Mr. Brougham's performances, at the Olympic Theater, drew together good audiences all last week.

"Columbus Reconstructed" keeps its place; but "The Fast Man" has been superseded by the late Fitz-James O'Brien's sparkling comedy of "A Gentleman From Ireland,"—a very well known piece, in which Mr. Brougham plays Fitzmeuriee in a very graceful and charming manner. As we mentioned, the other day, the occasional awkward working of the scenes at this theater, it is but just that we should mention the explanatory fact that the Olympic stage was constructed mainly with a view to dramae of the French school, which necessitate only a single set of scenery for each act—the changes being made while the curtain is down—and that peculiar features in this style of construction make it often impossible to change a scene smoothly in presence of the audience. The stage-management here, just now, is under the direction of Mr. Thomas E. Morris.

Mr. Fox and "Little Boy Blue" remain at Barnum's Museum. The pantomime has made a great it. It is very conic, as we have said; and we cordially tope that all the young people in town will be taken to ceit. There is, generally, a tendency to volgarize pantonimes; but this one, so far as we have observed, is not ullied in that way, and so we can commend it as a source of real pleasure to children, and of amusement to all.

"The Black Crook," at Niblo's Garden, will reacn its 320th representation this evening. It still reach its 320th representation this evening. It still attracts large audiences—though, if our observation be correct, the attendance is somewhat falling off. In the country cities the "Black Crook" distemper still prevails, and we learn that the rural managers are making arrangements to do a good business in calf next season. We heartily wish them the most disastrous failure. Shoud all the mercenary theatrical speculators in the country ride to grief on this form of Shanks's mare, it would be well for the stage, and most gratifying to all who respect the drama.

"Nobody's Daughter"-the new play, by Mr. Chandos Fulton and Mr. F. G. Maeder, based on Miss Chandos Fulion and Mr. F. G. Macder, oased changes, and the first time, at the New-York Theater. Miss Kate Reignolds will personate Jenny Milson, and Mr. J. K. Mortimer will enact the part of a detective officer named Larkspur. The admirers of Miss Braddon, and of melodrama, have thus an opportunity of pleasing their peculiar tests.

Julia Dean concluded her engagement at the Broadway Theater on Saturday evening. She will, however, appear there once more—to-morrow night—the occasion being that of the benefit of Mr. William A. Moore, the acting manager of this theater. Miss Lucille Western will likewise participate in the performance. To-night, Mr. J. H. Jack will take a benefit. We trust that the benefits may be benefits indeed. On the last four nights of this week the Broadway Theater will be closed. A novel drama is in rehearsal there, to be produced on the 5th of August. Julia Dean will play another engagement there next season, when she will essay some of the characters that have been made famous here, of late, by Madam Ristori. Broadway Theater on Saturday evening. At a Matinée, on Saturday last, at Banvard's new Museum, Miss Mary Scott appeared in farce, and made a very agreeable impression on her audience. Miss Scott evinces a merry temperament, and is a sprightly and graceful daucer; and there is reason to anticipate that experience will make her a good farce actress. A variety of entertainment will be offered at the Museum during the week, Matinees being given on Wednesday and

Messrs. Griffin & Christy have often heretofore illustrated

THE FOREIGN DRAMA. Mr. L. P. Barrett has made his first appearance, in London at the Surrey Theater, as Archibald Carlyle, in the drama of "East Lynne." The selection was the critics. Miss Heath played Lady Isabel.

A London paper says that a new theater, on the site of St. Martin's Hall, will be opened at Christmas; and it is asserted to be probable that Mr. Fechter will re-open the Lycoum for a short season, from September to Christmas; after which, it is rumored, that the theater will be under the management of Mr. Charles Dillon.

THE LABOR MOVEMENT.

CO-OPERATION. Prof. Devereux spoke upon "The Moral Aspects of Cooperation," yesterday afternoon, at John W. Farmer's Institute. He believed cooperation to be eminently the subject which should engross the attention of the workingmen of the nineteenth century; and America seemed to him the fairest field on the globe for successful cooperation. Workingmen everywhere in the civilized world had striven many years to elevate themselves socially and pecuniarily, and their combinations had until quite recently culminated in ill-advised, if not disastrous strikes—strikes such as in England, not long ago, prompted British capitalists to organize an investigating Committee, whose purpose it was to investigate solely with a view to finding facts that might be used against workingmen's organizations. If the British aristocracy's Committee had pursued the subject to the end, they would have found British capital instead of British labor responsible for the outrages at Sheffield. Happily, the workingmen of America are not impelled by want to the commission of crime, and thrice happily, American workingmen are beginning to see that their surest guaranty against such overreachings of capital as might is time reduce them to the deplorable condition of Britain's operatives, lies in cooperation. Prof. Deveroux having concluded, Dr. J. H. Griscom, responding to a call, tendered the workingmen of New-York a series of lectures upon hygiene and physiology, and the tender was gratefully accepted. After remarks by Messra, Robert Crowe, Rogers, and Hague, Mr. Crowe was, by unanimous vote, requested to deliver the next address upon Cooperation, at Farmer's Institute, at 2 o'clock next Sunday afternoon, and to that time the meeting adjourned.

