

12 AFFAIRS IN BROOKLYN.

WHAT THE PARKS COST LAST YEAR.

ANNUAL REPORT OF THE COMMISSIONERS—SOME INTERESTING STATISTICS.

The twenty-ninth annual report of the Department of Parks has just been issued in a neatly bound volume. It is illustrated with several excellent photographs. One of them presents a view from the Prospect Park, of the Twenty-sixth Ward, and the others scenes in Prospect Park. The report is the first one issued by Commissioners Brewer, Cross and Hayden, who were appointed last year to succeed the Commission of eight, and it appears on the name of President Brewer.

One amount expended for park purposes last year was $322,892.60, and a balance of $19,237.66 was maintained of the appropriation. This was outside of the $500,000 allowed by the Legislature of 1889 for new parks and prospects. Park improvements. Of the latter amount, $133,678 was paid out for the new Winthrop Park in Greenpoint. The sum of $2,647.50 had been paid out upon the contracts for Prospect Park improvements and $44,000 remained to be paid when the work was completed. The principal work done in Prospect Park included putting a portion of the drives in prime condition and the laying of 110,000 square feet of walk.

The number of accidents in the year was 200. The number of persons was 350, attended by 47,563 persons. 1,334 baseball games were played on the Parades Ground, 106 football games, 92 cricket games, and 132 croquet games. The number of visitors to the park in carriages is estimated at 5,929,522; on foot, 3,661,185; on horseback, 42,947; and in sleighs, 37,463. Visited the park on Sundays, the largest number on a single Sunday being 155,365.

A meeting of the Park Commissioners will be held at 2 p. m. today, and it is likely that some action will be taken in regard to privileges of artists in Prospect Park.

TO HONOR AN AGED CLERGYMAN.

FORMER PARISHIONERS WILL PRESENT A PURSE TO HIM ON HIS NINETEETH BIRTHDAY.

The nineteenth birthday of the Rev. Dr. F. A. Farley, former pastor of the Unitarian Church of the Saviour in Pierrepont-st., will occur on Wednesday of next week, and will be observed by his old parishioners and friends, although in deference to his wishes a proposed public service has been given up. He will be at home to those who desire to see him at No. 139 West-st., where he has moved, at 10 o'clock, and a purse will be presented to him by one of the officers of the church.

Dr. Farley was born in Boston at the close of the last century, June 25, 1800. He was graduated from Harvard in 1818. He then studied law, and was admitted to the bar when he came of age. In 1823 he was ordained to the Unitarian ministry in Providence, R. I. In 1841 he was called to the First Unitarian Congregational Church in Brooklyn, which had been formed a few years before. He remained there until 1852, when he was called to the First Unitarian Church in New York City, where he has since resided, taking an active interest in many public matters. His health is now somewhat feeble, but he has been the ablest minister in Brooklyn.

THE APPOINTMENT GIVES SATISFACTION.

General satisfaction was expressed among Republicans yesterday over the appointment of Captain George J. Collins as Postmaster, and he will have a large part in his efforts to improve the postal service. As soon as Postmaster Collins is confirmed and receives his commission he will file his bonds and will be ready to take charge of the office. It is likely that the day on which Postmaster Hendrix assumed office in 1889, the selection of Mr. Collins gives great pleasure to the veterans of the city.

BUYING A NEW BUILDING FOR YOUNG MEN.

The Bedford Branch of the Young Men's Christian Association has purchased a plot 80 by 100 feet, No. 420 Gates-ave., between Nostrand and Marcy aves. On it is a four-story brownstone house, twenty feet front. It is heated by steam and will admirably fill the wants of the association. A gymnasium 50 by 60 feet will immediately be erected at its side and will be left for a lecture hall of some size to be built in the future. The new branch will be opened as soon as the necessary alterations in the house can be made. The property is valued at $100,000. The purchase was made by a committee consisting of A. Alfred, Messrs. Hoople, Whitlock, Wilkinson, Foote, Seering, Reilly, Harmon, Wensley and Brown and the Rev. Irving Meredith.

ANOTHER ARMORY SITE OFFERED.

Supervisor at Large Kretschmar announced yesterday that another site had been offered for the new 14th Regiment armory. It is between Tenth and Eleventh aves., and is bounded by Tenth and Eleventh aves. and by 220th and 230th sts. The property is valued at $65,000. Dr. Kretschmar thinks it a little too far out of the way. He also objects to the entire block bounded by Fifteenth and sixteenth sts. and Eighth and Ninth aves., on the ground that the land is marshy. It is also too near the Home for the Aged. Dr. Kretschmar thinks that a plot 700 by 200 feet is too large. There are two other sites proposed, one between Tenth and Eleventh aves. and Fourth and Fifth aves., and the other between Eighth and Ninth aves. and the other between Eleventh and Twelfth aves. The Commission is not likely to meet until the latter part of next week.

