

COLLEGE JAWS BARED, FEWER STUDIES URGED.

Wilson Favors More Thorough Training in Subjects Taught.

The discussions at the twenty-first annual convention of the Association of Colleges and Preparatory Schools of the Middle States and Maryland, which began yesterday morning in Townsend Hall of the College of the City of New York...

The afternoon session was taken up with a spirited debate on the "Admission to Colleges by Certificate," which was started by Rush Rhees, president of the association...

With Mr. Rhees in favor of this plan was Professor John K. Lord, of Dartmouth College, who speaks at length on this plan in the address...

Charles D. Larkins, principal of the Manual Training High School, of Brooklyn, opposed the plan, Virgil Prettymann, of the Horace Mann School, also disapproved any plan that would tend to pass judgment on the standard of efficiency...

President Woodrow Wilson of Princeton University entered into the debate just before he announced that he would have to give way in the chair to Vice-President Walter R. Marsh...

DR. ELIOT ADDRESSES 1,000 STUDENTS.

Observation of John Harvard Anniversary Continued at University He Founded.

Cambridge, Mass., Nov. 29.—In continuation of the observance of the John Harvard anniversary nearly one thousand students assembled by classes in the college yard at Harvard University to-night and marched to Holywell Hall, where from the steps of that historic building President Charles W. Eliot addressed them briefly.

Following President Eliot's address the students gathered in Holywell Hall to the stadium, where in lecture H formation they watched an elaborate display of fireworks. They then went to the ball field and lighted a bonfire.

MRS. LOUISA TAFT FAILING DAILY. Millbury, Mass., Nov. 29.—Mrs. Louisa Taft, the mother of the Secretary of War, is failing every day, according to a statement made by a member of her household to-day. Mrs. Taft has been ill for many months, and last night it was said that her illness had taken a serious turn. Inquiry at her residence to-day resulted in the statement that Mrs. Taft had been ill a long time and was failing daily.

LEGACY TO CLEVELAND INSTITUTIONS. Cleveland, Nov. 29.—By the will of Mrs. Lucy W. Backus, filed here to-day, a legacy of $100,000 was bequeathed to the Western Reserve University, Old Stone Church, the Visiting Nurses' Association, Lakeside Hospital, Rainbow Cottage, the Young Women's Christian Association and the Cleveland Homeopathic College. Mrs. Backus was 79 years of age.

HARVARD DINNER IN TOKIO. Tokio, Nov. 29.—A Harvard dinner at the Nobles' Club to-night celebrated the 20th anniversary of the birth of John Harvard, jr., founder of Harvard University. Viscount Kaneko, president of the club, and twenty-eight others were present. Addresses were made by Viscount Kaneko, American Ambassador O'Brien, Baron Megata and Dr. M. Knapp, editor of the "Daily Herald." Toasts were drunk to President Roosevelt and to Harvard University. The Harvard Society then elected officers as follows: President, Baron Megata; vice-presidents, Baron Isawa and J. M. Gardiner; secretary, Baron Kikkawa.

FORMER HUNTINGTON MAID LOST. Miss Emily Ellis, who until about two weeks ago was mainly in the family of her late husband, disappeared here to-day. Her body was found in a car on No. 2 East 57th street, has disappeared, and her brother, Alfred Ellis, told the police last evening that he feared she had met with harm. He told the police that his sister left the Huntington about two weeks ago, and last Tuesday, he said, she told him she had a place with a Mrs. Magerty. Since that day he has heard nothing of her. He says the employment agencies where her name was listed refused all information.

GENERAL DU PONT IN RUNAWAY. Wilmington, Del., Nov. 29.—General T. Coleman Du Pont, president of the Du Pont Powder Company, and chairman of the Republican State Committee, narrowly escaped being killed in a runaway here to-day. His team was run down by an automobile and the occupants of the car were pitched out. With one hand grasping the reins and the other holding the overturned vehicle from him, General Du Pont, succeeded in stopping the horse after being dragged one hundred feet. He was badly cut and bruised. Dr. Thoburn, who was with him, was not hurt.

