

THE MARCH TO COLORADO.

PREPARATIONS ARE BEING MADE TO WELCOME THE HOSTS OF VISITORS.

A MUTUAL INTERCHANGE OF IDEAS IS THE REAL PURPOSE OF THE GREAT BIENNIAL CONVENTION.

No event in many years has excited so much interest in the Gem City of Colorado as the great conference of clubwomen delegates from the East and South who are expected to arrive on or before June 20. The Rocky Mountain clubwomen have expressed themselves as feeling personally responsible for the comfort of the coming guests, and are anxious to show the warmest hospitality of their section of the country.

Clubwomen throughout the United States who contemplate attending will be interested in information relating to the women who have in charge the preparations for welcoming the expected throngs.

Mrs. G. Fisher, the chairman of the Entertainment Committee of the local Biennial Board, is one of the wealthiest women of the West, with a beautiful home on Capitol Hill. She is a descendant of an old and well-known family of Saratoga, N. Y., and has a host of friends in many parts of the East, and especially in the Empire State.

Mrs. Mahlon D. Thatcher, the president of the Colorado Federation, is the wife of one of the richest men in the State, and is much admired and respected in the organization, to which she is loyal and unselfishly devoted.

Mrs. James D. Whitmore, of the Woman's Club, is popular. She is one whose life is full of good works and committee meetings, and, according to the local chronicler, "one whose capable hand, willing heart and gay smile are always ready for the various duties of 'our mistress, the world'."

Mrs. A. M. Welles, who is an entire "outsider," but whose exceeding fitness for the position is popularly recognized, has been chosen secretary of the Board. She is known to be one who will fulfill any duty with absolute faithfulness and with credit to her constituents and honor to herself.

Mrs. James Grant, of Denver, is president of the local Biennial Board for the coming meeting, and her associates are Mrs. A. M. Welles, Mrs. John McNeil and Mrs. Owen Le Fevre, all women of exceptional executive ability.

PROGRAMME OF ENTERTAINMENT.

The programme of entertainment offered is a feast from the opening exercises till the day of adjournment. The gathering will be in the Broadway Theatre, the acoustic properties of which make it a model convention hall, and a seating capacity of two thousand persons, a bureau of information, under the able superintendency of Mrs. John L. McNeil, is to be arranged near the auditorium, in which will be a postoffice and adjunct mailing facilities, telephonic connections, district messengers, stenographers and copyists, with newspapers and all the other departments of a carefully equipped bureau.

General addresses of welcome will be made by the Governor of the State, Attorney General, and Mrs. E. M. Ashley will speak for the women of Colorado, and Mrs. Frank S. W. Whitmore will give exhibitions of his methods in training the public school children in the State. Mrs. W. Whitmore, who is the president of the Athens Musical Society, the Woman's Club Chorus and the Junior chorus will grace the occasion with her talents. Members of clubs composed of girls and women will act as ushers and pages, and the decorations of the hall are in the hands of artists and decorators. One of the features of the second evening will be a musical entertainment, in which the best talent will be shown, sent in from the rock-ribbed hills daily every morning.

DELIGHTFUL EXCURSIONS.

There will be at least one large excursion to Georgetown on Saturday, June 20, when all the delegates will be guests. The scenery is both grand and beautiful, and to enhance the picturesque, a "sunset ride" will be served at a dining room, and a "sunset ride" will be served at a dining room, and a "sunset ride" will be served at a dining room.

A pretty country wedding on Wednesday last was that of Sara Goulet Keeler, daughter of George Keeler, a well-known lawyer, to Vincent B. Thomas, of Brooklyn, which was solemnized at noon at the home of the bride's father, in Ellenville, N. Y. The bride, who is well known in this city and a member of the Dutchess point lace and ivory white satin trimmed with mousseline de soie and orange blossoms, combined with orange and white roses, and she carried a bouquet of lilies of the valley and white roses.

SPECIAL RECEPTIONS.

The Denver Woman's Press Club will endeavor to make things pleasant for its visiting sisters of the press. The club will establish a press headquarters in the Brown Palace Hotel, just opposite the convention hall, and there, besides an easy chair and a drink of lemonade, may be found an exhibit of the works of all the women writers of Colorado. The club will also give a reception to the visiting press women.

To assist in the extension of these courtesies, all women writers who have published and been paid for their writing to date, are invited to present a card to the secretary of the Denver Woman's Press Club, Mrs. E. M. Ashley, No. 1215 Lexington-ave., Denver, Colorado. The press women, the Daughters of the Revolution will keep open house; so will the Colorado Equal Suffrage League, and the National Business League of Denver, whose elaborate plans for hospitality have been published heretofore. The North Side Club will give a luncheon party at Edith J. Morris, No. 1315 Lincoln-ave., Denver, corresponding secretary of the local association.

