TUESDAY, MAY 8, 1906.

THE NEWS THIS MORNING.

CONGRESS.—Senate: An anti-pass amendment to the Railroad Rate bill, offered by Mr. Culbertson, was adopted; further concessions to those who desire the passage of the Hepburn bill unamended were made.

FOREIGN.—Augustine Birrell, president of the Board of Education, moved the second reading of the Education bill in the House of Commons; strong opposition to the measure was shown by Conservatives, Nationalists and Socialists.

DOMESTIC.—The government, it was said in Washington, will co-operate with Ohio officials in prosecution of the Standard Oil Company.

CITY.—Stocks were irregular, closing strong. The offer of the anthracite operators to continue work for three years and the 1903 award was accepted by President Mitchell and his committee.

THE WEATHER.—Indications for to-day: Fair and warmer. The temperature yesterday: Highest, 59 degrees; lowest, 49.

A STATE LIBRARY BUILDING. One of the best pieces of work done by the Legislature just adjourned was the provision for the long talked of state education building.

The Education Department is at present scattered through several buildings at Albany. Its clerical force is crowded and often compelled to work in improperly lighted and heated quarters, facing the danger of death from accident or fire.

should have been its completion. In the Cabinet, and seems likely to be completed with what should have been its beginning, in the popular electorate. It was the genius of Waldeck-Rousseau which formed a stable Cabinet—by the moral force of that Cabinet compelling the Chamber to keep it stable through the formation of the Bloc.

Such treatment of its educational and scientific institutions is utterly unworthy of the Empire State. Its library, founded in 1818, is the fifth in size and importance in the country being surpassed only by the Library of Congress, the New York Public Library, the Boston Public Library and the Harvard University Library.

The bill to relieve this situation seems admirably devised for the purpose. It provides for the purchase of a site costing not more than $400,000, including incidental expenses. Then it calls for competitive plans for a library, museum and educational office building, so designed as to be capable of extension when more stock room is needed.

The whole country joins in the congratulations showered on Speaker Cannon yesterday in Washington on the arrival of his seventieth birthday. The Speaker has won for himself an esteem and affection which few public men enjoy in the rough-and-tumble life of politics.

France is, indeed, doing well. Her management of the strikes and threats of insurrection of a week ago was admirable. Her sequel or complement thereto in Sunday's general elections was highly gratifying and was almost surprising in its completeness to even her most optimistic friends.

Well grounded fears were vigorously expressed a few years ago that the lobster would soon be exterminated if it was not protected by law. In spite of the measures adopted in consequence of that belief, the danger has apparently not been removed.

It is a result radiant with high promise for the welfare of France. We must date the beginning of it away back to June, 1890, when Waldeck-Rousseau formed his epoch-making "Cabinet of Republican Defence." Then was established the principle that believers in the republic should stand together to maintain the republic, whether against monarchist or socialist, labor union or church or army cabal.

ALERT POLICEMEN.

Our policemen get so many more kicks than hap-pennies that it is a pleasure to commend the alertness and initiative of the members of the force who saved the man who fell into the Park avenue tunnel early yesterday morning.

It is in emergencies of this kind that the New York policeman is at his best. He often lacks discipline. Our atmosphere is not favorable to obedience. He will talk on post and "beat his foun."

ANTI-TUBERCULOUS SERUMS.

The American Consul at Milan, Mr. Dunning, sends to Washington an account of recent endeavors in Italy to find a successful method of resisting tuberculosis by inoculation.

An Italian expert named Carcano has evolved a serum for the treatment of human subjects. The manner in which it is prepared is not disclosed, but there is one thing which commends its author to favor.

The fact that, notwithstanding the unprecedented generosity of the American government and people, the need of San Francisco and the coast towns which also suffered is still great, helps the rest of the country to realize the magnitude of the calamity.

It is said it costs the Interborough one and four-fifths cents apiece to carry passengers. This probably includes the wear and tear of the straps. And still it talks about not bidding for new subways!

THE TALK OF THE DAY.

The chow, the solemn, black tongued dog which comes from China, is the London "Chronicle" thinks, the ideal city dog. It says: "He never barks unless there is something serious to bark at. You open the door, and the dog marches out with fine solemnity.

A GLEAM OF HOPE.

By means of a new invention, it is claimed that petrol can be made sweet scented. You may seek through scented bowers Twined with jessamine and rose, Which the gentle, vernal showers Have made fragrant.

SAVING THE LOBSTER.

Here are some assertions from compositions by American schoolboys: "Franklin's father was a tall chandler." "The climate of North America is very embracing." "This song is in the key of B flat."

A bright but inexperienced young woman consented to take charge of the boy infant class. She found them jumping from the tops of the steam radiator. Fifteen minutes later the superintendent found fourteen meek masculine "infants" seated sedately in a tightly squeezed row before the bright countenance.