A PICKPOCKET WENT WITH THE CHILDREN.

George Cornell, of No. 120 Leonard-st., was before Police Justice Goetting at the Lee Avenue Police Court yesterday, on a charge of picking pockets on board the steamer Sirius upon the excursion of All Souls' Unitarian Church and the Church of Our Father on Wednesday. One of the members of the party had a gold watch stolen on the way up the Sound, and the watch stolen, just off the island of Staten Island. The man, of No. 871 1/2 Broadway, was arrested on the spot. The watch was not found. It is believed that he had accomplished his work. He was held in $1,000 bonds to await examination.

MR. OAKLEY WANTS TO LEARN CHINESE.

Assistant United States District Attorney Oakley requested Commissioner Benedict to adjourn court yesterday that he might have an opportunity to learn to speak Chinese. The cause of his distress was an attempt to examine Ah Sing and Hop Lee, of No. 1,023 Broadway, for refusal to answer the questions of the United States Marshal, but all his attempts resulted only in smiles and more gibberish from the Celestials. He finally tired out and said "I don't know. I don't know." He was taken to the Tombs and held in $1,000 bonds for the day with the reply: "I don't know; we won't come here again. Good-bye."

THE FEDERAL CLUB GIVES A RECEPTION.

The Federal Club, one of the many Republican organizations in the neighborhood, held its first annual reception last night at the hall at Dodworth-st. and Broadway. The organization already has a position in the politics of its ward that puts it in the lead. The reception was a pleasing and successful affair, and many well-known Republicans attended. Addresses were made by Robert Nimmo, W. S. Joad, B. H. Hastings and others, in which active efforts for the success of Republican principles were urged.

NEWS OF A SMALL FIRE KILLS A WOMAN.

The one-story stable belonging to Joseph Williams, at No. 261 Manjer-st., took fire at about 4:30 p. m. yesterday and was totally destroyed. The fire was caused by a gas lamp which was covered by insurance. In the room was a horse belonging to Henry Harine, of No. 682 Grand-st. The horse was burned to death. He was valued at $200 and was not insured. When the news of the burning of the barn and the loss of the horse was brought to Mr. Harine's house, his wife, Mrs. Mary Harine, aged fifty-six years, was so shocked that she was taken with apoplexy. Ambulance surgeon Campbell was called, but was unable to revive her and she died in a short time.

ORGANIZING FOR TEMPERANCE WORK.

In response to a letter issued by a committee representing the Rev. Dr. F. A. Farley, a meeting of representatives of a number of the churches of the denomination met last evening in the chapel of the Nostrand Avenue Church to discuss methods for effective temperance and anti-liquor work. A. L. Felo called the body to order.

Advertisement for Royal Baking Powder, 'ABSOLUTELY PURE' and 'The United States Official Investigation'.

Of Baking Powders, recently made, under authority of Congress, by the Department of Agriculture, Washington, D. C., Shows the Royal Baking Powder superior to all others in strength, leavening power and general usefulness; a cream of tartar baking powder of the very highest quality.

The Royal Baking Powder is thus distinguished by the highest expert authority the leading Baking Powder of the world. See Gov't Rep., 1889.

DR. EDWARD MALONE BURIED.

The funeral of Dr. Edward Malone was held yesterday at the Roman Catholic Church of St. Peter and St. Paul, in Wythe-ave. Brief preliminary services were held at his home, No. 111 South Second-st., many clergymen took part. The Rev. Henry A. Gallagher, of St. Michael's, was celebrant; the Rev. Hugh B. Ward, of St. Peter and St. Paul's, deacon; the Rev. Eugene Donnelly, of St. Michael's, Flushing, sub-deacon; and the Rev. John Goubaud, master of ceremonies. The sermon was preached by the Rev. John Crimmins, of St. Teresa's. The pallbearers were James D. Leary, Thomas White, Captain John Egan, James C. Jones, R. B. O'Brien, Dr. John E. Richardson, Dr. James Watt, James S. Donovan, Charles A. O'Donnell, Thomas H. Preston, John Long, Edward J. O'Donnell, Dr. J. L. Mitchell, Treasurer, V. Stokes, The Irish Nationalist and Anti-Poverty Societies sent delegations. The burial was at Calvary Cemetery.

GATHERED ABOUT THE TOWN.

Returns from about half of the election districts have been forwarded to Washington, and the remainder will probably be ready for transmission today.

The suit of Thomas C. Adams against Eleazer Jackson was tried yesterday in the Circuit Court, before Judge Pratt and a jury. The case was a demand for $5,000 damages for having been called a "hog" and a "dumb dog" and a "low-down fellow." The jury gave a verdict for the plaintiff, with 6 cents damages.

