THIEVES GET BIG PRIZE
ROB CHICAGO POSTOFFICE
OF $70,000.

CRAWL THREE HUNDRED FEET UNDER
BUILDING AND DRILL STEEL
VAULT FROM BENEATH.

(BY TELEGRAPH TO THE TRIBUNE.)
 Chicago, Oct. 21.—The Chicago postoffice was robbed of $74,610 in stamps last night by burglars, who drilled through the steel floor of the vault in the wholesale stamp department, after crawling three hundred feet under the building and tearing holes through two brick walls. An adjoining vault, evidently the object of the burglary, contained $35,000 in cash and upward of $500,000 in postage stamps, but it was untouched.

There is at present only one theory on which the officials are working, and that is that the cracksmen had either a principal or an accomplice thoroughly acquainted with the present temporary postoffice structure, both as to the interior arrangement and the ground underneath the building. The total value of convertible stamps stolen is $69,888.

The wholesale stamp vault was closed and locked at 5 o'clock Saturday evening at the close of business by the stamp clerk, Frederick Spaulding. No person entered it from the inside yesterday. This morning shortly before 8 o'clock Spaulding and F. E. Niles, also a clerk in the wholesale department, arrived at the office, and Spaulding started to open the vault. Niles was behind him. As soon as Spaulding swung the door open Niles cried out:

"Look there! The vault's been robbed!"

Papers, boxes and other receptacles were strewn about the vault. The cabinets in which stamps were kept were open on the floor near the door, and a heavy desk had been turned over. The established clerks stepped into the vault, and there saw in the steel floor an opening about 19 by 21 inches, with jagged edges, such as are made with a drill. A hasty examination showed the vault had been rifled of all but a mere handful of the stamps it had contained when business was suspended on Saturday.

Investigation showed that east of the main postoffice building is a small, one story frame structure, extending toward the lake probably forty feet. It adjoins a 24-inch brick wall, the east wall of the main building. At the southeast corner of the temporary addition, toward the lake and the Art Institute, is a small wooden door, used as a means of ingress and egress for workmen and others having occasion to go under the building. This door had no lock, but was fastened with a small latch.

Between the door and the brick wall forming the east line of the main building there was nothing to impede the progress of the burglars. The searchers found, about twenty feet to the north of the little door, an opening in the wall made at right angles to the door, to prevent the light showing through from beneath the main building to the outer door, should that be opened from the outside. The hole in the wall is about two feet square, large enough to admit a man's body.

Under the main building there are hundreds of brick and wooden supports or pillars, miles of steam, water, gas and electric pipes, and large piles of rubbish. The pillars form aisles, extending the length of the building. It was plain to be seen the burglars had followed one of these aisles for nearly three hundred feet to the west, toward the front of the building. Near the vault in front they made a sharp turn to the right, and brought up against a solid brick wall, forming a square, the exact size of a vault above, and built as a protection and support for the vault.

THEIR BOOTY WAS HEAVY.

Here two holes were found, one large enough for the thieves to crawl in and out with comparative ease. The others found inside the square and under the vault evidences of the work that had been done. Several small piles of steel shavings were on the ground, and there were traces of oil, and the coil of an electric hand battery, which evidently had been used to furnish light to the man at the drill.

Between the thieves and the valuables they were after, when they had gained the inside of the hollow square, was a door, made of a wooden floor about an inch thick, and then the floor of the vault, made of one-half inch steel. The wooden flooring had been removed with an auger and a hatchet. A panel was drilled in the steel plate just inside the overlapping strips used to strengthen the vault. Fortunately for the thieves this space was sufficient for their purposes. Three sides were drilled through and the plate then broken off by pressure from below.

Everything of value in the vault, which is about twelve feet long by four feet wide, was removed, with the exception of a small package of stamps worth $1,458. The theory of the authorities is that when they had secured their plunder the thieves passed it through the hole in the steel plate, carried it through the walls and to the rear of the building, loaded it into an express wagon and drove away with it. Wagon tracks to the west, in the direction of the Art Institute, were plainly visible.

The stamps stolen were in packages about two feet square, each weighing in the neighborhood of forty pounds. The total weight of the haul must have been two tons. It is said to be the biggest postoffice robbery on record in this country. It is believed that the property can be disposed of only through dishonest postmasters, or merchants, and even then not in large quantities, without detection.

THE POSTMASTER WILL SEEK RELIEF.

Washington, Oct. 21.—It is explained at the Postoffice Department that the law allows a credit up to $10,000 to postmasters at offices where losses occur in which proper precautions have been taken. All above this amount has to depend upon the action of Congress. Postmaster Coyne of Chicago will present a claim for the amount of this loss, and the department will transmit it to Congress.

NO INDICTMENT AGAINST CANFIELD.

Saratoga Grand Jury Ignores Charges of "Dan" Stuart and Others.

