PERSONAL NOTES. Sherburne W. Burnham, who has discovered much larger number of double stars than any one else, and has for several years been professor of astronomy in the University of Chicago, began his life as a stenographer, and for the last ten years has held the position of chief clerk of the United States Circuit Court at Chicago. He has now resigned the latter position to devote his entire time to astronomy. Mr. Burnham, it is said, is better known as an astronomer in Berlin, St. Petersburg and other cities than in Chicago.

His chief renown, perhaps, was through his work in astro-photography, in which he has created a new branch of astronomy, and has been a pioneer in all parts of the world. Mr. Burnham was senior astronomer at the Lick Observatory, in California, and was appointed to the position of the federal court clerkship.

Lord Grimthorpe is the oldest king's counsel in England. He is in his eighty-seventh year, has been a lawyer sixty-four years, was made a queen's counsel in 1864, and can write a more vigorous constitutional letter on ecclesiastical matters than any other man in England.

To Sir Frederick Lugard and Major Moleworth Sykes have been awarded the two gold medals bestowed annually on distinguished geographers by the Royal Geographical Society. The selection of the council has been approved by King Edward, who had expressed an opinion that the recipients should be submitted for approval by the sovereign. Sir F. Lugard naturally obtains the highest distinction in the world for his explorations in various parts of Africa. Major Sykes, who is less widely known, has been engaged for the last nine years in exploring the mountain ranges of the Himalayas of hitherto unexplored territory in Persia.

George H. Williams, whom the Republicans of Portland, Ore., have just nominated for Mayor, was a generation ago a prominent figure in public life. He was a judge in Iowa fifty-five years ago, before the Republican party came into existence. He was one of the "Presidential electors" whose votes made Grover Cleveland President of the United States. He was Chief Justice of Oregon in 1883, when Oregon was further out of the world than are the remotest mining camps of Alaska at the present time, and when that Territory had a smaller population than can now be found in the Northern Territory. Oregon forty-four years ago. He was a United States Senator when President Roosevelt was a child of seven.

WOOD SATISFIED WHERE HE IS. WILL NOT LEAVE PHILADELPHIA TO TAKE CHARGE OF BRICK CHURCH IN NEW-YORK. Philadelphia, April 18.—The Rev. Dr. Charles Wood, pastor of the Second Presbyterian Church, whose name has been mentioned as a possible successor to the late Dr. Malbone D. Babcock as pastor of the Brick Presbyterian Church, New-York, will not leave this city. When seen to-day Dr. Wood said: "The possibility of my being called to the pastorate of the Brick Church has been unofficially brought to my attention. As soon as I heard of this I immediately requested that my name be withdrawn as a candidate for the position, and I have since been informed so far as I am concerned, I am perfectly satisfied where I am."

OPENING OF THE PARIS SALON. Paris, April 18.—President Loubet was present at the opening of the new Salon in the Grand Palais this afternoon. He criticized say that the exhibits are barely above mediocrity. Several Americans, however, receive warm compliments. Both the "Temps" and the "Journal des Debats" praise portraits by Cecilia Beaux, "The Temps" says of the "exhibits excellent and the portraits of the 'Two Sisters'." The contributions of I. L. Stewart, Miss I. E. Rollins, Walter Gay, and especially Whistler, were praised.

AT THE IRVING PLACE THEATRE. The production of "King Lear" at the Irving Place Theatre last night afforded the first opportunity, since their arrival in this country, for the joint appearance of Sonenthal and Bonn. Both a veteran actor, who had been seen at Nathan and as Fabricius, in both of which parts he showed a fine natural talent, and ability to portray human emotions, played the part of Lear, and Bonn was the Fool. A masterly rendition of the part of Lear was looked for by the large audience, and the liberal applause showed that there was no disappointment on the score. But some people, who had seen Bonn in the various parts which he has played here, were doubtful as to his ability to do justice to the Shakespearean part. To these his performance was a pleasant surprise, because it demonstrated the fact that he is not only a versatile but an accomplished actor.

