CLEAN OUT WINE CELLAR. TWO WORKMEN THROW AWAY CHAMPAGNE THEY CAN DRINK.

SMASH THE BOTTLES WITH COBBLENS ON THEM—THEIR DOOM COMES WHEN THEY ORDER COOK TO PREPARE A FEAST.

Frederick W. Menzies, a public accountant, at No. 25 Pine-st., hired Frank Burke, of No. 402 East Sixth-st., on Wednesday, to clean out the furnace and put the cellar of his home, at No. 136 East Third-st., in order. Burke found the work too much for him, after the first day, and got John Bennett, of No. 600 Third-ave., to help. Burke entered Mr. Menzies's wine cellar yesterday, and he and his companion drank champagne till they were so drunk they smashed bottle after bottle for fun, sang loudly and then demanded something to eat of the cook, who had them arrested.

It was late in the afternoon when, after a hard day, the tired men began to look around. They found a place partitioned off, which aroused their curiosity, and they decided to investigate. Burke found a bottle of champagne. "Gosh!" said he; "we'll have to try this." He pulled at the string, and the cork flew out suddenly, hitting Bennett on the head. "Never mind," said Burke, "drink this."

Bennett nearly emptied the bottle, but Burke had already opened another, and he nearly drained that. The men sat down on the cellar floor to enjoy themselves. "Let's try some other wine," suggested one. "Champagne's good enough for me," was the reply. Burke found a bottle with cobbles on it. He smashed it, saying it was not good. Bennett picked up another and threw it away. Then they began to sing. The cook came down to see what the shouting was about, and she saw that both men demanded that the cook prepare them a good dinner, but instead the cook ran into the street and told Policemen Reed and Cooper that two drunken men were in the house. The policemen had carried the men through the streets to the station. Both men sang and yelled and cried out that they owned the earth and promised everybody they passed that if they were at the station it was found that Bennett had two bottles of champagne under his coat. The men were locked up on a charge of disorderly conduct.

Mr. Menzies found seven empty champagne bottles in the cellar and a dozen broken bottles. Champagne had been spilled all around. The wine cellar was tony-tony, and the wine were cleaned out, and so had the wine-cellar.

CALLS HIS ELECTION A "FLUKE."

JEROME SAYS HE'D RATHER BE DISTRICT ATTORNEY THAN GOVERNOR.

District Attorney Jerome yesterday made a statement in reply to criticism that he had failed to fulfill some of his anti-election promises, and that he was working for a nomination for Governor. He said he never intended to enter on a greater scale to entrap the police, but he had worked to collect evidence to punish guilty policemen. He was not responsible for failure to transfer police captains, he said, but he had tried to uproot blackmail in the Police Department. He believed that a captain should be kept in a precinct if he did good work, and he should be removed if he was a bad precinct officer. He made him responsible for bad work. Regarding his present office Mr. Jerome said: "My nomination this time was practically a 'fluke.' I cannot conceive of any local politician that would consent to my nomination to any elective office. It is absolutely untrue that I had offered a change of the liquor law to advance my own interests in the way of a possible nomination for Governor. I never offered any such thing. This State, more than any other, is a State where the people in this office. Of course, I do not mean that there is as much dignity attached to this office as there is in other offices. I had never even hoped that any political party would nominate me for any office, but things were ripe, and at the last election I was nominated. It happens once in a century, and lightning seldom strikes twice in the same place.

Mr. Jerome, when asked as to the possibility of his becoming a candidate for Governor, said: "I haven't the slightest hope, wish or desire, and if I had, the last way to bring about would be to do as I have done with regard to the liquor question. If a man wants to get into a political office, that's the way to do it."

EXCISE RECEIPTS YESTERDAY, $104,795. TOTAL FOR NEW-YORK COUNTY NOW NEARLY $5,000,000.

The total receipts at the excise office, at No. 1 Madison-ave., yesterday were $104,795, which brought the grand total for New-York County for the year beginning yesterday to $4,575,865. At the close of business on May 1, 1901, the total was $4,856,765. The total number of applications for liquor tax certificates up to date this year is 7,080. In some cases certificates have been refused because the legal requirements had not been complied with, while in others they have been held up temporarily. It was said at the office that the exact number of certificates issued was not yet known.

So far as was known at the office, none of the well known "divers" in Manhattan or The Bronx had been able to get certificates, and it is thought they have had their certificates revoked in the past. Under the existing law the holder of such a certificate cannot get another within a year after the revocation of the first certificate—that is, in his own name. By getting some one else to make the application, however, and do the necessary swearing a new certificate may be procured.

STANTON GULON DEAD.

