

DISCUSSING THE TARIFF. TALK AT WHITE HOUSE.

Advocates and Opponents of Revision See the President.

FROM THE TRIBUNE BUREAU. Washington, Dec. 3.—What may prove to be the greatest obstacle to tariff revision, from the common sense point of view, of adjusting only those schedules where modification is essential to the public interests, is the fear that any attempted amendment might result harmfully to certain industries practically dependent on protection for their existence and well-being.

Representative Dixon, of Montana, to-day expressed his belief that certain of the schedules could be revised in such a manner as would benefit the country at large. "But," he added, "could this be done without tampering with the tariff on lead, wool and hides? We could not permit these great industries, so important to my State, to be interfered with, for to do so would spell ruin to many of our people. I believe, however, a revision can be made without working harm to any of the interests of the country, great or small."

Tariff revisionists and anti-tariff revisionists of varying degrees of intensity had the ear of President Roosevelt to-day, and made the best of their brief opportunity. Very few and-outers were, however, in the minority. Very few of the President's callers were so far as to say that the tariff schedules are right as they stand, all the tariff schedules are right as they stand, all the tariff schedules are right as they stand, all the tariff schedules are right as they stand.

FAVORS AN EXTRA SESSION.

There is undoubtedly a strong and growing sentiment throughout this country in favor of tariff revision," said Mr. Lawrence. "I expressed the wish of the people with reference to this question, to mean that the tariff should be revised by those who believe in the principle of protection and are pledged to an endorsement of that principle; that it was not an endorsement of that principle, that it was not an endorsement of that principle, that it was not an endorsement of that principle."

MAKES PRIVATE POND PUBLIC RINK.

Morrisstown, N. J., Dec. 3. (Special).—That Frederick G. Burnham is a philanthropist was demonstrated to-day, when he announced that he would donate the pond on his estate to the village as a skating rink for the young people of the village. In doing this he loses a revenue from the pond of at least $1,000 a year, for the pond for years has been one of the principal sources of ice for a local company.

NOTES FROM TUXEDO PARK.

Tuxedo Park, N. Y., Dec. 3.—Many well known persons came to Tuxedo to-day to take part in the Christmas dinner given by Mrs. C. G. Foster. A special dinner was given at the clubhouse, followed by a bridge which tournament. The greatest attraction was the excellent skating, the first of the season on the Weehee Lake, which attracted a large crowd.

THE DRAWBACK ON FLOUR.

Senator Hansbrough, of North Dakota, to-day brought up a matter of some importance relating to the existing tariff. It was that the drawback on flour made from imported wheat. Senator Hansbrough first took up the subject with Secretary Shaw, and later the Secretary talked about it to the members of the Senate from Dakota and Minnesota who import wheat from Canada and afterward ship the flour over the border.

MIDSHIPMEN SEVERELY PUNISHED.

Annapolis Superintendent Trying to Suppress Habit of "Frenching." Annapolis, Md., Dec. 3.—When Superintendent Brown came to the Naval Academy, he announced that he proposed to put an end to "frenching," a habit which has long prevailed at this institution. He declared that he would suppress it, and that he would severely punish those who were guilty of it. He announced that he would suppress it, and that he would severely punish those who were guilty of it.

CHURCH AND STATE IN FRANCE.

Leading Clerical Advocate Introduction of American System. Paris, Dec. 3.—Cardinal Perraud, the foremost figure in the French hierarchy and a member of the French Academy, has written a letter strongly opposing the American system of the independence of church and state, and indicating that the American system offers the basis for a reorganization of church and state in France. This is the prevailing view in the highest clerical circles. "L'Univers," the principal clerical organ, advocates the introduction of the American system. The Chamber of Deputies providing that the future of the church and state shall be the same as those existing in the United States.

MILES ACCEPTS OFFICE. To Become Governor-Elect Douglas's Adjutant General.

Brockton, Mass., Dec. 3.—Lieutenant General Nelson A. Miles (retired) has accepted an appointment as adjutant general on the staff of Governor-elect William L. Douglas. This information was given out to-night by Mr. Douglas, and he said, his first statement concerning the matter.