But they contrived to be ay the requisite machinery, purchased their stock on the expensive to work in carnest, were generally shore and mdustrious, and today, after the lapse of about 20 years, they are workmen-capitalists, owning extensive 0 sampantactories, and a thriving villare thereto attached. The writers who have sought to fling cold water up on cooperative movements by predicting defaications and general mismanagement, have their answer in this flourishing manufactory, an institution which has cutlived mishaps, and whose stock is not for sale at anything like par value.

THE CAMP MEETING AT SING SING.

SING SING, July 28, 1866. The annual camp meeting of the Methodist Episcopal Church, which commenced here a week ago, continues to attract large numbers of persons to the banks of the Hudson at this point. By boat and rail and wagon, the faithful members of the Methodist congregations in this district, for many miles around, throng into the village to worship God in the time-honored grove on the "Hights," in obedience to the call of their Elders. To a certain extent the weather has been unfavorable for the due celbration of the Methodist service on such occasions. During the daytime a wet drizzle has prevalled, rendering the ground about the camp quite muddy, while the nights are cold and damp, and altogether disappointing to many of the dwellers in tents, who have assembled under the greenwood tree. Nothing, however, can damp the ardor of the true followers of Wesley, where "camp meeting" is concerned. Many of those at the present meeting have traveled long distances, at much personal inconvenience, to join in the proceedings, and they seem determined, by the force of example at least, that the full programme of the old camp gatherings shall be strictly adhered to, regardless of the weather.

The site of the camp, which is about a mile above the village of Sing Sing, has been most admirably selected. The tents are pitched on high grounds, affording their occupants a splendid view of the surrounding country, with the prospect of the beautiful river lying at their feet, while the clear outline of the blue Highland range stretches away in the distance. For the convenience of the temporary residents within the sacred precincts of the temporary wagon, the faithful members of the Methodist congregaions in this district, for many miles around, throng into do not choose to rest in the grove on the wet nights. The demand for lodgings is so great in consequence that it is not unfrequent to see ten or fifteen gentlemen "camping out" in one room. The camp itself is pretty well lighted at night with kerosen lamps, but the approaches to it are wrapped in the most impenetrable darkness, which gives rise to many amusing incidents—such as unexpected collisions between batches of visitors cagerly hurrying to their respective lodgings; unlucky stumbles into wet ditches and hopciess wanderings along the fields in quest of a domicile. A large detachment of the Metropolitan Police is on the ground to preserve order and afford information to the visitors in their devious windings through the camp. The United States flag floats over the tent forming the headquarters of "the force," and it is the only one displayed on the grounds.

For the past 40 years the grove has been used by the Methodist Elders as a camp ground for their congregations, and was very numerously attended for a long period, until about 15 years ago, when a gradual failing off in attendance was observed, and which continued up to the last four or five years, since which time the old interest in the camp meeting has revived to the fullest extent. The lay members of the Methodist Church in New-York and Brooklyn now gladly avail themselves of this seasonable retreat to seek rest from the tolls and anxieties of the great city. In order to have finer weather than generally comes in August, the meeting has been held this year a fortnight earlier than usual, but the change has not been blessed with the desired results. The change has not been attributed, in part, to the continued duliness of tyade in New-York, causing a larger attendance of the urban members; but it has caused considerable dissatisfaction among the rural brethren, who are called on to leave their farms at an unseasonable time. There is a marked absence of the farming classes, and it is thought the Elders will not be again induced to make so hazardous a

SUNDAY AT THE CAMP MEETING.