The Beecher Memorial Church, of which the Rev. S. B. Halliday is pastor, obtained permission of the Supreme Court yesterday to mortgage real estate for $20,000, to be used in the completion of its new church.

The funeral of Duncan Littlejohn, who died at No. 500 Henry-st., on Monday, was held yesterday afternoon at the Unitarian Church of the Saviour in Pierrepont-st., the Rev. J. P. Price officiating. The burial was at Calvary.

The changing of the street-railroad tracks crossing the Prospect Park Plaza will be completed by July 1, and work on the foundations of the Memorial Arch will be resumed.

The new management of the Union Ferry Company dismissed Superintendent Charles Smith and Assistant Superintendent Hazard without cause, and they threatened legal proceedings, which have been settled by a payment of $1,000 to Mr. Smith and $250 to Mr. Hazard.

The petition of Andrew Henry to open the probate of the will of his father, Peter Henry, on the ground of undue influence and the allegation that his father's first wife was living when he married the woman to whom he left his money, was dismissed yesterday.

About yesterday, a contractor was ordered yesterday on the building at Fulton-st. and the Kalk-ave., to force the union instead of 25. Mr. Morris desires to join the union, but not at special rates.

The annual excursion of the Brooklyn Tabernacle Society will be made to Watkins Glen and Niagara Falls, on July 2, 3, 4 and 5.

TO INVESTIGATE THE EXPLOSIONS.

THE STATE SENATE COMMITTEE ON GENERAL LAWS WILL BE CALLED TOGETHER.

State Senator George Z. Erwin, the chairman of the General Laws Committee of the Senate, which is still conducting an investigation into the subject of the underground lines of gas, electric light wires and gas mains, was seen by a Tribune reporter yesterday. "It was not my intention," he said, "to call a meeting of the General Laws Committee before September 1, as most of us had much work to do at the close of the last session of the senate and were pretty well tired out at that time. But the recent explosion in the subway in Broadway has been brought to my attention, both through the newspapers and in correspondence, and if it is possible, the investigation into gas and electric lines, which has been going on for some time, followed in putting down wires, gas and steam pipes will be conducted thoroughly and a number of competent engineers will be asked to testify to the best methods to be pursued to control this work."

All the officials who are connected with the city government, who have been before this committee, have testified that there was no intention of regulating the crowding of the streets with pipes, on that any and all kinds of pipes and cables, on that account I introduced a bill at the last session providing for a State Commission, aided by the local authorities, to control the streets in so far as the electric light wires are concerned. That bill failed to pass, but early in the next session I shall introduce and push it, together with a measure intended to control both the gas and steam pipes, and to regulate the pipes underground and the bill to give this will be introduced early in the session."

On being asked yesterday about the number of accidents caused by the pipes of the New York Steam Company, W. C. Andrews, the president of the company, gave a Tribune reporter the following statement: "The accidents caused by various public-service agencies in New York for the year 1889: Killed by the hot cars, sixty-four; killed by wagons, fifty; killed by falling pipes, twenty-five; killed by electric currents, fifty; killed by the New York Steam Company, none; and in eight years, none; and absolutely no injuries to the Tombs Police Court precinct, which has been in operation in the streets of this city."

The following is an official statement in regard to openings in the streets: New-York, June 5, 1890.

The following statement shows the number of openings made in the city's streets during 1889 by the various corporations:

Table with 2 columns: Corporation Name and Number of Openings. Includes Central Gas-Light Co., Edison Electric Light Co., Consolidated Gas, Consolidated Tel. and Electric Subway, and The New-York Steam Co.

REVISION OF THE CIVIL WAR VETERANS.

About forty veterans of the 24th Regiment, New-York State Volunteers, one of the two regiments raised largely through the efforts of Samuel J. Tilden, held their first reunion last night at the Tombs Police Court precinct, to mark the twenty-ninth anniversary of the departure of the regiment from this city for the front. General J. H. Hohart Ward, the first colonel, is president of the association.

Among those present were Captain F. D. Adams and Charles F. Morgan, vice-presidents of the association; A. E. Phillips, the secretary; Joseph B. Laughlin, the treasurer; Andrew Peck, Captain Hugh Dunbar, Robert J. Acker, Joseph Anderson, James H. Buxday, Eugene Carrell, William Henry, Oscar Holmes, Walter S. Kniffen and George S. Krewell.

CHARGED WITH THE LARCENY OF A STATUETTE.