NOBEL PRIZE FOR MICHELSON.

Awarded for Discovering New Method of Determining Velocity of Light.

Washington, Nov. 29.—The State Department has advised by the American Minister at Stockholm, Mr. Graves, that Professor Albert A. Michelson, of the University of Chicago, is to receive the Nobel prize for physicists. Professor Michelson is the discoverer of a new method for determining the velocity of light.

This new honor which has come to Professor Michelson follows only three weeks after his receiving from the Royal Society of England the award of the Copley medal for optical investigation. His first notable invention was an instrument for measuring the velocity of light, and it is for an improved method that he has now received the Nobel prize. He is also the inventor of a spectroscope that has a higher separating power than any other instrument in use, and of several instruments for measuring distance by means of light waves. One of his most famous inventions is an interferometer, that not only measures light waves, but counts the waves.

PROFESSOR A. A. MICHELSON, second American to receive a Nobel prize.

Professor Michelson is head professor of physics in the University of Chicago, having been a member of its faculty since the year of its founding, in 1887. He was born in Strzelno, Germany, in 1852, was brought up in San Francisco and was graduated from the United States Naval Academy in 1873. He studied in the University of Berlin in 1880, and the year following in Heidelberg.

He is a frequent contributor to "The Philosophical Magazine," "Nature," "The American Journal of Science" and other scientific periodicals.

MISS ROOSEVELT TO SEE GAME. Persons of social prominence from many sections of the country have arranged to witness the Army-Navy football game in Philadelphia to-day.

AT THE OPERA. There were no novelties at either of the opera houses last night, but both of them were crowded.

"POLLY OF THE CIRCUS" COMING. Frederic Thompson announced yesterday that his new production, "Polly of the Circus," would be brought to the Liberty Theatre on Monday night, December 10.

SPECIAL FROM MR. FISKE. Mr. Harrison Grey Fiske, in a communication to the press, makes it known that the four of the South and West which Mrs. Fiske and the Manhattan company are now making in "Leah Kleschna" and "Tess of the D'Urbervilles" has been extended.

JOHN PHILIP SOUSA RECOVERING. Chicago, Nov. 29.—Bandmaster John Philip Sousa, who arrived at the Auditorium Hotel yesterday morning, after a long illness, is recovering rapidly.

MARK TWAIN SEVENTY-TWO TO-DAY. Mark Twain, who is known to some few Americans and others as Samuel Langhorne Clemens, today has a seventy-second birthday to mark off to-day. As he is wont on Saturdays, being still much of a juvenile, he will attend a matinee this afternoon. His only complaint yesterday was that of a cold.

GOVERNOR TO INSPECT 13TH REGIMENT. Albany, Nov. 29.—Adjutant General Henry announced to-night that Governor Hughes had accepted the invitation from Colonel Austin to receive the 13th Regiment, Heavy Artillery, of Brooklyn, on Saturday, January 22.

GOVERNOR TO INSPECT 13TH REGIMENT. Albany, Nov. 29.—Adjutant General Henry announced to-night that Governor Hughes had accepted the invitation from Colonel Austin to receive the 13th Regiment, Heavy Artillery, of Brooklyn, on Saturday, January 22.

CROWD AT WHITE SALE.

Architect's Pictures and Frames Bring $10,678.50.

Art lovers and lovers of bargains in art objects filled the American Art Galleries last evening at the closing session of the supplementary sale of artistic property belonging to the estate of Stanford White. The sale, which was conducted by Thomas E. Kirby, realized $10,678.50 for about forty pictures and sixty antique frames, making a total of $24,150 for the sales of three afternoons and one evening.

The highest price paid was $75, by H. D. De Marquiere, for "Portrait of René Du Puy Du Fou" by Francois Clouet. Of the four decorative wall panels, illustrating events in Roman legendary history, Commodore Elbridge T. Gerry paid $500 each for the panels "Mucius Scaevola Defying Lars Porsena" and "A Roman Battle Scene." Gari Melchers paid $250 for "The Rape of the Sabine."

