FOUNTAIN UNVEILED.

Memorial Services for Slocum Victims—Mr. Haas Not Invited.

On just such a sunny, beautiful day as the one that saw the wreck of the General Slocum on June 15, 1904, a memorial fountain to the victims of that terrible disaster was unveiled yesterday morning in Tompkins Square by the Sympathie Verein Deutscher Frauen. The monument is a single block of pink Tennessee marble, showing on the face a couple of children resting from play to gaze across the water at a steamer passing in the distance. In the upper right hand corner of the sculptured picture are the words from Shelley's "Revolt of Islam": "They were earth's fairest children, young and fair." The sculptor was B. L. Zinn.

"We have sought to avoid in this memorial any suggestion of bitterness or horror," said the president of the Sympathie Verein, Mrs. E. J. Dornhoefer, who herself lost a daughter in that disaster, "yet we wish it to stand not only as a memorial to the victims of the disaster, but as a sign and a warning to those responsible for their death and as a lesson to the world."

Mrs. Dornhoefer presented the fountain to the city, and it was accepted on behalf of the municipality by Moses Herman, Commissioner of Parks. It was banked with palms and ferns for the occasion, and veiled with the Stars and Stripes until the appointed hour, when the string was pulled by Miss Elsie Zillmer. The ceremony was witnessed by about five hundred people, including nearly one hundred and fifty members of the Society of Slocum Survivors and the officers of the Vereinte Deutsche Gesellschaften, of New York. A platform draped in black and purple had been erected under the trees, and beneath it at the left of the fountain sat the choir girls of Grace Chapel, robed in white, and the members of the Sympathie Verein, all women who had lost members of their family in the disaster.

The ceremonies opened with Chopin's "Funeral March" by the orchestra, and after some introductory remarks and prayer by the Rev. J. Schlegel, of the German Reformed Church, the little choir girls sang "Peace, Perfect Peace" and "Who Are These in Bright Array?"

After the unveiling there was an address by Charles Dersch, president of the Society of Slocum Survivors. Mr. Dersch, who lost three members of his family in the disaster, spoke bitterly of the failure of the government to punish those responsible for that disaster and to guard against the recurrence of such catastrophes.

"There was much talk," he said, "a commission was appointed, an investigation made, and a few guilty officials dismissed, but what has come of it? Nothing."

The Rev. Melville Knox Bailey, of Grace Chapel, also made an address, and Miss Hattie Jacobs sang a couple of songs. The programme closed with the singing of "Eine Feste Burg ist Unser Gott."

Many of those present were deeply affected during the ceremonies. The Slocum survivors all wore mourning badges, and the members of the Sympathie Verein were all in black or black and white.

The memorial cost $1,500, and represents much hard work and self-sacrifice on the part of the society, which has only twenty-three members. The absence from the ceremonies yesterday of the Rev. George C. P. Haas, pastor of St. Mark's Church, under whose auspices the fatal picnic was given, occasioned considerable comment, as it is well known that there have been some differences between him and those involved in the Slocum disaster in the matter of the disposal of the relief funds. Dr. Haas said to a Tribune reporter later that there was no reason why he should be present, as most of the persons interested in the erection of the memorial were not members of his congregation.

"I do not even know who the members of the Sympathie Verein are," he said, "and I have never been approached in reference to their enterprise. This may be because I am not persona grata to some of them. They may think that I am withholding what they ought to have, but I do not know, and I may be doing a gross injustice to these ladies in suggesting such a thing."

WHAT TO WEAR THIS FALL

Gowns and Wraps from Best Paris Ateliers Give New Ideas.

When Arnold, Constable & Co., Broadway and 13th street, announce an opening of their latest importations in gowns, tailored suits and wraps the event is regarded as a signal by thousands of the most fastidiously gowned women in New York to visit the costume department of this famous establishment. Well they know that hardly short of Paris itself can they gain a more comprehensive idea of the trend of fashion and the latest sartorial developments.

Thus, for instance, the Doucet gown, in black net over white, with its high grille of rose satin—one of the most elegant creations in the opening which began yesterday, to last through to-morrow. The skirt, striped with broad velvet ribbons, is crossed by two broad bands of superb jetted net, while a bertha of the same falls over a riple of cream lace. A white cloth princess has for its distinguishing mark splendid hand braiding, with which the front breadth of the robe and the square plastron-like bertha are enriched.

Quite as striking is the afternoon gown in mole-skin chiffon velvet, with a self-colored lace formed of braiding on net as one of its distinguishing beauties.

What could be more recherché than the three piece gown by Francis in black chiffon cloth, deeply fringed in black chiffon, with a wide band of braided velvet? Or the debutante frock in shirmp pink net with garnitures of silver tulle arranged in empire waists around heart-shaped insets of silver-spangled lace?

