

POLICE MUST KNOW OF IT. JUSTICE JEROME SAYS GAMBLING IS IMPOSSIBLE WITHOUT PROTECTION.

Justice Jerome of the Court of Special Sessions, who took a leading part in the raid on the gambling den at No. 12 Broad-st., on Thursday afternoon, said yesterday that he did not believe such a place could be run without police protection.

"It is nonsense to say gambling can't be stopped here in this city," he said. "No man twenty-one years of age would believe that seventy-five hundred uniformed men in the Police Department could not suppress gambling if they wanted to."

"I've talked with three police captains since February 27, all three at different times, and they have told me that no poolroom or gambling house could exist in a precinct in the city for two days without the captain of the precinct knowing it. One man, an experienced man in these matters, and a man, too, who has been head of the Detective Bureau, told me that it would be impossible to run a joint in a precinct without the captain's knowledge. One might slip in and run a day or two, but no money could be made that way."

"Now, compare these statements with the condition in the Tenderloin. We found ten places there with furniture worth $5,000, and in some cases a whole house was occupied, and all were within a quarter of a mile of the police station. It is reasonable to suppose the captain of that precinct did not know of the existence of those places? Are we to believe the police force is incompetent? I think the idea of the Committee of Fifteen is to show that the police force is incompetent to do its duty."

Frank Moss said yesterday that an examination of the books led to the belief that the place in Broad-st. was associated in some way with the Golden Owl, No. 122 East One-hundred-and-fifty-fifth-st., the resort of Commissioner Nagle's friends.

"We found the name 'Nagle' among the entries in the books," said Mr. Moss, "and the address of one of the men arrested was given as the Golden Owl. We also found the name of Frank Barlow, the manager, the address No. 7 Park Place, which leads me to think that he conducted the place at that number. This belief is further borne out by the fact that the books show the purchase of two roulette wheels and two furo tables, only one of each was found in the gambling house in Broad-st. street."

Speaking of the entry, "To expenses, first payment, $50," Mr. Moss said that, although they had no credit at the time, but had to pay for it, it meant a month's payment to Tammany Hall for the protection of the resort.

"We found this to be true in a number of instances in the Lexow investigation," he said, "and it is especially significant in view of the fact that all the other expenses were carefully itemized."

CASE AGAINST WESTERVELT. TO MANY COMPLAINTS ABOUT POOL-ROOMS, HE REPLIED THAT HE COULD GET NO EVIDENCE.

The adjourned hearing in the action against Pool Captain Joseph A. Westervelt, charged with inefficient police service in the Church-st. precinct, was resumed yesterday morning before Magistrate Cornell, in the private room of the Centre-st. court. Frederick B. House, who appeared for the defendant, asking whether any formal charges had been drawn up, the magistrate answered that there were no formal charges yet, and that the present hearing was solely for the purpose of determining whether there was enough evidence to justify charges being made against the defendant.

Captain John D. Herlihy, who will be arraigned on a similar charge later, was present.

The next witness was Frank Connor, a patrolman, at present detailed to the East One-hundred-and-twenty-sixth-st. station. He testified that between January 1, 1899, and February, 1901, he had served in the Second Precinct, or Church-st. station, under Captain Westervelt. The witness identified three books as those that had been kept at the Church-st. station. One of the books is the book of "notices" received by Captain Westervelt from Inspector Brooks. The other two notices, which were dated May 1, 1899, and May 1, 1900, were addressed to the places in the Church-st. precinct, and ordered him to suppress them. On May 2, 1899, Captain Westervelt replied that he had "given personal attention" to the places, but had not succeeded in obtaining evidence. A number of similar notices on subsequent dates received similar answers.

The hearing was adjourned until Tuesday at 10 o'clock.

MURPHY SAYS HE'LL STAY. Police Commissioner Murphy yesterday laughed at the suggestion that he might resign, and with John R. Sexton, the president of the Health Board. "There is not a word of truth in that report," Mr. Murphy said. "I have no idea of leaving the Police Department." The report was said to have been made by a fact-finding commission, and Mr. Sexton had been in consultation over some police matters.

OHIO STATIONARY AT CINCINNATI. CONSIDERABLE SUFFERING FROM THE FLOOD—FALL EXPECTED TO-DAY.

Cincinnati, April 26.—The Ohio River has been stationary here for some distance below Cincinnati since 9 o'clock this morning, when the limit of 54 feet was reached. Those depending on the prediction of the limit not exceeding 58 feet have suffered since the stage became almost ten feet above the danger line. Local forecast official Bessler said to-night:

"I look for the river to remain stationary until to-morrow, when it will be a perceptible fall. I think the flood will decline very slowly, and that it will take six days before a stage of 25 feet will be reached. A reduction to 50 feet, the danger line at Cincinnati, will not come before Monday.

Favorable weather is reported throughout the Ohio Valley, and relief is confidently expected soon. The conditions on both sides of the river here to-night are as follows: The Ludlow Lagoon suffered much damage to-day, as well as the Newport race-track and other places on the Kentucky side. On both sides of the river public storehouses have been opened for the destitute by municipal authorities, but there is no call for public aid. Many sick have been removed from inundated houses to hospitals. Relief committees have been organized at many places above Cincinnati, where there is distress.
