MAYOR AND THE TUNNEL.

TAMMANY OBSTRUCTED RAPID TRANSIT AND NOW POSES AS ITS FRIEND.

Mayor Van Wyck as the principal promoter of rapid transit is a Tammany poster-joke that is delighting even the goats around High Bridge and the Bronx these days. The Tammany literary bureau, assuming that people do not read the newspapers except just before and after Election Day, is posting placards telling that the building of the rapid transit tunnel is the crowning achievement of the Van Wyck administration.

The Mayor, on the contrary, for nearly two years was the bitterest opponent that the tunnel had, and in that time the Tammany men tried to work a system of political blackmail that was only defeated by the courage of the Rapid Transit Commissioners, aided by the State Legislature.

In his first message to the Municipal Assembly, on January 3, 1898, Mayor Van Wyck declared that the tunnel could not be constructed without exceeding the city's constitutional debt limit. A commission appointed by the Appellate Division reported against this view of the Mayor, but in spite of that he said that the underground work should be abandoned, and that the people of New-York must make the best possible use of the then existing facilities.

The criticisms of Justice Jerome on the grand jury system came up for discussion at a meeting of the judges of the Court of General Sessions yesterday, but after the meeting it was said that the judges had decided not to take any action in the matter until after the election, because such action might be misinterpreted as a vindictive proceeding.

In 1899 a bill was passed at Albany enabling the commission to go ahead and have the tunnel built by private capital under fifty year franchises on the best terms that could be obtained by the city. The Mayor vetoed the bill and blocked the progress of the preliminary tunnel work.

All this time Croker was trying to prevent anything from being done on the tunnel work unless some scheme could be worked so that Tammany could get a "take-off." Not until September 1, 1899, when the Corporation Counsel wrote a letter to the commission announcing a complete change of front on the part of Van Wyck, Croker and the Corporation Counsel's office. This was done because the Tammany district leaders told Croker that Tammany would probably be able to effect a working agreement with the contractor if the work were allowed to proceed.

The contract, however, was not signed at a time when the city departments have made many attempts to hold up the Controller and interfere with his work. Doubtless the tunnel would be in actual operation at the present time if it had not been for willful obstruction by Mayor Van Wyck and those "higher up."

In view of this municipal history of a recent date, the attempts of the Tammany campaign managers to make busy people believe that the tunnel is the crowning achievement of the Van Wyck administration is somewhat ridiculous. It is said that whenever Fort Washington would poster telling about Mayor Van Wyck's efforts to further rapid transit they at once set it up, and feel good over the joke for all the next day.

A campaign meeting in the interest of the fusion ticket, which was a little out of the ordinary, was held last evening, under the auspices of the Woman's Municipal League, at the home of Richard Watson Gilder, No. 13 East Eighth-st. The speakers were Mr. Gilder, Mrs. L. W. Betts, C. C. Burlingham and Norman Hapgood.

One or two of the speakers were acquainted with Mr. Shepard, but all were of the opinion that Mr. Shepard, with a connection with Tammany Hall, could accomplish little toward the purification of the city government. Mr. Gilder, who was chairman, said:

Mr. Shepard is undoubtedly a thinker. But his present condition shows that a thinker may do nothing but a thoroughly false and perilous position. The instinct of the great mass of our honest citizens is to support the fusion ticket, and this is not to be driven from power, and this not by voting it, or any part of it, but by voting the whole of it out. This is a deal better than any amount of ratiocination on the part of a brilliant but, let us hope only temporarily, deflected intellect.

Mrs. Betts, who works in the tenement house districts, showed how government managed by Tammany affects the poor. Mr. Burlingham analyzed some of Mr. Shepard's speeches, and pointed out that Mr. Shepard's idea of partisanship in municipal politics was wrong. Speaking of Mr. Shepard's ability to purify the government, he said:

Shepard is my friend, but I don't believe he can do it in spite of his romance in himself. I think Mr. Shepard has done a very wrong thing for two reasons—first, because he has been elected through and through, and second, because he has so great confidence in himself. If all the Democrats who had left Tammany Hall, had never returned to it

BUILDING TRADES FOR LOW.

