

SHOT IN HIS OWN BED.

A MYSTERIOUS ATTEMPT AT MURDER IN JERSEY CITY.

NO CAUSE KNOWN—THE ASSASSIN MAY HAVE THOUGHT HE WAS KILLING ANOTHER MAN—THE HOTEL-KEEPER'S SON MISSING AFTER A QUARREL WITH HIS FATHER.

An assassin stole into a dwelling-house in Jersey City early yesterday morning, shot and probably mortally wounded a man, and escaped. Several men were asleep in the house, but not one saw the intruder. The victim is Roger E. Costello, of Mullica Hill, N. J., who was the guest of his employer, Dennis Reynolds. The latter is a produce dealer in New-York, and is reputed to be wealthy and eccentric. He owns the three-story brick building at No. 457 Henderson-st., Jersey City, and has his dwelling apartments over a store.

Costello travelled through the country purchasing produce for Reynolds. He visited his employer on Thursday to arrange for a trip over Long Island. Reynolds was in a convivial mood, and he entertained Costello liberally. When they reached Reynolds's house the festivities were continued. Frank Reynolds, a brother of Dennis, Peter Fox and John Scanlon, who have rooms in the house, joined the merry party. When 11 o'clock arrived the men were becoming weary, and decided to retire. Costello was invited to remain. Mrs. Reynolds said he could occupy her bed, and she would sleep with her daughter. Costello remarked that he was restless and feared that he would disturb his hostess. Mrs. Reynolds was equal to the emergency. She concluded that she and her daughter would spend the night with a neighbor, Mrs. Brennan, so that Costello could sleep alone, and her husband was assigned to his daughter's room.

The inmates of the house were awakened a few minutes after 1 o'clock by the report of a pistol. Dennis Reynolds, attracted by groans, went to the room occupied by Costello and aroused the others by shouting "Get a light!" A lamp was brought. Blood was pouring from a wound in Costello's right breast. Reynolds ran to the Second Precinct Police Station and excitedly exclaimed:

"A friend of mine has been shot in my own house. Hurry up with the ambulance, I'm afraid he is dying."

Captain Kelly and several officers boarded the patrol wagon, which was hurriedly driven to the house. Captain Kelly questioned the wounded man.

"Who shot you?" he asked.

"I'm sure I don't know," replied Costello, who could scarcely articulate. "I know it that I woke up all of a sudden feeling a sharp pain in my chest. I felt the bullet enter. I knew I had been shot. I don't know who did it. I was very dark in my room. I did not see or hear any one."

He was removed to the Jersey City Hospital and kept in custody until a doctor could be held as witness. Thomas Reynolds, twenty-four years old, son of Dennis Reynolds, who also had a room in the house, was missing. He was wearing a red shirt and a blue vest, but he vanished. This directed suspicion to him.

His father was questioned by Chief of Police Murphy, who elicited the fact that the father and son had quarrelled. The son had been employed by his father, but he neglected his work and was discharged a few days ago. The theory of the police is that the suspected son intended the shot for his father. He was not cognizant of the change in sleeping arrangements made by Mrs. Reynolds, and the room being dark, could not see that it was Costello and not his father who was occupying the bed.

Detectives were promptly sent in quest of Costello, but they had not discovered the slightest trace of him at a late hour last night. Another theory—not that of the police—is that Costello was in the habit of carrying large sums of money, and that robbery was the motive. He lost $12 when taken to the hospital. The men in custody, except Dennis Reynolds, are laborers. Costello's wound is a dangerous one, but he is a young man, twenty-nine years old, of splendid physique, and the physicians entertain hopes for his recovery.

Mrs. Costello visited her husband last evening, and he repeated to her the same story he had told Captain Kelly.

ONE WAY OF GETTING WATER.

A CITIZEN URGES THE FORMATION OF A LOCAL COMPANY IN JERSEY CITY.

A novel plan to solve the water-supply problem which now disturbs the officials of Jersey City was suggested by President Chauncey Holt of Good Government Association No. 1 at its meeting Wednesday night. It is the organization of a water company by the citizens. In stating his solution of the problem, he said:

"I believe it would be best if the matter were taken out of the hands of the officials. Let a commission of reputable citizens incorporate a company and purchase a large watershed. This will give us more water than double the amount of water we now use."

New-York and Brooklyn are feeling the scarcity of water more and more each year, and they will soon be compelled to look to other sources of supply. They will eventually come to us for water. The city would then find a ready market for the surplus. This is something for the future. The city officials, however, would not take any comprehensive view. The East Jersey Company has already cut off from us the city of Bayonne, one of our best customers. The Governor should appoint a commission to condemn a watershed for Jersey City's supply."

Meron Furst remarked that while the plan is a feasible one, it would probably be unpopular. He believed that it would encounter the opposition of the city officials. He said: "I fear if this plan is mentioned to the city officers you will meet with a rebuff, and despite their apparent inability to solve the problem, you will be informed that they are competent to deal with the water question." He concluded that President Holt did not have a plan of organization to submit to the Board of Trade for consideration. He considered it a wise plan.

The plan is to form a company of public-spirited citizens, to relieve the city from its present embarrassment. It is suggested that the city can determine any surplus at the end of each year, and to redeeming shares, and thus, in the course of a few years, become the sole owner of the company.

BRYAN BADLY TREATED.