Thomas McCarthy, a real estate agent, of No. 1,021 Madison-ave., was held in $5,000 bond to answer to a charge of the larceny of a statuette at the Tombs Police Court yesterday. During 1888, 1887 and 1888 McCarthy was a clerk of Pierre Stevens, a dealer in works of art at No. 341 Fifth-ave. In 1888 Stevens went to Europe, leaving McCarthy in charge of the store. McCarthy says that he was to receive half the proceeds of the business, and afterwards gave instruction to his representative to dispose of all his articles of fine art. The statuette was sold at low figures. Stevens returned to this city a few weeks ago and charged McCarthy with appropriating the proceeds of the sale of the statuette. He also says that McCarthy stole money amounting to $25,000.

NEWS FROM NEW-JERSEY.

JERSEY CITY. THE WITNESSES WANTED WAS ABSENT.

James McGreggor is missing. He was engaged by the lawyers retained by Mr. Perkins, who is contesting the election of Mayor Cleveland. McGreggor was one of those who canvassed the precincts which returned enormous majorities for Cleveland. He had given some testimony to show that the polls were full of fraudulent names and that he had been examined yesterday and named several names who had not been examined. He was suddenly on Wednesday and had not returned yesterday. His wife received a letter from him yesterday, saying he was not feeling well, and that he was all right. The report was retained yesterday. The Democratic lawyers successfully carried their objection methods and little progress was made.

WAR BREWING IN THE BOARD OF ALDERMEN.

There is a prospect of a lively fight in the Board of Aldermen between a Democrat, displeased with the methods of his party in the Board, and united with the Democrats by a trick declared the Board adjourned at the meeting a week ago, but the majority remained and transacted business. The committee appointed by the Democrats to investigate the proceedings of the Board of Aldermen is the only legally constituted committee. The Republicans will not consent to a clash with the Democrats, and will refuse to accept the authority to continue in business because they have a political pull.

NEWARK. EXCITING RIDE BEHIND A RUNAWAY HORSE.