Robert Colet paid $115 for two frames and with composition moulding and the other of carved wood. Following are the principal sales of the evening:

Table listing art sales including items like 'The Rape of the Sabine', 'Mucius Scaevola Defying Lars Porsena', and 'A Roman Battle Scene' with their respective prices.

PETITION BY ALLAN MACNAUGHTAN.

Husband of Myra Kelly in Financial Trouble—Literary Colony Involved.

Allan Macnaughtan, the husband of Myra Kelly, author of the life stories, filed a petition in bankruptcy yesterday before Referee Edwin G. Adams, in Newark. The papers were received while the residents of Essex Falls were watching anxiously for the opening of an English literary colony by the Macnaughtans near their homes.

Macnaughtan places his liabilities at $25,000 and his assets at $20,000. Among the liabilities are two promissory notes, one for $10,000, and one for $5,000, and a note for $1,000, all of which were given to the Literary Colony.

Macnaughtan is a native of Scotland, and was born in Glasgow. He came to this country in 1887, and was engaged in the management of the Tradesmen's Bank. He was also a director of the Wool Exchange.

LORD'S SON DYING FRIENDLESS. Denver, Nov. 29.—The County Hospital without a friend to cheer him in his last hours is John North, who says he is the second son of an English lord. When twenty years old, after having quarrelled with his father and brother, he left home and came to this country. He has not written to any one of his relatives, and he does not know whether he is dead or alive. He refuses to give his address.

PROMINENT ARRIVALS AT THE HOTELS. GOTHAM—William T. Aldrich, Providence, R. I.; H. W. Hamilton, Chicago, Ill.; E. B. Evans, New York, N. Y.; N. E. Phelps, New York, N. Y.; J. C. Crawford, Washington, D. C.; K. S. Kelsay, Washington, D. C.

WHAT IS GOING ON TO-DAY. Free admission to American Museum of Natural History, Zoological Gardens and Metropolitan Museum of Art, Arts and Crafts festival, National Art Club, Gramercy Park, 4:30 p. m.

AT THE OPERA. There were no novelties at either of the opera houses last night, but both of them were crowded.

"POLLY OF THE CIRCUS" COMING. Frederic Thompson announced yesterday that his new production, "Polly of the Circus," would be brought to the Liberty Theatre on Monday night, December 10.

SPECIAL FROM MR. FISKE. Mr. Harrison Grey Fiske, in a communication to the press, makes it known that the four of the South and West which Mrs. Fiske and the Manhattan company are now making in "Leah Kleschna" and "Tess of the D'Urbervilles" has been extended.

JOHN PHILIP SOUSA RECOVERING. Chicago, Nov. 29.—Bandmaster John Philip Sousa, who arrived at the Auditorium Hotel yesterday morning, after a long illness, is recovering rapidly.

MARK TWAIN SEVENTY-TWO TO-DAY. Mark Twain, who is known to some few Americans and others as Samuel Langhorne Clemens, today has a seventy-second birthday to mark off to-day. As he is wont on Saturdays, being still much of a juvenile, he will attend a matinee this afternoon. His only complaint yesterday was that of a cold.

GOVERNOR TO INSPECT 13TH REGIMENT. Albany, Nov. 29.—Adjutant General Henry announced to-night that Governor Hughes had accepted the invitation from Colonel Austin to receive the 13th Regiment, Heavy Artillery, of Brooklyn, on Saturday, January 22.

GOVERNOR TO INSPECT 13TH REGIMENT. Albany, Nov. 29.—Adjutant General Henry announced to-night that Governor Hughes had accepted the invitation from Colonel Austin to receive the 13th Regiment, Heavy Artillery, of Brooklyn, on Saturday, January 22.

OBITUARY.

EX-JUDGE JAMES B. BRADWELL.

Chicago, Nov. 29.—Ex-Judge James B. Bradwell, one of Chicago's most distinguished pioneers, died to-day at the home of his daughter, Mrs. F. A. Helmer, in this city. Until two weeks ago he had continued to take an active interest in the management of "The Chicago Legal News," of which he was publisher. He was a law partner of John L. Beveridge when Mr. Beveridge was elected Governor of Illinois.