Mr. Douglas returned to his home in Hot Springs, Va. He stopped in New-York on his way home, and while there the question of his principal staff appointment was determined. While on the train from New-York Mr. Douglas prepared a statement, which he gave out to-night. In addition to his formal statement, the Governor-elect said that the appointment had been made and accepted. The announcement of the appointment of the inspector general of Mr. Douglas's staff will be made Monday or Tuesday.

During my absence from the State I had consultations with Lieutenant General Nelson A. Miles, who is now in Massachusetts. The ideas of General Miles and myself concerning these affairs are in exact accord, and General Miles will undoubtedly be my chief military adviser. My administration will probably request the War Department at Washington to detail Lieutenant General Miles to report to me, under the provisions of a law recently passed by Congress. General Miles will undoubtedly accept the detail.

GET "COLLEGE STUDENT BURGLAR."

Mount Vernon Police Capture Thief Who Exposed as Colleague. The "college student burglar" is the latest adjunct to Mount Vernon criminality. This clever young burglar entered more than a dozen houses under this name within a month, securing thousands of dollars' worth of booty. In the arrest of "Gus" Dewell, recently exposed as a burglar, a public member of a respectable Mount Vernon family, Chief of Police Foley believes he has captured the burglar. Dewell was arrested late on Friday night by Patrolman Silverstein. The burglar was clad in fashionable clothes, impersonating a college youth. When the patrolman said, "I want you, old man," Dewell appeared surprised.

Mount Vernon Police Capture Thief Who Exposed as Colleague.

When searched he had twenty keys, a burglar's electric lamp and a jimmy. He carried a dress suit and a pair of shoes. He was seen at a public house on the corner of Broadway and 125th Street, where he was seen with a woman. He was seen at a public house on the corner of Broadway and 125th Street, where he was seen with a woman. He was seen at a public house on the corner of Broadway and 125th Street, where he was seen with a woman.

THE DRAWBACK ON FLOUR.

Senator Hansbrough, of North Dakota, to-day brought up a matter of some importance relating to the existing tariff. It was that the drawback on flour made from imported wheat. Senator Hansbrough first took up the subject with Secretary Shaw, and later the Secretary talked about it to the members of the Senate from Dakota and Minnesota who import wheat from Canada and afterward ship the flour over the border.

MIDSHIPMEN SEVERELY PUNISHED.

Annapolis Superintendent Trying to Suppress Habit of "Frenching." Annapolis, Md., Dec. 3.—When Superintendent Brown came to the Naval Academy, he announced that he proposed to put an end to "frenching," a habit which has long prevailed at this institution. He declared that he would suppress it, and that he would severely punish those who were guilty of it.

CHURCH AND STATE IN FRANCE.

Leading Clerical Advocate Introduction of American System. Paris, Dec. 3.—Cardinal Perraud, the foremost figure in the French hierarchy and a member of the French Academy, has written a letter strongly opposing the American system of the independence of church and state, and indicating that the American system offers the basis for a reorganization of church and state in France.

MUSIC. "Die Meistersinger von Nürnberg."

The highwater mark of Mr. Conried's achievements since he took possession of the Metropolitan Opera House was reached yesterday afternoon, when Wagner's "Meistersinger" had its first performance. Doubtless there were many in the audience who were only restrained by loyalty to the old German regime from saying that it was the opera ever revived in New-York, which has seen many notable representations. Should any of them have thought so without giving the thought expression, they shall not be gainsaid. All the stage attire was new, and all of it was beautiful and effective, except the first scene in the church for those who sat on the left side of the audience room.

From the New-York Tribune, October 28, 1904. MRS. GILBERT AT THE LYCEUM. In Mrs. Gilbert's association with the New-York stage, which has extended over a period of forty years, she has obtained not only the public admiration as an actress, but the public affection as a woman. Her first appearance in the theatre was made in 1864, and she is now in the eighty-fourth year of her age, she enters on her final theatrical season, intending, at the close of it, to say farewell. Last night she appeared at the Lyceum Theatre, in a play, adapted from the French, called "Granny," and in this she personated an old woman who, with good intention, alienates her grandson from his father, and, later, with tender need and tact, procures their reconciliation and reunion.

