THE EADS SHIP RAILWAY SCHEME BROUGHT UP IN THE SENATE. WASHINGTON, Feb. 5 .- The bill to incorporate the Atlantic and Pacific Ship Railway Company (the Eads Tehuantepec bill) was taken up by the Senate to.

Atlantic and Pacific Ship Railway Company (the Eads Tehuantopee bill) was taken up by the Senate to. day as a special order. Mr. Morgan in an argument in support of the bill declared himself in favor of a policy (likethat embodied in the resolutions reported Same years ago by Senator Eaton of Connecticut, from the Committee on Foreign Relations) that whatever transit there might be across the Isthmas should be under the control of the United States Government, either absolutely and independently or in connection with the Government through whose territory it passes. As to the Pauama Canal, he thought that the United States Government had been a little dereliet in not intormin, France (if France was the power behind the canal builders) that this Government had an interest in that question, predominant over that or any other government in the world; and that certain guarantees were necessary to be given in relation to the transit of ships through that canal which would entirely satisfy the people of the United States that in peace and in war, their interests in connection with that transit were to be absolutely preserved and protected. He had read this morning a letter from a Nav.d officer stating that several large war vessels of England and France were lying in the neighborhood of the mouth of the Panama Canal, ostensibly for the purpose of transferring crews by the Panama Railroad between their Atlantic and Pacific squadrons. He did not interpret their presence there as being any sort of threat; but he did interpret it as a sign that both of those governments were on the lookout for their interests in that quarter.

This letter, continued the Senator, confirmed a belief which he had had for a long time that the islands which lay so conveniently near to the mouth of the Panama Canal would be taken possession of, and fortified, by one of those great powers, which one he was not prepared to determine. It would be a race of diligence, he thought, as to which should get ahead. His own belief was that those governme River: together with articles, ornaments and coins col-The House bill to authorize the construction of a high agon and foot passenger bridge over the Mississippi River between East Dubuque, Ill., and Dubuque, Iowa, The conference report on the bill for a public building The Senate considered pension bills on the calendar. CRITICISMS OF THE NAVAL APPROPRIATIONS BILL

-WHO INSPIRED THESE CLAUSES?

Washington, Feb. 5 (Special).—Mumbers of the House, who have carefully examined the Naval Appropriations bill as reported by the committee, have been surprised to discover that the committee virtually proposes to make a lump appropriation of an indefinite sum-amounting from $13,000,000 to $18,000,000-which the Secretary of the Navy may expend about as he pleases. This au-

The secretary of the Navy is hereby authorized to make such transfers of the appropriations made by this act from one bureau to another as may become necessary by reason of any change in existing law or by reason of any order by the Secretary transferring authority from one bureau to another; and the Secretary of the Navy is hereby authorized to transfer, by written order, any materials purchased for any bureau in the Navy Department to and for use in any other bureau.

gress was found open to abuses, and it was revoked by a Republican Congress. Later, and again by a Republican Congress, a law was passed requiring specific estimates for specific purposes and prohibiting the use of an appropriation for any purpose except that specified in the law. These reforms have been approved by the leaders of the Democratic party, and they have done more to induce economy of expenditure than all the investigating committees from Glover's down to the present time, and now the Committee on Naval Affairs proposes to everturn this well settled policy which has been long approved by honest and thoughtful legislators of both parties and to clothe the Secretary of the Navy with discretionary power over expenditures amounting to many parties and to clothe the Secretary of the Navy with dis-cretionary power over expenditures amounting to many millions of dollars. Why is this proposition made! Did it enamate from Mr. Whitney! If so, why! In another part of the bill the Secretary of the Navy is authorized to expend not to exceed $1,100,000 for the timber dry docks—"to be located at such navy yards as the Secretary of the Navy may indicate." Has not the Secretary made up his mind as to where the dry docks should be buint! If not it seems almost premature to make the appropriation for them. At any rate Congress ought to have some voice in the matter. Secretary Whitney might "Indicate" the Pensacola and Ports-mouth yards it be chose, under the authority which the committee proposes to grant.

Washington, Feb. 5 (Special).—The bill appropriating $181,000 for the payment of "Fourth of July" claims passed the House to-day after some debate. An effort was made to protect the poor claim agents who charge the claimants from one-third to one half of the amount of their claims, but the House voted it down. There is beginning to be a suspicion that some statute of limitations ought to be applied to these claims, the law providing for their adjudication and settlement dates from

A speed of twenty knots an hour is guaranteed by the contractors. Lieutenant Zaliussy exhibited a photo-graph taken in the 1-5,000 part of a second repre-sentating a discharge of the dynamite run at Sandy Hook. The photograph discloses a curious cloud of condensed vapor issuing from the muzzle of the cun, corresponding in appearance to the smoke cloud resulting from a dis-charge of guapowder. In the course of his remarks Lieutenant Zaliusky stated that he was making some ex-periments that might prove of great value relative to the effect of an electric current on molten iron. Now, there may be a question whether his theory of the silver bullion law, and of the set of August 4, 1886, is correct or not, but I do not believe that he can be shown to have violated the law in such a way as to afford respectable ground and of the act of August 4, 1886, is correct or not, but I do not believe that he can be shown to have violated the law in such a way as to afford respectable ground for articles of impeachment."