A very large gathering was anticipated to-day, but in consequence of the lowering aspect of the morning and the heavy showers that fell at latervals of a few hours, the attendance was not numerous, not more than about 4,000 persons being present. It is thought that the rumors which have been set afloat as to the probability of an on-slaught on the meeting by the "roughs" of New-York, have deterred many persons from coming. It appears that owing to the rioting on former occasions the Elders were obliged to hold the camp meetings on the week day's alone; but as this year they departed from this custom, it was feared that the wild spirits of the great city having an idle day on their hands, would use it for the purpose of an excursion to Sing Sing to disperse the assemblage. The ministers referred to the dunger in the course of their germons, and advised the people to remain perfectly quiet; and one of them publicly charged a certain journal with an effort to create an opinion in New-York that a riot was inevitable. However, all fears were dispelled, and all apprehensions set at rest, when it became known that the evil disposed had not arrived. Only a few arrests of suspicious characters were made. Doubtless the immunity from tunnit was owing to the judicious arrangements made by the police, who formed a cordon around the camp, and seemed quite prepared to deal with any emergency that might arise. It is satisfactory to know that the harmony of the proceedings was not marred by any disgraceful attempt similar to those of former years. As early as 5.a.m. the members were stirring in the camp, and now and then came the refrain of some sacred chant. Toward 6 o'clock the chorus was taken up throughout the camp. But it was not until 8 o'clock that the regular order of the ceremonies commenced. At that time the brethren partock of the Love Feast, which function was calculated to impress the observer which those exerings wer ALBANT, July 26, 1807.—I present you another little chapter upon "canal operations" that has a special bearing upon the Auditor's administration. The statements, from the sworn testimony of Ell T. Bangs, will probably be printed complete during the ensuing week.

Ell T. Bangs was called upon by an individual who desired him (Bangs) to assist in getting a claim of $20,000 through the Canal Board. Bangs was at that time a contractor. Bangs told him he would go down to Albany and see the Auditor, N. S. Benton; he accordingly went to Albany, and after an interview with Mr. Benton, telegraphed the individual for whom he was acting to come to Albany. Upon his arrival, Bangs bought the claim of him for $5,000. Bangs then went before the Canal Board, and was allowed by the Board $13,000—the Canal Commisarsisteracy's Committee had pursued the subject to the end, they would have found British capital instead of British labor responsible for the outrages at sheffield. Happily, the workingmen of America are not impelled by want to the commission of crine, and thrice happily, American workingmen are beginning to see that their surest guaranty against such overteachings of capital as might in time reduce them to the deplorable condition of British concluded. Dr. J. H. Griscom, responding to a call, tendered the workingmen of New-York a series of lectures upon hygien and physiology, and the tender was gratefully accepted. After remarks by Messrs. Robert Crowe. Rogers, and Hagne, Mr. Crowe was, by unanimous vote, requested to deliver the next address upon Coperation, at Farmer's institute, at 3 o'clock next. In conversation with Bangs, he told him that this suit ought not to come to he trial; that the parties on the trial might get heated and excited, and transactions might be exposed which ought, never to come to hight. Bangs told him that so far as he side was concerned, he would not do anything to injure him (Benton), and Hugh Severans, who was interested for the Whalens, being a friend of Benton's, would take care of his (Benton's) interest on the other side. Bangs further said that the money was borrowed and ought to be paid, and he wend not settle. Benton stayed at Byracuse through the trial.

OUT-DOOR SPORTS. THE TURF.

OPENING OF THE SCHENECTADY DRIVING PARK. The quiet old city on the Mohawk has found a sensation in a Driving Park. Three years ago there was not a fast trotter in the place, but about that period year a Driving-Park Company was organized, and early this Spring a half-mile course was constructed on the hill south of the city, toward Rotterdam. The park is inclosed, furnished with seats and judges' stand, and will accommodate about 20,000 people. On Saturday last the formal opening took place. Three races were advertised, During the forenoon the sportsmen, with their fast stock, collected at the Carley House, which is made headquarters on such occasions, and at 2 p. m., quite a cavalcade set out for the Park, where a large crowd of spectators had already assembled. The first trial was a match race—a ten-mile trot for $500. The entries were: Nellie Gray, by M. Kelsey of Schenectady, and Carrie Sharp, by J. J. Mason of Gloversville. Nellie won the race; time, 33 minutes and 32 seconds. Carrie lost in 33:584. The second race was a mile heat trot, best three in five. Entries were John and True John. John won the first three heats; time, 2:51, 2:514, and 2:534. The third was a trot between two road-horses, and was of small interest. There are now fifteen fast horses in this place, valued at $12,000; two teams held at $3,700 each, and two at $3,000 each. year a Driving-Park Company was organized, and early TROTTING AT POUGHKEEPSIE.