It is pleasant to be known as a Good Samaritan. Nevertheless, the man who passes by on one side of the street so deeply immersed in thought that he fails to notice what is doing on the other is frequently more to be envied than the Samaritan. Also are those who have a man become drunk and roam the streets with a certainty of immunity from arrest. To illustrate: An early morning home-keeper was accosted the other morning by a policeman, who was supporting what is technically known as a "soak." "Say," said the policeman, "just take this poor chap along a bit on his way toward home. I don't want to arrest him. The home-keeper took the man, dragged him to the street, and was making fair progress, despite a head wind and rough sea, when he encountered another policeman.

Another policeman just asked me to take him home. I said the home-keeper said he was in this block and that he didn't want to arrest the poor fellow. "I'll take this drunk back to the place you got him from," said the second policeman. "That fellow on the next beat is trying to shove this fellow into the water," said the first policeman, and he went on to court in the morning. I don't want to go to court either, and I'm not going."

The horseless carriage owner who regards the modern auto as belonging solely to the present era need not look into the window of an old print shop in Fourth-ave. to wake up and revise his reckoning. One illuminated print exhibits in all its amplitude and gorgeousness of decoration a three-wheeled motor car that looks like an electric victoria, crowded to the limit, inside and out. It is defined as "Dr. Church's London and Birmingham Motor Car," and was built in London in 1828. Another print presents in complete and intricate detail "Mr. Hancock's London and Paddington Motor Car Enterprise," a four-wheeled affair, also built in 1828. Though these three-wheeled cars have come and gone since then, the same signs of strenuous life in the motor car's environment are reflected by the oldtime artist as now attend to the modern motor car.

He was doing the best he could to simulate the appearance of the noble red man. He wore a red kimono, the back of which was branded with the title of a new song of war and love that had run through the mind of the Indian artist of bliss. His "moccasins" were ordinary boots of the Eastern variety, but his "sky piece" was as rich in feathers as a turkey's tail, and as varicolored as the rainbow. It would have been the envy of these gauzy habiliments was not happy. He had been in the business for many years, and he had been in the business for many years, and he had been in the business for many years.

THE WEATHER REPORT.

Official Record and Forecast.—Washington, Dec. 3.—The depression that was central Friday evening over Louisiana has been forced southward over the Gulf of Mexico by an area of high pressure that has moved northward to dominate the weather east of the Rocky Mountains. The area of high pressure above mentioned has been reinforced by a second high pressure from the north, and the result is a high pressure that stretches across the continent. Cloudy weather, with occasional burrs of snow, has prevailed in the North, and fair weather has prevailed in the South. The weather will be fair in all districts Sunday and Monday, but will be cloudy in the South on Sunday and in Eastern Texas and the Gulf States, where rain is probable Monday. Warmer weather will prevail in the South Sunday and Monday.

DEATH OF BISHOP FOSS'S DAUGHTER.

A dispatch received here yesterday announced the death of Mrs. Andrew C. Weeks, eldest daughter of Bishop Cyrus Foss, of the Methodist Church, at Alhambra, Cal., on Friday.

ESTATES OF J. T. LORD AND C. W. COOPER.

The appraisal of the estate of John T. Lord, formerly a member of the "Old and New York," and who died in the "German Hearts so Far in the West" in 1894, has been completed. The gross personal estate of $1,375,754, and that his net property, after deducting the expenses of administration and other disbursements, amounts to $1,065,603, all of which consists of bonds and other securities. Mr. Lord also left real property in this State and New-Jersey and in England, the value of which has not been ascertained. The estate of Charles W. Cooper, who died in 1894, has also been appraised. The gross personal property valued at $1,570,200, making a total of $2,635,803. Of the personal property $204,000 was real estate, and the balance was in securities of various descriptions. The estate goes to Mary W. Cooper, the wife, and Julia, the daughter.

A WEDDING.