Judge Bradwell served as president of the Union League Club, president of the Chicago Bar Association, president of the Illinois Bar Association, president of the Chicago Press Club, and president of the convention held in Cleveland, which resulted in the formation of the American Woman Suffrage Society.

James B. Bradwell was born in Loughborough, England, on April 16, 1828, and was brought to this country by his parents in the following year. After spending four years in Utica, N. Y., Thomas Bradwell, the father, took his family to Illinois, settling first in Jacksonville and later in Wheeling, Cook County, about twenty-two miles from Chicago.

He soon began to study law in Chicago, and in 1852 he married Miss Myra Kelly, of Schaumburg Township, and she followed him to Illinois, where he and nine years thereafter was elected judge of the Cook County Court, serving two terms of four years. He was a member of the Legislature from 1873 to 1877.

Shortly after his marriage his wife took up the study of law, with a view to helping her husband in his practice. She took the necessary examinations, and was the first woman in the United States to apply for admission to the bar. Her application was refused by the Supreme Court of Illinois, and she sued out a writ of error against the State of Illinois in the Supreme Court of the United States. The decision was adverse to her, but in 1871 the state court voluntarily receded from its position and gave her the certificate of admission to the bar on her original application.

In 1870 Mrs. Bradwell founded "The Chicago Legal News," and conducted it under a special charter from the state. After the death of Mrs. Bradwell, in 1884, the publication was continued by her husband, with the assistance of his daughter, Mrs. Bessie Bradwell Hooper.

Ernest Neal Lyon, a teacher in the English department of the Manual Training High School, Brooklyn, and a magazine writer, died suddenly from tuberculosis at Pasadena, Cal., on Tuesday, Nov. 26, 1907. He was born in Greenfield, Mass., in 1873, and had been teaching in the Manual Training High School in Brooklyn for several years.

Ernest Neal Lyon, a teacher in the English department of the Manual Training High School, Brooklyn, and a magazine writer, died suddenly from tuberculosis at Pasadena, Cal., on Tuesday, Nov. 26, 1907. He was born in Greenfield, Mass., in 1873, and had been teaching in the Manual Training High School in Brooklyn for several years.

Ernest Neal Lyon, a teacher in the English department of the Manual Training High School, Brooklyn, and a magazine writer, died suddenly from tuberculosis at Pasadena, Cal., on Tuesday, Nov. 26, 1907. He was born in Greenfield, Mass., in 1873, and had been teaching in the Manual Training High School in Brooklyn for several years.

Ernest Neal Lyon, a teacher in the English department of the Manual Training High School, Brooklyn, and a magazine writer, died suddenly from tuberculosis at Pasadena, Cal., on Tuesday, Nov. 26, 1907. He was born in Greenfield, Mass., in 1873, and had been teaching in the Manual Training High School in Brooklyn for several years.

Ernest Neal Lyon, a teacher in the English department of the Manual Training High School, Brooklyn, and a magazine writer, died suddenly from tuberculosis at Pasadena, Cal., on Tuesday, Nov. 26, 1907. He was born in Greenfield, Mass., in 1873, and had been teaching in the Manual Training High School in Brooklyn for several years.

Ernest Neal Lyon, a teacher in the English department of the Manual Training High School, Brooklyn, and a magazine writer, died suddenly from tuberculosis at Pasadena, Cal., on Tuesday, Nov. 26, 1907. He was born in Greenfield, Mass., in 1873, and had been teaching in the Manual Training High School in Brooklyn for several years.

Ernest Neal Lyon, a teacher in the English department of the Manual Training High School, Brooklyn, and a magazine writer, died suddenly from tuberculosis at Pasadena, Cal., on Tuesday, Nov. 26, 1907. He was born in Greenfield, Mass., in 1873, and had been teaching in the Manual Training High School in Brooklyn for several years.

Ernest Neal Lyon, a teacher in the English department of the Manual Training High School, Brooklyn, and a magazine writer, died suddenly from tuberculosis at Pasadena, Cal., on Tuesday, Nov. 26, 1907. He was born in Greenfield, Mass., in 1873, and had been teaching in the Manual Training High School in Brooklyn for several years.

