

ONLY 200 ARE FIREPROOF. DANGER OF OLD SCHOOLS.

Mayor Suggests an Investigation—Grove-st. Fire a Revelation.

The executive committee of the Board of Education yesterday authorized Superintendent Snyder of the building bureau to prepare a report on the school to take the place of Public School No. 8, which was burned Tuesday. The new building will stand on the site of the old and accommodate 454 more pupils. Meanwhile, the pupils will occupy No. 111, Vestry and Greenwich sts., an old structure that has been used as a storeroom. This building can accommodate four hundred on part time. They will also find seats at No. 38, Clark and Spring sts., and at No. 107, in 10th-st., near Greenwich-st. Within eight or ten days six classes will be able to return to the annex of No. 3.

It is more than probable that the fire in the Grove-st. school will cause an investigation of all the old school buildings in the city. The Mayor said yesterday that although he had no fear for the safety of the schools, an inspection of all the old buildings would not be wasted. "I shall place myself in communication with Superintendent Snyder," he said, "and suggest a report on the actual condition of those old schools. I see no reason for any scare. Our school children are splendidly drilled, and experience has shown that most of the school buildings can be cleared before the flames could get headway. Besides, during school hours the police and firemen keep careful watch on all school buildings."

The Mayor explained that he could only suggest to the school authorities, as they are not a part of the city government to the extent of giving him a authority to order them to do anything. Concerning the fire Superintendent Haeren said yesterday: "At times we had as many as 800 or 400 children in the part time classes and these children would have been in the school to the time of the fire if they had been continued. They were all children of the primary grades, and we have learned that the only means of exit they would have had from the rooms on the second floor would have been by a stone stairway which we are informed was the first thing to fall in the building. Children would certainly have been entrapped."

Superintendent Maxwell said that stories that the fire was the work of any "Black Hand" gang were nonsensical and not worthy of serious notice. "That at least 300 of the 500 schools are not fireproof is evident from the records of the Building Bureau. The latest statistics show that in 1901 only 102 out of 433 schools were fireproof. Now, with somewhat more than 500 buildings in the system, not more than 200 are adequately protected against the flames. When Chairman Adams of the Building Committee of the Board of Education and Superintendent Snyder of the Building Bureau, returned from an inspection of the ruins in Grove street yesterday, the former said:

SHAKE-UP BY TIFT.

Board of Education President Makes Many Changes in Committees.

The committees of the Board of Education have had an unprecedented shaking up by President Henry N. Tift, as almost the first action of his new term. The committees that have been most radically changed are those which have been subjected to the most severe criticism in the past. Not a former member has been left on the committee on finance, from which Commissioner William Lummis retired as chairman a week ago. This committee has been especially censured for its methods. Alrick H. Man will head this committee.

ACCOUNTING IN SCHOOLS. Corporation System Advocated by Report of Investigating Committee.

The New-York Association for Improving the Condition of the Poor, whose president, R. Fulton Cutting, is a friend of President Tift of the Board of Education, has as already told in The Tribune, prepared a report showing how it can improve the business methods of the department, and save money for use in extending the vacation schools, recreation centres, evening schools and the popular lectures. President Tift has appointed Commissioners Dix, Renwick, Jackson, Warburg and himself a committee to examine the report.

President A. Cleveland suggested that the plan of accounting would seem to be the adoption of that principle of accounting now universally followed by the best managed corporations, namely, the principle of grouping all expense items around their respective objects.

The Department of Education has at present a board of five auditors, who propose educational, financial and other reports. It is a department of audit, which records expenditure and prepares a statement of the same for the Board of Aldermen. There is, however, no effective reciprocal relation between these two departments. The report continues:

MANY MEETINGS HELD. Members of Religious Education Convention Pass Busy Day.

Boston, Feb. 15.—Numerous departmental sessions at which were delivered addresses leading to the most part with religious education making today a busy one for the delegates to the third annual convention of the Religious Education Association. Nearly a score of meetings and conferences were held. The second general session of the convention was held to-night.

The Rev. Samuel A. Elliot, of Boston, conducted the devotional services with which the joint session of the departments was opened. After the transaction of routine business, the Rev. Everett D. Burr considered the question, "The Place of Formal Instruction in Religious and Moral Education in the Sunday School."

The place of formal religious instruction in the home was discussed by President G. Stanley Hall of Clark University. The speaker said that children were "aliphons" of the fathers and mothers of the land, and that the fidelity with which religious instruction was imparted to the boys and girls in the home determined the degree of honor, which attached to the diplomas. President Hall prophesied that the establishment of high schools and early college years of courses in personal morality would soon be a fact.

The plan of religious instruction in the Young Men's Christian Association was indicated by Professor Coe, Religious Instruction in the public schools in the preparatory school and in the college, was treated respectively by Mr. Martin, by the Rev. Dr. Peabody, of Groton, and President Harris, of Amherst.

A special session of the department of correspondence instruction was held in the Park Street Church at noon. The speaker was the Rev. Frank W. Gunsaulus, president of the Armour Institute of Technology, Chicago, whose subject was "The Place and Possibilities of Correspondence Instruction in Religious Education." Alfred T. Perry, president of Marietta College, Marietta, Ohio, spoke before the department of theological seminaries.

Professor Charles H. Henderson, of the University of Chicago, before the home department, spoke on "The Part of the Home in Religious Education." Before the department of libraries, Drew B. Hall, librarian of the Millicent Library at Fair Haven, Mass., was the principal speaker.

The Department of Teachers considered the topic "The Training of Sunday School Teachers." Reports were made by various speakers on the Sunday school training accomplished by their respective institutions. Dean Edward H. Knight, of the Hartford School of Religious Pedagogy, of Hartford, Conn., was one. President John W. Hannel, of the Theological Institute and Training School, of Chicago, was another.
