

STRIKE RIOTS GROW.

Mayor's Proclamation Declares Yonkers in State of Disorder.

The strike of the motormen and conductors on the Yonkers Street Railway Company's lines assumed more serious proportions than ever yesterday, rioting going on almost the entire day.

At a conference yesterday afternoon between Mayor Coyne and the Police Commissioner it was decided to inform the Sheriff of the serious trouble and ask him to take command of the situation.

An official of the company said last night that the company probably would bring the attention of the Governor to the present state of affairs and ask that he take command of the situation.

The rioting started yesterday shortly after noon, when the company sent several cars out over the various lines.

Two more cars were sent out over the Main street route got as far as Getty Square, where it was halted by bonfires and paving stones on the track.

Every window having been broken by the paving stones and rocks which were hurled after it, several cars on the Riverdale avenue route were overturned and thrown into the gutter.

Two more cars over the Warburton avenue route met the same fate. It was while overturning the cars that the injured ones were hurt.

President Maber of the railway company was arraigned before Magistrate Potter in the local court yesterday morning, charged with having housed a number of strikebreakers in the cars.

Mayor Coyne late last night issued a proclamation to the citizens of Yonkers saying that a state of disorder existed in the city, and calling on all citizens to keep off the street and assist in maintaining order.

LAST STONE IN CROSS RIVER DAM.

John F. Cowan Congratulates Contractors on Completing Work Within Time Specified.

The last stone in the completed Cross River dam was laid at Katonah yesterday with appropriate exercises. John F. Cowan, president of the Aqueduct Commission, in behalf of that board, placed the final stone in the dam with a silver trowel made especially for the occasion.

Among those present were John F. Cowan, William H. Ten Eyck, John F. Windolph and John J. Ryan, Aqueduct Commissioners; Charles A. Shaw and Charles N. Chadwick, commissioners of the Board of Water Supply; John H. McCooey, Deputy Controller; Jules Breuchaud, builder of the Croton dam; Professor William H. Burr and others.

The Cross River dam, now completed, will provide water enough for the city's use until the completion of the Ashokan dam, in the Catskill Mountains. The construction of the dam was begun early in July, 1906, but the work was delayed for about six months because of a taxpayers' injunction suit brought by an unsuccessful bidder for the work.

ALLEGED BURGLARS FOUND IN CELLAR.

Boys Also Arrested Charged with Snatching Shoppers' Pocketbooks.

Following a number of complaints of robberies and attempted hold-ups in Harlem recently, the police of the East 126th street station arrested four offenders yesterday. William Schmitz, of No. 347 East 87th street, and Max Rothman, of No. 347 East 108th street, were arrested on a charge of burglary. The men were found in the cellar of the store at No. 284 Lenox avenue, and captured after a chase of several blocks.

William Cline, sixteen years old, of No. 349 East 49th street, and his chum, Jacob Hearse, fourteen years old, of No. 263 Broome street, according to the police, tried to snatch a pocketbook from a little girl at 119th street and Third avenue. Detectives from the East 126th street station who had been watching the youngsters for some time caught them after a short but exciting chase. Both boys, the police say, were following women in the crowd of shoppers for some time before they were arrested.

SAWED OFF BOARD HE SAT ON.

Pittsburg, Oct. 26.—Sitting on a piece of timber on a thirty-foot trestle to-day, John Hughes, a car-center for the American Bridge Company, saved the board through and fell with the piece he had saved off. He had been sitting on the wrong end of the board. His right thigh was broken, and he sustained severe scalp wounds.

ONE KILLED, FOUR HURT, IN WRECK.

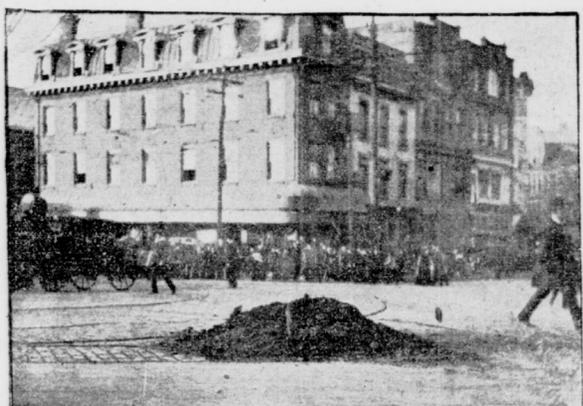

Birmingham, Ala., Oct. 26.—A passenger train on the Louisville & Nashville Railroad was wrecked in the yards at Blount to-day. The engineer was killed and four other trainmen were injured. No passengers were hurt.

VICTOIRE Horse Show Display ANNOUNCEMENT OF OPENING Oct. 29th.

I HAVE JUST ARRIVED FROM EUROPE WITH THE MOST EXQUISITE PARISIAN MODEL HATS TO DISPLAY AT MY NEW ESTABLISHMENT FOR THE FIRST SEASON IN NEW YORK. AT VERY MODERATE PRICES.

347 FIFTH AVE., OVER McCUTCHEON'S NEW STORE, OPPOSITE THE WARDROP-ASTORIA.

GRAVEL ON CAR TRACK IN GETTY SQUARE, YONKERS.

