

AN ADMINISTRATION RALLY.

AN ELABORATE DEFENSE OF GEN. GRANT. SPEECHES OF JOSEPH P. CHOATE, GOV. JEWELL, AND GEN. THOS. H. VAN BUREN, AT COOPER INSTITUTE.

The assembly held at Cooper Institute last evening to rally the Grant State ticket was a large and an enthusiastic one, and had the names on the list for Vice-Presidents taken as a criterion of the character of the meeting, it might certainly have claimed to be of unusual respectability. Unfortunately, however, most of the gentlemen who were selected to impart dignity to the gathering, remained away. Thos. H. Van Buren, John A. Kennedy, Isaac H. Babcock, Hugh Hastings, the Rev. Wm. F. Butler, Senator Abbott of North Carolina, and Edward Pierrepont were among the interested spectators. The meeting was called to order by Mr. Cornell, the Chairman of the State Committee, who nominated for President Joseph P. Choate.

Mr. Choate's speech was more applauded probably than that of any other speaker, if laughter can be added as an indication. The personal appearance of Mr. Choate was a perfect deluge of wit from Mr. Choate, the main portion of whose address was devoted entirely to this unfortunate disqualification of the Presidential chair. Mr. Choate's moral character, Gov. Jewell's speech was very long, and was listened to throughout with intense interest. It was noticeable that the only expression of disapprobation in reference to Mr. Jewell was laughter, scarcely a single hissing being heard. The name of Charles Sumner elicited applause, instead of expressions of disapproval. Gov. Jewell spoke as follows:

SPEECH OF GOV. JEWELL.

I do not propose to apologize for the Republican party, its platform, its record, or its candidates. It is within the recollection of the youngest of us, when, where, and how this party was started. At its birth its principles were as simple as the equal and exact justice to all before the law. A party that could within the short space of 45 or 50 years achieve what this has done, that could turn the entire current of thought of the most progressive nation under the sun from its old channels of looking with at least some degree of toleration on the sin of human slavery, that could change the front of 60,000,000 of people, marching with the strength and rapidity with which we are moving, toward the highest possible civilization, an achievement so remarkable, so noble, so important, so great, that it has been the subject of the admiration of all eyes, and the envy of all hearts, and that it has accomplished, these still remains much to be done before it will have fulfilled its mission, and have completely carried out the idea of freedom which it set on foot. It is not until we have made the entire of our nation is completely free, and that we have secured the permanent and permanent position of our country, that we can say that we have achieved our mission. It is not until we have secured the permanent and permanent position of our country, that we can say that we have achieved our mission.

It is not until we have secured the permanent and permanent position of our country, that we can say that we have achieved our mission. It is not until we have secured the permanent and permanent position of our country, that we can say that we have achieved our mission. It is not until we have secured the permanent and permanent position of our country, that we can say that we have achieved our mission.

THE CHICAGO LAND SPECULATION.

Never before in any Presidential campaign has the private life and character of the candidates been assailed with such malignity and mendacity, as has that of the Republican candidates in the present canvass, by the men who propose to rise on the ruins of those they would crush, and whose sole watchword is to "beat Grant." The President appointed as Minister to Belgium an old friend of his, but who has latterly a resident of Chicago. The Chicago Tribune found a magnificent man's name in the fact that Mr. Jones had a magnificent tract of land to the President, and the consideration which the deed carried with it. The Tribune found a magnificent man's name in the fact that Mr. Jones had a magnificent tract of land to the President, and the consideration which the deed carried with it.

MURPHY'S COTTAGE AND THE COLORED CADET.

A large amount of the capital which has been contributed to the Democratic cause with which to be considered against the President, has been contributed by Mr. Murphy. The President appointed him Collector of the Port of New York, and the colored cadet, who was the subject of the President's indignation, was the son of a colored man who was the subject of the President's indignation.

GERMAN POLITICAL MEETINGS.

The Central Committee of the German Liberal Republican campaign organization, the German Liberal Republican Association, held a meeting at the Germania Assembly Rooms, last night, for the purpose of making the final arrangements for the Greeley and Brown demonstration to-morrow. The Executive Committee reported that the resolutions adopted by the Central organization had been submitted to the Syracuse Convention had been duly presented, and that the principles had been, in substance, adopted.

DRAMATIC NOTES.

Mr. J. W. Wallack's engagement at Booth's Theater will terminate with this week. The few remaining opportunities of seeing this actor as Macbeth, in "The Merchant of Venice," and Richard III. in "The Merry Wives of Windsor," will be his last. Mr. Wallack will appear at Booth's Theater next Monday, the 16th inst., in "Arabian Nights."

THE BALLAD-SINGER OF MISS LILLIAN HYLTON.

