

PREACHERS WORTH HEARING

DR. C. S. ROBINSON, OF THE MADISON AVENUE PRESBYTERIAN CHURCH.

SUCCESSFUL PASTORAGE OF A POPULAR HYMN-BOOK MAKER-NINE YEARS WITHOUT SALARY. The Rev. Dr. Charles S. Robinson, of the Madison Avenue Presbyterian Church, whom some have called the sweet singer of the American Zion, began a series of Sunday evening lectures last year at the church of the Exodus...

IN 1867 he finally he was compelled to leave the sea of Galilee. At this time Dr. Robinson was invited to the American Chapel in Paris, and established a church organization where there had only been a preaching station. He became pastor of the church and next two years he was away from Paris. While he was on his way to this country for a vacation a call to become the pastor of the American Chapel in Paris was received...

Several volumes of sermons have also been given to the public, including "Bethel and Pennel," "Short Sermons for Sunday School Teachers," "Short Studies in the New Testament," "The Sabbath Evening Service," and "A Follow-up of the Exodus." The familiar hymn, "I Follow on," which he wrote, is well known to all Christians. He has long been a constant contributor to religious publications.

Dr. Robinson has been to Egypt and the Holy Land, and the lectures which he is now delivering are made attractive by many personal experiences in the land of Isaac. In 1862 his first hymn and time book, "Songs for the Church," was issued. It was compiled for his own congregation, but soon found a rapid sale outside. Three years later he published "Songs for the Octavo Edition" which have been sold in large quantities.

A city pastor who is an ardent admirer of Dr. Robinson said in his yesterday's lecture that he had never known a man in his country who had done more for his people than Dr. Robinson. He is so full of work, that the sum of his greatness would place him above all his contemporaries. As a sermon maker he is widely known, and his sermons are presented to the public in this country. Faultlessly regular in structure and arrangement, his sermons are so well adapted to the needs of the people that they are always complete, yet never the same. He speaks with brilliant illustrations, yet never from a written manuscript.

Dr. Robinson last night discussed "The Golden Age for Egypt," the text being: "In that day there shall be an altar to the Lord in the midst of the desert." The sermon was of a substance as follows: In a previous lecture we have spent some time in showing you an irresistible power of Western civilization and civilization during the people away from Oriental habits and customs. At that time it was announced that some of the illustrations of the prophet's open announcement that evangelization would certainly follow in the wake of the sword of civilization. Now, we shall make that to be our theme on this occasion. Still it seems to me that I can best illustrate my point by referring to the golden age of the East. The religious life of the people in Egypt is easily discernible, so far as the people are concerned, in watching the demeanor and devotion of those who come to worship in the various mosques on Friday of each week, which is the day of their religious observance. These Mohammedan worshippers are all accessible to the labor and the prayer of the Christian missionaries. As a matter of fact, they are all accessible to the labor and the prayer of the Christian missionaries. AN OLD FRIEND OF THE DEAD PREACHER—DR. ROBERT BERRY. The Rev. Charles A. Berry, of the Queen Street Congregational Church in Waterbury, Conn., preached a sermon on the death of the late Dr. Robinson. He addressed a large audience at the morning service. He said in part: I served the nation for fifteen years with all possible fidelity, assiduity and capacity as a soldier, and I think I have never known a more successful soldier than I have. THE SUNDAY TRIBUNE. Correspondence in yesterday's issue of The Sunday Tribune included a San Francisco letter about the German intrigues in Samoa. A Washington letter about the President's journey and other to-day, and a Paris letter about fall fashions for women. Literary reviews considered Mr. Howell's "Modern Indian Poets," three new American novels, and half a score of minor volumes of verse. There were reviews of the work in art, theatrical, social, military and baseball circles; personal chat with and about prominent men; building operations in Harlem; "Crisis Anecdotes; The Mind Cure; Woman's Dress; Mrs. Toovey's Red Book," a love story; poetry, sketches, and numerous other features, besides the news of the day, of which there were the leading topics:

FOREIGN.—General Ferron, French Minister of War, announced that the Government had decided to send a military expedition to the island of Madagascar. The expedition is expected to depart in the next few days. The German press expressed condemnation of General Bonaparte's conduct in the recent military operations in Africa. THE DEBATE ON PENSIONS.

LETTERS FROM OLD SOLDIERS.

THE BATTLE FOR A SERVICE PENSION NOT YET ENDED—A DISPOSITION TO HAVE THE MATTER BROUGHT BEFORE CONGRESS. Another installment of letters on Pensions from the old veterans is presented below. The columns of this paper remain open to those who wish to communicate freely with their comrades in different parts of the country on this subject in hand. Veterans may rest assured that the great body of private soldiers can express their wishes freely here, no matter whether those wishes are fully heard in National Encampments or not.

"AVERSION TO HONEST WORK." A PUNJENT AND MERITED REPLY TO AN OPPONENT OF PENSIONS. Owosso, Mich., Oct. 7.—The recent articles in The Tribune, Michigan, relative to the circulation of that organ in the South, but it is to be hoped that that paper will receive a merited rebuke. THE PETROLEUM MARKET. NEWS FROM THE FIELD AND RANGE OF PRICES. The Standard Oil Company, as shown by the complete reports of all pipe lines made public last week, was not equal to the expectations that the bulls had entertained. There was an excess of deliveries over runs of 47,000 barrels, but the net amount of merchantable stock held by all the pipe lines was 1,200,000 barrels, or 27,000 barrels in excess of the requirements of the market.

THE REV. SAM SMALL ON TEMPERANCE. HE THINKS THE ANTI-SUICIDARY LAW PLANK OF THE PARTY—TWO COLD-WATER MEETINGS. The Rev. Sam Small, the evangelist, was the chief speaker at the meeting of the American Temperance Union at Chickering Hall yesterday afternoon. He is a middle-aged man with a drooping mustache, a keen eye and a voice full of Georgia twang. The anti-suicidary plank of the party is a subject which he has been discussing for some time.

GENERAL BRAGG LEFT OUT IN THE COLD. MILWAUKEE, Wis., Sept. 16.—General Bragg, of this state, who was first commander of E. A. Brown Post, G. A. R., at the close of the war, was supporting him in his old age. He was first commander of E. A. Brown Post, G. A. R., at the close of the war, was supporting him in his old age.