TWO MORE STATES.

President for Admission of Arizona and New Mexico.

[From The Tribune Bureau.]

Washington, Oct. 26.—President Roosevelt announced to-day that he would work for separate statehood for Arizona and New Mexico. In conversation with Senator Flint of California he said he did not believe any action could be taken at the next session of Congress, because a census would in all probability have to be taken before the legislation could go through.

"The President said he would not discriminate between the two territories," added Senator Flint. "He said that he believed, and still believes, that the territories should have come in jointly, but as the people of Arizona believed differently he will do all he can to give them separate statehood."

CITY HAS TEACHER FAMINE.

Board of Education Cannot Get Enough to Fill Vacancies.

The Board of Education is sorely in need of teachers for the public schools. Last week there were 900 teachers appointed, while vacancies existed for 1,100. The problem of supplying enough teachers is becoming more perplexing every year, and there has been a great deal of thought given by educators in the city to the best ways of relieving the situation.

It is well known that the number of graduates from the normal and training schools in the city do not supply the demand. It is estimated that there is room for nearly 3,000 new teachers every year, and with appointments of about 1,900 annually it will be seen that there is still need of many more.

Lyman A. Best, who was president of the Brooklyn Teachers' Association for four years, said last night: "For the last four years the eligible list of teachers has been exhausted. If the requirements of some of those taking the examinations, particularly those who have normal and college diplomas with the necessary three years' experience, were made lighter there would be a larger field to draw from, and the system would get many who are capable teachers. There is no reason why a holder of a state license or a first grade license and graduates of colleges recognized by the Board of Regents should not receive appointments without having to take an examination. If this change were given there would be many outside candidates to take advantage of it. We need new blood in the system, and a better opportunity to teach here should be given to those candidates for a teacher's license who live up to the state. It will be noticed that there have not been enough candidates in the city to fill the demand, so relief should naturally be sought elsewhere."

There were nearly six thousand candidates who took the last examinations for teachers' licenses, and the eligible list contained only the nine hundred who have just been appointed.

COTTON CROP FIGURED BY STATES.

Washington, Oct. 26.—The complete report of the Census Bureau on the quantity of cotton of this year's crop grown up to October 18 shows 4,977,655 bales and 24,534 active ginneries. In 1906 there were 4,831,621 bales and 26,125 active ginneries.

GOVERNMENT SUES TO RECOVER LAND.

Reno, Nev., Oct. 26.—The United States began suit in the United States District Court at Carson yesterday to set aside federal patents to fifteen thousand acres of land held by the Southern Pacific company in the White Horse mining district, on the ground that the land was fraudulently represented by the railroad company to be agricultural when it was mineral.

AGED WOMAN GUILTY OF MURDER.

[By Telegraph to The Tribune.] Stroudsburg, Penn., Oct. 26.—The jury which tried Mrs. Dora Newman, seventy-four years old, on a charge of having killed her husband, John Newman, aged seventy-five, with a pitchfork, brought in a verdict of murder in the second degree to-day. Judge Staples sentenced her to one year and six months in the penitentiary.

ZINC COMPANY SUSPENDS.

Denver, Oct. 26.—Directors of the American Zinc and Chemical Company, controlled by Pittsburg capitalists, which had for its purpose the exploitation of a new process of separating zinc ores, have decided to suspend operations and wind up the affairs of the company. The company failed to develop the new process on a paying basis. It owns eighty acres of land, against which there is a mortgage of $25,000, and has additional liabilities amounting to $20,000.

NEW WAYNE COUNTY JUDGE.

Albany, Oct. 26.—Governor Hughes appointed Clyde W. Knapp, of Lyons, to-day, as County Judge and Surrogate of Wayne County, in place of S. Nelson Sawyer, of Palmyra, whom he recently promoted to the Supreme Court bench to fill the unexpired term of the late Justice James W. Dunwell.

STRIKE LEADER'S MOTHER DIES.

The mother of Percy Thomas, the Eastern representative of the striking telegraphers, died at her home in Harlem on Friday afternoon. She had been an invalid for many years. Mr. Thomas, in the administration of ex-President S. J. Small of the telegraphers union, was deputy national president.

Coincident with this was the death of the father of Daniel L. Russell on the day he was elected as a delegate to the Milwaukee convention, just completed. Mr. Russell's father was buried the day before the meeting of the convention. Mrs. S. J. Small is reported to be dying in Chicago from heart trouble.

WONT RECOGNIZE STRIKE COMMITTEE.

The committee appointed at the convention of the telegraphers in Milwaukee to come here and try to settle the strike of the telegraphers will not be recognized, the officials of the companies said yesterday. A long conference took place at No. 195 Broadway yesterday afternoon among the officers of the Western Union company in President Cleveland's office.

It was said at a meeting of the strikers in Clinton Hall that the peace committee appointed at Milwaukee would be in this city to-morrow or early on Tuesday. Strike benefits were paid at the hall to the strikers.

DISCUSS PRESIDENCY.

Governor Hoch Says West Wants Roosevelt—Senator Flint for Taft.