A runaway accident occurred on the road between South Orange and Newark on Wednesday, in which a woman narrowly escaped death. Thomas Crane, of Newark, accompanied by his sick wife, was driving a horse and buggy through South Orange when the horse started to run. The driver stopped at a roadside hotel to have the horse watered. The hostler removed the horse from the water, and the horse started to run again. The horse's head, and then its body, started to run. The horse instantly started off on a run with Mr. Crane vainly tugging at the reins. The shouts of people frightened the animal and increased his pace. In a few moments the horse slackened his speed, and Mr. Crane made a desperate spring from the carriage in the hope of catching his head. In his jump he missed his footing and fell. Before he could regain his feet the animal was at the top of the hill and turned into an open lot, dragging the carriage with it. The horse started to run again, and the carriage was thrown into the air. The horse's head, and then its body, started to run. The horse instantly started off on a run with Mr. Crane vainly tugging at the reins. The shouts of people frightened the animal and increased his pace. In a few moments the horse slackened his speed, and Mr. Crane made a desperate spring from the carriage in the hope of catching his head. In his jump he missed his footing and fell. Before he could regain his feet the animal was at the top of the hill and turned into an open lot, dragging the carriage with it. The horse started to run again, and the carriage was thrown into the air. The horse's head, and then its body, started to run. The horse instantly started off on a run with Mr. Crane vainly tugging at the reins. The shouts of people frightened the animal and increased his pace. In a few moments the horse slackened his speed, and Mr. Crane made a desperate spring from the carriage in the hope of catching his head. In his jump he missed his footing and fell. Before he could regain his feet the animal was at the top of the hill and turned into an open lot, dragging the carriage with it. The horse started to run again, and the carriage was thrown into the air. The horse's head, and then its body, started to run. The horse instantly started off on a run with Mr. Crane vainly tugging at the reins. The shouts of people frightened the animal and increased his pace. In a few moments the horse slackened his speed, and Mr. Crane made a desperate spring from the carriage in the hope of catching his head. In his jump he missed his footing and fell. Before he could regain his feet the animal was at the top of the hill and turned into an open lot, dragging the carriage with it. The horse started to run again, and the carriage was thrown into the air. The horse's head, and then its body, started to run. The horse instantly started off on a run with Mr. Crane vainly tugging at the reins. The shouts of people frightened the animal and increased his pace. In a few moments the horse slackened his speed, and Mr. Crane made a desperate spring from the carriage in the hope of catching his head. In his jump he missed his footing and fell. Before he could regain his feet the animal was at the top of the hill and turned into an open lot, dragging the carriage with it. The horse started to run again, and the carriage was thrown into the air. The horse's head, and then its body, started to run. The horse instantly started off on a run with Mr. Crane vainly tugging at the reins. The shouts of people frightened the animal and increased his pace. In a few moments the horse slackened his speed, and Mr. Crane made a desperate spring from the carriage in the hope of catching his head. In his jump he missed his footing and fell. Before he could regain his feet the animal was at the top of the hill and turned into an open lot, dragging the carriage with it. The horse started to run again, and the carriage was thrown into the air. The horse's head, and then its body, started to run. The horse instantly started off on a run with Mr. Crane vainly tugging at the reins. The shouts of people frightened the animal and increased his pace. In a few moments the horse slackened his speed, and Mr. Crane made a desperate spring from the carriage in the hope of catching his head. In his jump he missed his footing and fell. Before he could regain his feet the animal was at the top of the hill and turned into an open lot, dragging the carriage with it. The horse started to run again, and the carriage was thrown into the air. The horse's head, and then its body, started to run. The horse instantly started off on a run with Mr. Crane vainly tugging at the reins. The shouts of people frightened the animal and increased his pace. In a few moments the horse slackened his speed, and Mr. Crane made a desperate spring from the carriage in the hope of catching his head. In his jump he missed his footing and fell. Before he could regain his feet the animal was at the top of the hill and turned into an open lot, dragging the carriage with it. The horse started to run again, and the carriage was thrown into the air. The horse's head, and then its body, started to run. The horse instantly started off on a run with Mr. Crane vainly tugging at the reins. The shouts of people frightened the animal and increased his pace. In a few moments the horse slackened his speed, and Mr. Crane made a desperate spring from the carriage in the hope of catching his head. In his jump he missed his footing and fell. Before he could regain his feet the animal was at the top of the hill and turned into an open lot, dragging the carriage with it. The horse started to run again, and the carriage was thrown into the air. The horse's head, and then its body, started to run. The horse instantly started off on a run with Mr. Crane vainly tugging at the reins. The shouts of people frightened the animal and increased his pace. In a few moments the horse slackened his speed, and Mr. Crane made a desperate spring from the carriage in the hope of catching his head. In his jump he missed his footing and fell. Before he could regain his feet the animal was at the top of the hill and turned into an open lot, dragging the carriage with it. The horse started to run again, and the carriage was thrown into the air. The horse's head, and then its body, started to run. The horse instantly started off on a run with Mr. Crane vainly tugging at the reins. The shouts of people frightened the animal and increased his pace. In a few moments the horse slackened his speed, and Mr. Crane made a desperate spring from the carriage in the hope of catching his head. In his jump he missed his footing and fell. Before he could regain his feet the animal was at the top of the hill and turned into an open lot, dragging the carriage with it. The horse started to run again, and the carriage was thrown into the air. The horse's head, and then its body, started to run. The