

THE HOUGHNIMS' LAND. HORSES ARE THE MASTERS AT THE GARDENS.

AND STILL GREATER AND GREATER CROWDS OF GULLIVERS FLOCK TO VISIT THEM.

Another day of triumphal progress for the Horse Show. There is no question that this year's show, if it does not eclipse, will at least equal the best of previous exhibitions...

Among the visitors were people who are looked upon as leaders of the fashionable world, men conspicuous in every path of life, and women whose beauty and elegance of bearing attracted perhaps more attention than the horses.

It has been often said that the majority of the people go to the show to be seen or to see. The horse merely taking a sort of super-numerary part. Many writers, indeed, have described the show as consisting of three strata—the two classes just alluded to and the "rail bird"—the true enthusiast, who is more interested in the conformation of a horse than the prettiest face in the building.

WHERE HORSES WERE ABOVE MEN. It is time that the horse should have given to him the credit that is due him. The place he takes in the show might fairly be likened to the position Gulliver describes the horse as occupying in the country of the Houghnims.

The simple may be carried further. In the grooms the horse has his Yahoos, who wait upon him, bedeck him in gay colors and minister to his every want, while Gulliver himself, who looked down upon the Yahoos as inferior sort of persons, has his counterpart in the fashionable folk, who are apt to regard the grooms in the light of a necessary appendage to the horse.

For the first time since the present show opened there was an unfavorable demonstration made last night against a decision. It occurred in the first class shown in the evening, and devoted to the high school saddle horses. There were only three entries, two of them being Melville H. Barns's bay gelding Harrison, and Emil E. Galber's chestnut Captain Harrison.

Some of those present. One of the new arrivals at the show yesterday afternoon was Mrs. John Christopher Wilmerding, who sat in a box with her daughter, Miss Georgiana Wilmerding, and Miss Euretta Kernochan. Mrs. William Carter, of Philadelphia, looking handsome in a costume of black cloth, combined with black and white silk, was also present.

THE AWARDS. The following are the awards made yesterday: Class 22—Horses in harness, over three years old or over, 12 1/2 hands and over. First prize, $200, Harrison, bay gelding, Melville H. Barns, second prize, $100, Captain Harrison, chestnut gelding, Emil E. Galber, third prize, $50, Harrison, bay gelding, Melville H. Barns, fourth prize, $25, Captain Harrison, chestnut gelding, Emil E. Galber.

CHILDREN ADMIRE THE PONIES. Children were more in evidence than ever yesterday morning when the practical work of the day began. They came to see the ponies, which were scheduled to occupy the attention of the proceedings. The greater part of the morning's proceedings. The first class shown was for ponies in harness. There were nine entries, and they were hitched to diminutive vehicles no bigger, some of them, than a servicable and commodious baby carriage. In most cases the reins were handled by little drivers of tender years. Altogether it was a most interesting class, and was greeted by the children in the boxes and balconies with shrieks of delight.

When Class No. 79, for Shetland ponies, entered the arena something of a sensation was created by the appearance of a frisky little chestnut mare mounted by a little girl apparently only about ten years old, dressed in a scarlet divided costume and riding astride on a boy's saddle. The pony belonged to Mrs. S. A. Crutshank, of Plainfield, N. J., and the young equestrienne was her daughter, Helen. She rode her Lilliputian steed with perfect self-possession, but when the judges passed her by both she and her mother, who was watching outside the rail, were perceptibly disappointed.

STEVENS AND JORDAN CLOSE RIVALS. In Class 27, for mares, three years old or over, fifteen hands two inches and over, there were only four competitors, three of which came from the stables of Frederick C. Stevens. The fourth belonged to E. D. Jordan. It was nipped and tucked between Mr. Jordan's Bonwick Belle and Mr. Stevens's Lady Sutton, who, before she was imported, earned championship honors in England. It was some time before the judges could make their decision, but eventually Mr. Stevens won the blue rosette, and also the yellow.

Another class for hackneys, under the same conditions as the preceding class, except that the height was limited to fifteen hands and under fifteen hands two inches. Mr. Stevens and Mr. Jordan were again the only exhibitors. The former showing two mares and the latter one. This time Mr. Jordan turned the tables on his opponent by taking the first prize. The other two ribbons, of course, went to Mr. Stevens.

Another class for hackneys followed. This was for stallions, two years old. Although there were only five entries it proved a hard class to judge. The stallions were a nice level lot, and as they were all of good appearance and showed signs of being good specimens, the judges were divided. The red ribbon, which was formerly and the success of his pair in this competition was highly acceptable to him. Wheeler and Wheelock, Strauss & Hexter's pair, obtained the blue ribbon, and the red ribbon, "Topsy's" Thunder and Lightning gained the yellow colors.