In the parts in which Sonenthal has been seen before—the mild, philosophical, declamatory Nathan, and the broken spirited convict, Fabricius—his much-praised versatility and his natural gift to good advantage, but showed a lack of his own individuality in his acting. His masterful presentation of the closing scene of the third act called forth enthusiasm and admiration. His extraordinary work in "King Lear" will be repeated this evening.

The marriage of Miss Edith Howard Hooley, daughter of Mr. Russell Hooley, of George Hook, to Mr. Charles H. Hooley, of the same place, took place on Wednesday, at 12:30 o'clock, in the chantry of St. Thomas's Church. It will be followed by a small wedding breakfast at her mother's house, No. 62 East Seventy-third-st., for relatives and the bridal party. Miss Hooley's cousin, Miss Helen Dunham, will be her maid of honor, and Mrs. Hooley, her mother, will be the bridesmaid. The bride will enter the church with Russell H. Hooley, who will give her away. Miss Hooley, instead of entering the church with her father, as is the custom, will be introduced by her father-in-law, Mr. Charles H. Hooley. George Hooley will not give a farewell bachelor dinner.

the powers would have to back up Bulgaria. It was a pretty scheme, quite worthy of the murderers of a professor and the kidnappers of a woman missionary. It was put well on the way to realization, too, in the execution of the ransom for Miss Stone and in the perpetration of various outrages upon Turks. Now it seems to have been called to a halt, which is well. There are fifty thousand Turkish soldiers in Macedonia.

It is entirely conceivable that the reported determination of the Bulgarian Government to dissolve the Macedonian Committee is intended not so much actually to stop the committee's activities and to keep the peace as to help the government in its resistance against a claim for indemnity in the case of Miss Stone. The government at Sofia probably fears that an uncommonly forcible demand will presently be made upon it to repay Miss Stone's ransom, and to pay heavy damages to boot, and it may think it can vindicate itself and secure freedom from such a demand by repudiating and suppressing the committee which it has so long tolerated and encouraged. It is doubtful if such a game will succeed. That government is responsible for the committee, and it cannot evade that responsibility. If it now suppresses the committee it will thus show that it could have done so before, and will the more strongly convince the world that it has all along been conniving at the committee's lawless acts. It may rid itself of reproach for the future. It cannot rid itself of responsibility for the past.

Commissioner Partridge has acted judiciously in deciding against a police parade at this time. It is not advisable until there are fewer scandals in the air.

The postal receipts in this republic are now so large, and have shown such encouraging percentages of increase, that the prospect of one-cent stamps for letters looks less like the baseless fabric of a vision than it did a few years ago.

Experiments in the Sandwich Islands in seeking a cure for leprosy have failed. This most baffling of all lingering maladies still continues to perplex the ablest members of the medical profession. Surgical operations, if the knife is used in the early stages of cancer, may prolong for many years the lives of its victims, and the Röntgen rays have been of benefit in some cases. But the leper is still shunned and dreaded as he was thousands of years ago, and no potent remedies have yet been proved efficacious for his relief.

A new comet has been discovered in the constellation Pegasus, but the discovery of a new pot capable of guiding that immortal steed to loftier height would have called out warmer enthusiasm. We need poets more than we need comets.

The belief that certain kinds of mosquitoes are carriers of malarial poison and of other germs of disease has now become so widespread that there is ample reason to look for a more extensive and persistent campaign for lessening the numbers of these pests than has been attempted to date.

Whatever may be the fate of Albert T. Patrick, now under sentence of death for the Rice murder, a big percentage of the Rice millions will surely be eaten up in litigation. The contests of the various Rice wills are now in full swing, and will contest over large fortunes are prodigiously expensive in this part of the world. Such contests are usually prolonged for years, and often the heirs receive only a scanty remnant when the issues are finally settled.