horse instantly started off on a run with Mr. Crane vainly tugging at the reins. The shouts of people frightened the animal and increased his pace. In a few moments the horse slackened his speed, and Mr. Crane made a desperate spring from the carriage in the hope of catching his head. In his jump he missed his footing and fell. Before he could regain his feet the animal was at the top of the hill and turned into an open lot, dragging the carriage with it. The horse started to run again, and the carriage was thrown into the air. The horse's head, and then its body, started to run. The horse instantly started off on a run with Mr. Crane vainly tugging at the reins. The shouts of people frightened the animal and increased his pace. In a few moments the horse slackened his speed, and Mr. Crane made a desperate spring from the carriage in the hope of catching his head. In his jump he missed his footing and fell. Before he could regain his feet the animal was at the top of the hill and turned into an open lot, dragging the carriage with it. The horse started to run again, and the carriage was thrown into the air. The horse's head, and then its body, started to run. The horse instantly started off on a run with Mr. Crane vainly tugging at the reins. The shouts of people frightened the animal and increased his pace. In a few moments the horse slackened his speed, and Mr. Crane made a desperate spring from the carriage in the hope of catching his head. In his jump he missed his footing and fell. Before he could regain his feet the animal was at the top of the hill and turned into an open lot, dragging the carriage with it. The horse started to run again, and the carriage was thrown into the air. The horse's head, and then its body, started to run. The horse instantly started off on a run with Mr. Crane vainly tugging at the reins. The shouts of people frightened the animal and increased his pace. In a few moments the horse slackened his speed, and Mr. Crane made a desperate spring from the carriage in the hope of catching his head. In his jump he missed his footing and fell. Before he could regain his feet the animal was at the top of the hill and turned into an open lot, dragging the carriage with it. The horse started to run again, and the carriage was thrown into the air. The horse's head, and then its body, started to run. The horse instantly started off on a run with Mr. Crane vainly tugging at the reins. The shouts of people frightened the animal and increased his pace. In a few moments the horse slackened his speed, and Mr. Crane made a desperate spring from the carriage in the hope of catching his head. In his jump he missed his footing and fell. Before he could regain his feet the animal was at the top of the hill and turned into an open lot, dragging the carriage with it. The horse started to run again, and the carriage was thrown into the air. The horse's head, and then its body, started to run. The horse instantly started off on a run with Mr. Crane vainly tugging at the reins. The shouts of people frightened the animal and increased his pace. In a few moments the horse slackened his speed, and Mr. Crane made a desperate spring from the carriage in the hope of catching his head. In his jump he missed his footing and fell. Before he could regain his feet the animal was at the top of the hill and turned into an open lot, dragging the carriage with it. The horse started to run again, and the carriage was thrown into the air. The horse's head, and then its body, started to run. The horse instantly started off on a run with Mr. Crane vainly tugging at the reins. The shouts of people frightened the animal and increased his pace. In a few moments the horse slackened his speed, and Mr. Crane made a desperate spring from the carriage in the hope of catching his head. In his jump he missed his footing and fell. Before he could regain his feet the animal was at the top of the hill and turned into an open lot, dragging the carriage with it. The horse started to run again, and the carriage was thrown into the air. The horse's head, and then its body, started to run. The horse instantly started off on a run with Mr. Crane vainly tugging at the reins. The shouts of people frightened the animal and increased his pace. In a few moments the horse slackened his speed, and Mr. Crane made a desperate spring from the carriage in the hope of catching his head. In his jump he missed his footing and fell. Before he could regain his feet the animal was at the top of the hill and turned into an open lot, dragging the carriage with it. The horse started to run again, and the carriage was thrown into the air. The horse's head, and then its body, started to run. The horse instantly started off on a run with Mr. Crane vainly tugging at the reins. The shouts of people frightened the animal and increased his pace. In a few moments the horse slackened his speed, and Mr. Crane made a desperate spring from the carriage in the hope of catching his head. In his jump he missed his footing and fell. Before he could regain his feet the animal was at the top of the hill and turned into an open lot, dragging the carriage with it. The horse started to run again, and the carriage was thrown into the air. The horse's head, and then its body, started to run. The horse instantly started off on a run with Mr. Crane vainly tugging at the reins. The shouts of people frightened the animal and increased his pace. In a few moments the horse slackened his speed, and Mr. Crane made a desperate spring from the carriage in the hope of catching his head. In his jump he missed his footing and fell. Before he could regain his feet the animal was at the top of the hill and turned into an open lot, dragging the carriage with it. The horse started to run again, and the carriage was thrown into the air. The horse's head, and then its body, started to run. The horse instantly started off on a run with Mr. Crane vainly tugging at the reins. The shouts of people frightened the animal and increased his pace. In a few moments the horse slackened his speed, and Mr. Crane made a desperate spring from the carriage in the hope of catching his head. In his jump he missed his footing and fell. Before he could regain his feet the animal was at the top of the hill and turned into an open lot, dragging the carriage with it. The horse started to run again, and the carriage was thrown into the air. The horse's head, and then its body, started to run. The horse instantly started off on a run with Mr. Crane vainly tugging at the reins. The shouts of people frightened the animal and increased his pace. In a few moments the horse slackened his speed, and Mr. Crane made a desperate spring from the carriage in the hope of catching his head. In his jump he missed his footing and fell. Before he could regain his feet the animal was at the top of the hill and turned into an open lot, dragging the carriage with it. The horse