MAY RAISE BAIL TO FORTUNE

Several motions in connection with the Franklin Syndicate were made before Judge Thomas in the United States District Court yesterday morning. Mr. House, lawyer for William F. Miller, moved that the order compelling Miller to appear before a referee on Tuesday morning be vacated, and the order compelling Miller to produce books and papers in his possession be set aside.

There is a strong probability now that William F. Miller will continue to languish in Raymond Street Jail until his case comes to trial, on April 2.

The bail asked under the three old indictments is $25,000, and it is probable that an addition will now be made to this amount proportionate to the seventeen extra indictments handed down against Miller on Friday. No one seems disposed to go on Miller's bail, and the amount now required will without doubt prove prohibitive.

Miller has made no proposition to me of any kind. The talk about "big men" being behind him is all nonsense. The only "big man" behind Miller was Schlessinger. Miller used to go around among the poor Germans and do his best to get around among the poor Jews, and he was engaged in the same kind of work as the other men who were engaged in the ways of the world.

The District Attorney says that he believes he can ultimately get the man he wants, and that he will not make any terms with Miller should the latter offer to "fall he knows."

Yesterday he submitted the following report:

I beg to offer the following report of a personal and detailed inspection of sample elevated motor car No. 42 of the Brooklyn Rapid Transit Company. The wiring and appliances throughout give evidence of thoughtful design and careful construction, so that it is probable that this Department to suggest merely a few alterations. When these changes shall have been made every contingency which it is possible to predict will be taken care of.

After a certificate shall have been issued covering this car, all of the elevated rolling stock will be altered to conform to the requirements of this Department as exemplified in car No. 42.