[From The Tribune Bureau.]

Washington, Oct. 26.—Governor Hoch of Kansas to-day denied that there was any difference of opinion between himself and Senator Long over the third term question. Two days ago the Governor said after a visit to the White House that the supporters of the Roosevelt third term idea would "run over all opposition like a herd of Texas steers." Yesterday Senator Long said that Kansas would send a "solid instructed delegation for Taft to the next Republican National Convention."

"The Senator knows as well as I do," said Governor Hoch to-day, "that if the nomination were to be made to-morrow Roosevelt would be selected by the unanimous vote. You hear no other name mentioned in the West. When Mr. Taft is discussed he is spoken of merely as the man who most nearly represents the Roosevelt policies and the Roosevelt ideas. He merely reflects the Roosevelt strength, as the Roosevelt representative. If it should come to pass that the President cannot be persuaded to run again, why, I feel certain that Mr. Taft will be the candidate selected. But until the President puts himself emphatically and finally out of the race it is foolish to talk about any one else for the Republican nomination. Senator Long will be the first to agree with me when I say, as I did the other day, that those who are against the President would be selected by a practically unanimous vote. You hear no other name mentioned in the West. When Mr. Taft is discussed he is spoken of merely as the man who most nearly represents the Roosevelt policies and the Roosevelt ideas. He merely reflects the Roosevelt strength, as the Roosevelt representative. If it should come to pass that the President cannot be persuaded to run again, why, I feel certain that Mr. Taft will be the candidate selected. But until the President puts himself emphatically and finally out of the race it is foolish to talk about any one else for the Republican nomination. Senator Long will be the first to agree with me when I say, as I did the other day, that those who are against the President would be selected by a practically unanimous vote. You hear no other name mentioned in the West. When Mr. Taft is discussed he is spoken of merely as the man who most nearly represents the Roosevelt policies and the Roosevelt ideas. He merely reflects the Roosevelt strength, as the Roosevelt representative. If it should come to pass that the President cannot be persuaded to run again, why, I feel certain that Mr. Taft will be the candidate selected. But until the President puts himself emphatically and finally out of the race it is foolish to talk about any one else for the Republican nomination. Senator Long will be the first to agree with me when I say, as I did the other day, that those who are against the President would be selected by a practically unanimous vote. You hear no other name mentioned in the West. When Mr. Taft is discussed he is spoken of merely as the man who most nearly represents the Roosevelt policies and the Roosevelt ideas. He merely reflects the Roosevelt strength, as the Roosevelt representative. If it should come to pass that the President cannot be persuaded to run again, why, I feel certain that Mr. Taft will be the candidate selected. But until the President puts himself emphatically and finally out of the race it is foolish to talk about any one else for the Republican nomination. Senator Long will be the first to agree with me when I say, as I did the other day, that those who are against the President would be selected by a practically unanimous vote. You hear no other name mentioned in the West. When Mr. Taft is discussed he is spoken of merely as the man who most nearly represents the Roosevelt policies and the Roosevelt ideas. He merely reflects the Roosevelt strength, as the Roosevelt representative. If it should come to pass that the President cannot be persuaded to run again, why, I feel certain that Mr. Taft will be the candidate selected. But until the President puts himself emphatically and finally out of the race it is foolish to talk about any one else for the Republican nomination. Senator Long will be the first to agree with me when I say, as I did the other day, that those who are against the President would be selected by a practically unanimous vote. You hear no other name mentioned in the West. When Mr. Taft is discussed he is spoken of merely as the man who most nearly represents the Roosevelt policies and the Roosevelt ideas. He merely reflects the Roosevelt strength, as the Roosevelt representative. If it should come to pass that the President cannot be persuaded to run again, why, I feel certain that Mr. Taft will be the candidate selected. But until the President puts himself emphatically and finally out of the race it is foolish to talk about any one else for the Republican nomination. Senator Long will be the first to agree with me when I say, as I did the other day, that those who are against the President would be selected by a practically unanimous vote. You hear no other name mentioned in the West. When Mr. Taft is discussed he is spoken of merely as the man who most nearly represents the Roosevelt policies and the Roosevelt ideas. He merely reflects the Roosevelt strength, as the Roosevelt representative. If it should come to pass that the President cannot be persuaded to run again, why, I feel certain that Mr. Taft will be the candidate selected. But until the President puts himself emphatically and finally out of the race it is foolish to talk about any one else for the Republican nomination. Senator Long will be the first to agree with me when I say, as I did the other day, that those who are against the President would be selected by a practically unanimous vote. You hear no other name mentioned in the West. When Mr. Taft is discussed he is spoken of merely as the man who most nearly represents the Roosevelt policies and the Roosevelt ideas. He merely reflects the Roosevelt strength, as the Roosevelt representative. If it should come to pass that the President cannot be persuaded to run again, why, I feel certain that Mr. Taft will be the candidate selected. But until the President puts himself emphatically and finally out of the race it is foolish to talk about any one else for the Republican nomination. Senator Long will be the first to agree with me when I say, as I did the other day, that those who are against the President would be selected by a practically unanimous vote. You hear no other name mentioned in the West. When Mr. Taft is discussed