started to run again, and the carriage was thrown into the air. The horse's head, and then its body, started to run. The horse instantly started off on a run with Mr. Crane vainly tugging at the reins. The shouts of people frightened the animal and increased his pace. In a few moments the horse slackened his speed, and Mr. Crane made a desperate spring from the carriage in the hope of catching his head. In his jump he missed his footing and fell. Before he could regain his feet the animal was at the top of the hill and turned into an open lot, dragging the carriage with it. The horse started to run again, and the carriage was thrown into the air. The horse's head, and then its body, started to run. The horse instantly started off on a run with Mr. Crane vainly tugging at the reins. The shouts of people frightened the animal and increased his pace. In a few moments the horse slackened his speed, and Mr. Crane made a desperate spring from the carriage in the hope of catching his head. In his jump he missed his footing and fell. Before he could regain his feet the animal was at the top of the hill and turned into an open lot, dragging the carriage with it. The horse started to run again, and the carriage was thrown into the air. The horse's head, and then its body, started to run. The horse instantly started off on a run with Mr. Crane vainly tugging at the reins. The shouts of people frightened the animal and increased his pace. In a few moments the horse slackened his speed, and Mr. Crane made a desperate spring from the carriage in the hope of catching his head. In his jump he missed his footing and fell. Before he could regain his feet the animal was at the top of the hill and turned into an open lot, dragging the carriage with it. The horse started to run again, and the carriage was thrown into the air. The horse's head, and then its body, started to run. The horse instantly started off on a run with Mr. Crane vainly tugging at the reins. The shouts of people frightened the animal and increased his pace. In a few moments the horse slackened his speed, and Mr. Crane made a desperate spring from the carriage in the hope of catching his head. In his jump he missed his footing and fell. Before he could regain his feet the animal was at the top of the hill and turned into an open lot, dragging the carriage with it. The horse started to run again, and the carriage was thrown into the air. The horse's head, and then its body, started to run. The horse instantly started off on a run with Mr. Crane vainly tugging at the reins. The shouts of people frightened the animal and increased his pace. In a few moments the horse slackened his speed, and Mr. Crane made a desperate spring from the carriage in the hope of catching his head. In his jump he missed his footing and fell. Before he could regain his feet the animal was at the top of the hill and turned into an open lot, dragging the carriage with it. The horse started to run again, and the carriage was thrown into the air. The horse's head, and then its body, started to run. The horse instantly started off on a run with Mr. Crane vainly tugging at the reins. The shouts of people frightened the animal and increased his pace. In a few moments the horse slackened his speed, and Mr. Crane made a desperate spring from the carriage in the hope of catching his head. In his jump he missed his footing and fell. Before he could regain his feet the animal was at the top of the hill and turned into an open lot, dragging the carriage with it. The horse started to run again, and the carriage was thrown into the air. The horse's head, and then its body, started to run. The horse instantly started off on a run with Mr. Crane vainly tugging at the reins. The shouts of people frightened the animal and increased his pace. In a few moments the horse slackened his speed, and Mr. Crane made a desperate spring from the carriage in the hope of catching his head. In his jump he missed his footing and fell. Before he could regain his feet the animal was at the top of the hill and turned into an open lot, dragging the carriage with it. The horse started to run again, and the carriage was thrown into the air. The horse's head, and then its body, started to run. The horse instantly started off on a run with Mr. Crane vainly tugging at the reins. The shouts of people frightened the animal and increased his pace. In a few moments the horse slackened his speed, and Mr. Crane made a desperate spring from the carriage in the hope of catching his head. In his jump he missed his footing and fell. Before he could regain his feet the animal was at the top of the hill and turned into an open lot, dragging the carriage with it. The horse started to run again, and the carriage was thrown into the air. The horse's head, and then its body, started to run. The horse instantly started off on a run with Mr. Crane vainly tugging at the reins. The shouts of people frightened the animal and increased his pace. In a few moments the horse slackened his speed, and Mr. Crane made a desperate spring from the carriage in the hope of catching his head. In his jump he missed his footing and fell. Before he could regain his feet the animal was at the top of the hill and turned into an open lot, dragging the carriage with it. The horse started to run again, and the carriage was thrown into the air. The horse's head, and then its body, started to run. The horse instantly started off on a run with Mr. Crane vainly tugging at the reins. The shouts of people frightened the animal and increased his pace. In a few moments the horse slackened his speed, and Mr. Crane made a desperate spring from the carriage in the hope of catching his head. In his jump he missed his footing and fell. Before he could regain his feet the animal was at the top of the hill and turned into an open lot, dragging the carriage with it. The horse started to run again, and the carriage was thrown into the air. The horse's head, and then its body, started to run. The horse instantly started off on a run with Mr. Crane vainly tugging at the reins. The shouts of people frightened the animal and increased his pace. In a few moments the horse slackened his speed, and Mr. Crane made a desperate spring from the carriage in the hope of catching his head. In his jump he missed his footing and fell. Before he could regain his feet the animal was at the top of the hill and turned into an open lot, dragging the carriage with it. The horse started to run again, and the carriage was thrown into the air. The horse's head, and then its body, started to run. The horse instantly started off on a run with Mr. Crane vainly tugging at the reins. The shouts of people frightened the animal and increased his pace. In a few moments the horse slackened his speed, and Mr. Crane made a desperate spring from the carriage in the hope of catching his head. In his jump he missed his footing and fell. Before he could regain