The wedding of Miss Julia Worthington, daughter of Charles C. Worthington, to Edmund Monroe Sautelle, was celebrated at St. Barnabas's Episcopal Church, Irvington, at 3 o'clock yesterday afternoon. The ceremony was performed by the Rev. William H. Benjamin, and was witnessed only by relatives and a few intimate friends. The bride was Miss Elizabeth Sautelle, sister maid of honor, and the best man was Captain Curwen, of London. The ushers were Mark Leavitt Hough, G. C. Hutchinson and Wickless Throckmorton, of New-York; Captain C. G. Sautelle, brother of the bridegroom; Francis Virie, of Pittsburg, and Henry Rossiter Worthington. A reception followed at the home of the bride's mother, Mrs. Sautelle, at Irvington. The bridegroom, Mr. Sautelle, is the son of Brigadier-General and Mrs. Charles A. Sautelle, of Washington. Mr. and Mrs. Sautelle will sail for London in a few days.

MRS. LEDERER TO GET DIVORCE.

Mrs. Adele R. Lederer will obtain the divorce from George W. Lederer which she has been seeking from the Supreme Court. Justice Blanchard yesterday handed down a decision confirming the report of the referee, in which he finds that Mrs. Lederer is entitled to her divorce. The custody of the child is awarded to Mrs. Lederer, and she is to have the child with her. Mrs. Lederer is to have the child with her, and she is to have the child with her.

W. A. MARBURG GIVES A DINNER.

Baltimore, Dec. 3.—William A. Marburg entertained this evening a large party of New-York and Baltimore people at an unusual dinner at the Bellevue Hotel. The dinner was given in honor of the New-York contributors to the Marburg's guests the entertainment. Most of the Marburg's guests arrived on Friday evening. A most stormy and blustering party this morning, but in special electric cars Mr. Marburg took his party to the Elbridge Hotel, where the dinner was given. The dinner was given in honor of the New-York contributors to the Marburg's guests the entertainment. Most of the Marburg's guests arrived on Friday evening. A most stormy and blustering party this morning, but in special electric cars Mr. Marburg took his party to the Elbridge Hotel, where the dinner was given.

MRS. G. H. GILBERT. Recent Appreciations of the Venerable Actress.

From the New-York Tribune, October 28, 1904. MRS. GILBERT AT THE LYCEUM. In Mrs. Gilbert's association with the New-York stage, which has extended over a period of forty years, she has obtained not only the public admiration as an actress, but the public affection as a woman. Her first appearance in the theatre was made in 1864, and she is now in the eighty-fourth year of her age, she enters on her final theatrical season, intending, at the close of it, to say farewell. Last night she appeared at the Lyceum Theatre, in a play, adapted from the French, called "Granny," and in this she personated an old woman who, with good intention, alienates her grandson from his father, and, later, with tender need and tact, procures their reconciliation and reunion.

It is pleasant to be known as a Good Samaritan. Nevertheless, the man who passes by on one side of the street so deeply immersed in thought that he fails to notice what is doing on the other is frequently more to be envied than the Samaritan. Also are those who have a man become drunk and roam the streets with a certainty of immunity from arrest. To illustrate: An early morning home-keeper was accosted the other morning by a policeman, who was supporting what is technically known as a "soak." "Say," said the policeman, "just take this poor chap along a bit on his way toward home. I don't want to arrest him. The home-keeper took the man, dragged him to the street, and was making fair progress, despite a head wind and rough sea, when he encountered another policeman.

Another policeman just asked me to take him home. I said the home-keeper said he was in this block and that he didn't want to arrest the poor fellow. "I'll take this drunk back to the place you got him from," said the second policeman. "That fellow on the next beat is trying to shove this fellow into the water," said the first policeman, and he went on to court in the morning. I don't want to go to court either, and I'm not going."

The horseless carriage owner who regards the modern auto as belonging solely to the present era need not look into the window of an old print shop in Fourth-ave. to wake up and revise his reckoning. One illuminated print exhibits in all its amplitude and gorgeousness of decoration a three-wheeled motor car that looks like an electric victoria, crowded to the limit, inside and out. It is defined as "Dr. Church's London and Birmingham Motor Car," and was built in London in 1828. Another print presents in complete and intricate detail "Mr. Hancock's London and Paddington Motor Car Enterprise," a four-wheeled affair, also built in 1828.