The ballad-singer of Miss Lillian Hylton has attracted a large audience at the Grand Opera House, and has been successful in her efforts to raise money for the relief of the sufferers from the late war. Her songs are well received, and her performance is highly appreciated.

THE CUBAN REVOLUTION.

ITS PRESENT PROSPECTS—REVIEW OF THE MILITARY POSITION—CUBAN MODE OF COMBAT. (FROM AN OCCASIONAL CORRESPONDENT OF THE TRIBUNE.)

HAVANA, Sept. 1.—The revolutionary forces in Cuba amount in the aggregate to 150,000 men. Half of the number are well armed; the rest are provided with what they have picked up, the majority of firearms having been captured from the enemy. The morale of these forces is fair, and, as to devotion and daring, there is nothing to wish for. They are orderly and humane after the heat of battle is over, granting quarter to hundreds of Spaniards who are in the field, wounded, or captured. The whole army is divided into four divisions. One of these, numbering 5,000, operates in the Counties of Manzanillo and Canto, under Gen. Calixto Garcia, ably seconded by Maceo, Prado, Borrero, and Perez. Lately a party of this force, under Col. Cromb, surprised and captured, after a lively skirmish, a train conveying provisions and ammunition, under the escort of 150 infantry and 50 cavalry. One-third of these troops were wounded, and the remainder dispersed. A few days after this exploit, which took place on the 10th of August, at Brazo Canto, another party, smaller in point of numbers and materiel, was surprised and captured near Ciego de Avila. Subsequently, a party under Capt. Sotomayor made an attack on an entrenched camp of the enemy, on Brazo Canto, and though the Cubans achieved a partial success, holding the village for a few hours, they failed to carry the breastworks, and were compelled to retire. Col. Guevara, with 200 men, came upon a strong foraging party of volunteers, 150 in number, with cattle. He dispersed them, capturing 15 prisoners, 20 rifles, and some ammunition, recovering nearly 100 head of cattle.

The main column, under the General commanding, had an encounter with about 400 of the enemy on the banks of the Rio Canto, and, after a battle lasting three hours, Garcia succeeded in driving the enemy of the field, with a loss to the latter of 115 dead, 124 rifles, and 5,000 rounds of ammunition. The Cubans lost a brave officer, Col. C. Sanchez, who was killed and wounded. President Cespedes, with his staff, was upon the field, his presence inspiring the patriots with a determination to die or conquer. A party of the escort of President Cespedes participated in the glories of the day. The country of Holguin, but it has not been recently established at one of the adjacent cities owing to the great lack of ammunition felt in all the forces in the field. There was a seat to be fixed, the enemy would in a short time concentrate 10,000 men of all arms, with a surplus of war materials; and although the patriots could oppose adequate forces to defend the approaches, they would lack the ammunition to hold any position for an indefinite period. We are, they confess, an adequate supply for a campaign of six months, as all that is required is a forward and steady movement westward, and the destruction of the great sugar centers, from which the enemy draws the money that enables it to protract a conflict, whose progress they are utterly unable to check.

The forces under Modesto Diaz, one of the most daring of Cuban generals, had an encounter with the enemy near Manzanillo. The enemy retreated, and was followed for a distance of 100 miles, and was completely routed. The forces of the patriots, who were accompanied by a large number of volunteers, were victorious, and captured a large amount of war materials, including 1,000 rifles, 5,000 rounds of ammunition, and a large quantity of provisions. The Cubans lost a brave officer, Col. C. Sanchez, who was killed and wounded.

The simultaneous discovery by all the Grand papers of a "hall" in the Liberal movement remains one of the most interesting of the day. The discovery of a "hall" in the Liberal movement remains one of the most interesting of the day. The discovery of a "hall" in the Liberal movement remains one of the most interesting of the day.

SENATOR SUMNER'S DEPARTURE.

The condition of his health is his confidence in Greeley's election. Senator Sumner's departure for Europe does not half tell the story. There was a painful shock at the knowledge of his occasion and the doubt that he would ever return. His departure is a great loss to the Liberal Republican cause, and his absence will be a great disadvantage to the party.

THE VERMONT FOUR.

THE VERMONT FOUR. FULL RETURNS FROM ALL BUT FOUR TOWNS. 1868. 1869. 1870. 1871. 1872. The four towns remaining to be heard from east in 1872 are: St. Albans, Ferrisburgh, and Vergennes. The returns from the other towns show a general increase in population and wealth, and a decrease in the number of slaves.

SPIRIT OF THE PRESS.

Grant is the efficacy of pap. Fourteen and a half columns of Government advertising brag the Tribune. The Tribune is a powerful organ, and its support of Grant is a great advantage to the Liberal Republican cause.