Among the women of Denver who will give receptions, from 4 to 6 o'clock on Thursday, the general reception, are Mrs. Alva Adams, wife of the Governor of the State, Mrs. E. M. Ashley, Mrs. O. B. Fevre and Mrs. L. E. Campbell, niece of Mrs. Ulysses S. Grant.

Any questions regarding details of local management will be cheerfully answered by Mrs. G. H. Norris, No. 1315 Lincoln-ave., Denver, corresponding secretary of the local association.

CREDENTIALS.

The credential committee, of which Mrs. William H. Kistler is chairman, will meet at the Brown Palace Hotel, Monday evening, June 29, and all members of the biennial are requested to arrive in Denver not later than Monday noon, and to report at once to the credential committee. All clubwomen, excepting the Denver women, are asked to wear a knot of pale blue ribbon on the shoulder. The Denver women will meet at the Brown Palace Hotel, Monday evening, June 29, and all members of the biennial are requested to arrive in Denver not later than Monday noon, and to report at once to the credential committee.

DONATIONS FROM THE BREWERS.

Secretary Faure of the National Red Cross Relief Committee received a list of the contributions of about thirty beer brewers in the city yesterday morning, who give in all $1,023 for relieving the distress of the wounded soldiers and sailors. Miss Alice B. Babcock, who is in charge of Auxiliary Committee No. 19, and makes a specialty of collecting money for the nurses' steam laundry plant, secured the donations. The full list of the men who gave is to be made public later.

SIX WOMEN WHO WANT TO BE LAWYERS.

An unusually large class of law students was examined yesterday for admission to the bar at the Appellate Division of the Supreme Court. There were 205 altogether, including six young women. The women were Misses Florence Lauterbach, Julia A. Galney, Isabelle M. Pettus, Clara D. Blum, Edith J. Griswood and Mary G. Potter. Miss Lauterbach is a daughter of Edward Lauterbach. The examination was conducted by the State Law Examiners.

ter organizations embraced in the federation. One of these, with headquarters in Los Angeles, has as its object the improvement of the water supply of a large fruit ranch, which she manages herself. Many of these business organizations are quartered in clubhouses, and are under the supervision, and all evince much sagacity in the conduct of their affairs.

THE WEEK IN SOCIETY.

For picturesqueness and cheerfulness of aspect the Park since the intense heat swooped down upon the city, is now the strongest vantage ground for those who are, from one reason or another, forced to remain in town at this time. The great breathing place is now reborn in the delicate freshness of leaf and blossom, and the occupants of the victorias, landaus and phaetons upon the well-kept drives seem to enjoy it as if they had never seen it before. The display of carriages and horseflesh is quite up to the average, although four-in-hands do not appear to increase in number, and the withdrawal of the horse-drawn carriages from the streets to the Hudson and the change of the Good Times from a day to a night coach has taken from the picture a few of its most interesting features.

The last week brought several interesting weddings, at which were assembled the representative people of the fashionable circle, not a few of whom have already transferred their places of residence many miles from town. A quiet family wedding on Monday afternoon was that of Miss Clara Martin to Charles Augustine Morrozz, which was celebrated at the home of the bride's mother, Mrs. E. M. Martin, No. 14 West Eighty-seventh-st. In the presence of about seventy-five guests, the Rev. Dr. Richard H. Roundout, N. Y., officiated at the ceremony, which was followed by a small reception.

On Tuesday, at noon, the wedding of Miss Alice Dunning, daughter of the late Benjamin F. Dunning, of this city, to Dr. M. Allen Starr, the well-known neurologist and lecturer at the College of Physicians and Surgeons, took place in the Brick Presbyterian Church, Fifth-ave. and Thirty-seventh-st. There were several hundred guests in the church, which was prettily decorated for the occasion. The bride was given away by her brother, William F. Dunning, who was in a gown of white satin, trimmed with gold and pearls. Miss Annie Sperry, wife of Dr. M. Allen Starr, was the bridesmaid, and Miss Ruth Fowler, Miss Mary Moffett, Miss Harshorne and Miss Isabel Fowler were effective gowns of white and blue. The reception was held in the home of the bride's brother, No. 27 West Thirty-eighth-st.

Another midday wedding on Tuesday was celebrated in Christ Protestant Episcopal Church, Western Boulevard and Seventy-first-st. The bride was Miss Florence Stuart Darling, of Deal Beach, and Mrs. Theodore Stuart Darling, of Deal Beach, and the bridegroom was Henry Hawkins Daugherty, of this city. The ceremony was followed by a reception held in the ballroom of the Hotel Majestic. The bridegroom, who was in a suit of dark blue, was accompanied by his brother, William F. Dunning, who was in a suit of dark blue. The bride was given away by her father, Mr. T. S. Darling, who was in a suit of dark blue. The reception was held in the ballroom of the Hotel Majestic.

