

JAPANESE MOVE NORTH. OKU'S ARMY ADVANCING.

Russians Expect Attack on Two Sides at Kai-Chou.

Dispatches received in St. Petersburg show that the Japanese were continuing their advance north from the Liao-Tung Peninsula.

At the Russian headquarters at Liao-Yang it is believed that the Japanese intend to attack either Kai-Chou or Ta-tche-Kao.

Che-Foo has news of a Japanese naval reconnaissance at Port Arthur and apparently of a land attack on the fortress at about the same time.

OKU OCCUPIES PASSES.

Russians Retreat from Senuchen Before His Army.

St. Petersburg, June 23.—The general staff has received the following dispatch from Lieutenant General Sakharoff, under date of June 22:

At 8 o'clock on the morning of June 21 the Japanese vanguard resumed its advance against our outposts, four miles south of Senuchen.

Our scouts report that a large detachment of all arms advanced from Siu-Yen to Karamza.

Emperor Nicholas has received the following dispatch from General Kuroptkin under date of June 21:

A Japanese army is gradually advancing north and General Kuroki's advance from Siu-Yen has been suspended.

BIG DEMOCRATS IN TOWN.

Hill Much Worried Over the Democratic Platform.

A regiment of detectives could hardly have kept track of the conferences which Democratic leaders from here, there and everywhere held in this city yesterday.

The expectation of a great battle has been intensified by General Kuroptkin's speech to General Stakelberg's corps on Monday at Kai-Chou.

In the opinion of many conservative military men Kuroptkin's massing of troops at Kai-Chou does not necessarily indicate his intention to give battle.

The information of the War Office accounts for the position of the twelve Japanese divisions.

OUTPOST FIGHTING.