THE TALK OF THE DAY. Some years ago Prince (then Count) Münster, with Count Beust and Count Schouvaloff, was attending a Foreign Office reception in London. Their names afforded no slight difficulty to the thoroughly English footman, who announced the guests by shouting their names up the great staircase. Count Schouvaloff arrived first, and the footman duly announced him as "Count Schouvaloff." Then came Count Beust, whose name in the servant's mouth became "Count Beest." Lastly, Count Münster appeared, and the footman, evidently feeling that a supreme effort was required, finished off by calling out "Count Monster."

Damaged by the Storm.—Stranger—Did the late storm do much damage in this section? Farmer Meadow—Did it? I should say it did. It rained so hard that my wind and six darters, who got in it, rushed into the Cross Roads store and bought seven umbrellas and had 'em charged to me.—(New-York Weekly).

It is now possible to insure in London against the risk of smallpox breaking out in the contiguous houses. The idea, of course, is to protect against the danger of contagion by temporary removal. The rate is a minimum of 10 shillings per cent for the year, the risk, of course, extending over an indefinite number of people. One broker, who was in this business from the start, has been doing hardly anything else for several days, and many who at first laughed at the whole thing are now coming into the market.

Conditioned—Mamma—Did you tell God how naughty you were? Ethel—Yes, I guess I wasn't so naughty after all, 'cause He didn't make any fuss about it.—(Philadelphia Press).

A Kansas editor recently contradicted a report that a young woman in his county was about to abandon school teaching in order to get married, adding, "She is not the kind of a girl" whereby she would not break a contract. But the girl interpreted the phrase differently, and wrote to the editor to give him "a piece of her mind." "I don't know," she said, "that it is any of your business, but I give you to understand that I am not the kind of a girl you say. I can get married if I want to."

A negro who had been arrested on suspicion of having himself away in a clever reply to a question. "How old are you?" asked the justice. "I dunno, suh." "Well, how old do you know your own age?" "Well, now, that's strange." "You may think so now, suh," was the reply, "but 'en you 'ez been in de penitentiary ez long ez I 'ez, you'll lose track er time, too!"—(Atlanta Constitution).

Two roving rusties outside the Winter Gardens, London, were overheard recently discussing the "big bang pong" that appeared in the windows. After long puzzling as to the meaning and how it tasted, they finally decided to go in and call for "a pot on u" to try, supposing it to be a new drink for coronation time.

Progressing Rapidly.—"Hullo, Biffkin! How is your Anti-Slavery Society getting along?" "Fine as silk, old slob!"—(Baltimore News).

"Private" John Allen told this story in Washington the other day: "There is an East St. Louis citizen named Zellerbaum. Zellerbaum saw little service during the Civil War, but insists that he was in the greatest battles." To his hearers one night at a Grand Army campfire Zellerbaum was telling of his prowess in two battles. A little man in the back of the hall arose. "Both those battles were fought on the same day and fifteen hundred miles apart," he said. "My friends," shouted Zellerbaum, "there is a traitor among us! Throw the rebel out!" And they did it.

The "Unnecessary Knowledge.—Aunt Sarah (a splinter)—Now, dear, if you would only watch me closely you'd find how to croch." Little Bessie.—"Oh, I'm 'goin' to get married when I grow up!"—(Puck).

The other day the vicar of an Oxfordshire village was called upon by a parishioner, who, being afflicted with shingles, asked that he might be supplied with some of the grease upon which the church bell swung. It was a Diabolo, who had become the leader of the local Salvation Army regiment. But his confidence in the grease of the church bell had survived generations of anticlericalism.

"Worst and Best.—"You didn't put as much vim as usual into the line, 'Villain, do your worst!" said the manager. "I answered Mr. Stormington Barnes. "Just then I happened to think of the agent who went to get transportation to New-York. I was wrong in hoping he would do his best."—(Washington Star).

of the best character can be put up and elaborately equipped as a hotel or a club on a costly site, and it is difficult to find an excuse for spending that amount on a reconstruction for which no land has to be purchased. If it were a question of making a noble addition to the architectural monuments of the city the case would be different, but nobody imagines that the county courthouse can be converted into a thing of beauty by piecing it out. As it stands, it is a legacy of corruption, and we hope that it is not destined to become also an example of bad judgment honestly exercised.