The souls of tax-payers are harrowed up by the Liberal movement. The Liberal movement is a powerful and eloquent address, and it is a great honor to the Liberal Republican cause.

Occasionally an organ has sense enough to see that personal abuse of Mr. Greeley will have little influence except to disgust sensible people.

POLITICAL MISCELLANY.

At Mr. Longfellow's house in Nahant, and more recently at another attack in Boston. His physicians, Dr. Bowditch and another, and his medical friend Dr. Howe, were urgent in their advice that he should give up the campaign, but he refused to do so.

When I last saw our Senator he had given up the thought of speaking in the Senate. He had a great deal to say about the Liberal movement, and he was very eloquent in his address. He was a powerful and eloquent speaker, and his address was a great honor to the Liberal Republican cause.

The Astor House headquarters were throgged, yesterday, by a large number of people. The room was filled with people, and the meeting was a great success. The Liberal Republican cause is a powerful and eloquent address, and it is a great honor to the Liberal Republican cause.

BRUTALITY ILLUSTRATED.

Christopher Eaton, age 18, white, of No. 230 East Thirty-third-st., was shot and seriously wounded, on Tuesday night, by John Henry Bowles, age 21, colored, of the sloop Athos, at the foot of Thirty-seventh-st., East River. Bowles was lying on deck, when several boys, including Eaton, as alleged, threw stones at him. Bowles warned them to desist, but they continued to annoy him, and he then armed himself with an old army musket, heavily loaded with buckshot. As he emerged from the cabin he was struck by stones thrown by the boys, and, becoming exasperated, he discharged the weapon. Five of the buckshot struck the fifth grade term's neck, and severely wounded his white. One of the shots in the neck lodged in the spine, and produced paralysis of the entire body below the wound. His recovery is deemed uncertain. He avers that he was not with the boys who attacked Bowles, and that he was quietly sitting upon the pier when shot. Bowles admits the shooting, but pleads justification. He is locked up until the result of the injuries.

FORESTER IN COURT. EXAMINATION OF THE ALLEGED NATHAN MURDERER POSITIONED—A WRIT OF HABEAS CORPUS ISSUED. Forester, the alleged Nathan murderer, was taken before Justice Dowling, at the Tombs, yesterday afternoon, for examination. He was in the custody of Capt. Irving and handcuffed. The first impression upon seeing this man of many escapes is not an unfavorable one. He is rather below the medium stature, is nervously built, with small, sharp-pointed ears. His complexion is dark, and the face thin, with high cheekbones, and a peculiar look about the mouth, which, combined with the expression of his brown eyes, gives him a hunted appearance of being that he certainly has been, a hunted man. He was dressed in a thin, grayish coat of tweed, with dark blue vest and light, striped pants of fashionable cut, although his general appearance was by no means stylish.

Judge Dowling addressed him as follows: "You stand charged here with having committed burglary in the City of New York, and taking the life of Benjamin Nathan, in August, 1870. What do you say, Forester?" Mr. Howe touched the prisoner, in whose behalf he is acting, lightly on the shoulder, and responded for him: "He says nothing. I am innocent, and I am ready to prove it to the charge an empty name. My Honor may be ready, before this or any other tribunal."

District Attorney Garvin suggested a week hence, which Judge Dowling assented, putting the case over until next Wednesday, at 11 a. m., and remanding the prisoner until that time to Police Headquarters, in the City of New York. Judge Dowling stated that he was not to visit him there.

EDUCATIONAL MATTERS.

The Special Committee of the Board of Public Instruction appointed to make certain changes in the duties of Assistant Superintendents met yesterday forenoon, to review its recent report. It was referred back to the next meeting of the Board, on the 19th inst., at the request of John Jasper, Jr., late Principal of Grammar School No. 21 and of the Evening High School, and Arthur McMullin, late Principal of Grammar School No. 24, as additional Superintendents. Hitherto the allotment of duties of assistants has been made by the City Superintendent, but by a resolution of the Board on July 24, the specific duties are to be hereafter designated by the Board itself. The Committee, after long deliberation, yesterday determined to adopt the following report, which will be submitted to the Board on the 19th inst. The allotment of the two higher grades of the Grammar Schools to Assistant Harrison; the six lower grades of the Grammar and the three higher grades of the Primary Schools to Assistants Fanning, Jasper, and McMullin, and the three lower Primary grades to Assistants Calkins and Jones.

On the appointment of the new assistants, whose salaries were fixed at $3,000 per annum, a motion was made to increase their salaries to $4,000 each. This was followed by amendments for an increase of $1,000 for the City Superintendent, and for the whole staff of assistants. The City Superintendent's salary was fixed at $10,000, and the salary of the Assistant Superintendent at $4,000.