he is spoken of merely as the man who most nearly represents the Roosevelt policies and the Roosevelt ideas. He merely reflects the Roosevelt strength, as the Roosevelt representative. If it should come to pass that the President cannot be persuaded to run again, why, I feel certain that Mr. Taft will be the candidate selected. But until the President puts himself emphatically and finally out of the race it is foolish to talk about any one else for the Republican nomination. Senator Long will be the first to agree with me when I say, as I did the other day, that those who are against the President would be selected by a practically unanimous vote. You hear no other name mentioned in the West. When Mr. Taft is discussed he is spoken of merely as the man who most nearly represents the Roosevelt policies and the Roosevelt ideas. He merely reflects the Roosevelt strength, as the Roosevelt representative. If it should come to pass that the President cannot be persuaded to run again, why, I feel certain that Mr. Taft will be the candidate selected. But until the President puts himself emphatically and finally out of the race it is foolish to talk about any one else for the Republican nomination. Senator Long will be the first to agree with me when I say, as I did the other day, that those who are against the President would be selected by a practically unanimous vote. You hear no other name mentioned in the West. When Mr. Taft is discussed he is spoken of merely as the man who most nearly represents the Roosevelt policies and the Roosevelt ideas. He merely reflects the Roosevelt strength, as the Roosevelt representative. If it should come to pass that the President cannot be persuaded to run again, why, I feel certain that Mr. Taft will be the candidate selected. But until the President puts himself emphatically and finally out of the race it is foolish to talk about any one else for the Republican nomination. Senator Long will be the first to agree with me when I say, as I did the other day, that those who are against the President would be selected by a practically unanimous vote. You hear no other name mentioned in the West. When Mr. Taft is discussed he is spoken of merely as the man who most nearly represents the Roosevelt policies and the Roosevelt ideas. He merely reflects the Roosevelt strength, as the Roosevelt representative. If it should come to pass that the President cannot be persuaded to run again, why, I feel certain that Mr. Taft will be the candidate selected. But until the President puts himself emphatically and finally out of the race it is foolish to talk about any one else for the Republican nomination. Senator Long will be the first to agree with me when I say, as I did the other day, that those who are against the President would be selected by a practically unanimous vote. You hear no other name mentioned in the West. When Mr. Taft is discussed he is spoken of merely as the man who most nearly represents the Roosevelt policies and the Roosevelt ideas. He merely reflects the Roosevelt strength, as the Roosevelt representative. If it should come to pass that the President cannot be persuaded to run again, why, I feel certain that Mr. Taft will be the candidate selected. But until the President puts himself emphatically and finally out of the race it is foolish to talk about any one else for the Republican nomination. Senator Long will be the first to agree with me when I say, as I did the other day, that those who are against the President would be selected by a practically unanimous vote. You hear no other name mentioned in the West. When Mr. Taft is discussed he is spoken of merely as the man who most nearly represents the Roosevelt policies and the Roosevelt ideas. He merely reflects the Roosevelt strength, as the Roosevelt representative. If it should come to pass that the President cannot be persuaded to run again, why, I feel certain that Mr. Taft will be the candidate selected. But until the President puts himself emphatically and finally out of the race it is foolish to talk about any one else for the Republican nomination. Senator Long will be the first to agree with me when I say, as I did the other day, that those who are against the President would be selected by a practically unanimous vote. You hear no other name mentioned in the West. When Mr. Taft is discussed he is spoken of merely as the man who most nearly represents the Roosevelt policies and the Roosevelt ideas. He merely reflects the Roosevelt strength, as the Roosevelt representative. If it should come to pass that the President cannot be persuaded to run again, why, I feel certain that Mr. Taft will be the candidate selected. But until the President puts himself emphatically and finally out of the race it is foolish to talk about any one else for the Republican nomination. Senator Long will be the first to agree with me when I say, as I did the other day, that those who are against the President would be selected by a practically unanimous vote. You hear no other name mentioned in the West. When Mr. Taft is discussed he is spoken of merely as the man who most nearly represents the Roosevelt policies and the Roosevelt ideas. He merely reflects the Roosevelt strength, as the Roosevelt representative. If it should come to pass that the President cannot be persuaded to run again, why, I feel certain that Mr. Taft will be the candidate selected. But until the President puts himself emphatically and finally out of the race it is foolish to talk about any one else for the Republican nomination. Senator Long will be the first to agree with me when I say, as I did the other day, that those who are against the President would be selected by a practically unanimous vote. You hear no other name mentioned in the West. When Mr. Taft is discussed he is spoken of merely as the man who most nearly represents the Roosevelt policies and the Roosevelt ideas. He merely reflects the Roosevelt strength, as the Roosevelt representative. If it should come to pass that the President cannot be persuaded to run again, why, I feel certain that Mr. Taft will be the candidate selected. But until the President puts himself emphatically and finally out of the race it is foolish to talk about any one else for the Republican nomination. Senator Long will be the first to agree with me when I say, as I did the other day, that those who are against the President would be selected by a practically unanimous vote. You hear no other name mentioned in the West. When Mr. Taft is discussed he is spoken