray took place between the British and Americans, in King-street, Boston, (now State-street,) in which four persons were killed and others wounded.

1773. The tea, sent from England, was thrown from the ships into the sea in Boston Harbor.

Soon after large bodies of troops were sent to subject the Colonies.

1774. The General Court of Massachusetts recommended a Continental Congress. It first assembled in 1775, in October.

1775. General Gage was Commander-in-Chief of the British forces in America.

This year the militia was fired at by the British at Lexington, Massachusetts, and a battle followed. A few months after, the Battle of Bunker Hill took place.

1775. Bills of credit, or paper money, were first authorized by Congress.

The population of the Colonies, at this time, about three millions.

1776. A written Constitution was adopted by New-Hampshire. It acknowledged no source of power but the People. This was the first adopted in the Colonies.

This same year Congress recommended the Colonies generally to adopt Constitutions.

1776. July 4. The Declaration of Independence was proclaimed by order of Congress.

1776. Dec.—A law was passed by the English Parliament, amounting to a declaration of war against the Colonies.

1777. Sept.—The battle of Stillwater was fought.

1777. Congress adopted articles of Confederation, which were subsequently ratified by the several States.

1778. The Independence of the United States was acknowledged by France.

1779. Up to this period one hundred and fifty millions of paper money had been issued by order of Congress.

Thirty dollars of paper was given for one of silver—people finally refused to take it.

1781. Cornwallis surrendered to Gen. Washington at Yorktown. The British naval force at this place was at the same time surrendered to Count De Grasse.

1782. Pacific overtures were made by Great Britain to the Colonies. John Adams of Massachusetts had been previously appointed on the part of the Colonies to treat with Great Britain; three others were now added to act with him. Preliminary articles were, in November of this year, agreed upon at Paris.

1783. December—a definitive Peace of Peace between Great Britain and the United States was signed.

1783. The Patriot Army was dissolved. In November of this year, the British troops left New-York.

"Independence and peace did not immediately produce all the advantages which had been anticipated by an ardent and sanguine people. The evils of war were protracted beyond its duration. Public and private debts bore heavily upon the people, restraining their enterprise and demanding all their resources."

For the N. Y. Tribune.

EVERY PERSON WHO WEARS A HAT CARRIES A GOOD LIFE PRESERVER.—If a hat is held by the brim with both hands, with the crown upward, in the water, so as to confine the air, it will answer well for a life preserver. A common hat holds nearly as much air as an ordinary life preserver, and by it even a heavy person may support himself a long time; and it has the advantage of being always at hand, for no one travels without one. Should the air by accident get out, and water get into the hat, it may be instantly emptied of the water and replenished with air by raising it. If a handkerchief is put over the hat, and the four corners tied together under the rim, then it will answer still more advantageously, for it can be held by one hand, and is less in danger of losing the air, while the other hand is free for other purposes. If the handkerchief be large enough, the arm may be slipped through up to the shoulder, by which means both hands would be left free. If no handkerchief, or any thing like it, is at hand, a piece of twine or any kind of string may be tied to the hat-band, at two, three, or four places around the hat, (the more the better,) passing down under the rim, and forming loops to be held by. Or the strings might be tied to the edge of the leather lining, which is to be drawn out for the purpose, whereby, also, a larger cavity may be made to answer for a time, in an emergency. Many kinds of ladies' hats, being impervious to air, might be used; they would be better than nothing. These, or any similar suggestions, should not induce any one to neglect taking a life preserver on a voyage; but as almost every man, woman and child wears a hat, a moment's recollection of these ideas, when danger threatens, may be the means of saving many lives.

THE ACT TO PROMOTE AGRICULTURE.—As the State Agricultural Society, the County Societies and the American Institute, are beginning to move under the act of last winter, it is important the public should know the law, especially those who intend to compete for the premiums which will be awarded under it. The following extract from the act shows the intent and object of the Legislature:

SECTION 3.—The New-York State Agricultural Society and the several County Agricultural Societies now formed or which shall be formed in this State during the continuance of this act, shall annually elect such and as many officers as they shall deem proper; and it shall be the duty of such officers annually, to regulate and award premiums on such articles, productions and improvements, as they may deem best calculated to promote the agricultural and household manufacturing interests of this State, having special reference to the best crops which are, or are likely to become, from the mode of raising the crop or stock, or the fabrication of the article thus offered, with the intention that the reward shall be given for the most convenient or profitable mode of competition, provided always that before any premium shall be delivered, the person claiming the same, or to whom the same may be awarded, shall deliver in writing to the President of the Society an accurate description of the process in preparing the soil, including the quantity and quality of manure applied, and in raising the crop, or feeding the animals, as may be; and also of the expense and product of the crop, or of increase in value of the animal, with the view of showing accurately the profit of cultivating the crop, or feeding or fattening the animal.

CHARACTER OF A TRUE CONSERVATIVE.—The true Conservative is faithful to God and his country. He regards the institutions of his country as designed, not for the aggrandizement of a party, but for the protection and benefit of all; he exalts in the blessings they have secured for their native land, and guards them as a sacred trust to Posterity. He condemns experimental legislation, which risks substantial blessings for shadows. He refuses to exchange practical systems for untried theories. He knows his rights as a member of a free State, and firmly maintains them. He knows his duty as a subject, and performs it cheerfully. He regards the poor and helpless, not as burdens upon the land, who have scarcely the right to live, except as they minister to the pride and convenience of the Rich, but as a sacred charge, to be protected and cherished. He has no ideas of Politics apart from Morals; of Morals not founded on Religion; of Religion not derived from Revelation. Conservative principles, in short, comprehend every duty to our neighbor, our country and our king, all with reference to God, as our Supreme Ruler and Judge. [English paper.]

GREENOUGH'S PATENT LAMP & CHEMICAL OIL.—This invention has been patented by the proprietor for the sale of Greenough's Patent Lamps and Chemical Oil, and have taken No. 111 Broadway, where they have now on hand a complete assortment of Lamps, for stores, shops, churches, factories, hotels, &c. &c. consisting of parlor, astral, study, Liverpool, mantle, side and branch lamps, &c. &c. This article has been used in many of our principal hotels and most respectable families, for upwards of two years with entire satisfaction, not a single instance having occurred during that period, wherein purchasers availed themselves of the agents' guarantee. Any one so disposed can be satisfied that a single burner will emit more light, at an expense of one cent per hour, than three ordinary burners, consuming sperm oil at an average expense of three cents each. Another, and not the least advantage from its use, is the simplicity of its construction and cleanliness of the chemical oil. It is warranted to be a far better and cheaper artificial light than any other now in use. Every lamp will be warranted, if not perfectly satisfactory, can be returned. Those about purchasing lamps would find it to their advantage to call at the store of the subscribers, where the different kinds may be seen in operation. Sold only by PEARSON & WHITMORE, No. 111 Broadway.
