

THE KAISER'S BIRTHDAY.

TITLES CONFERRED ON REGIMENTS—CROWDS CHEER THE EMPEROR.

Berlin, Jan. 27.—Emperor William, who was born on January 27, 1859, marked his birthday to-day by conferring territorial titles on all the regiments which had hitherto borne no distinctive names.

In my army are united the traditions of many German races and lands. It is my endeavor, indeed, to cultivate them all, and to make them one with the army and the nation as one.

While Emperor William was receiving congratulations upon the anniversary of his birthday from the foreign ambassadors here, he held Andrew D. White, the American Ambassador, in conversation for a few minutes, in which the Kaiser said he was much pleased that the day in which the United States celebrated its birth had been received in the United States.

After the service Emperor William held a "Congratulatory Court" in the White Hall, at which all the great dignitaries of state were present. His majesty shook hands with the imperial Chancellor, Count von Bülow, and the foreign representatives of the spirit which they and subsequently talked with the Prince of Wales.

The Emperor's birthday present to the Emperor was a model of his left arm, which was on the hand in a wedding ring. Among the guests at the birthday dinner were King William II of Wurtemberg, the Prince of Wales and the Duchess of Albany.

The official "Reichsanzeiger" this evening publishes an imperial order on the subject of titles in the army, in which the wish is expressed that the names of regiments may remain alive. Then will this distinction constitute a permanent incentive to answer for the grandeur of the fatherland with blood and treasure, and in which the wish is expressed that the names of regiments may remain alive.

COLER DREAMS A DREAM.

CALLS ON NIXON AND SEES VISIONS OF HARMONY.

EVEN THE GREATER NEW-YORK DEMOCRACY IN IT, BUT SHEEHAN HAS DIFFERENT VISIONS.

Ex-Controller Coler, as the shades of night were falling last evening, walked into Tammany Hall and joined the up-to-date Order of Political Absolom—Louis Nixon being the head "Ab."

The former Controller gained the steps to the Wigwam without being observed, but as soon as his form darkened the entrance he was accosted by "Tommy" Smith, who never sleeps.

"Hello, Tommy," is this the same old Tammany Hall?" he asked. "Just the same, Controller," said Mr. Smith, rushing forward to greet him.

"Do you look for a reunited Democracy as a result of his leadership?" "I do to a great extent. The Democratic party in this city never would have been reunited if Mr. Croker had remained as leader. Croker's surrender of the leadership to Nixon makes it possible to unite all the factions."
