MAY FESTIVAL GIVEN BY CHILDREN OF MARY AT SACRED HEART ACADEMY YESTERDAY FOR BENEFIT OF BARAT INDUSTRIAL SCHOOL. PUCK AND THE FAIRIES FINDING BOTTOM ASLEEP AT THE TREE. —Midsummer Night's Dream.

THE MAYPOLE DANCE.

A PLAY IN THE OPEN.

Children Sweetly Present "Pyramus and Thisbe" for a Benefit.

On a little lawn surrounded by apple and pear trees, with an ivy-clad wall and the green vistas of the convent grounds for background, half a hundred Italian boys from the Jesuit Italian Mission of Our Lady of Loretto yesterday acted the story of Pyramus and Thisbe, from "A Midsummer Night's Dream," at the Convent of the Sacred Heart, Manhattanville. Out of the heart of the slums it bloomed, with Puck and Peablossom and Mustardseed and sweet bully Bottom and Theseus and his bride, and not so much as a fairy's wing was smutched or a joke lost in the process. The young Italians who presented it, and who wore their classic robes and fillets and sandals with as general a grace as if they were prosaic coats and trousers, came from Elizabeth street, or thereabouts. They are all poor—so poor that some of them don't go home any earlier than they can help at night, because it is so uncomfortable sleeping with ten or twelve other persons in the room. But their Italian natures responded to Shakespeare's delightful foiling and Mendelssohn's exquisite music in a way that was as wonderful as it was refreshing. What if a disrespectful young apple did land on Thisbe's nose as she was composing herself in a great death agony on Pyramus's body? What if Theseus's bride was a fine, brawny young fellow—a plumber's assistant, or something muscular like that? Or if Bottom had to get into his ass's head as best he could in the conspicuous privacy afforded by the trunk of an apple tree? It was all part of the youthful charm of the play and the players. A Greek dance, a Maypole dance and a pony quadrille followed. The entertainment, which was given under the auspices of the Children of Mary, Manhattanville, was for the benefit of the Barat Industrial School, at No. 146 East Houston street.

THE TRIBUNE PATTERN.

Bathing suits are apt to follow the general trend of fashion, in certain details at least, and this year the favorite one is made with a circular skirt. Illustrated is an exceedingly attractive, graceful and altogether practical model that allows of a number of variations and is in every way desirable. In the case of the material it is made with a big sailor collar, the material being black Sicilian mohair, with trimming of black and white banding, but many swimmers object to collars, and the neck is so arranged that it can be cut out on a square outline and finished flat, as shown in the small view. While again, the skirt can be worn or omitted, as individual preference may decide. The puffed sleeves, gathered into bands, are exceedingly well liked, but loose ones are included in the design. In the case of the material, silk, serge, taffeta, and, indeed, all the materials used for bathing suits, will be found suitable. The quantity of material required for the medium size is ten and one-half yards 21 inches wide, nine and one-half yards 27 inches wide or six and one-half yards 44 inches wide, with eight and one-half yards of banding. The pattern, No. 5374, is cut in sizes for a 34, 36, 38, 40, 42 and 44 inch bust measure. The pattern will be sent to any address on receipt of 10 cents. Please give number of pattern and must measure distinctly. Address: Pattern Department, New-York Tribune. If in a hurry for pattern, send an extra two-cent stamp, and we will mail by letter postage in sealed envelope.

TRIBUNE SUNSHINE SOCIETY GOOD CHEER.

Have you had a kindness shown? Pass it on. 'Twas not given for you alone— Pass it on. Let it travel down the years, Let it wipe another's tears, Till in heaven the deed appears— Pass it on.

DAILY THOUGHT. With the sun overhead, your song of praise Like an eagle to heaven mounts, But how will you sing in the rainy days? For that is what really counts. —Langdon Ballinger.

SPECIAL CHEER. The following sums of money were received yesterday for the poor Danish leper: Mrs. G. L. S., New Jersey, $2; Mrs. B., Manhattan, $2; "An Anonymous Friend," $2; A. L. P., Manhattan, $3; Bridgeport, Conn., 50 cents; M. L., of Brooklyn, $2, "to have some one read to him," and "A." of Manhattan, $1, as "a ray of sunshine."

OTHER MEMORY. The Hill branch, through its secretary, Miss Emma T. Tutill, has sent $8 for Consumptive Home and $1 as dues; Dansville, N. Y., $1 as dues and $1 for Consumptive Home; Miss H. J. Nutt, 40 cents for badges; Mothers' Sunshine Circle, 80 cents for badges.

CONSUMPTIVE HOME. Will the branches who made pledges for the second payment in the Consumptive Home please send the amount to the office? The money must be paid on June 1.

TWICE BEREAVED. A bereavement so peculiarly sad and painful has come to one of our members that all mothers' hearts will be touched with the deepest sympathy. Mrs. Genevieve Cutler Thornbury, so long identified with the T. S. S. work in Manila and Japan, has gone through the terrible experience of having both her little children die en route from China to America. Mr. Thornbury was transferred from the Seaman's Mission at Nagasaki, Japan, to Cho-Poo, China. Rendered anxious for the safety of his family by the recent anti-foreign demonstrations in China, he determined to send his wife and children home at once, and to follow later himself. On April 22, a few hours after leaving Yokohama, little Ruth, aged three years, was taken seriously ill, and died the next day and was buried at sea. Two days later Elsie, two years old, was taken ill and died suddenly, and the almost distracted mother saw another child consigned to the sea. As soon as the vessel reached Vancouver, a cablegram was sent to Mr. Thornbury, who is now on his way to his heartbroken wife, who is staying with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. J. P. Cutler, at Cucamonga, Cal.