of merely as the man who most nearly represents the Roosevelt policies and the Roosevelt ideas. He merely reflects the Roosevelt strength, as the Roosevelt representative. If it should come to pass that the President cannot be persuaded to run again, why, I feel certain that Mr. Taft will be the candidate selected. But until the President puts himself emphatically and finally out of the race it is foolish to talk about any one else for the Republican nomination. Senator Long will be the first to agree with me when I say, as I did the other day, that those who are against the President would be selected by a practically unanimous vote. You hear no other name mentioned in the West. When Mr. Taft is discussed he is spoken of merely as the man who most nearly represents the Roosevelt policies and the Roosevelt ideas. He merely reflects the Roosevelt strength, as the Roosevelt representative. If it should come to pass that the President cannot be persuaded to run again, why, I feel certain that Mr. Taft will be the candidate selected. But until the President puts himself emphatically and finally out of the race it is foolish to talk about any one else for the Republican nomination. Senator Long will be the first to agree with me when I say, as I did the other day, that those who are against the President would be selected by a practically unanimous vote. You hear no other name mentioned in the West. When Mr. Taft is discussed he is spoken of merely as the man who most nearly represents the Roosevelt policies and the Roosevelt ideas. He merely reflects the Roosevelt strength, as the Roosevelt representative. If it should come to pass that the President cannot be persuaded to run again, why, I feel certain that Mr. Taft will be the candidate selected. But until the President puts himself emphatically and finally out of the race it is foolish to talk about any one else for the Republican nomination. Senator Long will be the first to agree with me when I say, as I did the other day, that those who are against the President would be selected by a practically unanimous vote. You hear no other name mentioned in the West. When Mr. Taft is discussed he is spoken of merely as the man who most nearly represents the Roosevelt policies and the Roosevelt ideas. He merely reflects the Roosevelt strength, as the Roosevelt representative. If it should come to pass that the President cannot be persuaded to run again, why, I feel certain that Mr. Taft will be the candidate selected. But until the President puts himself emphatically and finally out of the race it is foolish to talk about any one else for the Republican nomination. Senator Long will be the first to agree with me when I say, as I did the other day, that those who are against the President would be selected by a practically unanimous vote. You hear no other name mentioned in the West. When Mr. Taft is discussed he is spoken of merely as the man who most nearly represents the Roosevelt policies and the Roosevelt ideas. He merely reflects the Roosevelt strength, as the Roosevelt representative. If it should come to pass that the President cannot be persuaded to run again, why, I feel certain that Mr. Taft will be the candidate selected. But until the President puts himself emphatically and finally out of the race it is foolish to talk about any one else for the Republican nomination. Senator Long will be the first to agree with me when I say, as I did the other day, that those who are against the President would be selected by a practically unanimous vote. You hear no other name mentioned in the West. When Mr. Taft is discussed he is spoken of merely as the man who most nearly represents the Roosevelt policies and the Roosevelt ideas. He merely reflects the Roosevelt strength, as the Roosevelt representative. If it should come to pass that the President cannot be persuaded to run again, why, I feel certain that Mr. Taft will be the candidate selected. But until the President puts himself emphatically and finally out of the race it is foolish to talk about any one else for the Republican nomination. Senator Long will be the first to agree with me when I say, as I did the other day, that those who are against the President would be selected by a practically unanimous vote. You hear no other name mentioned in the West. When Mr. Taft is discussed he is spoken of merely as the man who most nearly represents the Roosevelt policies and the Roosevelt ideas. He merely reflects the Roosevelt strength, as the Roosevelt representative. If it should come to pass that the President cannot be persuaded to run again, why, I feel certain that Mr. Taft will be the candidate selected. But until the President puts himself emphatically and finally out of the race it is foolish to talk about any one else for the Republican nomination. Senator Long will be the first to agree with me when I say, as I did the other day, that those who are against the President would be selected by a practically unanimous vote. You hear no other name mentioned in the West. When Mr. Taft is discussed he is spoken of merely as the man who most nearly represents the Roosevelt policies and the Roosevelt ideas. He merely reflects the Roosevelt strength, as the Roosevelt representative. If it should come to pass that the President cannot be persuaded to run again, why, I feel certain that Mr. Taft will be the candidate selected. But until the President puts himself emphatically and finally out of the race it is foolish to talk about any one else for the Republican nomination. Senator Long will be the first to agree with me when I say, as I did the other day, that those who are against the President would be selected by a practically unanimous vote. You hear no other name mentioned in the West. When Mr. Taft is discussed he is spoken of merely as the man who most nearly represents the Roosevelt policies and the Roosevelt ideas. He merely reflects the Roosevelt strength, as the Roosevelt representative. If it should come to pass that the President cannot be persuaded to run again, why, I feel certain that Mr. Taft will be the candidate selected. But until the President puts himself emphatically and finally out of the race it is foolish to talk about any one else for the Republican nomination. Senator Long will be the first to agree with me when I say, as I did the other day, that those who are against the President would be selected by a practically unanimous vote. You hear no other name mentioned in the West. When Mr. Taft is discussed he is spoken of merely