

"HILLS ROCK-RIBBED AND ANCIENT AS THE SUN"—PERHAPS.

Such are the lofty precipices behind the little Dalmatian town of Cattaro, in the innermost recess of that stupendous harbor on the Adriatic called the Bocche. Behind Cattaro may be traced the zigzags of the road that climbs the cliffs and leads up into Montenegro.