He was doing the best he could to simulate the appearance of the noble red man. He wore a red kimono, the back of which was branded with the title of a new song of war and love that had run through the mind of the Indian artist of bliss. His "moccasins" were ordinary boots of the Eastern variety, but his "sky piece" was as rich in feathers as a turkey's tail, and as varicolored as the rainbow. It would have been the envy of these gauzy habiliments was not happy. He had been in the business for many years, and he had been in the business for many years, and he had been in the business for many years.

THE WEATHER REPORT.

Official Record and Forecast.—Washington, Dec. 3.—The depression that was central Friday evening over Louisiana has been forced southward over the Gulf of Mexico by an area of high pressure that has moved northward to dominate the weather east of the Rocky Mountains. The area of high pressure above mentioned has been reinforced by a second high pressure from the north, and the result is a high pressure that stretches across the continent. Cloudy weather, with occasional burrs of snow, has prevailed in the North, and fair weather has prevailed in the South. The weather will be fair in all districts Sunday and Monday, but will be cloudy in the South on Sunday and in Eastern Texas and the Gulf States, where rain is probable Monday. Warmer weather will prevail in the South Sunday and Monday.

DEATH OF BISHOP FOSS'S DAUGHTER.

A dispatch received here yesterday announced the death of Mrs. Andrew C. Weeks, eldest daughter of Bishop Cyrus Foss, of the Methodist Church, at Alhambra, Cal., on Friday.

ESTATES OF J. T. LORD AND C. W. COOPER.

The appraisal of the estate of John T. Lord, formerly a member of the "Old and New York," and who died in the "German Hearts so Far in the West" in 1894, has been completed. The gross personal estate of $1,375,754, and that his net property, after deducting the expenses of administration and other disbursements, amounts to $1,065,603, all of which consists of bonds and other securities. Mr. Lord also left real property in this State and New-Jersey and in England, the value of which has not been ascertained. The estate of Charles W. Cooper, who died in 1894, has also been appraised. The gross personal property valued at $1,570,200, making a total of $2,635,803. Of the personal property $204,000 was real estate, and the balance was in securities of various descriptions. The estate goes to Mary W. Cooper, the wife, and Julia, the daughter.

A WEDDING.

The wedding of Miss Julia Worthington, daughter of Charles C. Worthington, to Edmund Monroe Sautelle, was celebrated at St. Barnabas's Episcopal Church, Irvington, at 3 o'clock yesterday afternoon. The ceremony was performed by the Rev. William H. Benjamin, and was witnessed only by relatives and a few intimate friends. The bride was Miss Elizabeth Sautelle, sister maid of honor, and the best man was Captain Curwen, of London. The ushers were Mark Leavitt Hough, G. C. Hutchinson and Wickless Throckmorton, of New-York; Captain C. G. Sautelle, brother of the bridegroom; Francis Virie, of Pittsburg, and Henry Rossiter Worthington. A reception followed at the home of the bride's mother, Mrs. Sautelle, at Irvington. The bridegroom, Mr. Sautelle, is the son of Brigadier-General and Mrs. Charles A. Sautelle, of Washington. Mr. and Mrs. Sautelle will sail for London in a few days.

MRS. LEDERER TO GET DIVORCE.

Mrs. Adele R. Lederer will obtain the divorce from George W. Lederer which she has been seeking from the Supreme Court. Justice Blanchard yesterday handed down a decision confirming the report of the referee, in which he finds that Mrs. Lederer is entitled to her divorce. The custody of the child is awarded to Mrs. Lederer, and she is to have the child with her. Mrs. Lederer is to have the child with her, and she is to have the child with her.

W. A. MARBURG GIVES A DINNER.

Baltimore, Dec. 3.—William A. Marburg entertained this evening a large party of New-York and Baltimore people at an unusual dinner at the Bellevue Hotel. The dinner was given in honor of the New-York contributors to the Marburg's guests the entertainment. Most of the Marburg's guests arrived on Friday evening. A most stormy and blustering party this morning, but in special electric cars Mr. Marburg took his party to the Elbridge Hotel, where the dinner was given. The dinner was given in honor of the New-York contributors to the Marburg's guests the entertainment. Most of the Marburg's guests arrived on Friday evening. A most stormy and blustering party this morning, but in special electric cars Mr. Marburg took his party to the Elbridge Hotel, where the dinner was given.