The son of a founder of the Steamship Line, who tried suicide, passes away. Stanton Gulon, who attempted suicide on April 21 at his apartments, No. 22 Fifth-ave., died yesterday at Bellevue Hospital, in his forty-fifth year. He was the son of the late William H. Gulon, one of the founders of the Gulon Steamship Line, which was absorbed by other companies. He was removed from the prison ward on Tuesday and placed in Ward No. 3, as friends had furnished a $500 bond to guarantee his appearance in the Jefferson Market police court on his recovery, and to enable him to return to his home. It was understood that Gulon was later discharged. The body has been removed to the rooms of the Standard Medical Company, No. 121 Eighth-ave., where funeral services will be held at 10 a. m. to-morrow. The burial will be at Calvary Cemetery.

EX-QUEENS OFFICIAL INDICTED.

DR. LUSK, WHOSE APPOINTMENT CAUSED TROUBLE, WHOSE SPLIT THERE, CHARGED WITH FORGERY. It was announced at the Queens County Court-house yesterday that Dr. Obed Lusk, formerly assistant sanitary superintendent of the Department of Health in charge of the work in Queens Borough, had been indicted for forgery. Dr. Lusk lived at Far Rockaway, and is said to have moved to Detroit, where his father lives. William L. Wood, of the Queens County Branch of the Corp Exchange Bank, said that Dr. Lusk presented to him a check for $50 purporting to be signed by a business man in Jamaica. The check was readily cashed, and in the usual course of business reached the Bank of Jamaica. It was repudiated by the person whose name was signed to it.

Dr. Lusk was formerly a prominent physician at Far Rockaway. He had an extensive practice, but this was said to have been badly damaged after he was indicted for forgery. He had never been active in politics, and his appointment led to trouble. He was a close personal friend of Dr. Jenkins, brother-in-law of Richard Croker. Dr. Jenkins followed the

THE PLAZA SOLD FOR $3,000,000.

A SYNDICATE BUYS THE HOTEL, WHICH WILL BE REBUILT.

Supreme Court Justice P. Henry Dugro yesterday ended negotiations for the purchase of the Plaza Hotel and site at the Plaza, Fifty-eighth and Fifty-ninth sts., for $3,000,000. He represented a syndicate of which he is a member, the others being Louis C. Raegenor, of the law firm of Dickinson, Brown & Raegenor, and John J. Gibbons, of No. 284 Fifth-ave. The hotel will be rebuilt.

Mr. Raegenor, who last night confirmed the purchase, said that the contract had not yet been signed, but that the agreement for the purchase of the property was made yesterday. The owners of the Plaza were the New-York Life Insurance Company, which also owned the piece of property behind the hotel, on Fifty-eighth-st. This is a brownstone front dwelling house, and the syndicate bought it with the hotel. The latter is an eight story brick front structure. It has been under lease to F. G. Hammond. Mr. Raegenor did not remember the last night when Mr. Hammond's lease ran out. He said that the syndicate would rebuild very soon, and a hotel as fine as any now in the city would be built in place of the present structure. Every detail essential to the modern palatial hotel would be furnished. The details of the plans, however, were not yet made out, and just what kind of building the syndicate would erect was not yet known even to themselves.

Justice Dugro, who lives at the Hotel Savoy, of which he is a part owner, could not be seen last night. When asked for Mr. Raegenor spoke for him. He has offices at No. 141 Broad-st. He confirmed the purchase price and the purpose to rebuild the hotel.

SANGUINE AS TO STEEL TRUST.

AN ANSWER TO THE CRITICISM OF PROFESSOR E. S. MEADE.

Commenting upon the prediction made in a lecture on Wednesday night by Professor E. S. Meade, of the University of Pennsylvania, that if the United States Steel Corporation, which in the year just closed had net earnings of $11,000,000, should encounter a condition of trade depression such as was suffered by the best equipped steel concerns in 1884, its net earnings would not exceed $20,000,000 a year and Mr. Carnegie would foreclose on his bonds, a leading interest in the Steel Corporation said yesterday:

"The United States Steel Corporation has outstanding $20,000,000 of bonds, of which $10,000,000 is authorized to have a total of $54,000,000 bonds, the yearly interest on which, at 5 per cent, will be $2,700,000. Interest on certain underlying bonds of the corporation may bring the total annual fixed charges up to $30,000,000 at the outside. Assuming, again, that the period of extreme depression referred to by Professor Meade should set in a year from now, and should continue without relief for the year, the United States Steel Corporation would nevertheless be able to meet out of its $20,000,000 cash, during a period of five years, the $20,000,000 annual net earnings, leaving out of account entirely the measures of relief which might readily be taken in passing the dividend stock, and which would be a very profitable stock, a saving which would aggregate about $30,000,000 annually.

OBITUARY.

GENERAL SIR WILLIAM OLPHERTS. London, May 1.—General Sir William Olpherts, V. O., who held the rank of a "Hellfire Jack" at Lucknow, died. He was born in 1822.

XAVIER AYMON DE MONTEPIN. Paris, May 1.—Xavier Aymon de Montepin, the novelist and playwright, is dead.