The wraps, too, mark a degree of sumptuousness calculated to please the most exacting. Discreetly begun yesterday, to last through to-morrow, the workmanship to produce results which must win the approval of those most hard to please.

MONEY RECEIVED.

Mrs. Ward, of Manhattan, has sent her check for $5 toward the funeral expenses of Lonnie Pursey, the crippled boy; I. C. B., of Brooklyn, $1. In memory of my own crippled boy, Miss Helen Lane, secretary of the Annisquam branch, $1 for badges; Miss Doughty, 50 cents for a badge and 25 cents for Mrs. Pursey.

SUNSHINE SALE.

The Annisquam (Mass.) branch held its annual Sunshine sale of cake, candy, ice cream and fancy articles on August 30, and realized the sum of $48. This was done well for a village sale, considering the fact that the entire sale, held two weeks previous, had netted $500, and that every branch member had worked enthusiastically for this fair. Two more members have joined the branch, Mrs. Emily A. Sargent and Mrs. Mary J. Linscott.

GRATEFUL SISTERS.

One of the Virginia sisters to whom the money was sent to build the needed fence writes:

What a burden you dear people have lifted from my mind and heart you can never guess. I feel like another person; the whole world wears a different aspect. I would often sit out in the field on a stone or a stump and pray for help. I did not know what way to turn. And finally my prayers were answered through the T. S. S. My sister rejoices with me to think we can now keep our own. Apart from their pecuniary value we love them almost as if they were human.

SOUVENIR POSTCARDS.

Miss Jennie Hawthorne, of Vermont, makes the following request:

"Will some of the T. S. S. members kindly send souvenir postcards to Miss Addie O. Kellogg, Shoreham, Vt., Cream Hill, Vt., who is now invalid and whose birthday is September 23? She is collecting postcards and stamps, and will be very glad to receive both."

CONTRIBUTIONS.

The Grantwood (N. J.) branch has sent a generous Sunshine box filled with useful and fancy articles—seven dressed dolls, silks, shells, rowing matter, scrapbooks, etc. Mrs. Henry W. Crowell, of New Jersey, has responded to the appeal of the time of his disappearance by sending an excellent supply of infant's clothing for the wife of the sick man. Miss Doughty has contributed a good cloth suit for a young woman, several fancy articles and souvenir postcards to be "passed on"; Mrs. C. some unfinished fancy work, and some unknown friends, colored picture plates of soldiers of different nationalities.

ARMY AND NAVY NEWS

"HELLO BOYS" MUST GO.—Telephone operators at the navy yard at Brooklyn are doomed to extinction, an announcement which carries with it no connotation to girls, who usually act in that capacity. At the New York yard the operators on duty at the central phone station are all marines, some of whom become quite proficient and of great value, but they are likely to be called to other duty at distant places, as when, at present, there is a demand for marines in Cuba, and no obstacle is permitted to stand in the way. At such times expert operators are in constant demand, and the system will be of value and will be the purpose better than the present service, which, most of the time, by virtue of the exigencies of the situation, is poor. The report of the recent investigation shows that the automatic service would meet the demand for communication from place to place in the yard, and would, in the end, be equally economical and without the difficulties now attending the service.

ORDERS ISSUED.

The following orders have been issued: ARMY. Colonel FREDERICK K. WARD, 24 Cavalry, from Camp Tacoma to Fort Assiniboine. Captain WILLIAM O. JOHNSON, 10th to 90th Infantry. Captain HARRY P. TERRETT, 90th to 10th Infantry. Captain WILLIAM M. REEBERTS, 10th Infantry, to general recruiting service, Fort Slocum. Major ZERAH W. TORRY, inspector general, to San Francisco, as assistant to inspector general, Pacific Division. Captain GEORGE W. PROLEAU, 6th Cavalry, from Fort Barre to 5th Cavalry, Fort Ross. Captain LEO P. FOSTER, commissary, from Camp Roosevelt, Mount Gretna, to proper station.

NAVY.

Lieutenant F. D. CAINS, to Naval Academy. Lieutenant L. O. PALMER, detached the Charleston to Bureau of Navigation, Navy Department. Surgeon J. M. MOORE, detached the Franklin to the Newark. Passed Assistant Surgeon F. M. BODAN, detached the Marietta to naval hospital, New York.

MOVEMENTS OF VESSELS.

The following movements of naval vessels have been reported to the Navy Department: ARRIVED. September 17—The Celtica and the Aberdeen, at New York. September 18—The William, at Cavite.

SUICIDE IDENTIFIED.

Man Who Shot Himself in Detroit Minister's Son.

