

BIG CROWD AT TRACK. STAKE FOR DISHABILLE. W. H. Daniel and Alfay Also Win Fixtures at Belmont Park.

A big fall-holiday crowd, attracted by the bright fall weather and a particularly good program, was down to the Belmont Park racetrack yesterday. The attendance was conservatively estimated at eighteen thousand persons, which showed conclusively that the sport is quite as popular in these closing days of the season as earlier in the year.

The lightly weighted Sallor Boy went to the front at the start, and made the running for a mile and a quarter, with Ironsides in close attendance, and the others more or less strung out. Rounding the far turn, Dishabille, which had been cleverly rated by Knapp, and Nealon moved up strong, and when Sallor Boy belted to the outside rail, turning for home, Dishabille came to the front and came easily to win easily by six lengths. Nealon, which threatened danger, when straightened out for home, hung when called on for a final effort, so that Ironsides, closing resolutely, had little trouble in earning the place from Miss Crawford, which came from far back in the last half-mile.

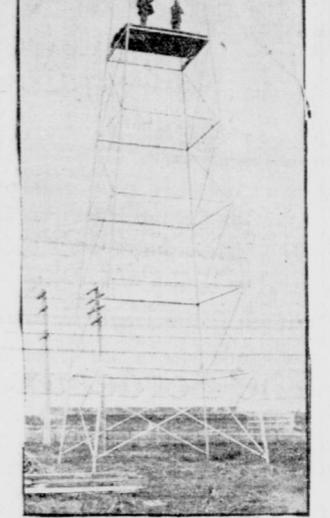

Dishabille, a four-year-old filly, by King's Counsel-Nightgown, was the best in the Municipal Handicap, Ten horses went to the post, with Harry Payne Whitney's Ironsides the favorite, at 4 to 1, while Red Friar and Angler had a substantial following, being backed down several points to 5 to 1 each. The others ranged in price from 8 to 1 to 20 to 1.

HARD ON THE POOLROOMS. Tower Outside Belmont Park Destroyed and News Is Scarce.

The war which has been going on all the season between the Pinkerton men at the racetrack and the agents of the poolrooms reached a climax yesterday, when the high tower which was being erected on the farm of Edward Hallock, beyond the backstretch at Belmont Park, was completely demolished.

The tower, which was being built in the form of a windmill, was used by the poolroom agents as a point of vantage to get the results of the various races by the aid of telescopes and telephone.

HOW BASEBALL DREW. Nearly Six Million People Saw Major League Games.

Careful compiling of the daily attendance figures for the season of 1906 shows that 5,715,289 persons witnessed the combined games of the American and National Baseball leagues during the season just closed. Chicago alone drew one-fifth of the total.

Despite the close race of the American League and the one-sidedness of the National League, this was the best season the Nationals have had since the Americans came East, and the best season the older organization has had in its history.

The grand total of the American League was 2,885,076, while the total of the National League was 2,781,213, it being the third successive year that the Americans outdrew the Nationals.
