

Anecdotes of Washington.

George Washington is a great favorite with our little men and little women. We can tell that from the large number of incidents in his life that have been sent to us in this competition. From them all we have chosen the battle with the colt, written by Leah De Groot, of No. 49 Washington street, New York, as the winner of the $2 prize. Leah is twelve years of age, and her anecdote is printed below.

THE BATTLE WITH THE COLT.

Washington once had a battle with a colt. It belonged to his mother. Nobody could ride it, and most people were afraid of it. Early one morning George and his brother were out in the pasture. George looked at the colt kicking up its heels. He said: "I'll try to get a ride on that colt." Leah De Groot, No. 49 Washington street, New York, is twelve years of age, and her anecdote is printed below.

THE GENERAL AND THE CORPORAL.

One day when General Washington was riding down a street he came upon a corporal who was ordering his men to build a breastwork of logs. They were just trying to lift a heavy log, but they had no strength to do so. General Washington, who was very strong, dismounted and helped them put the log in place.

THE SURVEYING TOUR.

In the month of March, 1783, George Washington, with a few others, under direction of Lord Fairfax, set out to survey some unexplored wilds. As the day advanced the ground became more and more hilly, and the mountains were still whitened with ice and snow.

Brought by the Postman.

Dear Editor: I wish to thank you for the beautiful book "The Magic Forest" which you sent me. I shall enjoy reading it very much. Yours truly, Arthur W. Ellis, No. 18 Washington-ave., Kingston, N. Y., Feb. 5, 1904.

Dear Editor: I received your book and it is very nice. I enjoy reading it very much. Yours truly, Abigail Hallock, Box No. 35, Milton, Chester County, N. Y.

My dear Editor: This will acknowledge the receipt of my Lancelot, for which please accept my thanks. It was indeed a pleasant valentine. Thanking you for having selected me the prize winner, I am, yours very truly, Nelson P. West Philadelphia, No. 64 North Fourth-st., West Philadelphia.

Dear Editor: I received the prize book and thank you very much for it. I like it very much, and it is well worth striving for. It is the first time I won a prize, though I have had many answers to puzzles published in other papers, the prizes seemed to have been awarded to persons living in the city.

WHAT IS GOING ON AT ATLANTIC CITY.

Many Visitors for Holiday—Hotels Reopening—Yachting Plans.

Atlantic City, N. J., Feb. 20 (Special).—Travel from New-York and Philadelphia to Atlantic City the last day or two over the Rockaway and the Atlantic City has been a very busy one. The New-York trains have been coming down in sections and extra coaches were necessary to accommodate the rush from Philadelphia. All the leading hotels are filled with guests from every part of the country who are taking advantage of Washington's birthday falling on Monday.

AT THE HOTEL CHAMBERLIN.

Old Point Comfort, Va., Feb. 20 (Special).—Old Point has been named the "Gateway of the South," and the secret of the popularity of this resort is not far to seek when one considers its environment.

AT THE LAKEWOOD HOTEL.

Lakewood, N. J., Feb. 20 (Special).—Henry Phipps, who was a partner of Andrew Carnegie in the steel industry, was among the arrivals at Lakewood this week. He was the guest of Isidor Straus, of New-York, who is staying at the Lakewood Hotel with his family.

ON FLORIDA EAST COAST.

Many Visitors at St. Augustine, Miami and at Nassau.

St. Augustine, Fla., Feb. 20 (Special).—The increasing number of arrivals at the large hotels this week shows the opening of the winter season. The St. Augustine tournament on March 21, lasting over the 22 and 23d, on the 24th the play begins for the winter championship, also lasting three days.

CRUSADE AGAINST NARCOTICS.

At the last session of the Illinois General Assembly it was passed prohibiting the sale of cocaine in any form, and on physician's prescription, and the State Board of Pharmacy has been engaged in putting it into effect.

MARSH SHOOTING.

One sad feature of marsh shooting is the destruction of herons and the larger marsh birds. Only a rigid adherence to decency of conduct can prevent that, for it is, after all, sometimes a temptation on a bank day. But it is wrong, all wrong; and unless a man sticks to the principle that nothing except a game bird is excuse for shooting, our marshes will lose some of their most picturesque and beautiful inhabitants.

A Czar Who Likes Peace.

The other day a kindly faced man, about thirty-five years old, sat at his desk writing. From time to time he leaned back in his chair and looked at the picture on the wall over his desk. But he did not see the picture, for he was thinking. He seemed to be worried about something. At last he signed the paper he was writing and sat back in his chair again. He seemed to forget himself for a minute and to see something through the wall.

HOW TO WIN A PRIZE.

Prize No. 1.—One dollar for the most interesting and the most nearly written anecdote of Henry Washington's confessor. This story must not contain more than 500 words.

THREE PRIZE OFFERS.

In order to encourage careful reading and original expressions of opinion we offer three prizes for letters written by our little men and women about the story of "The Stolen Prince." They are to read carefully each such an adventur when they think that they must ask some of those who look up to him to go out to fight for his country and theirs, and that some of them must die for him.

WINNER OF JOURNEY CONTEST.

Alfred B. Bogert, of No. 29 East Thirty-fifth-st., Bayonne, N. J., sent in the most complete and nearest description of a journey by ship from New York to Russia. He was with him every body of water passed through on the journey. Alfred wins a book for his work.

AIM FOR THE HIGHEST.

Drop a stitch in the stocking will show, and will make a bad line from the top to the foot. So skimming a lesson or slighting your work will make you a laughing stock and stamp you a shirk.

WHAT SNAKES LIKE TO EAT.

A menagerie menu is really a much more complicated affair than it may seem to the outsider. It is not just a matter of so many pounds of meat, so many less or more bread, so many fish, snakes, for instance, are very fastidious eaters. Rats, mice, birds, guinea pigs, toads, frogs, fish and worms have to be provided for the various reptiles. None of these can be kept in quantities.

RULES FOR PRIZE COMPETITION.

First.—Make all drawings in black ink only, and on white paper. Drawings sent to the office in colored ink on white paper, in black ink on colored paper, or in colored ink on colored paper, cannot be reproduced as they stand.

DRAWINGS OF HENS.

Although we live in the greatest city of the United States, you little men and little women all seem to know about the country. The hens that you sent in to the office last week show that you have visited at farmhouses and watched the animals that help to make the country so much fun.