his feet the animal was at the top of the hill and turned into an open lot, dragging the carriage with it. The horse started to run again, and the carriage was thrown into the air. The horse's head, and then its body, started to run. The horse instantly started off on a run with Mr. Crane vainly tugging at the reins. The shouts of people frightened the animal and increased his pace. In a few moments the horse slackened his speed, and Mr. Crane made a desperate spring from the carriage in the hope of catching his head. In his jump he missed his footing and fell. Before he could regain his feet the animal was at the top of the hill and turned into an open lot, dragging the carriage with it. The horse started to run again, and the carriage was thrown into the air. The horse's head, and then its body, started to run. The horse instantly started off on a run with Mr. Crane vainly tugging at the reins. The shouts of people frightened the animal and increased his pace. In a few moments the horse slackened his speed, and Mr. Crane made a desperate spring from the carriage in the hope of catching his head. In his jump he missed his footing and fell. Before he could regain his feet the animal was at the top of the hill and turned into an open lot, dragging the carriage with it. The horse started to run again, and the carriage was thrown into the air. The horse's head, and then its body, started to run. The horse instantly started off on a run with Mr. Crane vainly tugging at the reins. The shouts of people frightened the animal and increased his pace. In a few moments the horse slackened his speed, and Mr. Crane made a desperate spring from the carriage in the hope of catching his head. In his jump he missed his footing and fell. Before he could regain his feet the animal was at the top of the hill and turned into an open lot, dragging the carriage with it. The horse started to run again, and the carriage was thrown into the air. The horse's head, and then its body, started to run. The horse instantly started off on a run with Mr. Crane vainly tugging at the reins. The shouts of people frightened the animal and increased his pace. In a few moments the horse slackened his speed, and Mr. Crane made a desperate spring from the carriage in the hope of catching his head. In his jump he missed his footing and fell. Before he could regain his feet the animal was at the top of the hill and turned into an open lot, dragging the carriage with it. The horse started to run again, and the carriage was thrown into the air. The horse's head, and then its body, started to run. The horse instantly started off on a run with Mr. Crane vainly tugging at the reins. The shouts of people frightened the animal and increased his pace. In a few moments the horse slackened his speed, and Mr. Crane made a desperate spring from the carriage in the hope of catching his head. In his jump he missed his footing and fell. Before he could regain his feet the animal was at the top of the hill and turned into an open lot, dragging the carriage with it. The horse started to run again, and the carriage was thrown into the air. The horse's head, and then its body, started to run. The horse instantly started off on a run with Mr. Crane vainly tugging at the reins. The shouts of people frightened the animal and increased his pace. In a few moments the horse slackened his speed, and Mr. Crane made a desperate spring from the carriage in the hope of catching his head. In his jump he missed his footing and fell. Before he could regain his feet the animal was at the top of the hill and turned into an open lot, dragging the carriage with it. The horse started to run again, and the carriage was thrown into the air. The horse's head, and then its body, started to run. The horse instantly started off on a run with Mr. Crane vainly tugging at the reins. The shouts of people frightened the animal and increased his pace. In a few moments the horse slackened his speed, and Mr. Crane made a desperate spring from the carriage in the hope of catching his head. In his jump he missed his footing and fell. Before he could regain his feet the animal was at the top of the hill and turned into an open lot, dragging the carriage with it. The horse started to run again, and the carriage was thrown into the air. The horse's head, and then its body, started to run. The horse instantly started off on a run with Mr. Crane vainly tugging at the reins. The shouts of people frightened the animal and increased his pace. In a few moments the horse slackened his speed, and Mr. Crane made a desperate spring from the carriage in the hope of catching his head. In his jump he missed his footing and fell. Before he could regain his feet the animal was at the top of the hill and turned into an open lot, dragging the carriage with it. The horse started to run again, and the carriage was thrown into the air. The horse's head, and then its body, started to run. The horse instantly started off on a run with Mr. Crane vainly tugging at the reins. The shouts of people frightened the animal and increased his pace. In a few moments the horse slackened his speed, and Mr. Crane made a desperate spring from the carriage in the hope of catching his head. In his jump he missed his footing and fell. Before he could regain his feet the animal was at the top of the hill and turned into an open lot, dragging the carriage with it. The horse started to run again, and the carriage was thrown into the air. The horse's head, and then its body, started to run. The horse instantly started off on a run with Mr. Crane vainly tugging at the reins. The shouts of people frightened the animal and increased his pace. In a few moments the horse slackened his speed, and Mr. Crane made a desperate spring from the carriage in the hope of catching his head. In his jump he missed his footing and fell. Before he could regain his feet the animal was at the top of the hill and turned into an open lot, dragging the carriage with it. The horse started to run again, and the carriage was thrown into the air. The horse's head, and then its body, started to run. The horse instantly started off on a run with Mr. Crane vainly tugging at the reins. The shouts of people frightened the animal and increased his pace. In a few moments the horse slackened his speed, and Mr. Crane made a desperate spring from the carriage in the hope of catching his head. In his jump he missed his footing and fell. Before he could regain his feet the animal was at the top of the hill and turned into an open lot, dragging the carriage with it. The horse started to run again, and the carriage was thrown into the air. The horse's head, and then its body, started to run. The horse instantly started off on a run with Mr. Crane vainly tugging at the reins. The shouts of people frightened the animal and increased his pace. In a few moments the horse slackened his speed, and Mr. Crane made a desperate spring