Some of the weddings celebrated on Wednesday were those of Miss Marion Roberts, a daughter of the late John J. Roberts of Brooklyn, and granddaughter of the late Hon. Harvey Baldwin, of Syracuse, to Beverly Robinson of Staten Island, which took place in the Church of the Epiphany, Lexington-ave. and Thirty-first-st. Miss Elizabeth Baker Walcott, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Baker Walcott, to Jefferson Church, in Gold Street, was married to Mr. J. M. Buel, of New York, on Wednesday evening, June 10, at the home of the bride's father, Mr. J. M. Buel, of New York. The bride was given away by her father, Mr. J. M. Buel, of New York. The reception was held in the home of the bride's father, Mr. J. M. Buel, of New York.

A pretty country wedding on Wednesday last was that of Sara Goulet Keeler, daughter of George Keeler, a well-known lawyer, to Vincent B. Thomas, of Brooklyn, which was solemnized at noon at the home of the bride's father, in Ellenville, N. Y. The bride, who is well known in this city and a member of the Dutchess point lace and ivory white satin trimmed with mousseline de soie and orange blossoms, combined with orange and white roses, and she carried a bouquet of lilies of the valley and white roses.

The engagement was announced last week of Miss Helen King, daughter of the late John King, president of the Erie Railroad, to Baron von Gleska, secretary of the Austro-Hungarian Legation at Bern, Switzerland. Miss King and her mother have been abroad for some time, and her father is now in Switzerland. The young woman is well known in New York society, and previous to her marriage was connected with her mother at No. 19 East Sixty-ninth-st.

Newport is rapidly filling up with summer residents. Among the newcomers last week were Mrs. Elisha Dyer, Jr., who has just arrived from Europe with her daughter; Mr. and Mrs. William R. Travler, who have just returned from Europe; Mrs. W. Earle Dodge; Mr. and Mrs. John J. Wyson; Mr. and Mrs. Gertrude Van Cortlandt Hamilton; Mr. and Mrs. L. Mortimer Brooks; Mr. and Mrs. Lorrillard Spencer, and Mr. and Mrs. Charles A. Plann, of Washington, who have leased one of the Plann cottages. Mrs. William Astor, who has been abroad since the middle of March, and who is the bride's father, Mr. John G. Elyseas, occupying her apartment in the Madison Elyseas, steamship Campanian. On her arrival here she will be met by the Rev. Dr. Joseph Silverman, of the Episcopal Church at her villa, Beechwood, in Bellevue-ave.

Among the well-known people who sailed for Europe last week were Mrs. William R. Garrison, Miss Katherine Garrison, Mrs. W. F. Haveymer, Mr. and Mrs. C. E. Eggleston, Mrs. Clarence Grey Dinsmore, Mrs. Clarence Andrews, the Countess Telfer, who came from Europe about a month ago, and who is the bride's mother, Mrs. John J. Mackay, to Miss Katherine Dyer, Mrs. J. A. McKee, Mr. and Mrs. James H. Rubin, and Mrs. Colgate Hoyt.

St. Bartholomew's Protestant Episcopal Church, Madison-ave. and Forty-fourth-st., will, at 4 o'clock on Thursday afternoon next, June 16, be the scene of the wedding of Miss Marie L. Stokes, daughter of Henry B. Stokes, to Albert C. Boswick, the only son of the late Jacob Boswick, and brother of Mrs. Hamilton W. Cary and of Mrs. Albert J. Thomas, of England. The ceremony will be officiated at by the Rev. Dr. David H. Greer, who will officiate at the ceremony, which will be followed by a reception at the home of the bride's father, Mr. Henry B. Stokes, at 100 West 11th-st. The bride's attendants will be Miss Ethel Stokes and her sister, Miss Florence Stokes. Mr. Boswick's best man will be Herbert Maclean, and the ushers will be the bridegroom's brother-in-law, Hamilton W. Cary; Franklin Plummer, Henry Stokes, a cousin of the bride, and Dr. Joseph Silverman.

A BROOKLYN BACKYARD IDYL. THE SMALL GIRL WHOSE LIVELY IMAGINATION MADE HER HAPPY. "Talking of the sunny days of childhood, and the transforming power of imagination," said the Brooklyn boarding-house philosopher, taking his breakfast at the breakfast table and slowly unfolding his napkin, "I think I've been having an exhibition of this sort of thing for some time past. I've been having an exhibition of this sort of thing for some time past. I've been having an exhibition of this sort of thing for some time past."

