

IN GARB OF SPRING.

Women Gayly Dressed—Trees Budding and Parks Crowded.

Pleasant sunshine and balmy spring breezes filled the parks and streets yesterday with a crowd almost Easterlike in its gayety of costume.

The sunny side of the hills and knolls in all the parks put on their first spring garment of green yesterday, and the elm trees and maples in the more favorable situations were bursting into bud.

The carriage parade in Central Park was the largest and most brilliant seen this year. Only the walk along Riverside Drive was more crowded with children and baby carriages than were the walks of Central Park.

Palm Sunday services were held in the Roman Catholic and Episcopal churches. In all the Roman Catholic churches palms were blessed and distributed and thousands of men, women and children appeared in the streets wearing bits

ROBS PROFESSOR'S HOME.

Thief Leaves Footprints—Man Arrested on Suspicion.

The home of Professor Abraham Jacob, of Columbia University, was entered by burglars early yesterday morning, and detectives last night arrested as a suspicious person Frank Moffat, twenty-six years old, who has been making his home with Mrs. Elizabeth Devereaux, the caretaker of the unoccupied house at No. 18 East 48th street, which is immediately in the rear of Professor Jacob's house.

Professor Jacob was awakened at 4 o'clock yesterday morning by a noise which, after listening some little time, he decided was caused by the movements of a trained nurse, who was with Mrs. Jacob on the third floor of his house. Professor Jacob was sleeping on the second floor. Two hours later one of the servants found the front basement door open.

Professor Jacob came down stairs about 8 o'clock and discovered that a pane of glass in the door leading from the rear yard into the basement had been broken and the door unlocked by turning the key on the inside. Further investigation showed that several of the rooms on the third floor had been ransacked and silverware and jewelry valued at $300 taken. A desk on the first floor was broken open, but $500 in cash contained in one of the drawers was overlooked.

Professor Jacob reported the robbery to the police, and detectives found tracks in the yard from Professor Jacob's residence leading to the fence dividing the yard from the rear of No. 18

WIGS ON THE GREEN.

New Haven Irishmen Threaten Dire Things Against McFadden's Flats.

New Haven, April 8 (Special).—Following the refusal of Chief Wrinn, the newly created theatrical censor, to refuse a license to the performance known as "McFadden's Flats," on the ground that it was a caricature of the Irish people, it is now said that if the play is put on as usual, with the "red above the green," there will be trouble.

As Irish people who protest against such a caricature as the play called "McFadden's Flats," have agreed to the chief of police as law respecting citizens should, and if there is a riot on Monday night when this show is presented it will not create any surprise.

Last night an enthusiastic son of Erin planted himself in front of the "McFadden's Flats" billboard, opposite the postoffice and carefully slashed and pulled down most of the posters advertising the show.

The fact that the ordinance creating the office of public theatrical censor contained a provision permitting the chief of police, as censor, to delegate his powers on occasion to citizens has brought from Corporation Counsel Daggert the opinion that the ordinance is invalid.

The Corporation Counsel also said that even if this objection should prove unimportant he was doubtful whether any ordinance was valid which gave to one person, such as the chief of police, final jurisdiction as to the character of theatrical plays to be presented on the stage.

WILSON MARSHALL ANGRY.

Says He Will Take Name Bridgeport from Stern of the Atlantic if Yacht Is Taxed.

Bridgeport, April 8 (Special).—Wilson Marshall, the owner of the yacht Atlantic, which won the Kaiser's Cup last summer, threatens to paint from the stern of the yacht the word Bridgeport, unless the Board of Relief takes the yacht from the tax list. The tax levied by the Board of Assessors a few months ago means a payment of $750 on the Atlantic, and Mr. Marshall emphatically declares that he will not pay that tax.

Pinkerton detectives employed by the British Guiana Gold Concessions Company and detectives in the employ of the Quebec Steamship Company were working in concert yesterday in the effort to find out why a box, supposed to contain a bar of gold worth about $15,000, held only a bar of lead when it was taken from the steamship Korona and opened in the company's office in Broad street on Saturday.

