

About People and Social Incidents.

AT THE WHITE HOUSE.

Washington, Feb. 1.—The President received many congratulations to-day from Senators, Representatives and social callers on the special message he sent to Congress yesterday.

THE CABINET.

Washington, Feb. 1.—The Postmaster General and Mrs. Meyer are entertaining Lady Juliet Duff and the Hon. Violet Vivian, both of England, whom they visited in New York the first of this week.

THE DIPLOMATIC CORPS.

Washington, Feb. 1.—The Austro-Hungarian Ambassador, who intended to go direct to the West Indies from New York, where he went to attend the wedding of Count and Countess Szechenyi, has changed his plans, and will accompany Baroness Hengelmüller to Washington to-morrow.

IN WASHINGTON SOCIETY.

Washington, Feb. 1.—Count Dionys Szechenyi, the elder brother of Count Laszlo Szechenyi, who married Miss Vanderbilt, and Countess Szechenyi will arrive in Washington to-morrow, a suite having been engaged for them at the Shoreham by Baron Ambrosy, counselor of the Austro-Hungarian Embassy.

NEW YORK SOCIETY.

Leit is still four weeks off, Ash Wednesday being set this year in the early days of March instead of in the middle of February. Yet people are already beginning to take their departure for sunnier climes, either in the Southern States and on the Pacific Coast or in Europe.

A WEDDING IN LONDON.

London, Feb. 1.—There was a brilliant wedding at St. Margaret's, Westminster, this afternoon when Miss Florence Padefford, daughter of Mr. Ernest Cunard, was married to Robert Grosvenor, eldest son of Lord Ebury.

EARL DEPLORES STEDMAN'S DEATH.

The secretary of the American Committee of the Keats-Shelley Memorial Association has just received the following letter from the Earl of Cromwell:

YALE PROFESSOR FOR WESLEYAN HEAD.

[By Telegraph to The Tribune.] Middletown, Conn., Feb. 1.—There is a movement on foot among the younger alumni of Wesleyan University to induce the trustees to invite to the vacant presidency of the institution Dr. Charles Hubbard Judd, Wesleyan '94, who is professor of psychology at Yale.

STANFORD LOANS TO SAN FRANCISCO.

San Francisco, Feb. 1.—The trustees of Stanford Junior University yesterday voted in favor of the increasing surplus derived from interest on the university's investments held in San Francisco as a means of helping the rebuilding of the city.

Mrs. William K. Vanderbilt will give a large reception this afternoon at her house in Fifth avenue, by way of farewell to her friends and acquaintances who are going to sail for Europe on Tuesday.

The Charley Ball, for the benefit of the New York and Child's Hospital, will take place on Tuesday night at the Waldorf-Astoria.

Several dramatic entertainments will figure among the gaieties of February.

For the benefit of charity, too, is the entertainment which is to take place a few days later, also in the big ballroom of the Plaza.

Both the Duc d'Uzes, who rates as premier duke and noble of France, and the duchess will be the bride, Mrs. Alexander Shonts.

Miss Julia Fish's marriage to William Lawrence Breece is now set for Monday, March 23.

Miss Elvise Breece is married to Lord Willoughby d'Eresby, and another daughter, Miss Anna Breece, is married to Lord Willoughby d'Eresby.

Despite the number of familiar faces already mingling from the parterre row of the Metropolitan on opera nights, the ranks of the smart set seem to remain well filled, and plenty of people appear left to take part in the many entertainments of one kind and another that figure on the programme for this month of February.

Frederick Townsend Martin gave a luncheon yesterday for Count and Countess Dionys Szechenyi at the Plaza.

Frederick M. Davies, the Hon. J. B. Astley, I. Townsend Burden, Nelson O'Shaughnessy, and the American Embassy at Vienna, and Mrs. Frederic Pierson.

As showing that athletic activity does not of itself mean a narrow and exclusive life, it may be mentioned that among the eight young men just chosen at Bowdoin by committee for larger number of principals and alternates in the annual Bradbury prize debate, there was a member of a team of last year's college tennis champions.

As showing that athletic activity does not of itself mean a narrow and exclusive life, it may be mentioned that among the eight young men just chosen at Bowdoin by committee for larger number of principals and alternates in the annual Bradbury prize debate, there was a member of a team of last year's college tennis champions.

As showing that athletic activity does not of itself mean a narrow and exclusive life, it may be mentioned that among the eight young men just chosen at Bowdoin by committee for larger number of principals and alternates in the annual Bradbury prize debate, there was a member of a team of last year's college tennis champions.

As showing that athletic activity does not of itself mean a narrow and exclusive life, it may be mentioned that among the eight young men just chosen at Bowdoin by committee for larger number of principals and alternates in the annual Bradbury prize debate, there was a member of a team of last year's college tennis champions.