THE ART OF SWIMMING. CONFIDENCE IS THE REAL SECRET OF SUCCESS. "Just as soon as the warm weather sets in many persons who at the close of last summer were able to swim a few strokes will again somewhat timidly enter the water," writes Frank H. Vistely in the "Woman's Home Companion." "The majority will find this self-imposed task far more difficult than it anticipated. It is necessary to remember that the golden rules of swimming is to move slowly and deliberately. Those who wish to become good swimmers must cultivate self-reliance, and they should always bear in mind that water itself always has a sustaining power far greater than that of any other liquid. It enables the bather to inhale the lungs, and thus unconsciously turns them into a sort of life-preservers. To move slowly is to get plenty of breathing time, and to get plenty of breathing time is to get plenty of buoyancy of water. It is the only secret in swimming. The best way to convince the novice of the buoyancy of water is to let her make out until the water comes up to her breast, but before doing this she should take care, when in shallow water, to immerse her whole body in the water, and then, when she is in deep water, to let her arms and legs rest on the bottom, and then, when she is in deep water, to let her arms and legs rest on the bottom, and then, when she is in deep water, to let her arms and legs rest on the bottom."

A MODEL HAT AND GOWN. Gown of green and white satin foulard, with short coat of pale-green velvet, traced with collar lace, silver tinsel and jet-Vest of pale-green chiffon, veiled in black, edged with collar-hand and belt of mauve velvet. The hat is of pale-green chiffon, black net and a white spray.

LITTLE CHANGE IN STYLES. THE BLOUSE OR BAG WAIST ONLY VARIED BY THE EMPIECE-MENT'S WORN.

A foot of the bottom; here the pleats are left to flare out and spread with each step of the wearer. From the neck gathered white muslin is sewn into the entire length of the shoulder seams, and is then drawn together to a point at each corner of the gulfur emplacement, and fastened with a clasp of blue moiré velvet, which is secured to the hem in jabot-like folds on each side of the straight-tucked taffeta front. The sleeves, light-colored collar and emplacement are all of gulfur over blue taffeta.

Another pretty toilet is called a garden negligee, and is especially designed for an invalid's use on a veranda or about the grounds of a country place. It is of white mousseline. The skirt, made with the high-fitted blouse so much in vogue just now, is edged with several small tucks, the overlapping upper part of the skirt having also several tucks, which are fastened to the waist by a row of buttons. The waist is a half-fitted short jacket, the front of which is decidedly novel. The collar is formed of white moiré ribbon about four inches wide, finished with a bow in front that encircles the chin and forms a pretty frame for the face. The two long ends of the bow fall over the waist; the outer edge of each having revers of embroidered white mousseline de soie, and the inner edge of the ends, which are cut so as to form one point.

A PRETTY MATINEE. The third becoming and graceful-looking garment is a matinee of pale pink surah, which is made with a deep square yoke of alternate stripes of surah and chantilly lace. From this yoke hangs straight, without any visible opening, the surah-like tunic which reaches well below the hips. It is made of the surah, intersected with two broad bands of chantilly insertion, and finished at the bottom with an edging of the same. The sleeves are made entirely of the insertion, over mauve surah. The opening of the jacket is on the shoulder, and under the arm, and is invisible.

The fourth and last conception of this kind is a walking frock, consisting of a plain skirt and a pelerine; the front and back of the latter is cut in a plain V, which, at the waist, is flanked by two tails of the same material, which extends to the bottom of the skirt.

GRENADE WITH APPLIQUE STRIPE. MADE OVER A ROYAL BLUE TAFFETA. Salient features of almost every costume, while the bell-like skirt, trimmed either much or little, is also substantially the same.

At the recent "opening" of a well-known dressmaker a clever point was scored by classifying together in one room a number of gowns designed especially for "young married women"-negligees, house dresses and visiting costumes, constructed with graceful, flowing lines, and trimmed appropriately.

A visiting toilet of great elegance is made of black Brussels net, embroidered with black paillettes, made up over a lining of black satin. This is cut princess shaped in the back; the sides of

A BAYADERE TAFFETA OF GOLDEN BROWN. TRIMMED WITH BURNT ORANGE VELVET AND APPLIQUE ECRU LACE. nearly to the bottom of the skirt. The V front is fitted with a deep flounce of Spanish lace, graduated toward the waist; this continues in a narrow row round the neck, and is finished with a row of ruffles around the neck, and a row of ruffles around the neck, and a row of ruffles around the neck.

The bodice are covered with draped ruffles hanging from the shoulders in jabot folds, one under the other, to the waist. These are made of black satin, lined with rose-colored taffeta, the latter showing at the turn of each fold. The revers open over a taffeta blouse, which is hardly discernible through the voluminous folds of a muslin cravate, whose long, draped ends reach below the waist, where they meet the skirt, and then extend down the front of the skirt to the hem. They form two long ruffle-like ends, rounded at the bottom, and edged with a deep ruffle of the embroidered black net.