as the man who most nearly represents the Roosevelt policies and the Roosevelt ideas. He merely reflects the Roosevelt strength, as the Roosevelt representative. If it should come to pass that the President cannot be persuaded to run again, why, I feel certain that Mr. Taft will be the candidate selected. But until the President puts himself emphatically and finally out of the race it is foolish to talk about any one else for the Republican nomination. Senator Long will be the first to agree with me when I say, as I did the other day, that those who are against the President would be selected by a practically unanimous vote. You hear no other name mentioned in the West. When Mr. Taft is discussed he is spoken of merely as the man who most nearly represents the Roosevelt policies and the Roosevelt ideas. He merely reflects the Roosevelt strength, as the Roosevelt representative. If it should come to pass that the President cannot be persuaded to run again, why, I feel certain that Mr. Taft will be the candidate selected. But until the President puts himself emphatically and finally out of the race it is foolish to talk about any one else for the Republican nomination. Senator Long will be the first to agree with me when I say, as I did the other day, that those who are against the President would be selected by a practically unanimous vote. You hear no other name mentioned in the West. When Mr. Taft is discussed he is spoken of merely as the man who most nearly represents the Roosevelt policies and the Roosevelt ideas. He merely reflects the Roosevelt strength, as the Roosevelt representative. If it should come to pass that the President cannot be persuaded to run again, why, I feel certain that Mr. Taft will be the candidate selected. But until the President puts himself emphatically and finally out of the race it is foolish to talk about any one else for the Republican nomination. Senator Long will be the first to agree with me when I say, as I did the other day, that those who are against the President would be selected by a practically unanimous vote. You hear no other name mentioned in the West. When Mr. Taft is discussed he is spoken of merely as the man who most nearly represents the Roosevelt policies and the Roosevelt ideas. He merely reflects the Roosevelt strength, as the Roosevelt representative. If it should come to pass that the President cannot be persuaded to run again, why, I feel certain that Mr. Taft will be the candidate selected. But until the President puts himself emphatically and finally out of the race it is foolish to talk about any one else for the Republican nomination. Senator Long will be the first to agree with me when I say, as I did the other day, that those who are against the President would be selected by a practically unanimous vote. You hear no other name mentioned in the West. When Mr. Taft is discussed he is spoken of merely as the man who most nearly represents the Roosevelt policies and the Roosevelt ideas. He merely reflects the Roosevelt strength, as the Roosevelt representative. If it should come to pass that the President cannot be persuaded to run again, why, I feel certain that Mr. Taft will be the candidate selected. But until the President puts himself emphatically and finally out of the race it is foolish to talk about any one else for the Republican nomination. Senator Long will be the first to agree with me when I say, as I did the other day, that those who are against the President would be selected by a practically unanimous vote. You hear no other name mentioned in the West. When Mr. Taft is discussed he is spoken of merely as the man who most nearly represents the Roosevelt policies and the Roosevelt ideas. He merely reflects the Roosevelt strength, as the Roosevelt representative. If it should come to pass that the President cannot be persuaded to run again, why, I feel certain that Mr. Taft will be the candidate selected. But until the President puts himself emphatically and finally out of the race it is foolish to talk about any one else for the Republican nomination. Senator Long will be the first to agree with me when I say, as I did the other day, that those who are against the President would be selected by a practically unanimous vote. You hear no other name mentioned in the West. When Mr. Taft is discussed he is spoken of merely as the man who most nearly represents the Roosevelt policies and the Roosevelt ideas. He merely reflects the Roosevelt strength, as the Roosevelt representative. If it should come to pass that the President cannot be persuaded to run again, why, I feel certain that Mr. Taft will be the candidate selected. But until the President puts himself emphatically and finally out of the race it is foolish to talk about any one else for the Republican nomination. Senator Long will be the first to agree with me when I say, as I did the other day, that those who are against the President would be selected by a practically unanimous vote. You hear no other name mentioned in the West. When Mr. Taft is discussed he is spoken of merely as the man who most nearly represents the Roosevelt policies and the Roosevelt ideas. He merely reflects the Roosevelt strength, as the Roosevelt representative. If it should come to pass that the President cannot be persuaded to run again, why, I feel certain that Mr. Taft will be the candidate selected. But until the President puts himself emphatically and finally out of the race it is foolish to talk about any one else for the Republican nomination. Senator Long will be the first to agree with me when I say, as I did the other day, that those who are against the President would be selected by a practically unanimous vote. You hear no other name mentioned in the West. When Mr. Taft is discussed he is spoken of merely as the man who most nearly represents the Roosevelt policies and the Roosevelt ideas. He merely reflects the Roosevelt strength, as the Roosevelt representative. If it should come to pass that the President cannot be persuaded to run again, why, I feel certain that Mr. Taft will be the candidate selected. But until the President puts himself emphatically and finally out of the race it is foolish to talk about any one else for the Republican nomination. Senator Long will be the first to agree with me when I say, as I did the other day, that those who are against the President would be selected by a practically unanimous vote. You hear no other name mentioned in the West. When Mr. Taft is discussed he is spoken of merely as the man