Xavier Aymon de Montepin, the author of many novels and plays, was born at Apremont on March 18, 1821. He became conspicuous in the revolution of 1848 as an editor of anti-revolutionary journals and by the publication of pamphlets in Paris. Later he devoted himself to the writing of sensational romances, many of which appeared as feuilletons before their publication in book form, and a number of which were dramatized. Among his novels, published between 1847 and 1891, those best known are "Les Chevaliers du Languedoc," "Confessions d'un Bohémien," "Bellevue de Paris," "Les Drame de Mariage," "La Fille du Fou" and "La Perle du Palais Royal." His chief plays were "Pauline," "La Sirene de Paris," "Le Miroir des Femmes," "Les Enters de Paris" and "La Femme de Paille."

He made a fortune by his pen. In a fire some years ago his art treasures, valued at 500,000 francs, were destroyed.

GOULD H. THORP. Gould H. Thorp died at the home of his sister, Mrs. C. E. Fleming, No. 19 East Sixty-seventh-st., on Wednesday, after an illness of two years. Mr. Thorp was seventy years old, and up to the time he ceased active business, about seventeen years ago, he was a prominent broker and financier. He was an extensive traveler, and a little more than two years ago took a trip to Europe. While over there he contracted a severe cold, which eventually caused his death. Last autumn he returned from Europe, went to Saratoga for his health, and came back to New-York three weeks ago.

DR. CHARLES H. MASTEN. Dr. Charles H. Masten, one of the best known physicians in Rockland County, died at his home in Nyack yesterday, of pneumonia, after an illness of ten days. He was in his sixty-third year, and unmarried. Dr. Masten was born in Odelltown, Province of Quebec, Canada, on August 21, 1839. He taught school while a young man, and came to this city when about thirty years old. He studied medicine in the Bellevue Medical College and after graduation settled in Rockland County, where he had since lived and practiced medicine. One brother, George L. Masten, a school teacher, many years ago at Coaticook, Canada, survives him.

REYNOLDS ON GOOD GOVERNMENT. SAYS THAT PEOPLE ARE NOT CAREFUL ENOUGH ABOUT LAWS AFTER THEY ARE PASSED.

James B. Reynolds, Mayor Low's secretary, in an address last evening before the Men's League, in the Spring Street Presbyterian Church, on "The Price of Good Government," declared that good government could not be achieved by spasmodic activity. It would not be achieved until the best elements felt it was something in which they should be engaged every day of the year. Where "AVENUE" had gone astray had been when the honest elements had gone astray and left the dishonest elements to work out their own purposes.

Mr. Reynolds thought the municipal situation for the last twenty-five and fifty years was not to be charged against any party so much as against those who have talked of honest government, but have not realized that they have gone to work for it. The same untiring activity on the part of those who go into politics from disinterested motives that there is on the part of those who go into politics from interested motives.

"It seems easier sometimes to secure interest in the passage of laws than in their enforcement," he said. "I have seen laws passed in which great interest has been shown while the matter was in the legislature. Once the law had been passed, people seemed satisfied. The fact that the law existed seemed to be all they wanted. Its enforcement was a subject of secondary interest."

The speaker said that he had heard, at a public meeting in England, an American characterize the situation in America in these words: "The laws are passed to satisfy one-half the people, and are enforced to satisfy the other half." He said he imposed this sentiment.

OLD SHOOTING GALLERY MAN HURT. SKULL FRACTURED FROM A FALL AS HE WAS MOVING UNDER COMPULSION.

The skull of James Conlin was fractured when he fell down a flight of stairs at No. 55 Sixth-ave. Conlin is seventy years old. For more than thirty years he has conducted a shooting gallery in the Bohemian mad house in the basement of No. 55 Sixth-ave. His shooting gallery was at one time the gathering place of wealthy people and of police officers, who practiced revolver shooting there.

Several days ago Conlin received notice that he would have to leave the place. He tried to find a similar place in the neighborhood, but he was unable to do so. He was obliged to leave the place, and he was taken to the New-York Hospital. His condition is serious.

Jones, who is the assistant to the president of the company.

FOR A HARLEM STEAMBOAT LANDING. Dock Commissioner Hawkes had a conference yesterday with representatives of the Hudson River Steamboat Lines, with a view to establishing at West One-hundred-and-twenty-ninth-st. a combination landing station. No settlement was reached. The steamboat men are to meet the Commissioner again on Saturday. The lines represented were People's Line, the Albany Day Line, the Catskill Evening, the Central Hudson and the New-York and Long Branch Steamboat Lines.

Colonel Everett, of the People's Line, declined to stop his boats at the Harlem pier unless communication could be established by tug. He said that the risk, loss of time and possible failure to make railroad connections outweighed any possible profit from new trade in Harlem.

W. M. R. O'Leary, representing his brother, E. E. O'Leary, president of the Day Line, offered to lease the pier, and to build a landing platform for the steamboat men. He explained that he did not desire to make any profit out of the lease. The trade he controlled was the family trade, and he dared not risk the comfort of the women and children who used his boats unless he could have charge of the pier.

Mr. Hawkes said he was anxious to give to the residents of Harlem the conveniences to which they were entitled, and asked the steamboat men to try to come to some agreement.