As showing that athletic activity does not of itself mean a narrow and exclusive life, it may be mentioned that among the eight young men just chosen at Bowdoin by committee for larger number of principals and alternates in the annual Bradbury prize debate, there was a member of a team of last year's college tennis champions.

As showing that athletic activity does not of itself mean a narrow and exclusive life, it may be mentioned that among the eight young men just chosen at Bowdoin by committee for larger number of principals and alternates in the annual Bradbury prize debate, there was a member of a team of last year's college tennis champions.

As showing that athletic activity does not of itself mean a narrow and exclusive life, it may be mentioned that among the eight young men just chosen at Bowdoin by committee for larger number of principals and alternates in the annual Bradbury prize debate, there was a member of a team of last year's college tennis champions.

As showing that athletic activity does not of itself mean a narrow and exclusive life, it may be mentioned that among the eight young men just chosen at Bowdoin by committee for larger number of principals and alternates in the annual Bradbury prize debate, there was a member of a team of last year's college tennis champions.

As showing that athletic activity does not of itself mean a narrow and exclusive life, it may be mentioned that among the eight young men just chosen at Bowdoin by committee for larger number of principals and alternates in the annual Bradbury prize debate, there was a member of a team of last year's college tennis champions.

As showing that athletic activity does not of itself mean a narrow and exclusive life, it may be mentioned that among the eight young men just chosen at Bowdoin by committee for larger number of principals and alternates in the annual Bradbury prize debate, there was a member of a team of last year's college tennis champions.

As showing that athletic activity does not of itself mean a narrow and exclusive life, it may be mentioned that among the eight young men just chosen at Bowdoin by committee for larger number of principals and alternates in the annual Bradbury prize debate, there was a member of a team of last year's college tennis champions.

As showing that athletic activity does not of itself mean a narrow and exclusive life, it may be mentioned that among the eight young men just chosen at Bowdoin by committee for larger number of principals and alternates in the annual Bradbury prize debate, there was a member of a team of last year's college tennis champions.

As showing that athletic activity does not of itself mean a narrow and exclusive life, it may be mentioned that among the eight young men just chosen at Bowdoin by committee for larger number of principals and alternates in the annual Bradbury prize debate, there was a member of a team of last year's college tennis champions.

As showing that athletic activity does not of itself mean a narrow and exclusive life, it may be mentioned that among the eight young men just chosen at Bowdoin by committee for larger number of principals and alternates in the annual Bradbury prize debate, there was a member of a team of last year's college tennis champions.

As showing that athletic activity does not of itself mean a narrow and exclusive life, it may be mentioned that among the eight young men just chosen at Bowdoin by committee for larger number of principals and alternates in the annual Bradbury prize debate, there was a member of a team of last year's college tennis champions.

As showing that athletic activity does not of itself mean a narrow and exclusive life, it may be mentioned that among the eight young men just chosen at Bowdoin by committee for larger number of principals and alternates in the annual Bradbury prize debate, there was a member of a team of last year's college tennis champions.

As showing that athletic activity does not of itself mean a narrow and exclusive life, it may be mentioned that among the eight young men just chosen at Bowdoin by committee for larger number of principals and alternates in the annual Bradbury prize debate, there was a member of a team of last year's college tennis champions.

As showing that athletic activity does not of itself mean a narrow and exclusive life, it may be mentioned that among the eight young men just chosen at Bowdoin by committee for larger number of principals and alternates in the annual Bradbury prize debate, there was a member of a team of last year's college tennis champions.

As showing that athletic activity does not of itself mean a narrow and exclusive life, it may be mentioned that among the eight young men just chosen at Bowdoin by committee for larger number of principals and alternates in the annual Bradbury prize debate, there was a member of a team of last year's college tennis champions.

As showing that athletic activity does not of itself mean a narrow and exclusive life, it may be mentioned that among the eight young men just chosen at Bowdoin by committee for larger number of principals and alternates in the annual Bradbury prize debate, there was a member of a team of last year's college tennis champions.

As showing that athletic activity does not of itself mean a narrow and exclusive life, it may be mentioned that among the eight young men just chosen at Bowdoin by committee for larger number of principals and alternates in the annual Bradbury prize debate, there was a member of a team of last year's college tennis champions.

As showing that athletic activity does not of itself mean a narrow and exclusive life, it may be mentioned that among the eight young men just chosen at Bowdoin by committee for larger number of principals and alternates in the annual Bradbury prize debate, there was a member of a team of last year's college tennis champions.

As showing that athletic activity does not of itself mean a narrow and exclusive life, it may be mentioned that among the eight young men just chosen at Bowdoin by committee for larger number of principals and alternates in the annual Bradbury prize debate, there was a member of a team of last year's college tennis champions.