Last night the detectives found Moffat in a saloon at 45th street and Sixth avenue, and took him into custody as a suspicious person. None of the articles stolen from Professor Jacob's house was found on him, but the police say that his shoes fitted the measurements of the tracks found in the yards.

DIES AFTER 97 DAYS OF SLEEP.

have broken the spell of gloom or comparative gloom—which rested over it after its conversion into a "ground floor house," and to have resumed its old-time prestige. Nobody after the curtain has been up five minutes, without "The Social Whirl" of being a satire on "Town Topics" and smart society, except in the vaguest kind of way; and he may be a bit disappointed that a theme so obviously adapted to satire should have counted for almost nothing. But disappointment is pretty sure to be forgotten temporarily in the general merriment of the farce, the dances and bits of burlesque, the chorus groupings and songs. If musical comedy is to be just a "show" for the summer months, at least we have a right to ask that the "show" be entertaining, and that "The Social Whirl" certainly is. Miss Ada Lewis, as a soubrette from the West, is a constant delight, in a series of tiny burlesque, which Mr. Ross doubtless devised, are a whole show in themselves. Mr. Ross surprised many people on Saturday by singing with admirable ease, if not too beautiful a voice, and then adding some quite little dance steps. And Miss Ritchie, who appears to have renewed her youth, glancing defiantly at that wonderful girl, Lillian Russell, who sat complacent in the front row, really disclosed a vein of comic mimicry, and quite captivated the audience. Only Joseph Coyne, "The Social Whirl," struggled ineffectively to amuse. His part, probably, was supposed to contain the satire, and as there wasn't any satire, the part fell flat.

The recent burlesque of "Peter Pan" played by the Columbia students, and the musical comedy "Tabasco Land," played by the Princeton Triangle club at the Waldorf on Saturday, serve not only to amuse the undergraduates and their friends, but to point the shame of present day musical comedy. Neither of these strictly amateur productions was any less entertaining than a dozen Broadway musical plays of the winter. The music was almost as good, being largely taken from the same sources; the singing was better; the lyrics were far brighter and more melodious; the dialogue was quite as fresh, and, in the case of the Columbia burlesque, more witty; the inferiority of the student productions lay chiefly in the lack of experience on the part of the players. It is safe to say that if the list of writers of Harvard, or Princeton, or Columbia, set out to write a satire on the "Social Whirl" scandal they would disclose a more intelligent and more stimulating central idea than can be found, for instance, in "The Social Whirl." Without women, without money for costumes and scenery, without trained actors, the college players meet our professional producers on their own ground. This means only one thing, and that is, that the musical comedy is very low; and it tempts us to immediate pleasure given by "The Social Whirl" with an afterthought of regret.

Today is the tenth anniversary of Edgar Smith's connection with Joe Weber's Music Hall as playwright. He will be permitted to celebrate the occasion in a most joyful manner. He has been made foreman of the Queen's County grand jury, for a day, and is locked up all day long in a stuffy room in the Long Island City courthouse trying to find somebody to send to the penitentiary.

John Philip Sousa will lead the orchestra at the performance of his new military opera, "The Free Lance," at the Chestnut Street Opera House at the opening performance of this new production at the New Amsterdam Theatre next Monday evening. The performance he will direct in Philadelphia will be the first he has seen of his new piece.

The latest acquisition to the vaudeville stage is Miss Georgia Caine, late of "Pony from Paris" and "The Edrie and the Girl." On April 20 she will make her debut in a musical sketch, assisted by Harry Leslie and six show girls. Harry Vokes, of Ward & Vokes, is another recruit to the vaudeville ranks. He is preparing a sketch to make his debut in the Queen's County grand jury, for a day, and is locked up all day long in a stuffy room in the Long Island City courthouse trying to find somebody to send to the penitentiary.