It is not recorded that King Rameses II had an especially hard heart, but though he died 3,165 years ago, that organ is still in existence, and Lortet, of the French Academy, has examined the heart of the mummy found in 1881 at Thebes and deposited in the Egyptian Museum at Cairo in 1890.

There is no uniformity in the size at which lobsters reach maturity. Some begin spawning when not more than seven inches in length, but these are exceptions to the rule. Furthermore, the first brood is very much smaller than the later ones, and, generally speaking, the larger the lobster the more numerous the progeny.

below seven inches, and that is not even suggested. If the dividing line were fixed at nine or ten inches, almost equally good results would be secured. Besides, it will not do to lose sight altogether of the demands of the market. It is doubtful if lobsters less than seven inches long would find a ready sale.

It is greatly to be wished that a practical test of Professor Herrick's plan might be made. Four New England states, Canada and New York have a common interest in this matter. They need not all act at once and together. Concert of action at the outset, indeed, would be inadvisable.

The hard cool diplomatists took a little longer time to reach an agreement than did the plenipotentiaries at Portsmouth, but they solved the problem of peace and amity just the same.

The guardians of the aesthetic interests of Boston have been doing some good work in protecting their park spaces from offensively displayed advertising. A billboard on the roof of a building overlooking the Common was so objectionable that the chairman of the department of public nuisances of the American Civic Association wrote to the New York firm whose wares were advertised by the sign, protesting against its unsightliness.

Articles on the prevailing traits of the modern British locomotive have recently appeared in "Cassier's Magazine." These show that the design of Stephenson's great invention is still undergoing modification. It is permissible to speculate, however, on the relative number of steam and electric engines which will be in service on the trunk lines of civilized countries ten or fifteen years hence.

The able editors who have been industriously endeavoring to show how imbecile the House of Representatives was in passing the Hepburn Rate bill almost unanimously are now confronted with the imminent danger of having to repeat the process in regard to the United States Senate.

The fact that, notwithstanding the unprecedented generosity of the American government and people, the need of San Francisco and the coast towns which also suffered is still great, helps the rest of the country to realize the magnitude of the calamity.

It is said it costs the Interborough one and four-fifths cents apiece to carry passengers. This probably includes the wear and tear of the straps. And still it talks about not bidding for new subways!

AT THE WHITE HOUSE.

The President signed the Alaska Delegate bill in the presence of Representative Cushman, of Washington, who promptly appropriated the pen with which the act was made good at this pen to Alaska, Alaska," said Mr. Cushman. "He will keep it as long as he lives, as a souvenir of the President and the sign that points the way for Alaska's progress."

Charles W. Kohlhaas and Thomas B. Dunn, of the New York Commission to the Jamestown Exposition, called to pay their respects to the President, who was just returned from Jamestown, where he spent a week looking over the site for the New York building," said Mr. Kohlhaas, "and it will be one of the finest as well as one of the most prettily situated structures in the grounds."

Among the callers at the White House were Representatives Bartholdi, McKinley, Sherman, Alexander, Madden, Landis, Hepburn, Farmers, Bennett and Allen; ex-Senator Hiseock of New York; ex-Representative Louis C. California; Francis Hendricks, Assemblyman Ezra B. Prentiss and W. C. Warren, of New York; Ware H. Ellis, of Ohio, and Commissioner James R. Garfield.

RETAIN OLD CEMETERY.

Funerary Ground. The New York Marble Cemetery is to be perpetuated. At an adjourned meeting of the corporation yesterday, at No. 17 Battery Place, it was announced that the $200,000 endowment fund, the interest from which is to pay for conducting the old burying place, was not only completed, but over-subscribed by $2,500.

The New York Marble Cemetery was established about seventy-five years ago, and is now in the center of the block at Second avenue, the Bowery, 21 and 23 streets. Here are the vaults of many prominent and wealthy New York families, including Depew, Hegeman, Lord, Kernochan and Zabriske. For the last few years the title interest of the original owners have been the descendants of the cemetery, Daniel Parish, Jr., the only survivor of the original owners, and the cost of maintenance. It is now being sold to the corporation.

Henry N. Tift presided at the meeting yesterday. The committee in charge of the collection of contributions to the fund received $2,500 of the amount in the last two weeks. Circulars explaining the plan and asking for contributions had been sent to the descendants of the original owners, scattered over nearly every part of the world.

The fund will be invested in savings bank deposits, and the interest to care for the cemetery, workmen, will be paid to the surviving trustees, Daniel Parish, Jr., the surviving trustee, presented his resignation, which was accepted by the corporation. The corporation will reimburse him for the balance of $2,500. J. Frederick Kernochan, William Newcomb, John Hone, Jr., Andrew D. Nichols and E. C.
