

THE WEEK IN SOCIETY.

Last week brought a revival of spirit and energy among people in society, and a good deal of what may be called miscellaneous and irregular gaiety has been going on. The most important incident of the week was the Bachelors' Ball on Thursday night.

It was a beautiful entertainment, and the success of the evening was an acknowledgment on the part of the thirty-one of society's younger sons of the kindness and hospitalities which have been extended to them not only during the last winter, but for several years back.

The gaiety of the present week begins to-morrow night with the second and last of this season of the Monday evening dancing. It will, no doubt, be one of the largest, jolliest and gayest dances of the year.

Charles Russell Hone has been chosen to lead the cotillon, which will be danced about midnight and continued without cessation until about 1:30 o'clock, when supper will be announced.

Mr. and Mrs. J. Searle Barclay gave a dinner party at their home, No. 64 West Thirty-eighth-st., last night for the second time this season.

Mr. and Mrs. J. Searle Barclay gave a dinner party at their home, No. 64 West Thirty-eighth-st., last night for the second time this season. The officers of the club were: President, Mr. Hamilton; Secretary, Mr. Augustus C. Smith; Treasurer, Mr. Schuyler Schieffelin; and Hanyer Clarkson.

GREAT NEED FOR CHARITY.

It is a sad fact that the small number of the poor who are able to support themselves is steadily decreasing. The number of the poor who are able to support themselves is steadily decreasing.

There can be no question that the distress among the poor is greater just now than it has been for many years. If any one doubts the existence of extreme want and suffering, not only among the poorest classes, but also among those who are usually fairly well-to-do, he has only to go into the homes of the people, many of which have been described in The Tribune, or to talk for a few minutes with the mission workers and the representatives of charitable organizations.

The work of the Home extends from Franklin-st. to Harlem, on both sides of the river, and the women who brought baskets for the groceries came from all directions. One woman came from the household where her husband and her brother were in the military service.

Another woman said: "I am so grateful for these things. I got a little work to do last week, but I have no money, and no work, and should have had nothing in the house to eat on Sunday if I had not received these."

The good work of the New York Tenement-House Commission is being carried on by the Board of Health and the Board of Charities. The work of the Home extends from Franklin-st. to Harlem, on both sides of the river.

Mr. E. K. Dodge, who has been the leading comedian of the Kendal's company for several years, was engaged yesterday for the Emory Theatre Company for next season. The company of women which played at the Kendal's Theatre a few weeks ago will give the same play as the Kendal's Theatre for the whole of the week commencing on January 29.

THE CRY OF 'NO WORK' HEARD ON ALL SIDES.

There can be no question that the distress among the poor is greater just now than it has been for many years. If any one doubts the existence of extreme want and suffering, not only among the poorest classes, but also among those who are usually fairly well-to-do, he has only to go into the homes of the people, many of which have been described in The Tribune, or to talk for a few minutes with the mission workers and the representatives of charitable organizations.

The work of the Home extends from Franklin-st. to Harlem, on both sides of the river, and the women who brought baskets for the groceries came from all directions. One woman came from the household where her husband and her brother were in the military service.

Another woman said: "I am so grateful for these things. I got a little work to do last week, but I have no money, and no work, and should have had nothing in the house to eat on Sunday if I had not received these."

The good work of the New York Tenement-House Commission is being carried on by the Board of Health and the Board of Charities. The work of the Home extends from Franklin-st. to Harlem, on both sides of the river.

Mr. E. K. Dodge, who has been the leading comedian of the Kendal's company for several years, was engaged yesterday for the Emory Theatre Company for next season. The company of women which played at the Kendal's Theatre a few weeks ago will give the same play as the Kendal's Theatre for the whole of the week commencing on January 29.

Mr. E. K. Dodge, who has been the leading comedian of the Kendal's company for several years, was engaged yesterday for the Emory Theatre Company for next season. The company of women which played at the Kendal's Theatre a few weeks ago will give the same play as the Kendal's Theatre for the whole of the week commencing on January 29.

GREAT NEED FOR CHARITY.

It is a sad fact that the small number of the poor who are able to support themselves is steadily decreasing. The number of the poor who are able to support themselves is steadily decreasing.