As showing that athletic activity does not of itself mean a narrow and exclusive life, it may be mentioned that among the eight young men just chosen at Bowdoin by committee for larger number of principals and alternates in the annual Bradbury prize debate, there was a member of a team of last year's college tennis champions.

As showing that athletic activity does not of itself mean a narrow and exclusive life, it may be mentioned that among the eight young men just chosen at Bowdoin by committee for larger number of principals and alternates in the annual Bradbury prize debate, there was a member of a team of last year's college tennis champions.

As showing that athletic activity does not of itself mean a narrow and exclusive life, it may be mentioned that among the eight young men just chosen at Bowdoin by committee for larger number of principals and alternates in the annual Bradbury prize debate, there was a member of a team of last year's college tennis champions.

As showing that athletic activity does not of itself mean a narrow and exclusive life, it may be mentioned that among the eight young men just chosen at Bowdoin by committee for larger number of principals and alternates in the annual Bradbury prize debate, there was a member of a team of last year's college tennis champions.

As showing that athletic activity does not of itself mean a narrow and exclusive life, it may be mentioned that among the eight young men just chosen at Bowdoin by committee for larger number of principals and alternates in the annual Bradbury prize debate, there was a member of a team of last year's college tennis champions.

As showing that athletic activity does not of itself mean a narrow and exclusive life, it may be mentioned that among the eight young men just chosen at Bowdoin by committee for larger number of principals and alternates in the annual Bradbury prize debate, there was a member of a team of last year's college tennis champions.

As showing that athletic activity does not of itself mean a narrow and exclusive life, it may be mentioned that among the eight young men just chosen at Bowdoin by committee for larger number of principals and alternates in the annual Bradbury prize debate, there was a member of a team of last year's college tennis champions.

As showing that athletic activity does not of itself mean a narrow and exclusive life, it may be mentioned that among the eight young men just chosen at Bowdoin by committee for larger number of principals and alternates in the annual Bradbury prize debate, there was a member of a team of last year's college tennis champions.

As showing that athletic activity does not of itself mean a narrow and exclusive life, it may be mentioned that among the eight young men just chosen at Bowdoin by committee for larger number of principals and alternates in the annual Bradbury prize debate, there was a member of a team of last year's college tennis champions.

As showing that athletic activity does not of itself mean a narrow and exclusive life, it may be mentioned that among the eight young men just chosen at Bowdoin by committee for larger number of principals and alternates in the annual Bradbury prize debate, there was a member of a team of last year's college tennis champions.

As showing that athletic activity does not of itself mean a narrow and exclusive life, it may be mentioned that among the eight young men just chosen at Bowdoin by committee for larger number of principals and alternates in the annual Bradbury prize debate, there was a member of a team of last year's college tennis champions.

As showing that athletic activity does not of itself mean a narrow and exclusive life, it may be mentioned that among the eight young men just chosen at Bowdoin by committee for larger number of principals and alternates in the annual Bradbury prize debate, there was a member of a team of last year's college tennis champions.

As showing that athletic activity does not of itself mean a narrow and exclusive life, it may be mentioned that among the eight young men just chosen at Bowdoin by committee for larger number of principals and alternates in the annual Bradbury prize debate, there was a member of a team of last year's college tennis champions.

THE ANCESTOR WORSHIPPERS.

Voltaire's dictum that a good citizen needs no ancestors would be rejected as dangerous and revolutionary doctrine by the ancestor worshippers who have just drawn up a suffrage amendment to the constitution of Maryland. Those pious defenders of the paramount claims of descent call themselves Democrats and pretend to derive their principles from Thomas Jefferson, one of the most genuine and conspicuous Voltaires of his period in philosophy and politics.

THE THAW VERDICT.

When a jury brings in a verdict of acquittal on the ground of insanity, as it has in the Thaw case, the chief public anxiety is that there may not result such a virtual miscarriage of justice as has too often happened in past instances, when men who have been guilty of cold blooded and cowardly homicides after brief confinement have regained their freedom on the ground that they have been "cured."

THE BRITISH "LABORITE" LAPSE.

The latest move of the Labor party in Great Britain appears to indicate that there was ground for the recent cry in that country against "the menace of socialism" and also for the expectation which was expressed soon after the last general election that the "Laborites," as they were called, would before long become outright socialists.

ADVERTISING FOR ONE PENNY.

Wanted correspondence, Hartford Courant. James Alvord, an old and highly respected resident of this place, is advertising as lost a pocket-book containing a penny, and offers to pay a libel suit for its return. The penny was dated 1818, and to Mr. Alvord it is almost invaluable. It was given to him by the family of the late Mrs. Alvord, a member of last year's college tennis champions.

ATHLETICS AND SCHOLARSHIP.

As showing that athletic activity does not of itself mean a narrow and exclusive life, it may be mentioned that among the eight young men just chosen at Bowdoin by committee for larger number of principals and alternates in the annual Bradbury prize debate, there was a member of a team of last year's college tennis champions.

