THE NEWS THIS MORNING.

FOREIGN—The Cuban Constitutional Convention opened in Havana with great enthusiasm.

CITY—Stocks were strong and higher. Governor Roosevelt warned Mayor Van Wyck that the Mayor would be held responsible if Chief Devereaux directed against Superintendent McCullagh.

DEVEREAUX AND "TOLERATION." Devereaux's notice to his subordinates that they "must not tolerate the methods of John McCullagh, State Superintendent of Elections."

REMEMBER CONGRESS. Particular interest has been aroused in the fight which William R. Wilcox, the Republican and Sound Money candidate for Congress in the XIIIth District, is making against that typically blatant Bryanite, O. H. P. Belmont.

THE CHIEF POLICE. When Chief Devereaux attempted to interfere with the State Superintendent, and said that the "methods of John McCullagh" must not be tolerated, perhaps he thought he was merely making trouble for one whom he regards as a personal rival.

statements, telling his subordinates to co-operate with the State Superintendent and his deputies. He doubtless wants to fall back on that to show that he meant no harm at all.

DON'T DODGE! BUT VOTE!

Today may be, in weather, the finest of the finest season of the year. We hope it will be. And it will be a holiday. There will be fine opportunities for trying your new automobile or for speeding your favorite trotter.

Dodging is cowardly. It bespeaks weakness of mind and infirmity of will and fear to accept the responsibilities of citizenship. It is a shallow sophistry to say one will not choose between two evils, but will dodge them both.

Don't dodge! Vote! Spend a few minutes at the polling place, fulfilling your duty as a citizen and a sovereign. Vote for National honor, for the old flag, for an honest dollar and for an honest judiciary.

THE ELECTION.

Brougham is credited with having said, though he gave it the semblance of a quotation, that "the whole machinery of the State, all the apparatus of the system, and its varied workings, end in simply bringing twelve good men into a box."

Citizens who might have registered, but carelessly or selfishly failed to acquire that essential qualification, may be set aside for future treatment. Those who can vote if they will are the subjects of concern to-day.

There is no sufficient reason to look for trouble, so is there the best of reasons for avoiding acts which might possibly lead to trouble. Chairman Odell in his final address to Republicans has offered some excellent suggestions in that respect.

We are glad to be able to say that all obtainable information down to the latest hour confirms our opinion that an overwhelming verdict for public order, financial honesty and National honor at home and abroad is about to be recorded.

city should not be represented by free silver men. Some of the Bryanite candidates profess to be for gold, but they are not enough for it to be unwilling to see a President in office who would use all the Executive power to destroy the gold standard.

TWO PERTINENT PRECEDENTS.

Mr. Croker, who began his public career as an election brawler, advises his followers to disregard the law and to use violence to secure such electoral results as they think themselves entitled to, and follows up such incendiary talk with an official order, promulgated through his creature Devereux, intended to array the police against the proper enforcement of the law.

Mr. Croker and his ruffianly followers will do well to remember "Bat" Shea and John Y. McKane.

CROKER'S RECORD BREAKING.

Mr. Croker has broken three records in this year's campaign. One is that of at least ostensible suppression or subordination of Tammany Hall in a Presidential campaign.

The second record breaking pertains to the ethics and the comity of political demonstrations. Petty fights and disturbances have occurred, but never hitherto has a great political party as a whole tried to interfere with or molest a general parade or other demonstration of its rival.

The third, last and worst case of all is the attempt made by Mr. Croker, through his hireling, the unspeakable Devereux, to provoke an open conflict between two departments of the public service.

Every vote is needed, if not to carry the State and Nation, to make the popular majority against Bryanism, Crokerism and Anarchy so great as to be absolutely final.

THE NAVY AND COMMERCE.

The proposals for the increase of the Navy are bitterly opposed by some who insist that our Navy is already big enough for all purposes and that our only need now is to extend our mercantile marine.

La Lorraine and the St. Paul have suffered serious accidents at sea within a short time, but in neither case were the passengers put to any inconvenience except delay.

in expectation of war, but for the purpose of maintaining the beneficent commercial conditions of peace.

