MEMOIR OF NORMAN MACLEOD. By Mrs. M. M. Macleod. 2 vols. 12mo. Pp. 362, 402. Scribner, Armstrong & Co.

The portrait which forms the frontispiece of these volumes indicates a character of marked and strong individuality, an exuberance of animal life, and a natural temperament of equal gaiety and force.

After the usual course in the parish school, he entered the University of Glasgow, where he maintained a respectable standing as a scholar, but did not gain any special distinction in the peculiar studies of the classes.

From this time his course was one of incessant and increasing activity in the work of the ministry and the service of the church. His preaching was, in the highest degree, both popular and effective, commanding the attention and sympathy of the cultivated classes, and producing a powerful impression on the ignorant and unlearned among his hearers.