who most nearly represents the Roosevelt policies and the Roosevelt ideas. He merely reflects the Roosevelt strength, as the Roosevelt representative. If it should come to pass that the President cannot be persuaded to run again, why, I feel certain that Mr. Taft will be the candidate selected. But until the President puts himself emphatically and finally out of the race it is foolish to talk about any one else for the Republican nomination. Senator Long will be the first to agree with me when I say, as I did the other day, that those who are against the President would be selected by a practically unanimous vote. You hear no other name mentioned in the West. When Mr. Taft is discussed he is spoken of merely as the man who most nearly represents the Roosevelt policies and the Roosevelt ideas. He merely reflects the Roosevelt strength, as the Roosevelt representative. If it should come to pass that the President cannot be persuaded to run again, why, I feel certain that Mr. Taft will be the candidate selected. But until the President puts himself emphatically and finally out of the race it is foolish to talk about any one else for the Republican nomination. Senator Long will be the first to agree with me when I say, as I did the other day, that those who are against the President would be selected by a practically unanimous vote. You hear no other name mentioned in the West. When Mr. Taft is discussed he is spoken of merely as the man who most nearly represents the Roosevelt policies and the Roosevelt ideas. He merely reflects the Roosevelt strength, as the Roosevelt representative. If it should come to pass that the President cannot be persuaded to run again, why, I feel certain that Mr. Taft will be the candidate selected. But until the President puts himself emphatically and finally out of the race it is foolish to talk about any one else for the Republican nomination. Senator Long will be the first to agree with me when I say, as I did the other day, that those who are against the President would be selected by a practically unanimous vote. You hear no other name mentioned in the West. When Mr. Taft is discussed he is spoken of merely as the man who most nearly represents the Roosevelt policies and the Roosevelt ideas. He merely reflects the Roosevelt strength, as the Roosevelt representative. If it should come to pass that the President cannot be persuaded to run again, why, I feel certain that Mr. Taft will be the candidate selected. But until the President puts himself emphatically and finally out of the race it is foolish to talk about any one else for the Republican nomination. Senator Long will be the first to agree with me when I say, as I did the other day, that those who are against the President would be selected by a practically unanimous vote. You hear no other name mentioned in the West. When Mr. Taft is discussed he is spoken of merely as the man who most nearly represents the Roosevelt policies and the Roosevelt ideas. He merely reflects the Roosevelt strength, as the Roosevelt representative. If it should come to pass that the President cannot be persuaded to run again, why, I feel certain that Mr. Taft will be the candidate selected. But until the President puts himself emphatically and finally out of the race it is foolish to talk about any one else for the Republican nomination. Senator Long will be the first to agree with me when I say, as I did the other day, that those who are against the President would be selected by a practically unanimous vote. You hear no other name mentioned in the West. When Mr. Taft is discussed he is spoken of merely as the man who most nearly represents the Roosevelt policies and the Roosevelt ideas. He merely reflects the Roosevelt strength, as the Roosevelt representative. If it should come to pass that the President cannot be persuaded to run again, why, I feel certain that Mr. Taft will be the candidate selected. But until the President puts himself emphatically and finally out of the race it is foolish to talk about any one else for the Republican nomination. Senator Long will be the first to agree with me when I say, as I did the other day, that those who are against the President would be selected by a practically unanimous vote. You hear no other name mentioned in the West. When Mr. Taft is discussed he is spoken of merely as the man who most nearly represents the Roosevelt policies and the Roosevelt ideas. He merely reflects the Roosevelt strength, as the Roosevelt representative. If it should come to pass that the President cannot be persuaded to run again, why, I feel certain that Mr. Taft will be the candidate selected. But until the President puts himself emphatically and finally out of the race it is foolish to talk about any one else for the Republican nomination. Senator Long will be the first to agree with me when I say, as I did the other day, that those who are against the President would be selected by a practically unanimous vote. You hear no other name mentioned in the West. When Mr. Taft is discussed he is spoken of merely as the man who most nearly represents the Roosevelt policies and the Roosevelt ideas. He merely reflects the Roosevelt strength, as the Roosevelt representative. If it should come to pass that the President cannot be persuaded to run again, why, I feel certain that Mr. Taft will be the candidate selected. But until the President puts himself emphatically and finally out of the race it is foolish to talk about any one else for the Republican nomination. Senator Long will be the first to agree with me when I say, as I did the other day, that those who are against the President would be selected by a practically unanimous vote. You hear no other name mentioned in the West. When Mr. Taft is discussed he is spoken of merely as the man who most nearly represents the Roosevelt policies and the Roosevelt ideas. He merely reflects the Roosevelt strength, as the Roosevelt representative. If it should come to pass that the President cannot be persuaded to run again, why, I feel certain that Mr. Taft will be the candidate selected. But until the President puts himself emphatically and finally out of the race it is foolish to talk about any one else for the Republican nomination. Senator Long will be the first to agree with me when I say, as I did the other day, that those who are against the President would be selected by a practically unanimous vote. You hear no other name mentioned in the West. When Mr. Taft is discussed he is spoken of merely as the man who most nearly