AN EXTRAORDINARY POKER GAME, THIS.

YARN FROM THE DEMOCRATIC CLUB WHICH POLITICIANS AND PLAYERS DOUBT.

Those who have any general knowledge of the game of poker have been greatly amused to read the stories printed recently about a game alleged to have been played at the Democratic Club, in the course of which Maurice Untermyer, the well known lawyer and Tammany politician, is credited with winning $15,000 in a single jack pot, holding a royal heart flush. One newspaper story talked wisely about four aces being held against the royal heart flush. This would clearly indicate the presence of five aces in the deck and call for vigorous measures. Times are propitious with Tammany now, owing to the immense revenues derived from the Ice Trust, the blackmail of gambling houses and from other political pulls, but flush as many Tammany men are $15,000 is a little higher than they play. What is more, Maurice Untermyer, who is credited with being a regular player, is also credited with being a chronic loser, and no one will believe he had any such luck. Again, the hands said to have been held in this particular pot are of a character that would call for an investigation of a most searching kind, and if such hands were really out in this game, various old time players say the dealer might be regarded respectfully. Many men have played poker steadily, persistently and patiently all their lives with fluctuating luck without holding a royal flush. A royal flush, the highest hand which can be held in poker, comes less frequently than the century plant blooms, and when it does happen it is usual to nail the hand to the wall and talk of it for years to come. To have out against it in the same way four times and a straight is almost inconceivable.

For any one to hold four of a kind is unusual, and to hold them against a royal flush or even a straight flush is the refinement of cruelty. The third hand, a straight, does not cause so much comment. Straights are frequently held, but an old time poker player will tell you that the man who draws perfectly to scratch and flushes is bound to lose his patrimony. To draw to an "inside" straight is considered by adept poker players to be akin to the action of a lunatic, yet this is what one of the players is credited with doing, and it is also added that he filled his straight. Strange as it may seem, this hand, according to reports, was a sequence of three, four, five and six and then an eight. Any poker player would throw away the eight and draw to the three, four, five and six, as this would leave it open at both ends and give a double chance to fill. This player, however, did nothing of the kind. He threw away the three and took the lone chance of getting a seven inside to fill. Stranger still, he is said to have got it, and then the player who had four nines "paid," and Mr. Untermyer, who drew one card to the king, queen, jack and ten of hearts, getting the ace of hearts, fell to betting until there was $15,000 in the pot, which the royal flush won.

No confirmation of this absurd story could be secured yesterday. Untermyer is on the ocean. Ex-Judge Howard, of Philadelphia, who is said to have held four nines, could not be found, and John P. Carroll, who is credited with having held the straight, says he was not in any game and never heard of such a game being played. It is true that Mr. Untermyer did get a floral design representing a heart royal flush just before he sailed for Europe, with the inscription, "To the victor from the victima," and the story seems to have grown out of this. The whole yarn is regarded by poker players and politicians as the fantastic imagining of a superheated Tammany brain, where some of the seeds by Tammany's Ice Trust might be applied with beneficial effect.

SUES FOR HAVING TOOTH KNOCKED OUT.

FLUTE PLAYER SAYS HIS MEANS OF LIVELIHOOD IS GONE, IN CONSEQUENCE. AND HE WANTS $5,000.

On the Supreme Court calendar for Monday is an action brought by Ernst Kruetz, a musician, against the Third Avenue Railroad Company for damages to the extent of $5,000. The musician, whose specialty is the flute, alleges that he was standing on the corner of Third-ave. and Ninety-second-st. on the morning of April 19, between the hours of 1 and 2 o'clock. He had just returned from Astoria, where he had been playing in an orchestra. He signalled an open car, which was passing, and, as it slowed up, he stepped on. The car lurched forward, and Kruetz says that he was thrown to the ground with such force that one of his front teeth was broken. Since that time, he says, he has been unable to play the flute, and in consequence his means of livelihood is gone. H. Gerald Chapin and George W. Wellenbach represent the plaintiff in the action.