There can be no question that the distress among the poor is greater just now than it has been for many years. If any one doubts the existence of extreme want and suffering, not only among the poorest classes, but also among those who are usually fairly well-to-do, he has only to go into the homes of the people, many of which have been described in The Tribune, or to talk for a few minutes with the mission workers and the representatives of charitable organizations.

The work of the Home extends from Franklin-st. to Harlem, on both sides of the river, and the women who brought baskets for the groceries came from all directions. One woman came from the household where her husband and her brother were in the military service.

Another woman said: "I am so grateful for these things. I got a little work to do last week, but I have no money, and no work, and should have had nothing in the house to eat on Sunday if I had not received these."

The good work of the New York Tenement-House Commission is being carried on by the Board of Health and the Board of Charities. The work of the Home extends from Franklin-st. to Harlem, on both sides of the river.

Mr. E. K. Dodge, who has been the leading comedian of the Kendal's company for several years, was engaged yesterday for the Emory Theatre Company for next season. The company of women which played at the Kendal's Theatre a few weeks ago will give the same play as the Kendal's Theatre for the whole of the week commencing on January 29.

THE CRY OF 'NO WORK' HEARD ON ALL SIDES.

There can be no question that the distress among the poor is greater just now than it has been for many years. If any one doubts the existence of extreme want and suffering, not only among the poorest classes, but also among those who are usually fairly well-to-do, he has only to go into the homes of the people, many of which have been described in The Tribune, or to talk for a few minutes with the mission workers and the representatives of charitable organizations.

The work of the Home extends from Franklin-st. to Harlem, on both sides of the river, and the women who brought baskets for the groceries came from all directions. One woman came from the household where her husband and her brother were in the military service.

Another woman said: "I am so grateful for these things. I got a little work to do last week, but I have no money, and no work, and should have had nothing in the house to eat on Sunday if I had not received these."

The good work of the New York Tenement-House Commission is being carried on by the Board of Health and the Board of Charities. The work of the Home extends from Franklin-st. to Harlem, on both sides of the river.

Mr. E. K. Dodge, who has been the leading comedian of the Kendal's company for several years, was engaged yesterday for the Emory Theatre Company for next season. The company of women which played at the Kendal's Theatre a few weeks ago will give the same play as the Kendal's Theatre for the whole of the week commencing on January 29.

Mr. E. K. Dodge, who has been the leading comedian of the Kendal's company for several years, was engaged yesterday for the Emory Theatre Company for next season. The company of women which played at the Kendal's Theatre a few weeks ago will give the same play as the Kendal's Theatre for the whole of the week commencing on January 29.

THE CRY OF 'NO WORK' HEARD ON ALL SIDES.

There can be no question that the distress among the poor is greater just now than it has been for many years. If any one doubts the existence of extreme want and suffering, not only among the poorest classes, but also among those who are usually fairly well-to-do, he has only to go into the homes of the people, many of which have been described in The Tribune, or to talk for a few minutes with the mission workers and the representatives of charitable organizations.

The work of the Home extends from Franklin-st. to Harlem, on both sides of the river, and the women who brought baskets for the groceries came from all directions. One woman came from the household where her husband and her brother were in the military service.

Another woman said: "I am so grateful for these things. I got a little work to do last week, but I have no money, and no work, and should have had nothing in the house to eat on Sunday if I had not received these."

The good work of the New York Tenement-House Commission is being carried on by the Board of Health and the Board of Charities. The work of the Home extends from Franklin-st. to Harlem, on both sides of the river.

Mr. E. K. Dodge, who has been the leading comedian of the Kendal's company for several years, was engaged yesterday for the Emory Theatre Company for next season. The company of women which played at the Kendal's Theatre a few weeks ago will give the same play as the Kendal's Theatre for the whole of the week commencing on January 29.

Mr. E. K. Dodge, who has been the leading comedian of the Kendal's company for several years, was engaged yesterday for the Emory Theatre Company for next season. The company of women which played at the Kendal's Theatre a few weeks ago will give the same play as the Kendal's Theatre for the whole of the week commencing on January 29.

THE CRY OF 'NO WORK' HEARD ON ALL SIDES.

GREAT NEED FOR CHARITY.

THE CRY OF 'NO WORK' HEARD ON ALL SIDES.

GREAT NEED FOR CHARITY.

THE CRY OF 'NO WORK' HEARD ON ALL SIDES.

GREAT NEED FOR CHARITY.