He must, indeed, be a purblind reader of history who does not realize the truth of that proposition in its widest sense. The great mercantile Powers have been the great naval Powers. That was true of the Phœnicians, of Carthage and of Greece. It was true of Rome, which never excelled in commerce until it had won the mastery of the Mediterranean from Carthage.

In their futile talk about the Constitution following the flag men have forgotten—or have tried to deny, as Mr. Bourke Cockran did the other night—that trade follows the flag.

Had the great coal strike been continued huge piles of soft coal would have been used in this city in defiance of the municipal ordinances, and the Health Department would have had a busy time in prosecuting the offenders.

KEEP THE AIR CLEAR.

Had the great coal strike been continued huge piles of soft coal would have been used in this city in defiance of the municipal ordinances, and the Health Department would have had a busy time in prosecuting the offenders.

Not many months ago dozens of tall chimneys in the boroughs of Manhattan, Brooklyn, the Bronx and Queens could be seen pouring forth lanky clouds in immense volumes.

The Rev. James Henry Wiggin, who died in Boston last week at the age of sixty-four, was a direct descendant from Governor Thomas Wiggin of New-Hampshire, who emigrated to this country in 1630, and from Governor Simon Bradstreet and Thomas Dudley of Massachusetts.

THE TALK OF THE DAY.

"The Hutchinson (Kan.) News" says that every morning at the usual hour Miss Mary Scroggins opens the schoolhouse in District No. 78, in Reno County, and then sits at her desk all day long, while not a pupil comes to receive instruction.

"There comes Polly Perkins, let's make it hot for her!" "How, Dolly?" "Why, let's be real cool to her!"—Indianapolis Journal.

Some months ago a number of public spirited citizens of Berkeley, Cal., offered to pay into the town treasury the $1800 received annually from liquor licenses. On this condition a prohibition ordinance was adopted, and the saloons received notice that they might have three months in which to wind up the business.

Malachy Delano is Friendship's smart old man. He is eighty-eight years of age, and still follows his arduous business of shore fishing, which demands a high standard of industry, toughness, courage and smartness.

Mary is very stout, quite deaf and the trusted household of a family in the East Park section. Incidentally, she seems to be something of an art critic.

Plunging gamblers and betting jockeys damage the turf on both sides of the Atlantic and endanger the stability and popularity of the sport, and some jockeys talk too much. Sloan, for instance, has been chattering of late in England so foolishly that he will not be hailed with plaudits when he returns to the land of his birth.

Now for a fine day, a full vote and an overwhelming victory.

All one has to do these days is to approach Richard Croker and say "Roosevelt!" and the Tammany chieftain begins to revolve and splutter like a pinwheel.

Indian summer with warmth like that of yesterday makes the heart of the dealer in anthracite coal sink within him. Yet, he holds up prices with a desperate clutch.

La Lorraine and the St. Paul have suffered serious accidents at sea within a short time, but in neither case were the passengers put to any inconvenience except delay.

The officers whose duty it is to enforce the same laws of Kansas, recently had reason to suspect that some market hunters were illegally shipping quail from Wellington, but the gathering of evidence was found to be an almost impossible task.

"I have two suits for my two boys," says a Philadelphia man, "one new and expensive; the other very old and ugly and worn. They own these suits in common, and the boy who gets up first in the morning wears the good one as a reward. Both boys are fond of dress, and so this scheme works well. The minute I shout 'Boys, get up,' they spring out of bed and make a rush for the new suit. Sometimes they reach it together, when there will be a hot fight over who is to wear it, and I have to come up and restore order with a hairbrush."

"The World's Fault"—"There is one thing I like about you," said the intimate friend, "and that is your lack of vanity. You don't pretend to be the greatest actor in the world." "No," answered Mr. Stormington Barnes thoughtfully, "but I would be if the world would only come to see me."—Washington Star.

manifest records on baked bricks, indicates that the Babylonian city was a centre of remarkably varied activities, and anticipates many of the details of modern business in mortgages, loans, transfers, etc. The guileless Nippurians, however, in their wildest imaginings never conceived the thought of certain features of modern civilization. They had no Board of Aldermen, no Ice Trust Mayor, no State Senators who kept faro banks and poolrooms, and no Tammany Boss to deface the finest streets of Nippur with ugly poles holding up cheap and vulgar insults to a great host of patriotic and public spirited citizens.