Ernest Neal Lyon, a teacher in the English department of the Manual Training High School, Brooklyn, and a magazine writer, died suddenly from tuberculosis at Pasadena, Cal., on Tuesday, Nov. 26, 1907. He was born in Greenfield, Mass., in 1873, and had been teaching in the Manual Training High School in Brooklyn for several years.

Ernest Neal Lyon, a teacher in the English department of the Manual Training High School, Brooklyn, and a magazine writer, died suddenly from tuberculosis at Pasadena, Cal., on Tuesday, Nov. 26, 1907. He was born in Greenfield, Mass., in 1873, and had been teaching in the Manual Training High School in Brooklyn for several years.

Ernest Neal Lyon, a teacher in the English department of the Manual Training High School, Brooklyn, and a magazine writer, died suddenly from tuberculosis at Pasadena, Cal., on Tuesday, Nov. 26, 1907. He was born in Greenfield, Mass., in 1873, and had been teaching in the Manual Training High School in Brooklyn for several years.

Ernest Neal Lyon, a teacher in the English department of the Manual Training High School, Brooklyn, and a magazine writer, died suddenly from tuberculosis at Pasadena, Cal., on Tuesday, Nov. 26, 1907. He was born in Greenfield, Mass., in 1873, and had been teaching in the Manual Training High School in Brooklyn for several years.

Ernest Neal Lyon, a teacher in the English department of the Manual Training High School, Brooklyn, and a magazine writer, died suddenly from tuberculosis at Pasadena, Cal., on Tuesday, Nov. 26, 1907. He was born in Greenfield, Mass., in 1873, and had been teaching in the Manual Training High School in Brooklyn for several years.

Ernest Neal Lyon, a teacher in the English department of the Manual Training High School, Brooklyn, and a magazine writer, died suddenly from tuberculosis at Pasadena, Cal., on Tuesday, Nov. 26, 1907. He was born in Greenfield, Mass., in 1873, and had been teaching in the Manual Training High School in Brooklyn for several years.

Ernest Neal Lyon, a teacher in the English department of the Manual Training High School, Brooklyn, and a magazine writer, died suddenly from tuberculosis at Pasadena, Cal., on Tuesday, Nov. 26, 1907. He was born in Greenfield, Mass., in 1873, and had been teaching in the Manual Training High School in Brooklyn for several years.

Ernest Neal Lyon, a teacher in the English department of the Manual Training High School, Brooklyn, and a magazine writer, died suddenly from tuberculosis at Pasadena, Cal., on Tuesday, Nov. 26, 1907. He was born in Greenfield, Mass., in 1873, and had been teaching in the Manual Training High School in Brooklyn for several years.

Ernest Neal Lyon, a teacher in the English department of the Manual Training High School, Brooklyn, and a magazine writer, died suddenly from tuberculosis at Pasadena, Cal., on Tuesday, Nov. 26, 1907. He was born in Greenfield, Mass., in 1873, and had been teaching in the Manual Training High School in Brooklyn for several years.

Ernest Neal Lyon, a teacher in the English department of the Manual Training High School, Brooklyn, and a magazine writer, died suddenly from tuberculosis at Pasadena, Cal., on Tuesday, Nov. 26, 1907. He was born in Greenfield, Mass., in 1873, and had been teaching in the Manual Training High School in Brooklyn for several years.

Ernest Neal Lyon, a teacher in the English department of the Manual Training High School, Brooklyn, and a magazine writer, died suddenly from tuberculosis at Pasadena, Cal., on Tuesday, Nov. 26, 1907. He was born in Greenfield, Mass., in 1873, and had been teaching in the Manual Training High School in Brooklyn for several years.

THE REV. DR. WENDELL PRIME.

Word has been received in this city that the Rev. Dr. Wendell Prime, a former editor of "The New York Observer," died at Zurich, Switzerland, on Thursday.