Index to Advertisements.

Table with 4 columns: Name, Page, Col., and other details. Includes Advertisements, Amusements, Automobiles, and various business listings.

New-York Daily Tribune

SUNDAY, FEBRUARY 2, 1908.

This newspaper is owned and published by The Tribune Association, a New York corporation, office and principal place of business, Tribune Building, No. 154 Nassau street, New York.

THE NEWS THIS MORNING.

FOREIGN.—King Carlos of Portugal and the Crown Prince were assassinated. A tariff reform in Great Britain obtained another decided triumph in the election at South Herefordshire, the Unionists capturing the seat in Parliament from the Liberals.

DOMESTIC.

The government filed a bill in the United States District Court at Salt Lake City, charging the Harriman railroad lines with restraint of trade and asking an injunction against them. The bill is based on a report of Governor Hughes for the Presidency were adopted by the Fulton-Hamilton Republican Assembly District Convention and the Fulton County Republican Convention at Greenville, N. Y., on Monday last.

CITY.

Stocks closed weak. H. K. Thaw was taken to Matteawan as a "dangerous maniac" after being acquitted of the killing of King. The Home Bank of Brooklyn was reorganized by the State Superintendent of Banking. Burglars returning for the second time to rob the Bourne home, in Long Island, were repulsed by watchmen's bullets.

LET IN THE FULL LIGHT!

The report of the Commissioners of Accounts regarding the Fire Department scandal is only preliminary. It hardly covers more than the reasons for the department's failure to handle effectively the Parker Building fire, but so far as it goes it is thorough. No one is whitewashed or spared.

HARD TIMES AND SOFT JOBS.

The phrase "hard times" is highly ambiguous, as most economic terms are. Its most general, least challengeable meaning is an historical period when "the time is out of joint"; but, be it observed, the significance of this definition turns unavoidably upon what constitutes dislocation. When may the time be described as properly articulated? Over this question doctors and patients disagree, and not mildly.

ADVERTISING FOR ONE PENNY.

Wanted correspondence, Hartford Courant. James Alvord, an old and highly respected resident of this place, is advertising as lost a pocket-book containing a penny, and offers to pay a libel suit for its return. The penny was dated 1818, and to Mr. Alvord it is almost invaluable.

ATHLETICS AND SCHOLARSHIP.

As showing that athletic activity does not of itself mean a narrow and exclusive life, it may be mentioned that among the eight young men just chosen at Bowdoin by committee for larger number of principals and alternates in the annual Bradbury prize debate, there was a member of a team of last year's college tennis champions.

ADVERTISING FOR ONE PENNY.

Wanted correspondence, Hartford Courant. James Alvord, an old and highly respected resident of this place, is advertising as lost a pocket-book containing a penny, and offers to pay a libel suit for its return. The penny was dated 1818, and to Mr. Alvord it is almost invaluable.

THE ANCESTOR WORSHIPPERS.

Voltaire's dictum that a good citizen needs no ancestors would be rejected as dangerous and revolutionary doctrine by the ancestor worshippers who have just drawn up a suffrage amendment to the constitution of Maryland. Those pious defenders of the paramount claims of descent call themselves Democrats and pretend to derive their principles from Thomas Jefferson, one of the most genuine and conspicuous Voltaires of his period in philosophy and politics.

THE THAW VERDICT.

When a jury brings in a verdict of acquittal on the ground of insanity, as it has in the Thaw case, the chief public anxiety is that there may not result such a virtual miscarriage of justice as has too often happened in past instances, when men who have been guilty of cold blooded and cowardly homicides after brief confinement have regained their freedom on the ground that they have been "cured."

THE BRITISH "LABORITE" LAPSE.

The latest move of the Labor party in Great Britain appears to indicate that there was ground for the recent cry in that country against "the menace of socialism" and also for the expectation which was expressed soon after the last general election that the "Laborites," as they were called, would before long become outright socialists.

ADVERTISING FOR ONE PENNY.

Wanted correspondence, Hartford Courant. James Alvord, an old and highly respected resident of this place, is advertising as lost a pocket-book containing a penny, and offers to pay a libel suit for its return. The penny was dated 1818, and to Mr. Alvord it is almost invaluable.

ATHLETICS AND SCHOLARSHIP.

As showing that athletic activity does not of itself mean a narrow and exclusive life, it may be mentioned that among the eight young men just chosen at Bowdoin by committee for larger number of principals and alternates in the annual Bradbury prize debate, there was a member of a team of last year's college tennis champions.

ADVERTISING FOR ONE PENNY.

Wanted correspondence, Hartford Courant. James Alvord, an old and highly respected resident of this place, is advertising as lost a pocket-book containing a penny, and offers to pay a libel suit for its return. The penny was dated 1818, and to Mr. Alvord it is almost invaluable.