GATHERED ABOUT TOWN. Special Notices.

Mention prescribes to a woman and you strike a responsive chord. Jam, jelly and marmalade are words to conjure with, even though the woman delegates the making of such delicacies to a hired cook. To put down in her heart is the interest inherited from those generations of women whose chief pride was the collar or pantry shelf and its array of jars and glasses, the contents of which were the product of their hands and the orchard. Example of this was given recently at the Garrick Theatre at a performance of "Joseph Entangled." In the first act there is a breakfast scene, in which Henry Miller, dressed in his Sunday best, sits at a table with a woman who is preparing to make marmalade. Mr. Miller takes the dish and dips the spoon into it, while Miss Spang passes her plate to him. There is a breathless hush in the audience. Then the spoon descends on Miss Spang's plate, and from every woman in the audience issues an ecstatic "Oh, it's real marmalade!" If that dish were passed around the audience no woman would refuse "just a taste."

Every man who shaves himself agrees that it is best to have two or three of the necessary face-smoothing implements; that it is good neither for the face nor for the pocket any one of the latter; that the best results are attained in using alternate razors. There is one West Side resident whose faith in the efficacy of this method is so great that he has a razor for every day in the week. He shaves himself with a safety razor, and he has a device in the same week. He keeps his razors in a box, and at the top of each compartment is a label: "Sunday," "Monday," "Tuesday," "Wednesday," "Thursday," "Friday," "Saturday," "Sunday." Thus the shaver never makes a mistake; never uses Monday's razor on Wednesday.

It is pleasant to be known as a Good Samaritan. Nevertheless, the man who passes by on one side of the street so deeply immersed in thought that he fails to notice what is doing on the other is frequently more to be envied than the Samaritan. Also are those who have a man become drunk and roam the streets with a certainty of immunity from arrest. To illustrate: An early morning home-keeper was accosted the other morning by a policeman, who was supporting what is technically known as a "soak." "Say," said the policeman, "just take this poor chap along a bit on his way toward home. I don't want to arrest him. The home-keeper took the man, dragged him to the street, and was making fair progress, despite a head wind and rough sea, when he encountered another policeman.

Another policeman just asked me to take him home. I said the home-keeper said he was in this block and that he didn't want to arrest the poor fellow. "I'll take this drunk back to the place you got him from," said the second policeman. "That fellow on the next beat is trying to shove this fellow into the water," said the first policeman, and he went on to court in the morning. I don't want to go to court either, and I'm not going."

The horseless carriage owner who regards the modern auto as belonging solely to the present era need not look into the window of an old print shop in Fourth-ave. to wake up and revise his reckoning. One illuminated print exhibits in all its amplitude and gorgeousness of decoration a three-wheeled motor car that looks like an electric victoria, crowded to the limit, inside and out. It is defined as "Dr. Church's London and Birmingham Motor Car," and was built in London in 1828. Another print presents in complete and intricate detail "Mr. Hancock's London and Paddington Motor Car Enterprise," a four-wheeled affair, also built in 1828.

THE WEATHER REPORT.

Official Record and Forecast.—Washington, Dec. 3.—The depression that was central Friday evening over Louisiana has been forced southward over the Gulf of Mexico by an area of high pressure that has moved northward to dominate the weather east of the Rocky Mountains. The area of high pressure above mentioned has been reinforced by a second high pressure from the north, and the result is a high pressure that stretches across the continent. Cloudy weather, with occasional burrs of snow, has prevailed in the North, and fair weather has prevailed in the South. The weather will be fair in all districts Sunday and Monday, but will be cloudy in the South on Sunday and in Eastern Texas and the Gulf States, where rain is probable Monday. Warmer weather will prevail in the South Sunday and Monday.

DEATH OF BISHOP FOSS'S DAUGHTER.