Dr. Prime was born at Mattawan, Dutchess County, N. Y., on August 3, 1837, and was graduated from Columbia College in 1856. After this he went to the Union Theological Seminary at Hamden-Sidney, Va. The greater part of his theological education, however, was taken at the Princeton Theological Seminary, from which he was graduated in 1860, one year before he was ordained for the Presbyterian ministry.

Immediately after his ordination he took charge of the Westminster Presbyterian Church, of Detroit, where he remained until 1865, when he became pastor of the Union Presbyterian Church, of Newburgh. While he was in charge there a large and spacious building was erected, largely through his efforts.

In 1876 Dr. Prime resigned his pastorate at Newburgh to associate himself with "The New York Observer," of which his father, the Rev. Samuel Ingham Prime, was editor in chief at the time.

Dr. Prime's father died in 1860, and Dr. Prime assumed the position of editor in chief of "The Observer." He retired in 1883, owing to ill health. Before becoming connected with the paper in an editorial way Dr. Prime was a constant contributor to its columns, including in his articles many descriptive notes of foreign travel, of outdoor life and of natural objects.

Besides his work on "The Observer," Dr. Prime was a brother-in-law of Dr. Charles A. Stoddard, one of the present editors of "The Observer." He received the degree of Doctor of Divinity from Union College, and has been a frequent speaker in various benevolent enterprises.

Ernest Neal Lyon, a teacher in the English department of the Manual Training High School, Brooklyn, and a magazine writer, died suddenly from tuberculosis at Pasadena, Cal., on Tuesday, Nov. 26, 1907. He was born in Greenfield, Mass., in 1873, and had been teaching in the Manual Training High School in Brooklyn for several years.

Ernest Neal Lyon, a teacher in the English department of the Manual Training High School, Brooklyn, and a magazine writer, died suddenly from tuberculosis at Pasadena, Cal., on Tuesday, Nov. 26, 1907. He was born in Greenfield, Mass., in 1873, and had been teaching in the Manual Training High School in Brooklyn for several years.

Ernest Neal Lyon, a teacher in the English department of the Manual Training High School, Brooklyn, and a magazine writer, died suddenly from tuberculosis at Pasadena, Cal., on Tuesday, Nov. 26, 1907. He was born in Greenfield, Mass., in 1873, and had been teaching in the Manual Training High School in Brooklyn for several years.

Ernest Neal Lyon, a teacher in the English department of the Manual Training High School, Brooklyn, and a magazine writer, died suddenly from tuberculosis at Pasadena, Cal., on Tuesday, Nov. 26, 1907. He was born in Greenfield, Mass., in 1873, and had been teaching in the Manual Training High School in Brooklyn for several years.

Ernest Neal Lyon, a teacher in the English department of the Manual Training High School, Brooklyn, and a magazine writer, died suddenly from tuberculosis at Pasadena, Cal., on Tuesday, Nov. 26, 1907. He was born in Greenfield, Mass., in 1873, and had been teaching in the Manual Training High School in Brooklyn for several years.

Ernest Neal Lyon, a teacher in the English department of the Manual Training High School, Brooklyn, and a magazine writer, died suddenly from tuberculosis at Pasadena, Cal., on Tuesday, Nov. 26, 1907. He was born in Greenfield, Mass., in 1873, and had been teaching in the Manual Training High School in Brooklyn for several years.

Ernest Neal Lyon, a teacher in the English department of the Manual Training High School, Brooklyn, and a magazine writer, died suddenly from tuberculosis at Pasadena, Cal., on Tuesday, Nov. 26, 1907. He was born in Greenfield, Mass., in 1873, and had been teaching in the Manual Training High School in Brooklyn for several years.

Ernest Neal Lyon, a teacher in the English department of the Manual Training High School, Brooklyn, and a magazine writer, died suddenly from tuberculosis at Pasadena, Cal., on Tuesday, Nov. 26, 1907. He was born in Greenfield, Mass., in 1873, and had been teaching in the Manual Training High School in Brooklyn for several years.

