Johnson of Minnesota to the Vice-President's chair. Mr. Lawson asserts that President Roosevelt's reelection is necessary to save the country from disaster, and that any other Republican, or even William J. Bryan, would be so satisfactory to New York financial interests, that they will willingly finance either or both parties through the campaign to any extent necessary.

LUNACY INQUIRY ENDS.

State Board May Ask More Pay for Ward's Island Attendants.

The inquiry by the State Lunacy Board into the alleged abuses at the Manhattan State Hospital was ended on Ward's Island yesterday with the examination of attendants in charge of Ward 40, where it was charged by Dr. John C. McCarthy that patients had been assaulted and otherwise ill-treated. Before the commission adjourned the wards in the male department were examined, and everything was found to be running smoothly except for the lack of attendants in wards 40 and 45, the homicidal and suicidal departments.

While the charges made by Dr. McCarthy have been denied by all the witnesses, with the exception of the two patients, Benque and McElroy, Dr. Ferris, the chairman of the commission, declared that a recommendation would be made to Governor Hughes for a higher scale of wages to be paid to attendants and nurses. At present the men receive from $2 to $3 a month, according to their length of service, and fifty-one vacancies exist. The attendants are mostly former truck drivers and orderlies from other hospitals. The commissioners believe that better paid men would carry out the work more efficiently in the wards and prevent a repetition of the alleged brutalities.

This letter, according to one of the four elders, named Marshall, or out exactly, "No, no; don't answer that question; that is damnable, damnable," and kept repeating those words over and over. The pastor, in reply, said: "Yes, yes; and if witness is willing to say that, I don't care what the name of Jesus Christ, don't ask that," and threw his hands in the air and walked up and down in a frenzied manner, exclaiming: "This is outrageous."

Falls Down and a Wagon Runs Over Its Neck, Killing It.

Alfred Lestrang, of No. 333 Manhattan avenue, with his horse Jimmy pulling his coal and ice wagon, stopped near the New York tower to give Jimmy a breathing spell, but the animal misunderstood the halt and laid down in the roadway and blocked the traffic. As the horse struggled to his feet Alfred J. Ranker, driver of a four-horse team, pulled out to pass, and one of his horses jolted poor Jimmy and down he went again. He never got up, for one of the big wheels passed over his neck, killing him.

POLICEMAN GETS OFF.

Board Has to Decide Whether He Was Partner of Thieves.

The Jersey City Police Board has to decide last night whether a patrolman was associated with burglars. In pronouncing the decision, President Bierck said the board gave the accused patrolman the benefit of the reasonable doubt, but he imposed a fine of five days' pay for untruthfulness. The policeman on trial is Hugh Clark, whose record is not an enviable one. He was recently dismissed for not paying a debt of $5 for money borrowed from a woman who kept a roadhouse, but the sentence was reconsidered and he was reinstated. The charge heard last night was based on a peculiar incident. Two weeks ago, at about 2 o'clock in the morning, an attempt was made by three thieves to loot a safe in a laundry. The safe contained $500. Clark was on post until midnight. Two of the thieves escaped. One jumped into an arcaway and, injuring his leg, was helpless. He was discovered and arrested. Later, when the arcaway was being searched by the police was found, and its number was 218. It was Clark's pistol. He was summoned and swore that he had lost the revolver, which was in excellent condition, more than three years ago. Records showed that a number of robberies had been committed on the posts to which Clark was assigned, and he was suspended and the charges were lodged against him, as Sergeant Heck was positive that when Clark was transferred to the 1st Precinct, in June last, he showed his revolver, as the rules require, and that the number 218 was taken.

Sergeant Heck was positive last night at the trial that he saw the revolver. Clark produced five witnesses, including two policemen, to prove that he had informed them of the loss of his revolver three years ago. The evidence of his father had not reported the loss at the police station, and also that he had deceived Sergeant Heck by showing another revolver and giving the wrong number. Clark's father was a witness, and said his son had not had the lost revolver in three years, but the finding of it carried by the police was detected was a strange coincidence. He protested against his son being stigmatized as an associate of burglars. He also proved that his son was at home at 12:30 o'clock on the evening the attempt was made to loot the safe.

President Bierck, in announcing the decision, said the question of severity was largely to the case, but the board was loath to believe that any policeman could be in league with burglars. "There is a doubt—a slim doubt—and we are going to give you the benefit of it," he said. "But we are going to impose a fine for your admitted untruthfulness. The evidence of your father has proved improved. You know it was your duty to have reported the loss of the revolver immediately."

HOW TO DEAL WITH TUBERCULOSIS.

Board of Experts to Advise with State Health Department.

