

RACING AT JEROME PARK.

AN AFTERNOON FOR THE CHEAP HORSES.

The New York Jockey Club's card at Jerome Park yesterday was a light one, and the attendance was accordingly light. Admirers of high-class sport preferred to wait for the excellent programme offered at Morris Park this afternoon. Most of yesterday's races were devised for the benefit of the small stables and the cheap horses. Equity was probably the most valuable animal that ran, and his value is chiefly prospective as a brood mare.

On Thursday the shrewdest turfmen at the track backed Kludde to defeat Equity, both being trained in the same stable. Yesterday almost every one went Equity-crazy. Only St. Charles and Woodcutter ran against her in the Echo Stakes at a mile and a furlong. The experts thought the distance too long for St. Charles, and looked upon Woodcutter as outclassed. But St. Charles won without effort, while Woodcutter deprived Equity of the place. In view of her Jerome Park running, Equity's success at Gravesend on Monday, September 21, when she defeated Portchester, Santa Anna, Bellevue, Woodcutter and a large field at a mile, without having any advantage in the weights, in fact conceding weight to a number of them, seems now to have been almost a miracle. But the filly has not been doing well in her work since then, and has been beaten by a coach. St. Charles won the Echo stakes in the slowest and latest time imaginable for a dry track—2:01 for a mile and a furlong.

The first race was at six furlongs for horses that had never won a race, and a noble lot they were. George Forbes's batsman, formerly known as the Brita colt, was the favorite, but it is a batsman of the calibre of the middle-ages who are captained by that unassuming strategist, the Von Motke of the baseball field, "Buck" Ewing. The backers of the horse as a field and ashamed of the credits also given to his master, the so-called "Giant." Possibly the reader may infer that Batsman did not get a place. Spectator line had a light task to secure first money, while Wilroy ran second and Maywood third. Sims rode the winner well.

As Kenwood carried 122 pounds, he was only third choice in the betting on the second race, although he was ridden by Tarsi, but that jockey's fine riding got Kenwood home first by a head, the lightly weighted Miss Belle (ninety-four pounds) second, and Luella B. third. Luella B. ran as if fourth of work.

Captain Brown and his friends and many other devotees of horseflesh backed Pickpocket boldly in the fourth race, and filled their pockets. Sims rode the colt with judgment and energy, and won the race by a neck. Pierre Lovell's poorly ridden by Dersey, Tarsi made the favorite, but he was beaten by Dersey. Tarsi made the favorite, but he was beaten by Dersey.

The colt Hamilton's recent work has been poor, and although he is superior in class to the others that ran in the fifth race, the betting against him rose from 5 to 2 to 5 to 1. Nevertheless he would have won if Clayton had made his run sooner, for he was caught by Hamilton third. How easily Tarsi would have won with Hamilton! The judges got the colors mixed, and ordered Pan Handle's number put up as that of the favorite. Clayton's error was not in the running, but in the numbers, until finally the right ones for all three placed horses were displayed and George got the place.