Ernest Neal Lyon, a teacher in the English department of the Manual Training High School, Brooklyn, and a magazine writer, died suddenly from tuberculosis at Pasadena, Cal., on Tuesday, Nov. 26, 1907. He was born in Greenfield, Mass., in 1873, and had been teaching in the Manual Training High School in Brooklyn for several years.

Ernest Neal Lyon, a teacher in the English department of the Manual Training High School, Brooklyn, and a magazine writer, died suddenly from tuberculosis at Pasadena, Cal., on Tuesday, Nov. 26, 1907. He was born in Greenfield, Mass., in 1873, and had been teaching in the Manual Training High School in Brooklyn for several years.

Ernest Neal Lyon, a teacher in the English department of the Manual Training High School, Brooklyn, and a magazine writer, died suddenly from tuberculosis at Pasadena, Cal., on Tuesday, Nov. 26, 1907. He was born in Greenfield, Mass., in 1873, and had been teaching in the Manual Training High School in Brooklyn for several years.

Ernest Neal Lyon, a teacher in the English department of the Manual Training High School, Brooklyn, and a magazine writer, died suddenly from tuberculosis at Pasadena, Cal., on Tuesday, Nov. 26, 1907. He was born in Greenfield, Mass., in 1873, and had been teaching in the Manual Training High School in Brooklyn for several years.

Ernest Neal Lyon, a teacher in the English department of the Manual Training High School, Brooklyn, and a magazine writer, died suddenly from tuberculosis at Pasadena, Cal., on Tuesday, Nov. 26, 1907. He was born in Greenfield, Mass., in 1873, and had been teaching in the Manual Training High School in Brooklyn for several years.

Ernest Neal Lyon, a teacher in the English department of the Manual Training High School, Brooklyn, and a magazine writer, died suddenly from tuberculosis at Pasadena, Cal., on Tuesday, Nov. 26, 1907. He was born in Greenfield, Mass., in 1873, and had been teaching in the Manual Training High School in Brooklyn for several years.

Ernest Neal Lyon, a teacher in the English department of the Manual Training High School, Brooklyn, and a magazine writer, died suddenly from tuberculosis at Pasadena, Cal., on Tuesday, Nov. 26, 1907. He was born in Greenfield, Mass., in 1873, and had been teaching in the Manual Training High School in Brooklyn for several years.

Ernest Neal Lyon, a teacher in the English department of the Manual Training High School, Brooklyn, and a magazine writer, died suddenly from tuberculosis at Pasadena, Cal., on Tuesday, Nov. 26, 1907. He was born in Greenfield, Mass., in 1873, and had been teaching in the Manual Training High School in Brooklyn for several years.

Ernest Neal Lyon, a teacher in the English department of the Manual Training High School, Brooklyn, and a magazine writer, died suddenly from tuberculosis at Pasadena, Cal., on Tuesday, Nov. 26, 1907. He was born in Greenfield, Mass., in 1873, and had been teaching in the Manual Training High School in Brooklyn for several years.

Ernest Neal Lyon, a teacher in the English department of the Manual Training High School, Brooklyn, and a magazine writer, died suddenly from tuberculosis at Pasadena, Cal., on Tuesday, Nov. 26, 1907. He was born in Greenfield, Mass., in 1873, and had been teaching in the Manual Training High School in Brooklyn for several years.

Ernest Neal Lyon, a teacher in the English department of the Manual Training High School, Brooklyn, and a magazine writer, died suddenly from tuberculosis at Pasadena, Cal., on Tuesday, Nov. 26, 1907. He was born in Greenfield, Mass., in 1873, and had been teaching in the Manual Training High School in Brooklyn for several years.

Ernest Neal Lyon, a teacher in the English department of the Manual Training High School, Brooklyn, and a magazine writer, died suddenly from tuberculosis at Pasadena, Cal., on Tuesday, Nov. 26, 1907. He was born in Greenfield, Mass., in 1873, and had been teaching in the Manual Training High School in Brooklyn for several years.