represents the Roosevelt policies and the Roosevelt ideas. He merely reflects the Roosevelt strength, as the Roosevelt representative. If it should come to pass that the President cannot be persuaded to run again, why, I feel certain that Mr. Taft will be the candidate selected. But until the President puts himself emphatically and finally out of the race it is foolish to talk about any one else for the Republican nomination. Senator Long will be the first to agree with me when I say, as I did the other day, that those who are against the President would be selected by a practically unanimous vote. You hear no other name mentioned in the West. When Mr. Taft is discussed he is spoken of merely as the man who most nearly represents the Roosevelt policies and the Roosevelt ideas. He merely reflects the Roosevelt strength, as the Roosevelt representative. If it should come to pass that the President cannot be persuaded to run again, why, I feel certain that Mr. Taft will be the candidate selected. But until the President puts himself emphatically and finally out of the race it is foolish to talk about any one else for the Republican nomination. Senator Long will be the first to agree with me when I say, as I did the other day, that those who are against the President would be selected by a practically unanimous vote. You hear no other name mentioned in the West. When Mr. Taft is discussed he is spoken of merely as the man who most nearly represents the Roosevelt policies and the Roosevelt ideas. He merely reflects the Roosevelt strength, as the Roosevelt representative. If it should come to pass that the President cannot be persuaded to run again, why, I feel certain that Mr. Taft will be the candidate selected. But until the President puts himself emphatically and finally out of the race it is foolish to talk about any one else for the Republican nomination. Senator Long will be the first to agree with me when I say, as I did the other day, that those who are against the President would be selected by a practically unanimous vote. You hear no other name mentioned in the West. When Mr. Taft is discussed he is spoken of merely as the man who most nearly represents the Roosevelt policies and the Roosevelt ideas. He merely reflects the Roosevelt strength, as the Roosevelt representative. If it should come to pass that the President cannot be persuaded to run again, why, I feel certain that Mr. Taft will be the candidate selected. But until the President puts himself emphatically and finally out of the race it is foolish to talk about any one else for the Republican nomination. Senator Long will be the first to agree with me when I say, as I did the other day, that those who are against the President would be selected by a practically unanimous vote. You hear no other name mentioned in the West. When Mr. Taft is discussed he is spoken of merely as the man who most nearly represents the Roosevelt policies and the Roosevelt ideas. He merely reflects the Roosevelt strength, as the Roosevelt representative. If it should come to pass that the President cannot be persuaded to run again, why, I feel certain that Mr. Taft will be the candidate selected. But until the President puts himself emphatically and finally out of the race it is foolish to talk about any one else for the Republican nomination. Senator Long will be the first to agree with me when I say, as I did the other day, that those who are against the President would be selected by a practically unanimous vote. You hear no other name mentioned in the West. When Mr. Taft is discussed he is spoken of merely as the man who most nearly represents the Roosevelt policies and the Roosevelt ideas. He merely reflects the Roosevelt strength, as the Roosevelt representative. If it should come to pass that the President cannot be persuaded to run again, why, I feel certain that Mr. Taft will be the candidate selected. But until the President puts himself emphatically and finally out of the race it is foolish to talk about any one else for the Republican nomination. Senator Long will be the first to agree with me when I say, as I did the other day, that those who are against the President would be selected by a practically unanimous vote. You hear no other name mentioned in the West. When Mr. Taft is discussed he is spoken of merely as the man who most nearly represents the Roosevelt policies and the Roosevelt ideas. He merely reflects the Roosevelt strength, as the Roosevelt representative. If it should come to pass that the President cannot be persuaded to run again, why, I feel certain that Mr. Taft will be the candidate selected. But until the President puts himself emphatically and finally out of the race it is foolish to talk about any one else for the Republican nomination. Senator Long will be the first to agree with me when I say, as I did the other day, that those who are against the President would be selected by a practically unanimous vote. You hear no other name mentioned in the West. When Mr. Taft is discussed he is spoken of merely as the man who most nearly represents the Roosevelt policies and the Roosevelt ideas. He merely reflects the Roosevelt strength, as the Roosevelt representative. If it should come to pass that the President cannot be persuaded to run again, why, I feel certain that Mr. Taft will be the candidate selected. But until the President puts himself emphatically and finally out of the race it is foolish to talk about any one else for the Republican nomination. Senator Long will be the first to agree with me when I say, as I did the other day, that those who are against the President would be selected by a practically unanimous vote. You hear no other name mentioned in the West. When Mr. Taft is discussed he is spoken of merely as the man who most nearly represents the Roosevelt policies and the Roosevelt ideas. He merely reflects the Roosevelt strength, as the Roosevelt representative. If it should come to pass that the President cannot be persuaded to run again, why, I feel certain that Mr. Taft will be the candidate selected. But until the President puts himself emphatically and finally out of the race it is foolish to talk about any one else for the Republican nomination. Senator Long will be the first to agree with me when I say, as I did the other day, that those who are against the President would be selected by a practically unanimous vote. You hear no other name mentioned in the West. When Mr. Taft is discussed he is spoken of merely as the man who most nearly represents