The T. S. S. extends its deepest and tenderest sympathy to these afflicted parents, but the many Sunshine friends of Mrs. Thornbury will feel like sending a personal word of sympathy to her at this time of deep grief.

BENEFIT ENTERTAINMENTS. The Ever Ready Sunshiners will hold a grocery sale for the benefit of the Sunshine Consumptive Home at the home of Mrs. H. R. Kirsten, No. 30 Lee avenue, Brooklyn, Tuesday afternoon and evening, May 29.

GLADIOLI. Such a generous quantity of gladioli bulbs came from the member in Bethel, N. Y., that many Sunshine gardens will be the richer for the gift. Thus far contributions have gone to Connecticut, to Grafton, N. Y., to Glenmont, N. Y., to New Jersey, to Gardiner, N. Y., and a boxful to the garden of the Church of the Saviour, on Lexington avenue. There are still some left for those who would like them.

A HAPPY DAY. Mary E. Riker, of Nutley, N. J., says: May I thank, through the Tribune Sunshine Society column, all who so kindly remembered me on my birthday? It was made a bright and happy one, and I do appreciate all your kindness to me. God bless you all is my prayer.

THE EGRET AGAIN.

Milliners and Audubonites Quarrel Over "White Badge of Cruelty."

The proposed crusade of the Audubon Society, backed up by the State Forest and Game Commissioner, James S. Whipple, against the selling of the plumage of the egret has created great excitement in the millinery world, but no intention to surrender. The Forest and Game Commissioner bases his action on the decision of the Court of Appeals in the case of the State agt. Silz, in which it was held that the state laws apply to all goods sold within the state, whether imported or domestic. This case has now been carried to the Supreme Court of the United States, and the milliners say that until the Supreme Court decides against them they will continue to sell imported plumage, including the great hone of contention, the "white badge of cruelty," as the Audubon Society calls it, the egret. "This is simply the semi-annual scare of the Audubon Society," said Charles W. Farmer, Editor of "The Millinery Trade Review," "and we shall advise our readers to pay no attention to it. Judge John Cunniff, former Attorney General, said over his own signature in 1903 that he knew of no law prohibiting the sale of imported egret feathers in New York State, and there has been no change in the law since then. The Silz case changes nothing, for that is still pending. "Of course, if the decision of the Supreme Court goes against us, we shall have to submit, but I don't think it will. If the milliner is to be prevented from selling egret feathers, why is the furrier not interfered with for selling Persian lamb coats or the merchant for dealing in calf-skin boots? There is no more cruelty associated with the egret than with the Persian lamb coat. Yet a woman who would not wear an egret will wear Persian lamb without a qualm. In the same way people will sit down and gorge on pheasants and then denounce the cruelty of the man who is making his living by hunting egrets. Yet the plumage of the pheasant is just as beautiful as that of the egret. "I don't think I am any less humane than the members of the Audubon Society. I am a church member, and I live in the country, and I love birds. But at the same time I don't believe in letting sentiment interfere with business. There is such a thing as carrying things too far. "A large wholesale dealer in plumage expressed himself similarly, but added that even if the Supreme Court did sustain the state Court of Appeals in the matter of the Silz case, it would make no difference. "The point at issue there," he said, "is the right to sell imported game birds in the closed season of the state, and I don't see how the decision can be made to cover the case of the egret. Meantime, we intend to go right on selling egret feathers." The Audubon Society, however, intends to give no quarter. "We will make hot work," said William Dutcher, of the board of directors of the New York State society, "for any milliner who attempts to sell egret feathers. Every man-made up of hysterical faddists. A large proportion of the members are hard headed, conservative business men. We know what we are doing. We have waited until we had good legal ground to stand on, and now we intend to go ahead. We have not been able to touch the egret before, although we have prevented the use of other objectionable plumage, because it was impossible to tell in any given case whether the plumes were domestic or imported. But now this difficulty is removed, since the law, as interpreted by the Court of Appeals, makes no discrimination between domestic and imported goods."

SUMMER SUGGESTIONS. Readers of The Tribune who have any original ideas for getting through the summer comfortably and agreeably are invited to send them to a new department, which will be opened on June 4, under the heading "Summer suggestions." A prize of $5 will be awarded each week for the best contribution, which must not exceed 600 words, and may be as much shorter as the contributor pleases. Any department whatever of the subject mentioned may be chosen, as, for instance, cooling drinks or dress, housekeeping, comfortable dressing, how to get the most out of a short vacation, how to spend a week-end pleasantly and inexpensively, how to spend the summer in town, or anything that contributes to agreeable summer living. During each week the most attractive suggestions will be published. From these the prize winner will be selected and announced each Monday. Every manuscript must be accompanied by the full name and address of the writer, though not necessarily for publication. Manuscripts must be written on one side of the paper only, and should be addressed to "Summer Suggestions," Women's Department, New-York Tribune.

ORNAMENTAL DEMOCRATIC OFFICERS. After much discussion the Woman's Democratic Club decided yesterday to have three vice-presidents, though Mrs. Leroy Sunderland Smith protested eloquently against such a departure from the DEUEL CASE IN COURT. Argument in Matter of His Removal from Bench Heard.

Argument was heard yesterday in the Appellate Division of the Supreme Court in the matter of the application for the removal of Joseph M. Deuel from the office of Justice of the Court of Special Sessions of the city of New York for the First Division. The application was made by William Travers Jerome, James W. Osborne and Edward M. Shepard, as citizens. Mr. Osborne and Mr. Shepard were counsel for Norman Hagood, Editor of "Collier's Weekly," in his trial for criminal libel. The answer put in by counsel for Justice Deuel at first