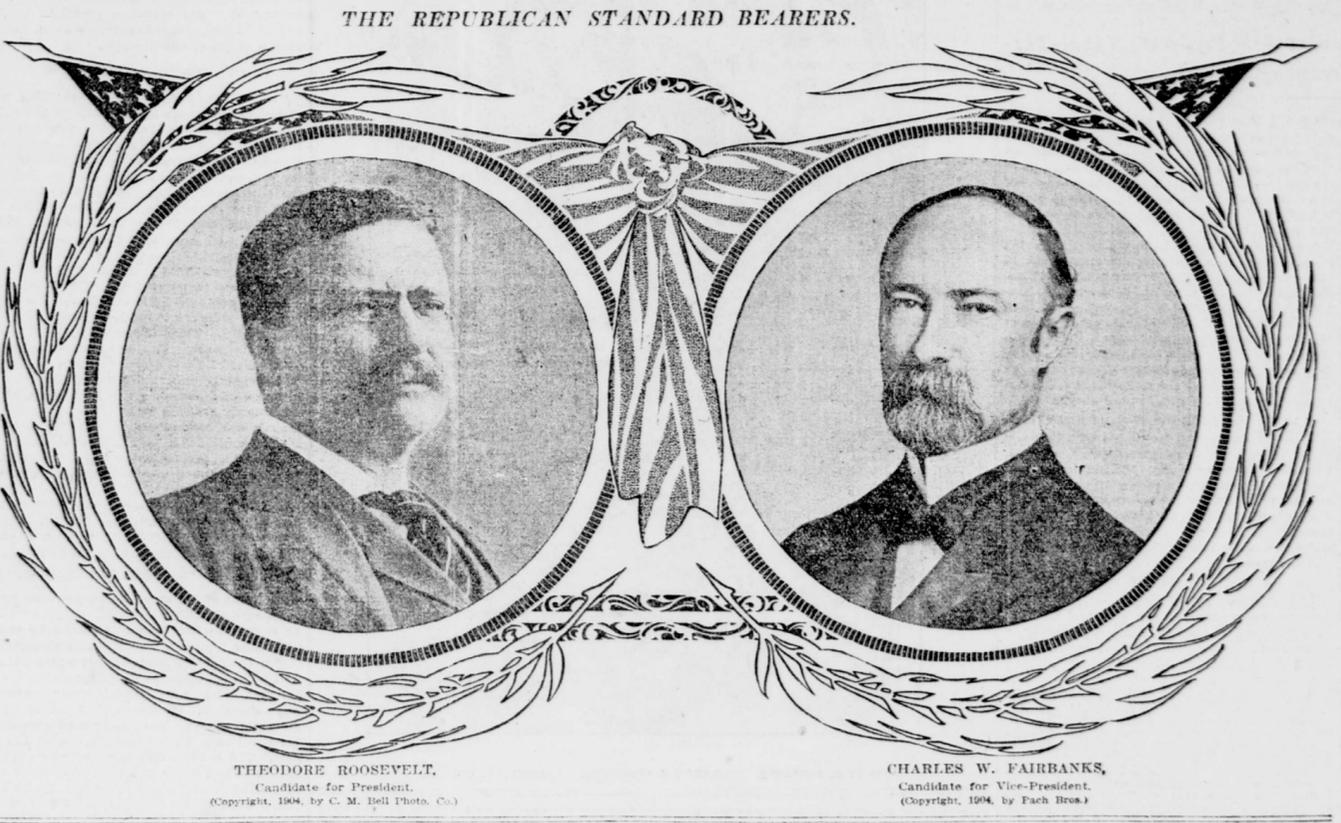

Russians Attack and Are Defeated—Attacks in the Skirmish.

General Kuroki's Headquarters in the Field, June 23.—Russians from Samlak attacked the Japanese outposts in force yesterday.

Continued on fifth page.

RUTLAND R. R. FOR MONTREAL. Rutland, Burlington. Across the Islands of Lake Champlain, Ottawa, Quebec.

THE REPUBLICAN STANDARD BEARERS.

THEODORE ROOSEVELT, Candidate for President.

CHARLES W. FAIRBANKS, Candidate for Vice-President.

DIE IN BURNING WRECK.

Coaches Hang from Bridge—Passengers Jump by Light of Flames.

Madrid, June 23.—Thirty persons were killed last night in a train wreck in the Province of Teruel, one of the most mountainous in Spain.

The bridge also took fire and the engine fell into the river, dragging a number of coaches with it.

Relief trains have been sent from Teruel, the capital of the province, seventy-two miles northwest of Valencia.

BIG DEMOCRATS IN TOWN.

Hill Much Worried Over the Democratic Platform.

A regiment of detectives could hardly have kept track of the conferences which Democratic leaders from here, there and everywhere held in this city yesterday.

The presence of ex-Senator Smith and Senator Gorman, both of whom will head doubtful delegations to the St. Louis convention, was the cause of much scurrying about.

Senator Gorman declared that the Maryland delegation would decide on its candidate in the convention hall at St. Louis, and not before.

Ex-Senator Smith made the Waldorf his headquarters. He refused to discuss politics.

It was a busy day for the man from Albany. In the morning he had a stream of callers from the ranks of the Parker faithful.

After conferring with Hill, Elliot Danforth said that Judge Parker's friends were sure that he would be nominated, as all over the country.

John B. Stanchfield said Mr. Hill last night. He said, at the Hoffman House, that it was too early to talk State politics.

Mr. Murphy was at Tammany Hall yesterday in conference with some of his district leaders.

The usual big Tammany delegation will go to St. Louis, ready for any emergency which may arise from the existing Democratic uncertainty.

ROOSEVELT-FAIRBANKS

Republicans Nominate Them With Boundless Enthusiasm.

CHICAGO CONVENTION'S GOOD WORK

For President.....THEODORE ROOSEVELT, of New York For Vice-President....CHARLES W. FAIRBANKS, of Indiana

This ticket was presented for the suffrages of the American people by the Republican National Convention which concluded its work in Chicago yesterday.