FAILURE OF THE ATLANTIC AND COLUMBIA MATCH-AN IMPROMPTU RACE WITH THE

The three-mile rowing match between the Columbia Boat Club of this city and the Atlantics of Hoboken, announced for Saturday off | the Elysian Fielddid not take place. Both crews were present with their boats at the appointed time, but a difficulty arose because did not take place. Both crews were present with their boats at the appointed time, but a difficulty arose because the Experiment—the boat owned by the Atlantics appeared with a water-proof covering. The Columbians claimed that this was not in accordance with the terms of the match, and the judges deciding that the covering should be removed, or the Experiment be ruled out, the Atlantics dipped their oars and returned home. There was a large crowd present, and much disappointment was manifested when it became known that the match was "off." At the request of the Columbias a picked crew of the Gulick Club, who were present in their long boat, took the place vacated by the Atlantics. As the Gulick had had no training in anticipation of a race, and their opponents had undergone a thorough course, they had but little expectation of winning the impromptu match. The race was for three miles, a mile-and-a-half to the stake-boat and return. At about four o'clock the boats pulled into position, and the signal being given were off at a rapid rate of speed, the Gulicks taking the lead, but only holding it for a short distance. A party of the Atlantia Boat Club joined the rivals and showed clean heels to both parties until opposite the north point of the flats above the Weelnawken dock, where they stopped, and slowly pulled down the river. At this time the Columbias were at least four lengths ahead, and soon after turned the stake boat, in eleven minutes and a quarter, six lengths in advance—time 23:15. Both crews were loudly cheered as they came in. The Judges of the race were Mr. Wallace, of the Hadson, and Mr. Heury Amalong, of the Palisade Club. Referee, Mr. J. Jennings, of the Palisade Club. The following composed the Columbia crew: J. A. Hutchison (bow), J. Meredith, P. McIndoe, Wm. Seliker, Theodore Van Raden, H. R. Rough stroke; coxswain, C. Tate. Peter Realy was charged, before Justice Dodge of the Jefferson Market Police Court, on Saturday, with obtaining $16 from Peter Sheridan by means of the confidence game. Sheridan, being a stranger in town, applied to the prisoner to obtain for him a berth on one of the European steamers, and for that purpose he gave him the money, with which the latter decamped. The prisoner was committed to answer.

Yesterday, Ann O'Hara and Margaret Mc-Ginnis, domestics, employed at the Eric Hotel in Washington-st., quarreled about some trivial matter, and during the war of words Ann threw a knife at her opponent, striking her upon the nose, and causing a severe wound. For this act she was arrested, and Acting-Magistrate Alderman Coman committed her to the Tombs in default of ball.

A negro giving the name of Charles Evans was brought before Justice Dodge, at the Jefferson Market Police Court, on Saturday, charged with having, at an early hour on the same morning, entered the dwelling of Mr. John S. Blatchford, No. 20 West Twelfth-st., by breaking the glass in the front door and drawing back the bolt, with intent of stealing a quantity of wearing apparel. His movements attracted the attention of some of the immates of the house, and he was secured. Justice Dodge committed him for trial.

The funeral ceremonies of the Rev. Father The funeral ceremonies of the Rev. Father Leiz, who suddenly fell dead in the streets of Newark during the past week, took place from St. Mary's Church, on Friday morning, over 20 elergymen being in attendance. The office of the dead was said, and a solemn requirem mass offered. A discourse was afterward delivered by the Rev. Father Halpman of Williamsburg. The remains were accompanied to the grave by a military company, three Irish benevolent societies, the clergy, and a large concourse of friends of the deceased.

Immediately after, he felt a tug at his pocket, and then found his watch and chain gone. Subsequently he was informed that Hyne had taken them. The prisoner was committed to answer.

A pleasant party from this city celebrated on A pleasant party from this city celebrated on Saturday the opening of the "Bay View House" at Canarsie, on Jamaica Bay. This house is now being put in complete order by Mr. A. D. Failing, who promises to have one of the most healthy and cheer'al family houses which can be found upon the coast. Excellent bathing and exciting blue fishing are to be had in the still waters of Jamaica Bay, while a small steamer keeps up frequent communication with Rockaway, where the surf-bathing is superb. To reach Canarsie, take the horse-cars to East New-York, and thence by the open cars of the Brooklyn and Rockaway Beach Railroad, for all of which an hour and a half will suffice.