Albany, Dec. 23.—State Health Commissioner Porter announced today that he had appointed an advisory board, composed of experts on tuberculosis, "to give to the State Department of Health such advice and suggestions as in their wisdom and expert knowledge they may deem proper and expedient."

All those appointed have signed their willingness to serve. They are Dr. Edward B. Baldwin, of Saratoga; George W. Goler, of Rochester; Willis G. MacDonald, of Albany; Veranus M. Moore, of Ithaca; John H. Pryor, of Buffalo; William H. Watson, of Utica; and Livingston Farrand and Homer Folks, of New York.

Dr. Porter says that Governor Hughes has approved the course he has taken, and that the Legislature will be asked for an appropriation of $80,000 to carry on the proposed work. He said today: "One of the most important problems before the state is how to deal with tuberculosis. At least 50,000 deaths a year in this state are attributed to the disease. I believe it to be a preventable disease, and nothing has been so far done to systematically prevent its ravages. Other states are improving in this respect. I believe that New York and Pennsylvania. The advisory board which I have named will make its recommendations, and I believe that the board will be able to do so materially in its future policy."

Y., Dec. 23.—"Little Pete," who shot and fatally wounded the excise inspector Joseph Dardano, of Albany, and seriously wounded an inspector named Matico, made a full confession to District Attorney Rice and a detective named Neef, of the State Excise Department, today. "I am glad I did it," said "Little Pete," whose real name is Giuseppe Sanduchi. Sanduchi came from Rome about three years ago. He is a baker by trade and was employed by a man named Decilio, the owner of a bakery and boarding house at Belfast. Decilio was held for the grand jury on a charge of selling liquor without a license. Dardano and Matico secured the evidence against Decilio, and Sanduchi sought revenge for his employer by shooting the two inspectors.

CHALLENGES TOM L. JOHNSON'S ROAD.

F. H. Goe, Mediator in Cleveland Traction Fight, Doubts Financial Ability.

(By Telegram to The Tribune.) Cleveland, Dec. 23.—Mayor Johnson's ability to gather money for his traction venture was challenged today. Dealing with the rate of fare in a security franchise to the Cleveland Electric Railway Company, fixing the rate at which the company may operate if the holding company fails, F. H. Goe, mediator, demanded a six ticket for a quarter franchise. "You can't raise the money to form your company," he said to Mayor Johnson. "You can't raise $200,000 in the entire country for a three cent fare road, for a seven ticket for a quarter with its own pictures and the alluring advertisement of the Forest City Railway that sell stock. With all due regard, the low fare companies have no money and you can't raise money, particularly now, without a decent security franchise."

HACKMEN DISCUSS FARES.

Oppose Reduction and Taximeters—Refer Questions to Council.

The Public Hack Drivers' Association of Greater New York, composed of hack drivers who own their own rigs, debated the questions of reducing the fares from 50 cents to 25 cents a mile and using a taximeter to register the mileage, at a special meeting held last night in American Hall, Eighth avenue and 42d street. Representatives of taximeter concerns were heard.

The first speaker said that the hack drivers would have to do something if they were to have any trade left. The competition of the taximeter autos, he said, was forcing the hack drivers to the wall. Then he declared that hack drivers had such a reputation for overcharging that passengers were hard to get. This applied, especially to visitors from other cities, who were warned against the New York hackmen when they came here. He said that in order to win back public confidence the hack drivers would have to reduce fares.

The officers of the association appeared to be in favor of a reduction of fares and the use of a taximeter, but the meeting appeared strongly against either. The question of reducing the fare nearly brought about a fight between two of the speakers. It was finally decided to refer the two questions to the supreme council of the association, which will meet on Thursday night. The council favors the use of the taximeter and the reduction of fares, but its recommendation must be ratified by a referendum vote to become effective.

BARGE CAPTAIN AND WIFE DROWNED.

Refused to Obey Tugboat Commander When Towline Broken—Others Saved.

New Haven, Dec. 23.—Refusing to take the advice of the captain of the tugboat James McWilliams, Captain Henry Scribner, of the barge New Haven, and his wife were drowned in the Sound today. The tugboat was towing a barge with its string of coal laden barges, was making slow headway from New York to New Haven, and met heavy seas off Woodmont. One of the barges broke away, and soon the McWilliams was separated from its tow.

The captain of the several barges shouted for help, and the tugboat captain called to them to get aboard the largest barge of the tow if possible. This six men managed to do, but Captain Scribner and his wife launched a small boat and started to pull for the shore. After going a few yards their boat was capsized, and they were drowned. The crew of the McWilliams a few minutes later rescued the six men, just before the barge went down. This was the last of the seven to remain afloat.