HIS FRIENDS SAY THAT RAILROAD MEN PURPOSELY ANNOYED HIM.

LACKAWANNA EMPLOYEES ACCUSED OF TRYING TO INJURE AND INSULT THE CANDIDATE—THE MEN DENY ANY SUCH INTENTIONS—DEMOCRATIC STATE COMMITTEE INVESTIGATING.

Trouble is likely to result over the treatment of William J. Bryan by the employees of the Delaware, Lackawanna and Western Railroad while the "loyal orator" was on his trip through New-Jersey on Wednesday. It is said that the energetic action of Mayor Fagan prevented the carrying out of a scheme to flout a sound-money banner in the face of the silver candidate as he was on his way from the train to the ferry-house in Hoboken.

The matter has been laid before the State Democratic Committee, a member of which body yesterday conferred with Mayor Fagan to get at the facts concerning the flag incident. The committee man was considerably worked up. He said to Mayor Fagan that Mr. Bryan had been insulted and annoyed during his entire trip over the Delaware, Lackawanna and Western road.

"The engineer of the train lost no opportunity to place the candidate at a disadvantage," he said. "From Summit down it was not so bad, but up to that point the treatment the candidate received was disgraceful. The train pulled up at a station where the townspeople had assembled, and Mr. Bryan would walk to the rear platform to address them. When he had gotten fairly started the engineer would pull the throttle and start the train with a jerk. On one occasion the passengers were thrown against the sides of the car and several windows were broken. The train would start before the candidate got through talking, and many instances of the kind were topped until it had raked a couple of hundred yards from where the crowd had assembled. At one point along the road, when Mr. Bryan had taken a rear platform ready to address a gathering, an engine with its headlights covered with a picture of the Republican candidate was run right up to his car, almost within the candidate's touch."

Superintendent Reesmer and his assistant, Frank Griffith, of the Morris and Essex Division of the railroad, were both out of town on the day of Bryan's arrival, and the railroad men, it is charged, took advantage of this fact to annoy Bryan's party.

The railroad men's side of the story is different. They deny that Bryan was insulted by them. As to the engineer starting suddenly, they say that the engineer of the train, who was in the rear of the train, had no right to stop longer than was absolutely necessary. Had it been an ordinary train, as a special, it would have been stopped. The fact that Mr. Bryan rode from Washington to Hoboken was a United States mail train. There is a tradition on the Delaware, Lackawanna and Western that a mail train must be run on time, even if it means that the train will be delayed. The train was delayed on Wednesday, on account of Mr. Bryan being a passenger. Railroad men say that even if the President of the United States were on the train, it would not be delayed more than it was for Mr. Bryan.

As to the intention of flouting a McKinley flag by the crowd, they deny that. They say that the flag was pulled out because Mr. Bryan was coming. They say that they are now sorry they did not allow it to swing.

Despite the denials of the railroad employees, the frequency with which the sudden, violent starting and stopping of the train occurred was so marked as to excite comment, not only among the members of Mr. Bryan's party, but also among the friends of the McKinley cause, who favored a protest to the superintendent of the road.

TO RAFFLE OFF HIS BICYCLE.

A DEFAULTING POSTMASTER'S METHOD OF RAISING FUNDS.

O'FARRELL HOPES IN THIS WAY TO GET MONEY ENOUGH TO LIQUIDATE THE SHORTAGE—APPEALS IN HIS BEHALF.

The fifteen days of grace allowed by Postmaster Edward O'Farrell of this city to the draft for $20,000 made by the Postoffice Department yesterday without the deficiency being made good. As a result of O'Farrell's default, Postmaster John W. Goddard served upon O'Farrell's sureties official notice to that effect and formally demanded from them payment of the amount.

With O'Farrell present, his four bondsmen—Reverend Patrick W. Connelly, Dr. Samuel I. Myers, John J. Kelly and James Connelly—held a conference in Recorder Connelly's office to consider plans for obtaining a settlement from the former postmaster. The meeting was held behind locked doors, and it lasted half an hour. O'Farrell had lost the air of confidence which he had shown since his forced resignation from the postoffice, and seemed in dejected spirits, as more than one of his sureties had threatened him with arrest and prosecution.

Recorder Connelly suggested that each bondsman tender his note for a share of the deficiency. He offered to have the notes discounted and the money thus raised forwarded to the Postoffice Department in Washington, and he proposed giving O'Farrell the months' time in which to repay.

It was suggested that James Connelly, but Dr. Myers was averse to taking any action until he received official notification from the postal authorities. Recorder Connelly, however, said he would ask for immediate action from Washington.

Having expended the $500 he drew from the bank for the purpose of raising the money, O'Farrell said that he had only available method of raising money was to raffle off his high-grade bicycle. He suggested that the friends of O'Farrell should assist him from the shortage, as he had assurances of assistance from numerous friends. Arrangements for the raffle were made, and the money was put into circulation in Bayonne, and subscriptions amounting to several hundred dollars were pledged. The raffle will be held as follows:

The undersigned, sympathizing with our fellow-citizen, Edward O'Farrell, do hereby offer to sign and subscribe the following affidavits to enable him to tide over his difficulties and resume his duties as Postmaster.

The arrest of O'Farrell by the Federal authorities upon a charge of defaulting or embezzlement is entirely unjust, and the Government should be held responsible for such a culmination of his troubles.