On the first of May last, a quantity of diamonds and lewelry, valued at $5.600, was stolen from the residence of George P. Knapp. No. 6 West Twenty-eighth-st., and although persistent efforts had been made to discover the authors of the robbery, no clue had been obtained until Wednesday last, when a quantity of jewelry, afterward identified as part of the missing property, was offered for sale by a man named Daniel McNulty, who was remembered as having been a visitor of Ann Hessin, one of the servants of the house. McNulty was arrested, and on Saturday last committed by Justice Shandley to await an examination, which will probably result in furnishing some clue to what has hitherto been a profound mystery.

On Thursday last he went with his family to Sharon Springs, leaving his dwelling closed and the keys in charge of his brother in-law. Mr. Williams. The detective called on Mr. Schneider, and demanded admission to the residence. Being informed by Mr. S. that he had not the custody of his sentin-law's house, the detective announced his intention to force an ontance if the keys were not forthcoming. This threat brought about a surrender on the part of Mr. Williams, and the premises were occupied by Perry, and so remain to the present time. The character of the charges made against Mr. Benhenne are not yet definitely stated.

A CHARLOS DEATH CAUSED BY FEAR.—On Saturday night a report became current that a boy named Walter Jackson, 9 years of age, son of Andrew Jackson, a very respectable edizen residing in Newarksk, Hindson City, had been killed by his father from a blow with a stick across the temple. Mr. Jackson was arrested and lodged in the jail, but subsequently was released on Suil to await the result of an investigation. Yesterday aftertenon Justice Aldridge held an Inquest, when it appeared in evidence that the boy was of an exceedingly nervous temperament; on Faturday afternoon, for something that he had flone. Mrs. Jackson threatened to report his conduct to its father, which she side on his return home in the evening. After ten, Mr. Jackson took the boy into a room up shalrs for correction, and took with him a switch; after going into the room, and before a blow had been struck, the boy, probably through excessive fear, was thrown into convanious and died in an hour. The jury, after bearing all the evidence in the case, rendered reported of death from heart disease, and exconerated the parents from all blame.

THE RECENT YACHT ACCIDENT IN THE NORTH RIVER—PILOTS IN COURT—On Friday morning the steamhoat James W. Baldwin ran down the yacht Lady Kiernan, in the North River, as already reported. Twelve of the crew were picked up, but one man, Geo. McAlister, is missing, and is probably drowned. Capt. Petty of the Fifth Precinct, on the statements of the researed men, arrested the pilots of the Baldwin. Immediate application was made to bail them, and Capt. Petty took them before Judge Dowling. Judge Dowling declared he had no jurisdiction, and referred them to the Coroner. The Coroner had no jurisdiction until the body was found. Meanwhile it was reported that somebody, whether McAlister or some one else, had been picked up by a barge. None of the Police Justices having jurisdiction, and Capt. Petty's power being limited to arresting, the parties applied to the Supreme Court by habeas corpus. The facts being stated both by Capt. Petty and the counsel for the prisoners in almost the same language, the Court directed the prisoners to be balled in $5,000 each. Capt. Petty in person; Mr. McMahou for prisoners.

MURDER AT CORNWALL LANDING.

A woman named Mrs. Blake, a widow with wo children, occupying part of a small house near tha Plaster Mill, and within a stone's throw of Cornwalk Landing, was, on Wednesday night, found dead near the road side, within 400 or 500 feet of her own dwelling. From the stains of blood in the road, and between the road side, within 400 or 500 feet of her own dwelling. From the stains of blood in the road, and between the road and where the body was found, the conclusion is irresistible that the woman was murdered on the highway, and her body thrown down the bank and among the bushes where it was accidentally discovered. The only motive that the public can assign for the foul act is based, on the fact that the deceased was enceinte. This was established by the post-morten examination, and that the woman was about six months gone. It is believed that her seducer, to get rid of his responsibility in the matter, entired her from her home when she was about retiring for the night, and, having got her in his power, proceeded deliberately to execute his purpose. Her head, was literally pounded to pieces. From the wounds inflicted, it is inferred that the weapon used was either a club or a stone. On Friday night, Mr. Langford Brown, a citizen of Coruwall of highly respectable connections, his father (lately deceased) having been one of the wealthiest men in the place, was arrested for the murder. Brown, and been suspected by many from the first as being the principal, or in some way connected with the horrible tragedy. We know not what proof can be brought against him, further than he is known to have been a visitor at the house, and that Mrs. Blake was about causing his arrest for the support of the child of which she scon expected to be delivered. Langford has made himself notorious heretofore, having been connected, as principal, in at least two seduction cases previous to this affair at Cornwall Landing. In each of the two cases referred to, his innocence of the charges preferred against him. In one of these cases he was mulcted to the tune of $10,000, in the other, he had to provide for the maintenance of the children, the woman having twins.
