

A FEEBLE LOT OF GIANTS THEIR RIDICULOUSLY WEAK WORK AGAINST BROOKLYN.

THE BRIDGEMEN'S SIXTEEN TALLIES TO NEW-YORK'S SOLITARY ONE—BASEBALL MEN GROWING TIRED OF THE ERRATIC WORK OF CAPTAIN WARD AND HIS MEN.

GAMES YESTERDAY. Brooklyn 16, New York 1. Louisville 9, Cincinnati 2. Chicago 10, Pittsburgh 6. Boston 10, Washington 1.

The Giants' erratic career is really discouraging, and at times almost unbearable to the feelings of their friends. After playing in first-class form for several days, and raising the hopes of their admirers to the highest pitch, they dash all down together into defeat by an amateurish exhibition, which a semi-professional lot of $10-a-week ball-players would be ashamed of.

The work of Ward and his men in Brooklyn yesterday was particularly disappointing. The whole team, as well as Westcott, played in a sloppy, careless fashion, which invited defeat, disgusted everybody, and naturally brought its own reward. The team received about its worst defeat of the season, and Brooklyn's victory was so easily won that it was almost ridiculous.

Table with columns for NEW-YORK and BROOKLYN, listing player names and statistics such as runs, hits, and errors.

TROOP A'S ATHLETIC GAMES. A SERIES OF INTERESTING CONTESTS AT THE STATE CAMP.

THE VARIOUS EXHIBITIONS OF SKILL, STRENGTH AND HORSEMANSHIP WITNESSED BY SEVERAL THOUSAND VISITORS—MEMBERS OF SEPARATE COMPANIES TAKE PART IN SOME OF THE GAMES.

The members of the troop decided to hold athletic games while in camp, and to make them more interesting, an invitation was extended to the members of the separate companies here to join in the contests.

The first contest, a potato race, proved to be one of the most exciting of the afternoon. Four positions were allowed on the ground for each contestant at forty yards from the starting point.

The umbrella race was spectacular and funny also, but it called for a good deal of skill on the part of the contestants. At a signal each man had to light a cigarette, open a Japanese umbrella and mount with it opened. This proved difficult.

The regular shooting season ended, practice of naval militia at Creedmoor. The next trial to be on August 4. The thirty-fourth anniversary of the season for rifle practice at Creedmoor, L. I., was opened yesterday morning by a detachment of the 1st Battalion Naval Militia, State of New York.

Cambridge, Mass., June 21.—The Harvard-Yale game was played this afternoon before a crowd of nearly 5,000 people. The Yale men won by the score of 9 to 1. The game was exceptional in every respect, and the Yale men played with a skill and accuracy that was almost unparalleled.

The first contest, a potato race, proved to be one of the most exciting of the afternoon. Four positions were allowed on the ground for each contestant at forty yards from the starting point.

The umbrella race was spectacular and funny also, but it called for a good deal of skill on the part of the contestants. At a signal each man had to light a cigarette, open a Japanese umbrella and mount with it opened. This proved difficult.

MISS ATKINSON'S FINE PLAY. THE KINGS COUNTY GIRL WINS THE SINGLES AT THE WEST SIDE.

HER STRONG VOLLEYING IN THE FINAL MATCH—MILLET'S NOTABLE WORK AMONG THE MEN—NYACK TAKES A PRIZE AT YONKERS.

The crowd at the West Side Tennis Club courts yesterday showed an increased interest in tennis favors in the club's open tournament. Though the favorite in men's singles did not come into collision, there was plenty of excellent tennis.

The ladies' singles fell to Miss Atkinson, whose sharp, snappy game and beautiful cross-court drives were too much for Miss O'Connell. Though the New Jersey girl is a first-class player, the brilliant little Brooklyn girl lost only four games in three sets.

The championship tennis tournament of the Hudson River Tennis Association was continued yesterday afternoon on the courts of the Yonkers Tennis Club, Palisades, Yonkers. The game of the day was the championship match in the ladies' singles, between Miss Atkinson and Miss O'Connell.

WOMEN CYCLISTS WILL MEET AT WATERPOORT.

The steamer Pines Willem II, which arrived from Port au Prince yesterday, reports a narrow escape from being hit with a waterpout. Second Officer H. J. Van der Goot, who was on the bridge at the time, gives the following account: At 12 o'clock noon we were bowling along at a little over twelve knots, heading due north with a smooth sea and a light breeze from the north. We were in latitude 23 1/2 north and longitude 74 1/2 west, when my attention was attracted by the look-out to a small white speck on the horizon, which looked like a schooner or a motor launch.

SHEA FIRED THE SHOTS. ADAM ROSS'S TESTIMONY IN THE TROY MURDER TRIAL.

THE WITNESS CLEAR AND POSITIVE THAT HIS BROTHER ROBERT WAS SLAIN BY THE PRISONER—YESTERDAY'S EVIDENCE. Troy, N. Y., June 21.—Court reconvened at 10 o'clock this morning for the Shea trial. Adam Ross, 23, brother of Robert Ross, testified as follows: "The Ross family was composed of my father and mother, my brothers William, John C. and Robert, two sisters and myself. All the male members of the family were registered voters in the Third District of the Thirtieth Ward.

"I went to the polls at about 7 1/2 o'clock election morning. I remained there until after the shooting. The crowd about fifty persons there at the time of the shooting. Robert and William were there when I arrived, and they also remained all the morning. I first saw the defendant Shea between 8 and 9 o'clock in the morning. He was standing with a group of men. The next I saw of Shea was about 10 o'clock, when he, with a party of six or seven, came over to the polling place. I recognized Shea, McGough, Cleary and Owen Jones. As they came up to the door of the polling place some one said: 'You've got too much mouth.' Then Judge struck a man named Catens and staggered him. Then Cleary and Catens and knocked him down. My brother William then stepped up to speak to 'Marty' Kane, a police officer who was not on duty. As William did so, Shea reached over and struck William in the mouth. My brother John stepped in and took hold of William, saying: 'Take that. We don't want any trouble here.' John pulled William away from Shea, and the latter, McGough, Cleary and the others went away.

"The next I saw of them was when they marched over and went into the polling-place. This was after 12 o'clock, and I first saw them as they were coming down Orser. Three or four strangers were in advance and were followed by Shea, Cleary and McGough. They all went into the door of the polling-place and Hayner went in after them. I crowded up into the door and heard loud talking in the hallway, but the first I saw was Hayner being pushed out. He tried to hold himself in the doorway by grasping the casing. Then he was struck and pushed out. Then Hayner, McGough, Cleary and Shea had words in front of the polling-place. One said to Hayner that he liked to talk to a man and that he never took another man's job. Then Shea struck Hayner and the latter was pushed back toward the south. I saw McGough draw a revolver and raise it. Then I saw Hayner go down on the ground at a point south of the polling-place, and east of the post. I was standing in front of the polling-place, but I was crowded forward. I was forced back.

"The next thing I noticed when I saw my brother Robert standing in Orser, south of the post. Robert was in tackle with a man. I don't know who the man was. I observed my brother William start toward Robert. When I first saw William he was just west of the post. He was moving in a southeasterly direction toward Robert. I saw Robert and his man. The man had a revolver in his hand, and my brother Robert was forcing him back toward the west. Then my brother William moved in between Robert and myself, and next I saw McGough run forward. I saw Shea grasp his arm, and McGough raise his hand. I saw the gleam of a revolver in my hand. I saw my brother Robert was forcing him back toward the west.