ATTENDANCE IN THE EVENING. The most brilliant audience of the week assembled in the evening. Mr. and Mrs. Elsieha Dyer, Jr., the latter in a rich gown of black Chantilly lace over white satin, had as their guests Mrs. Dyer's pretty daughter, Miss Swan, who was in an effective gown of biscuit colored crepe de chine, embroidered in white, and a black velvet. Mrs. Reginald De Koven, in black net embroidered with silver, and Julian Stevens Ulman, in a box close by were Mr. and Mrs. John Monroe, of Paris, the latter in a black and white striped silk, and Mr. and Mrs. Jules Montant, and Mrs. Monroe's daughter, Miss Julia Hunt.

Among the hunters here are Colonel O. F. Joslin, president of the Brunswick Fur Club, Oxford, Mass.; Dr. W. L. Sturgill, president of the National Fox Hunters' Association, Ceredo, W. Va.; Secretary Roger D. Williams, Lexington; Captain Lee, Hathaway; J. C. Boswell, Winchester, Ky.; Alanson Trigg, Glasgow; Thomas Williams, Madison; F. S. Griffin, J. C. Lilly, A. W. Walker, S. W. He will hold the office for four years under the new city charter passed by the Legislature.

THE EXCAVATIONS AT NIPPUR. ANOTHER EXPEDITION UNDER DIRECTION OF THE UNIVERSITY OF PENNSYLVANIA. Philadelphia, Nov. 15.—The University of Pennsylvania has just fitted out another expedition to Babylonia to complete the excavation of the ancient city of Nippur. The work is under the direct control of Dr. Hermann W. Hilprecht, Ph. D., LL. D., of the university, the most famous Assyriologist in the world. The university has been conducting these excavations for the last ten years, at a total expense of over $100,000.

FOX HUNTING IN KENTUCKY. SIXTH ANNUAL MEET OF THE NATIONAL ASSOCIATION BEGINS. Estlin Springs, Ky., Nov. 15 (Special).—The sixth annual meet of the National Fox Hunters' Association began here today. Light rain has fallen, and the conditions are excellent for fine sport. In the preliminary hunt to-day a fox was started, but he was tracked only a short distance, when he took his own life. It is thought that the absence of Admiral Joutet, who has been a prominent figure in previous meets, is regretted. He is not well enough to attend. Another absentee is W. B. F. Kinney, of Worcester, Mass., whose daughter, Miss Madge Kinney, was the life of former meets. She was married recently.

JUDGE HAYWARD NOT EXPECTED TO LIVE. SUFFERING FROM A THIRD STROKE OF PARALYSIS—CONDITION CRITICAL. Nebraska City, Neb., Nov. 15 (Special).—Senator H. L. Hayward is thought to be dying to-night. The physicians agree that death is inevitable. The sick man may survive several days. This is the third paralytic stroke he has had in three months. Judge Hayward was elected Senator at the regular session of the last Legislature, after one of the warmest contests the State has ever known. The deadlock continued for sixty days, the Fusionists standing by the retiring Senator, W. V. Allen, on every ballot.

SHOT WITH HIS OWN GUN. OLIVER C. WAGSTAFF PAINFULLY WOUNDED WHILE HUNTING NEAR BABYLON, LONG ISLAND. Babylon, Long Island, Nov. 15.—Oliver C. Wagstaff was painfully but not seriously injured this afternoon while hunting in the woods near his place. His father is C. D. B. Wagstaff, of No. 11 West Twenty-first-st., New York. The young man went out this afternoon looking for quail and rab-bit. He had some luck, having fair sport over the property owned by his father, which is closed against ordinary hunters. In penetrating a thick growth of underbrush after quail his double-barrel gun caught in some branches and was jerked from his hand and discharged. The portion of the shot lodged in his left hip and a few inches to the right. The wounds were painful and bled freely. The shot was heard by a man employed on the farm, and he found the young man unconscious and carried him to the house, where he was revived and a physician removed much of the shot.

COMMANDER KAY SATISFIED. REPORTS REGARDING THE DEWEY PARADE, HE SAYS SHOW THAT THE DISCIPLINE IN THE GRAND ARMY OF THE REPUBLIC IS SPLENDID. Joseph W. Kay, Commander of the Department of New-York of the Grand Army of the Republic, attended a meeting of the Grand Army of the Republic in Borough Hall, Brooklyn, last night. After the meeting a reporter saw him in reference to the report that seven men had been reported to the State headquarters of the Grand Army of the Republic for violation of the order that no member was to march in the Dewey parade in uniform. Commander Kay said that it was a fact that seven men had been reported, one of whom had previously been dropped from the rolls, and over whom they had no jurisdiction.