THE BRITISH LOAN.

Join Bull may take a measure of satisfaction from the result of his latest war loan. True, it would have been pleasanter to get along without any loan at all. But that was impossible, as it usually is impossible for every country that gets into even a small war. The essential thing is to be able to get the money when a loan is necessary. That is something the British Government has never yet failed to do. In the present case it has done it with marked ease. Half of the loan was taken promptly by a syndicate of bankers. The other half, offered to the general public, has with equal promptness been subscribed some thirty or forty times over. That may not indicate that a loan thirty or forty times as big would have been subscribed. It certainly does prove that there is no scarcity of money nor any reluctance to invest it in the British Government for the purposes of the present emergency.

It may have been a cause of regret to some that the loan was offered at a discount. Whatever humiliation may have been implied in that circumstance would seem to be well atoned for by the fact of the enormous oversubscription. It is also to be observed that the new bonds are already at a premium of 1 per cent. That fact will remove the sting, if any there was, of the discount issue. It will also provoke some to wonder why the issue was made at a discount. It certainly looks as though the whole loan might have been placed without trouble at par. At any rate, the financial credit of the British Government is amply vindicated. The price of maintaining and extending the British empire in Africa may be one that will "stagger humanity," but at least the financial part of it does not seem to cause much staggering. The process of paying off the British debt is suspended for a time, and the debt is increased. But in a year or two the paying off will be resumed at a rate surpassed by only one other country in the world.

THE PATROLMEN ON TRIAL.

The spectacle of Sunday law enforcement in the Eldridge-st. precinct last Sunday throws an instructive light upon the character of those virtuous patrolmen who were going to reform that reform administration to the great glee of its malicious critics. Their performances to-morrow will be watched with interest, for they have just put themselves on trial. Of the sixty-one arrests for violations of the Sunday laws in that precinct last Sunday only four were for infractions of the excise law. The others were for selling two cents' worth of peanuts, a hat feather, a piece of meat, a necktie or some other such trifle. Most of the persons arrested were Jews, who do no work on Saturday and consequently desire to get the profits of six days' business a week by selling on Sunday, as well as to supply the wants of their Jewish neighbors who go about their usual vocations on Sunday and under the general law of the State have long been privileged to engage in ordinary labor which is forbidden to other people on that day.

Now, this is nothing short of an outrage, and the policemen who made these arrests knew it. They put on an air of virtue and say they were "enforcing the law." Nobody, however, is for an instant fooled by it, except possibly the poor, ignorant people of the tenement house district, who are meant to learn by a hard lesson hereafter to stand by Tammany and endure extortion rather than be "persecuted" under a reform administration. It is worthy of note that one of the most significant and fatal revolts from Tammany was on this same East Side, and great hopes have been entertained by the friends of decent government that these people would learn the value of honest administration and increasingly emancipate themselves from the tyrannical sway of the corrupt Tammany politicians who have used them and abused them. Deverism is agnostic at such a prospect, and takes advantage of the first opportunity to "show the East Side what reform means." It is the old trick of "giving the reformers a dose of their own medicine." The police tried it in Mayor Strong's administration. Devery tried it every time he was forced to show some regard for decency, as, for instance, when, in face of the demand that he close some notoriously immoral Sunday music halls, he began to arrest the dining room orchestras of reputable hotels.

BULGARIA'S REPROACH.

If it be true, as reported, that the Bulgarian Government has at last determined to make an end of the Macedonian Committee, we must regard that news as the best that has come from Sofia for many a day. It would be too much to assume that such a resolution has long been notorious for the unsatisfactory character of its supply. It is literally a "horrible example" of what every city is in danger of that leaves its water supply in private hands and subject to the pressure of private greed.