Detroit, Sept. 18.—With the arrival here today of George F. Jackson, of Nashua, N. H., it was definitely learned that a man known here as Jack Coulan, who blew out his brains a prominent business man and club member of Nashua, and a son of the Rev. George W. Grover, a prominent New England minister. Grover came here last winter with a woman who was known as his wife, and on January 17 engaged in a pattern business with his established wife. Mr. Jackson, who has been searching for Grover for several months, says that at the time of his disappearance from Nashua Grover told him that he was going to New York on business. He never returned. Rumors reached Jackson a short time ago that Grover was sick and dying in this city, and he did not know how to get to the city as he was going to Grover. He has sent information to Nashua, and found a number of letters from his wife, she had a telegram sent informing her of Grover's death.

Nashua, N. H., Sept. 18.—A telegram from Detroit was received at a local newspaper office late today, stating that the body of a man supposed to be John Briggs Grover, formerly of Nashua, had been shipped to this city. George F. Jackson left here for Detroit two days ago after reading in Western papers of the suicide of a man known in Detroit as Jack Coulan. Mr. Jackson knew that a man by that name was alive, and resting in Nashua, Mass., and from his knowledge of the circumstances attending the disappearance of Grover from this city last winter, he was led to believe that the dead man was Grover. He has sent information to Nashua, and found a number of letters from his wife, she had a telegram sent informing her of Grover's death.

Grover was thirty-six years old, and was prominent in social and business life here. About the time he left this city the wife of Jack Coulan, of Lowell, disappeared. It is alleged that she went West with Grover. Mrs. Grover still resides here.

SAYS SHOPLIFTING IS INCREASING.

That shoplifting in the department stores is increasing owing to the leniency of the justice of Special Sessions was charged yesterday in court by a legal representative of the Association of Department Store Owners. There were eight cases on the calendar and adjournments were allowed for seven of them. When the eighth case was called an adjournment was asked for, but Louis Lowenstein protested and made the charge already referred to. Presiding Justice McAvoy ordered the trial to proceed, and the prisoner, who gave the name of Frank Levy, refusing to tell where he lived, pleaded guilty. Justices McAvoy, McKean and Olmsted quickly agreed on a sentence of three months in the penitentiary, which sentence was imposed.

MRS. OSBORN DENIES MARRIAGE.

Mrs. Robert Osborn, of No. 24 East 46th street, whose marriage to Ernest Lawford, the actor, was announced some weeks ago, wishes the story denied.

"There is no truth in it," she said. "I don't know how it got into print, but when I returned from Europe I found a lot of press clippings showing it had been copied far and wide through the West. It has been most annoying, of course, to know Mr. Lawford, the way I do lots of others, but you can't marry everybody you know, can you?" she said. "I never met Mr. Lawford, but I do not expect to marry him."

GRANTS CORWIN DIVORCE.

Justice Bischoff Gives Former Coney Island Belle Decree.

Justice Bischoff, in the Supreme Court yesterday, on the report of ex-Justice Roger A. Fryer, the referee appointed to hear the testimony in the suit for absolute divorce brought by Mrs. Roberta O. Corwin against Halsey Corwin, signed an interlocutory decree, which cannot be made absolute for three months.

Corwin, who is a son of a former Brooklyn Controller, and who received a considerable fortune upon his father's death, recently instituted a suit for divorce against Mrs. Corwin, but it was soon afterwards discontinued, because she was not of age. Mrs. Corwin then brought an action, and after she had been sent to the referee, called for Europe, where she is at present. She is a daughter of Morris C. Menzies, a racing man, who was about to leave Corwin, prosecuted for the abduction of his daughter, after her disappearance following a supper at Coney Island, in February, 1902. The abduction proceeding was brought to a close by the marriage of Corwin and Miss Menzies.

Mrs. Corwin complained of being robbed of jewelry a short time before the divorce suit began by her husband was filed.

The papers in the divorce case were sealed by order of the court. No provision is made for alimony.

DISCUSS FOOD COLORING.

"Different Towns Like Butter of Different Hues."

Discussion of the use of coloring matter in foods and drinks took up the session yesterday of the committee which is hearing suggestions leading to the formation of rules and regulations that will make the new Food and Drug act efficient. Most of the representatives of dealers in food defended the use of colors, declaring that they are harmless.

It was explained that many foods, such as cake, confection, undergo a change in appearance while being cooked for coloring, and that the use of a coloring fluid restored the original color.

Charles F. Droste, representing the New York Mercantile Exchange and the commission merchants of New York generally, said that New York is the largest market for coloring matter, Boston a medium colored article, and Washington a blue.

More than half the syrups used at soda fountains are natural fruit syrups, according to W. B. Henderson, representing the makers of soda water supplies. Most of them are blends.

MAY SEND SPEEDERS TO PRISON.

Justice McAvoy in Special Sessions yesterday gave notice to chauffeurs and automobile owners that speeding in the streets of Manhattan must be curtailed. He said that, if other punishment would not bring about that end, prison sentences would be resorted to.