A dispatch received here yesterday announced the death of Mrs. Andrew C. Weeks, eldest daughter of Bishop Cyrus Foss, of the Methodist Church, at Alhambra, Cal., on Friday.

ESTATES OF J. T. LORD AND C. W. COOPER.

The appraisal of the estate of John T. Lord, formerly a member of the "Old and New York," and who died in the "German Hearts so Far in the West" in 1894, has been completed. The gross personal estate of $1,375,754, and that his net property, after deducting the expenses of administration and other disbursements, amounts to $1,065,603, all of which consists of bonds and other securities. Mr. Lord also left real property in this State and New-Jersey and in England, the value of which has not been ascertained. The estate of Charles W. Cooper, who died in 1894, has also been appraised. The gross personal property valued at $1,570,200, making a total of $2,635,803. Of the personal property $204,000 was real estate, and the balance was in securities of various descriptions. The estate goes to Mary W. Cooper, the wife, and Julia, the daughter.

A WEDDING.

The wedding of Miss Julia Worthington, daughter of Charles C. Worthington, to Edmund Monroe Sautelle, was celebrated at St. Barnabas's Episcopal Church, Irvington, at 3 o'clock yesterday afternoon. The ceremony was performed by the Rev. William H. Benjamin, and was witnessed only by relatives and a few intimate friends. The bride was Miss Elizabeth Sautelle, sister maid of honor, and the best man was Captain Curwen, of London. The ushers were Mark Leavitt Hough, G. C. Hutchinson and Wickless Throckmorton, of New-York; Captain C. G. Sautelle, brother of the bridegroom; Francis Virie, of Pittsburg, and Henry Rossiter Worthington. A reception followed at the home of the bride's mother, Mrs. Sautelle, at Irvington. The bridegroom, Mr. Sautelle, is the son of Brigadier-General and Mrs. Charles A. Sautelle, of Washington. Mr. and Mrs. Sautelle will sail for London in a few days.

MRS. LEDERER TO GET DIVORCE.

Mrs. Adele R. Lederer will obtain the divorce from George W. Lederer which she has been seeking from the Supreme Court. Justice Blanchard yesterday handed down a decision confirming the report of the referee, in which he finds that Mrs. Lederer is entitled to her divorce. The custody of the child is awarded to Mrs. Lederer, and she is to have the child with her. Mrs. Lederer is to have the child with her, and she is to have the child with her.

W. A. MARBURG GIVES A DINNER.

Baltimore, Dec. 3.—William A. Marburg entertained this evening a large party of New-York and Baltimore people at an unusual dinner at the Bellevue Hotel. The dinner was given in honor of the New-York contributors to the Marburg's guests the entertainment. Most of the Marburg's guests arrived on Friday evening. A most stormy and blustering party this morning, but in special electric cars Mr. Marburg took his party to the Elbridge Hotel, where the dinner was given. The dinner was given in honor of the New-York contributors to the Marburg's guests the entertainment. Most of the Marburg's guests arrived on Friday evening. A most stormy and blustering party this morning, but in special electric cars Mr. Marburg took his party to the Elbridge Hotel, where the dinner was given.

Table with columns for Foreign Rates, Daily and Sunday rates for various locations like London, Paris, etc.

Table with columns for Office, Main Office, and various other office locations and their addresses.

Table with columns for Postoffice Notice, detailing mail delivery times and schedules for various locations.

Table with columns for Transatlantic Mails, listing ship names, destinations, and departure times.

Table with columns for Mails for South and Central America, West Indies, and other regions.

Table with columns for Mails Forwarded Overland, Europe, and other international mail services.

Table with columns for Special Notices, providing information about various events, meetings, and services.

Table with columns for Cemeteries, listing various burial grounds and their locations.

Table with columns for Undertakers, listing names and addresses of funeral homes.

Table with columns for Special Notices, detailing various public notices and announcements.

Table with columns for Single Copies, providing information about purchasing individual copies of the newspaper.

Table with columns for Domestic Rates, listing rates for mail and other services within the country.

Table with columns for Foreign Rates, listing rates for international mail and other services.

Table with columns for Postoffice, providing information about postal services and regulations.