"As to the allegation that the Secretary has been disrespectful to the House in the first part of his report," continued the Congressman, "I think the less said about that the better. The fact is that Mr. Weaver, who introduced the resolution of inquiry the Committee on Banking and Currency which approved it, and the House which adopted it, gave the Secretary a chance to be screastic and he improved the opportunity. The act of August 4, 1886, refers to "United States notes." The resolution of inquiry inadvertently used the words 'Treasury notes' instead of the words 'United States notes,' The Secretary knew well enough what was meant. In fact, a greenback is in one sense of the term a Treasury note, but according to the usage of the Treasury there is a technical difference between them. The Secretary chose to assume that the resolution meant literally what it said; accordingly he goes on selemnly through about six pages of his answer to show that he has no authority to issue 'Treasury notes' of any denomination, large or small.

"The screasm was a parently too ponderous to be appreciated even by the newspaper press. I got my copy of 'The Chicago Times' this morning. It contains a long editorial on the subject. The Editor refers to the statement of the Secretary that he has no authority to issue Treasury notes, and says seriously that this statement will surprise Congressmen and many other people too. If the Editor will read the report once more and take note of the technical difference between 'Treasury notes' and 'Unifed States notes' he will 'catch ou,' as boys say. The House and the committee can take the scream of the Secretary she he would catch ou, as boys say. The House and the committee can take the sarcasm of the Secretary she he have good-naturedly as the error which gave rise to it seems to have escaped the published were in every respect false and improper. The Judge further authorized a public contradiction of them. Mr. Porter added:

The company was originally the Edgar County Land Company, and was organized under a charter obtained from the Illinois Legislature in 1867. John C. Short and William P. Watson obtained possession of the charter and had all the stock made out in their names. They then came to New-York and gave the company its present name. About 1881 Joseph P. Hale, the piano manufacturer, became interested in the company and together with some of his Friends purchased from Short and Watson the najority of the capital stock, which had now been raised to $1,000,000. These gentlemen elected a new set of officers and directors in which Short and Watson were not included. Almost the first thing the new officers did was to put experts on the books of the company, which had been kept by Short and Watson Arter the report of the experts had been received the counsel of the directors advised them that if they recognized Short and Watson's stock as full-paid stock and paid dividends upon it they might be responsible to the other stockholders for any money thus paid.

CLOSING PRICES OF CALIFORNIA STOCKS. SAN FRANCISCO, Feb. 5, 1887.

rading three on every favorable opportunity. Small rallies intercepted the fall, but after each recovery prices went to a lower level. The field news was bearish but the main reason for the sales was the general disgust with the speculative situation. Final flurers were 22, centa below the opening and only 1's cents above the opening. The close was barely steady.

The range of prices and the total dealings at the Consolidated Exchange were as follows:

Opening. CLOSING PRICES OF PAILADELPHIA STOOKS.

SATURDAY, Feb. 5-P. M. One of the uncertainties which has hung over the Stock Exchange markets for more than a month is removed The President has signed the Interstate Commerce bill and it will go into effect on April 5. The response of the markets, both at home and abroad, was exactly what it was reasonable to anticipate. At our Stock Exchange the opening was at something higher figures than yesterday's closing. Some hesitation was apparent in the operations of board-room traders, and there was some disposition to regard the opening at higher figures as an enforced bluff to sustain the market against "adverse influences." But the steadiness of figures and the character of the buying soon dispelled any such illusions. The confident buying soon exerted its influence on board-room traders and cap ried dismay into the ranks of the the large "bear" following and all became buyers; the selling was principally by operators who have had the courage to pick up stocks in late raids upon values and were willing to accept such profits as the day's advances furnished. The day's trans actions were not large, aggregating only 378,661 shares. St. Paul was a leading feature; it opened at 88%, rose to 9014 and closed strong at 9014 after sales of 68,000 shares Erie rose 114 per cent with sales of 13,000 shares to put the price down 1½ per cent the other day required sales of 30,000 shares. Lake Shore was more active and establishes an advance of 2 per cent. Louisville and Nashville with moderate sales is up 12s. Union Pacific, which yesterday so freely sold (41,000 shares) down to 537,8547s. to-day rose to 561s on transactions in 24,000 shares. Philadelphia and Reading gained 4 per cent. Eich mond and West Folit ros. 114 to 45 and closed at 44 %. New-York and New-Eugland was dul and hardly stendy. Western Union rose 1 to 64 to 64 to 64
