

COMFORTING AND NOVE. NEED IT WHILE VOTING.

Attorney's Characterization of Parker Constitution Club's Views.

Henry W. Taft, the well known attorney, is one of the first Republican members of the New-York bar to take exception publicly to the assertion of the lawyers who have been active in forming the Constitutional Club, organized to oppose the election of President Roosevelt. In New-York these lawyers who are Democrats can be generally found acting with that party, but the fact that some of them voted for McKinley might make their change of opinion have some significance outside the city and State if it were unchallenged. That the lawyers do not agree in their interpretation of President Roosevelt's note is evident from the following statement made by Mr. Taft in response to questions as to his opinion of the Constitutional Club.

The Parker Constitutional Club, composed of lawyers of this city, has indulged in some rather loose talk about the unconstitutionality of some executive acts of President Roosevelt. As lawyers use the term, nothing is unconstitutional except that which the Supreme Court has the power to declare. The Constitution, however, is not a political campaign to declare unconstitutional or to oppose the party which was successful in the election of the President. It is a political campaign to declare unconstitutional or to oppose the party which was successful in the election of the President. It is a political campaign to declare unconstitutional or to oppose the party which was successful in the election of the President.

Weight is not to be given, therefore, to condemnation by the Democrats of the Parker Constitutional Club, on the ground that as lawyers they are not supposed to be partisan. It is an unconstitutional and, therefore, illegal and void. These gentlemen are simply old line Democrats who are using the name of the law to cover their own political views. They are not supposed to be partisan. It is an unconstitutional and, therefore, illegal and void. These gentlemen are simply old line Democrats who are using the name of the law to cover their own political views.

IN HANDS OF HIS FRIENDS.

His Supporters Agree Only on the Cowardliness of His Campaign.

THE PHILIPPINE POLICY.

From The Evening Post.
No difference between Judge Parker's and the President's attitude? There is all the difference between night and day, right and wrong, honor and dishonor. Mr. Parker's attitude is squarely on the most fundamental principles of this republic.

From The Times.
Judge Parker believes that we must grant independence "as soon as it can prudently be done," but he would make the promise "now." That is the only essential distinction between the two candidates; all the rest is phrasemaking and hair-splitting.

From The Evening Post.
Every one will know that the day of American evacuation cannot come a moment too soon to please the American Executive, and that he will do everything in his power to hasten that desired consummation.

From The Times.
There is nothing either in his speech or in his letter to Mr. Milburn which would in any other than a headless and imperialist mind lead to the conclusion that he is in the White House. He would pursue toward our possessions in the Far East a policy different from that pursued by President Roosevelt.

From The Evening Post.
We doubt very much indeed whether Judge Parker, were he installed in the White House and surrounded by wise Cabinet advisers, would not change his mind about the wisdom of making the promise "now."

From The Times.
The policy of protection. No wavering on the tariff. If the Democrats would appeal to the enthusiasm of the American people, they must fight as they pray.

From The Evening Post.
They will win no votes by paltering with the subject. This is a year for plain speech.

From The Times.
Bailey scolded for fright. One feels one's courage mount high as he declares that he will not be a party to any law which levies a tax not for the purpose of raising revenue to meet the needs of the government, but for the purpose of compelling an American citizen to pay more for the goods which he must buy, is a perversion of the power of the government.

From The Evening Post.
The people are not going to display any enthusiasm over a party which flinches on the eve of battle. No apologies for the Democratic tariff party are needed.

From The Times.
Senator Bailey began well in that part of his Brooklyn speech which he devoted to the tariff. He was not at all afraid to declare that "robbery" is the name of the game which is being played by the tariff. NOTES OF THE STAGE.

Monster Theatre Party to Greet "Madcap Princess."

What is said to be the largest theatre party ever given has been arranged by the American Bankers' Association. It will be held at the Knickerbocker Theatre, Thursday and Friday nights, September 15 and 16, when Miss Lulu Glaser, in her new comic opera, "A Madcap Princess," will be the attraction. The committee of the association has arranged with Miss Glaser's manager and the managers of the Knickerbocker Theatre to have the exclusive use of the theatre on the nights mentioned. No ticket will be sold to the public. It was impossible to entertain all the visiting delegates on one night. The theatre will be decorated, guests of the bankers will occupy the boxes, souvenir pictures of Miss Glaser will be provided for the women, and refreshments will be served in the evening. The bankers' committee will have full charge of the theatre.

From The Evening Post.
Miss Nena Blake, vice-president of the Theatrical Women's Park, comprising the members of "The Royal Chorus," "The Runaways," "Fantana," and "Piff, Paff, Poff," companies, received yesterday morning from A. McCausland, secretary to Judge Parker, a consignment of Parker buttons and campaign literature. Miss Blake, who is with the "Royal Chorus," called on the publisher called on Judge Parker at Esopus last Thursday.

From The Times.
"Sam" Collins, who was to have played the part of Heinrich Lompe in "The Boy and the Bird" at the Lyric Theatre, has been taken ill in Chicago. The role, therefore, will fall into the hands of "Dave" Lewis, who was the original Lompe. Mr. Lewis is well known in New-York City for his impersonations of German character parts.

From The Evening Post.
William Bramwell who heads the "Captain Harrison" company, Proctor's Fifty-eighth Street Theatre, playing both the title role and that of Lieutenant George Fielding, gave an exhibition of versatility yesterday by adding the role of George Washington. Herbert Keene, who is assigned to the part, was taken ill at the last moment, and Mr. Bramwell, who has played the part before, volunteered to take the part.

From The Times.
The bill at Proctor's Twenty-third Street Theatre yesterday included Kelly and Ashby, acrobats; McNeill, troupe of trained cacklers; Burton's dog, Morgana; A. Sherrington's "The Flying Monkey," and the Ellis Sisters, "The Minstrel and the Maid." Miss Mabel Brownell and company in "The Love Dove's Honeycomb," and Bruce and Dalton, Miss Mattie Lockett, Oweley and Randall, Hathaway and Walton, and the "Climbers" appeared at the Lyric Theatre.

OBITUARY.

GEORGE W. CUMMINGS.

Word was received yesterday that George W. Cummings, vice-president of the American Press Association, died suddenly on Sunday, in a sanatorium at Banff, Northwest Territory. His wife died last winter, and last spring Mr. Cummings, who was in poor health, sold his house in Westchester, N. Y., and went to the Pacific Coast and bought property at Los Angeles. He was born near Terre Haute, Ind., in 1848, and was graduated from the Indiana State University in 1871. He went into journalism, being on the staff of "The Terre Haute Gazette," and later with a railroad paper in St. Louis. He was a member of the American Press Association in Chicago, in 1882. Mr. Cummings was his associate in the enterprise, which opened offices here a year later. Mr. Cummings was wealthy. He was a member of the Lotos and Hardware clubs in this city. The burial will be in Woodlawn.

From The Evening Post.
Louis Meyers, founder of the Broadway Kid glove house of Louis Meyers & Son, died on Sunday at the Grand Hotel, Catskill Mountains. He was among the pioneer wholesale glove manufacturers in this country. Born in Bavaria about seventy-five years ago, Mr. Meyers came to America in 1850, and engaged in the glove business. He was a poor but ambitious. Having learned the trade and with intuitive knowledge of the development of the domestic kid glove industry, he engaged in business on his own account in 1864 at Broadway and Chambers street. He kept headquarters in Manhattan. He perfected many improvements in use today by glove makers throughout the United States. Mr. Meyers was a member of the United States Fair, and was a member of the American representative merchant.