DELEGATES OF THE COUNCIL COMMENT ON THE FUSION TICKET.

The board of delegates of the United Council of the Building Trades, representing about forty thousand voters, endorsed the entire fusion ticket yesterday at a meeting in Brevoort Hall, Fifty-fourth-st., near Third-ave. The candidacy of William J. O'Brien for Sheriff of New-York County was specially commended, and the delegates pledged themselves to do all in their power to elect him.

A circular condemning the methods of the present city administration, and urging the wage workers to vote for Mr. O'Brien, who is still the delegate of the Granite Cutters, was enthusiastically adopted. It is signed by John Tasker, steamfitter; William Parker, marble cutter; Thomas Murphy, the lawyer, and Edward Kelly, electrical worker, and says in part:

The mechanical work in our city institutions at the present time is being done by untrained and incompetent workmen. Nearly every organization in the building trade complains to the city officials of unfair treatment, but no attempt has been made to remedy the evils.

In the number of William J. O'Brien, an opportunity is given to the workmen of this city to place in a position of trust one of their own true and tried friends.

The United Council of the Building Trades is composed of the unions in the old Board of Walking Delegates. This is the first time it has ever actively espoused any political cause.

If you do not register, you cannot vote. The registration books are closed to-night at 10 o'clock.

ENGEL'S FRIENDS USED THE EMBLEM. GREATER NEW-YORK DEMOCRACY TO START FIGHT TO PREVENT THEM APPROPRIATING THE ROOSTER.

The Greater New-York Democracy will today begin a fight to prevent the Home Republican Club, an organization made up of friends of Martin Engel, in the Eighth Assembly District, appropriating the rooster emblem of the Greater New-York Democracy.

Engel's friends on October 12 discovered that the Greater New-York Democracy had not filed with the Board of Elections their declaration of intention to use a rooster as their organization emblem on the ballot.

Encouragement from 1894. The hall at No. 120 East One-hundred-and-twenty-fifth-st. has been named Camp Jerome, and meets there every Tuesday evening at 8 o'clock.

MASS MEETING FOR GERMANS. A special appeal will be made to the German American ticket at a big mass meeting which will be held at Cooper Union.

SHEPARD TO SPEAK IN QUEENS. It was announced in the Borough of Queens yesterday that Edward M. Shepard would speak there on Tuesday night. He will address mass meetings at Richmond Hill and Jamaica that evening.

TO DISCUSS MUNICIPAL PROBLEMS. The next regular meeting of the Congressional Club of New-York and Vicinity will be held at St. Denis on Monday at 5.30 p. m., and among the speakers who are expected to take part in a discussion of municipal problems are Dr. Albert Shaw, Clinton Rogers Woodruff and the Rev. Dr. Thomas R. Slicer.

JAPANESE WRESTLERS. The entire empire takes great interest in wrestling. The athletes devoted to it are esteemed very highly. See Sunday's Tribune.

HUMORS OF THE CAMPAIGN

NEW TO THE CLUB'S GLORIES.—An East Side district leader of Tammany Hall took two of his local aids up to the Democratic Club yesterday afternoon to show them the glories of the club. He took them to the safe for luncheon. Just as they were seated at the table he received a message that called him away. He excused himself and told his guests to go ahead and order whatever they wanted and to charge it to him.

A MYSTERY EXPLAINED.—Assemblyman Gherard Davis was caught coming out of a saloon in Sixth-ave., near Forty-second-st., yesterday by a friend, who at once exclaimed: "Davis, what does this mean? I never would have thought it of you."

REPUBLICAN AND CITIZENS UNION CANDIDATE. Like a Columbus, Gherard Davis, XXVIIIth ASSEMBLY DISTRICT.

SHAKESPEARE APPLIED TO TAMMANY.—Some quotations from Shakespeare, which are more or less appropriate to certain passages in the campaign, have been clipped out and sent to the fusion campaign managers by a supporter of the anti-Tammany ticket.