The nominating speeches by ex-Governor Frank S. Black for the President and by Senator Jonathan P. Dolliver for the Vice-President, with the seconding speeches by Senators Beveridge, Depew, Foraker and others, were received with every demonstration of approval.

When ex-Governor Black had named the President to succeed himself the enthusiasm was unbounded and the tumult of applause could not be stayed for twenty-three minutes by the clock.

The same exhibitions of delight marked the presentation of the name of Senator Fairbanks for the second office in the gift of the nation.

Secretary Cortelyou was unanimously chosen as chairman of the National Committee, resigning as the head of the Department of Commerce and Labor immediately after his election.

The President received the news at the White House, and congratulatory messages were interchanged between him and Senator Fairbanks.

The Committee on Notification, headed by Speaker Cannon, will officially inform the President at Oyster Bay on July 27.

LEADERS CHOSEN WITH NO DISSENTING VOICE.

SUMMARY OF PROCEEDINGS. Convention called to order at 10 o'clock by Chairman Cannon.

Prayer by the Rev. Thaddeus A. Snively. Call for nominations for President.

Name of President Roosevelt presented by ex-Governor Frank S. Black; seconding speeches by Senator Beveridge and others.

Roll of States called and President Roosevelt nominated unanimously.

Call for nominations for Vice-President. Name of Senator Fairbanks presented by Senator Dolliver; several seconding speeches.

Committees to inform nominees appointed and adjournment taken.

George B. Cortelyou elected chairman of the national committee.

lead in the singing of "The Star Spangled Banner," using silk flags as batons. They were unsuccessful. There was no cessation of the cheering.

After twenty-three minutes of continuous cheering Speaker Cannon stepped to the front of the stage and made vigorous efforts to bring the convention to order.

Senator Beveridge's seconding speech was remarkably eloquent, eliciting frequent and enthusiastic applause.

"One difference between our opponents and ourselves is that they select a candidate for the people, and the people select a candidate for us."

At its conclusion Chairman Cannon announced that the convention had given 994 votes for Theodore Roosevelt, making him its unanimous choice for Republican candidate for President.

When Senator Fairbanks was nominated for Vice-President there was no diminution in the demonstration.

Senator Fairbanks, who is staying in Chicago till to-morrow, when he returns to Indianapolis, was the recipient this evening of many hearty congratulations.

"Will you shake hands with a Democrat?" he asked.

"With pleasure," replied the Senator.

"Well, I'm a Democrat and ex-Congressman," said the old man.

Mr. Fairbanks was highly gratified by the remark.

The usual resolutions of thanks to officers of the convention and committees on arrangement were adopted.

Speaker Cannon came in for one of the resolutions, and he blushed like a schoolboy as the word bouquet was given to him.

His audience never tired of watching or hearing him. He was a source to the peninsula of the restrum that projected into the audience amused every one.

Ex-Governor Bradley of Kentucky spoke forcefully and at times eloquently, and was greeted with great applause.

Joseph B. Cotton, of Minnesota, followed Mr. Bradley with a speech that was well received, and was followed in turn by Harry S. Cummings, the colored orator of Maryland.

Harry Stillwell Edwards, of Georgia, who spoke next, presumably delivered a fine address, but, hampered by the lack of acoustic qualities in the hall, was unable to make himself heard more than a few feet from the platform.

Edwards concluded the cheers of the convention were augmented by the band, which played "A Georgia Camp Meeting."

Ex-Governor Bradley of Kentucky spoke forcefully and at times eloquently, and was greeted with great applause.

Joseph B. Cotton, of Minnesota, followed Mr. Bradley with a speech that was well received, and was followed in turn by Harry S. Cummings, the colored orator of Maryland.

INTERCOLLEGIATE REGATTA, JUNE 28TH. Foughkeepsie-Highland course. Observation train tickets are now on sale at West Shore ticket office, 119, 220, 421, 1216 Broadway, 255 Columbus Ave., East 42d St., and 233 Fulton St., Brooklyn.—Adv.