(BY TELEGRAPH TO THE TRIBUNE.)
 Saratoga, N. Y., Oct. 21.—The Saratoga County grand jury, after being in session seven days, was discharged this afternoon by Justice M. L. Stover, of Amsterdam. A large number of indictments were reported, but none were found against Richard A. Canfield, Mr. Beard served as a Democratic Alderman from 1887 to 1888. In the Spanish war he distributed medicine free of charge to the families who were in need on account of the absence of the head of the home at the war. An honorarium of $100 was paid him for his services as a Democratic Alderman from 1887 to 1888. WILL FIGHT SESPION FROM CHURCH.
 MEMBER OF REFORMED PRESBYTERIAN CHURCH WILL NOT ABIDE RULING AGAINST TAKING OATH TO THE CONSTITUTION.
 Newton, Mass., Oct. 21.—James Jackson, of Cambridge, who has been suspended from membership in the Second Reformed Presbyterian Church, because in becoming a citizen of this country he took oath to uphold the constitution, proposes to fight the ruling. Mr. Jackson is still taking part in the services at the church as a member of the congregation. Mr. Jackson is a Scotchman, but now, after living in this country ten years, has taken out naturalization papers. The Reformed Presbyterian denomination, it is stated, looks upon the constitution of the United States as an insult to the Almighty, in that it makes no mention whatever of God and claims for the people, the Church says, that sovereign power which belongs to God alone. In 1851 the suspension of certain members for swearing to uphold the constitution is said to have resulted in the resignation of two thousand members from the denomination. The Rev. Robert M. Somerville, of No. 327 West Fifty-sixth-st., pastor of the Second Reformed Presbyterian Church in this city, said yesterday to a Tribune reporter: "Members of my church will not become citizens of this country because we cannot conscientiously take the oath to uphold the Constitution of the United States. We recognize this as an immoral document. It is immoral in that it is unscriptural and contains no reference to God. If the oath demanded allegiance to the constitution, we would not make the slightest objection. Our church members can be set free simply in this country. We pay our taxes, abide by the laws, and go to war if need be, but we will not become citizens of this country. The situation is the same in England and Scotland, where the oath of allegiance to the King of Great Britain is not taken by those who do not believe him to be. We are the old Scotch Covenanters, who in olden times refused to accept the constitution of the United States. The distinctive point is this: We will not not only refuse to take the oath of allegiance to the United States, but we will not become citizens of this country because we believe that the nation confesses these truths, we can conscientiously become citizens."

OBITUARY.
EDMUND TWEEDY.
 Newport, R. I., Oct. 21.—Edmund Tweedy, a pioneer summer resident of Newport, died today at his home, in Bellevue Court. He was about ninety years old. Mr. Tweedy, with George, William Curtis, Charles A. Dana, William Henry Channing, George J. Kinley, Nathaniel Hawthorne and others, was interested in the Brook Farm Association in 1842, and he was the lifelong friend of Mr. Curtis.

THE REV. DR. C. S. HAGEMAN.
 The Rev. Dr. Charles Stedman Hageman, of the Reformed Church, died after a short illness at Christ Church rectory, Riverdale, N. Y., on Sunday. He was born in 1817 at Harlingen, N. J. He was graduated from Rutgers College in 1837, and was licensed from Princeton Theological Seminary in 1840. Since 1878 he had no regular charge, but had been active in supplying pulpits and in doing other church work. Recently, on account of infirmities, he had retired to public service. Two sons and three daughters survive him. The funeral will be held at the Reformed Church, Nyack, to-morrow afternoon at 2 o'clock.

SIR ARCHIBALD LEVIN SMITH.
 London, Oct. 21.—Sir Archibald Levin Smith, who recently resigned the post of Master of the Rolls (to which he was appointed in 1890), on account of ill health, died last night in Morayshire, Scotland. He had rowed thrice with Cambridge against Oxford. He was born in 1826.

WILLIAM LAWRENCE.
 William Lawrence, a retired shipbuilder, died at the home of his brother, Herbert Lawrence, No. 102 Taylor-st., Brooklyn, on Sunday. He was born in New-York City eighty-four years ago, and at the age of thirty-six succeeded to the business of his father. In six years he retired from the shipbuilding business, having accumulated a small fortune. This he did because of the idea that when a man had laid enough in money to live in comfort for the remainder of his life he should retire and give somebody else a chance. Mr. Lawrence was never married. The funeral will be held to-night. Burial will be in Greenwood.

THOMAS AUGUSTUS BEARD.
 Ex-Alderman Thomas Augustus Beard, a popular pharmacist in the Eastern District of Brooklyn, died suddenly on Sunday at his home, No. 170 Rutledge-st. Heart failure was the direct cause, but this, it is believed, was brought on by injuries which Mr. Beard received three weeks ago in falling from the platform of a trolley car. Mr. Beard was born in Columbia, S. C., fifty-eight years ago. He was manager of a large drug store when the Civil War broke out; he enlisted in the 1st South Carolina Volunteers, and served throughout the war. He was with General Lee when the latter surrendered. Mr. Beard then came North, and twenty years ago opened a drug store at Lee-ave. and Rutledge-st., Brooklyn. Although his district was strongly Republican, Mr. Beard served as a Democratic Alderman from 1887 to 1888. In the Spanish war he distributed medicine free of charge to the families who were in need on account of the absence of the head of the home at the war. An honorarium of $100 was paid him for his services as a Democratic Alderman from 1887 to 1888.