The Bryan-Jones-Croker-Devereux motto seems to be: "If any man attempts to vote for McKinley shoot him on the spot!"

The Irish Parliamentary party is talking of expelling the Hon. Timothy Healy for insubordination. It is to be hoped it will reconsider the matter carefully. "Tim" carries entirely too much brains under his hat to be treated lightly. As to expecting him ever to be entirely subordinate to any one or anything else, that is, as a Ward would say, "2 much." He would not obey even Parnell, and there is no hope of his ever learning to obey any one but the Hon. Timothy Healy.

PERSONAL.

Bishop Bickersteth, of Exeter, England, whose resignation at the end of the year is announced, was consecrated by the Bishop of Lincoln in St. Paul's Cathedral in the presence of an immense congregation on St. Mark's Day, 1885, when Canon Liddon preached his famous sermon on the "Apostrophe of St. Paul." Both Bishops were nominated by Mr. Gladstone.

The Philadelphia Record says: "A bronze bust of the late Charles Lennig, the eminent chemist, will be unveiled within the next few days near the southwest corner of College Hall, on the campus of the University of Pennsylvania, to which institution he gave altogether over $70000. The bust, designed by John J. Boyle, is said to be an excellent likeness of Mr. Lennig. It is three feet high, and the pedestal, of New-Brunswick granite, is about seven feet in height. Stone steps and a path make a fitting approach to the monument. Nicholas Lennig, a son of the famous chemist, is the donor of the statue, which will face the south. The front of the pedestal bears this inscription:

Charles Lennig. Born November 1, 1806. Died January 22, 1891. As a contribution to the cause of science and the relief of the poor, he bequeathed to the University of Pennsylvania, $70,000. Erected by his son, Nicholas Lennig.

James A. Carr, the chairman of the Executive Committee of the National Agricultural, Implements and Vehicle Association, has been elected its president.

The heirs of the late Gardner G. Hubbard, of Washington, founder of the National Geographic Society, and its president down to the time of his death, are to be divided into two groups, and the use of the society. The structure will be a memorial to Mr. Hubbard, and will cost $40000.

M. Lord and Mrs. Alfred Peas are expected at the Springs.

CLEVELAND TO GO HOME TO-Y.

Detroit, Nov. 5.—"The Free Press" to-morrow will publish an interview with Don M. Dickinson, just returned from New-York, in which he stated that the published statement that Mr. Cleveland had been absent from Princeton on a fishing trip, Election Day is untrue. He is at Greenwich, Conn., where he has been working for Mr. Benedict on Friday, but he will return to Princeton on Saturday for election and will go to the polls at his voting precinct.

IRVING PLACE THEATRE.

"Von Stufe zu Stufe," a drama in five acts, by Dr. Hugo Müller, was presented by Mr. Conried's company at the Irving Place Theatre last night before a large audience. The play gave the various members of the company good opportunities to show their versatility, and some of them, who had already been seen in "The House of the Dead," showed that they could sing also. The play is an old one, dressed in modern attire. A poor girl who is betrothed to a young man in equally poor circumstances is tempted by an adventurer to leave him for a career on the stage. He promises her wealth and luxury, while her lover can give her only a humble home. In the end she is made to see that she has been deceived, and she returns to her lover, who has been waiting for her all the while.

"The World's Fault"—"There is one thing I like about you," said the intimate friend, "and that is your lack of vanity. You don't pretend to be the greatest actor in the world." "No," answered Mr. Stormington Barnes thoughtfully, "but I would be if the world would only come to see me."—Washington Star.

ABOUT SOCIETY.

Neither suburb nor town presented much in the way of social gaiety yesterday. Many of the house parties will continue until to-morrow. The very mild weather has made the country delightful. To-day is always an eventful one socially in the suburbs. The feature is the steeples on the grounds of the Meadow Brook Club. This contest in previous years took place on William C. Whitcomb's farm. The course there is covered, over hill and dale, and this year a change has been made in favor of the absolute level. The chase will begin at 10 o'clock, and will last until 4 o'clock. There will be a number of dinners at the various houses in the neighborhood in the evening.

Mr. and Mrs. J. Frederick Kerschner will close their country place at the Highlands of Navesink to-day and will come to town for the season.
