and also for the "farmer candidate." Mr. Martine's prospects have faded into little more than nothingness, while those of Mr. Katzenbach loom auspicious of success.

temporary, and will undoubtedly soon come to an end. Nothing is more certain than that the administration of the government will be placed upon its normal basis.

ANOTHER MYTH SMASHED.

Every country boy "knows" that running water purifies itself. This "law of nature" has long been reckoned by many persons as one of their most valuable intellectual possessions.

THE BOND SALE.

The result of the city bond sale furnishes a test of the rise in interest rates, and shows that there is plenty of money to be had at the rates prevailing.

The result of the city sale disposes of the alarmist cry that the market for railroad securities has been impaired by legislation.

But alas for this popular "law of nature"! The timid bacteriologists have proved that, at least so far as the dread typhoid bacillus is concerned, the "law" is a myth.

ites, once in the trains, should have to go through the fighting and crowding all over again in order to board the elevated trains at the Brooklyn end.

New Yorkers may soon revert to the ancient rural method of maintaining good roads, in consequence of Mr. Morgan's recent adventure with the city.

Italian papers are urging the French to press on to Fez. Perhaps that is wise advice, and perhaps it will be necessary for the French to follow it.

THE TALK OF THE DAY.

In America, in China and in most countries of the world, with the exception of India, says a special agent of the Department of Commerce and Labor, the clothing used is woven in wholesale lengths.

The football season for 1907 has not yet started, but already one accident has been reported. In the first practice of a small Massachusetts college team one of the backs had his collarbone broken.

KENTUCKY AND PROHIBITION.

Colonel Watterson dissents from some of the conclusions of a recent editorial in The Tribune which attempted to explain the rapid spread of prohibition sentiment in the South.

CANAL ZONE MORALS.

It was agreeable, as a matter of truth and justice, to observe in The Tribune a few days ago an account of the moral conditions which prevail in our Isthmian canal zone.

CUBA REMAINS CUBAN.

And the intermittent storms of wild and whirling words about Cuba, which have been emitted partly in but chiefly outside that island, it is refreshing and encouraging to hear so sane an utterance as that of the "Diario de la Marina," of Havana, which is largely reproduced elsewhere in our columns to-day.

SCIENCE AND INVENTION.

Professor Newcomb Seeks to Correct "Misapprehensions."

To the Editor of The Tribune. Sir: In your comment on the voyage of the Lusitania in this morning's issue I am interested to find the following statement:

$400,000 LEFT TO YALE.

A. H. Blount Bequeathed English Estate to University.

London, Sept. 11.—Archibald Henry Blount, Lord of the Manor of Orleton, Herefordshire, has bequeathed $400,000 to Yale. Mr. Blount died in London on June 17 last, at the age of sixty-seven, leaving an estate of the gross value of $467,570.

Archibald Henry Blount was a well known member of the Junior, Athenaeum and other clubs. It does not appear from the will of Mr. Blount that he had any connection with Yale University or any connections at all in the United States.

THE BEQUEST LONG PLANNED.

New Haven, Sept. 11.—Nine years ago Archibald Henry Blount, of Herefordshire, England, for some reason unknown to the Yale University heads here, began to make inquiry about the university by letter.

Mr. Blount Opened Correspondence with University in 1898.

Washington, Sept. 10, 1907. To the Editor of The Tribune. Sir: So often do we see it motionless upon its staff or fluttering with the rise and fall of some playful breeze that we have come to consider its presence as a matter of course.