Ernest Neal Lyon, a teacher in the English department of the Manual Training High School, Brooklyn, and a magazine writer, died suddenly from tuberculosis at Pasadena, Cal., on Tuesday, Nov. 26, 1907. He was born in Greenfield, Mass., in 1873, and had been teaching in the Manual Training High School in Brooklyn for several years.

Ernest Neal Lyon, a teacher in the English department of the Manual Training High School, Brooklyn, and a magazine writer, died suddenly from tuberculosis at Pasadena, Cal., on Tuesday, Nov. 26, 1907. He was born in Greenfield, Mass., in 1873, and had been teaching in the Manual Training High School in Brooklyn for several years.

Ernest Neal Lyon, a teacher in the English department of the Manual Training High School, Brooklyn, and a magazine writer, died suddenly from tuberculosis at Pasadena, Cal., on Tuesday, Nov. 26, 1907. He was born in Greenfield, Mass., in 1873, and had been teaching in the Manual Training High School in Brooklyn for several years.

REVENUES OF PENNSYLVANIA.

Harrisburg, Penn., Nov. 29.—The revenues of the State of Pennsylvania for the current fiscal year, which will close to-morrow, aggregate $28,420,000, which is $600,000 in excess of the revenues for 1906, when all records for the collection of state revenues were broken. The Treasury balance at the close of to-day's business was $12,885,700.

Married.

Marriage notices appearing in THE TRIBUNE will be republished in the Tri-Weekly Tribune without extra charge.

WALLER-DORSEY—On Thursday, November 28, 1907, at the residence of Mrs. Waller Dorsey, in the city of New York, was solemnized the marriage of Miss Waller Dorsey to Mr. John W. Dorsey.

NOTICES OF MARRIAGES AND DEATHS must be indorsed with full name and address.

Death notices appearing in THE TRIBUNE will be republished in the Tri-Weekly Tribune without extra charge.

CRITTEEN—Dr. Frances Crittenden, husband of Olive Stillwell Crittenden, of Harrisburg, Pa., died at his home, 104th St., at 10:30 a. m., on Thursday, November 28, 1907. He was 62 years of age.

HANSON—Entered into rest Friday, November 29, Miss Letitia Hanson, Funeral services at her late residence, No. 70 West 12th st., on Sunday evening, December 1, 7:30 o'clock. Interment at convenience of family. Kindly omit flowers.

KEMP—On November 27, Ann Maria, widow of Rufus Crosby Kemp, aged 92 years 1 month and 1 day. Funeral services at her late residence, No. 111 E. 10th St., on Sunday, November 29, at 11 a. m.

LYON—On November 26, at Pasadena, Cal., Ernest Neal Lyon, a teacher in the English department of the Manual Training High School, Brooklyn, and a magazine writer, died suddenly from tuberculosis at Pasadena, Cal., on Tuesday, Nov. 26, 1907. He was born in Greenfield, Mass., in 1873, and had been teaching in the Manual Training High School in Brooklyn for several years.

PRIME—At Zurich, Switzerland, on Thursday, November 28, 1907, Dr. Wendell Prime, a former editor of "The New York Observer," died at Zurich, Switzerland, on Thursday, November 28, 1907. He was 70 years of age.

PRUDHOMME—Hermance M. Prudhomme, beloved wife of Edmund Prudhomme, in the 65th year of her age. Relatives and friends are invited to attend funeral from the residence of the deceased, No. 125 E. 10th St., on Sunday, December 1, at 1 p. m. Thence to St. Vincent's Church, No. 125 E. 10th St., at 1:30 p. m. Interment, New Rochelle.

RADFORD—Suddenly, November 28, George D. Radford, aged 48 years, beloved husband of Mary A. Radford. Funeral services at his late residence, No. 221 E. 11th St., on Sunday, December 1, at 2 p. m.

SMITH—At his late residence, Stamford, Conn., Thursday, November 28, 1907, Walter M. Smith, beloved husband of Elizabeth Leonard Smith, in the 71st year of his age. Funeral services will be held Saturday, November 30, at the First Presbyterian Church, Stamford, Conn., at 12 o'clock, on the arrival of the 11 a. m. train from New York. Boston papers please copy.

STEE